Czar of Motion Picture Industry Dies in Indiana

SULLIVAN, Ind. (AP)—Will H. Hays, 74, who led a pre-depression cleaning of Hollywood after uniting the Republican party behind Warren G. Harding, died Friday and served 34 years as so-called czar of the motion picture industry, died in the quiet of his home here Sunday.

A Republican national chairman before he was 40, he kept an influence on politics after he became a public figure.

Hays left the cabinet job in 1918 to clean up the motion picture industry, then under a cloud of movie-colony scandals. He spent 24 years as the $150,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Though he retired from the Hollywood job in 1945, the "Hays Office" code of high taste in movies remained entrenched until recently, when signs of rebellion began to appear.

Canada Welcomes Papal Delegate

Former Premier Defends Farmers At Co-Op Meet

BARRIE (CP)—E. C. Drury, former Ontario premier, said Saturday night that governments "developed of the oppression of special interests and practice of party politics," could take care of itself, could supply our own people abundantly and could trade on all comers in the export market."

Mr. Drury, speaking in Simcoe county, said in an address to shareholders of First Co-operative Packers Limited, Barrie, that the great mass of laws and regulations, customs and formalities governing politics and privileges permeates the whole structure of urban economy. It had led to effete civilization, out of all goods and services far above the real needs of humanity and would be the result of free operation of the law of supply and demand.

He said farm production is likely to level off, perhaps decreasing in proportion to the shrinking farm population.

McCarthy Wants Time to Answer Adlai Stevenson

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) will get time on national radio and television networks to answer charges by Adlai E. Stevenson that the Republican Senate's investigations threaten the United States with a "malignant and fatal totalitarianism."

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, said reporters Sunday that the 1953 Democratic presidential candidate's Saturday night speech was carried free on CBS television and NBC radio.

McCarthy, who in the past has demanded and received equal time to answer attacks by Democrats, said in an interview that he will ask for free facilities to reply to Stevenson.

(In New York the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System said they have received no such request from McCarthy.)

Although he said he agreed generally with Stevenson (Democrat-Wash.) said he is not too sure of either the timing nor the importance of Stevenson's attack on McCarthy and his Communist-in-government charges.

Stevenson's charges that McCarthy's investigation threatened a "malignant and fatal totalitarianism" and that out of 2,000,000 federal employees not a single subversive Communist has been found brought a hot reply from McCarthy.

"It was a very clever political talk," McCarthy said in his interview. McCarthy said in an interview, however, that he considers it his duty to do is clean up the Democratic mess. We don't always agree on how the job should be done, but we all agree it must be done."

Pastor Stages Surprise For His Congregation

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Rev. Charles Lewis of Trinity United church Windsor staged a surprise for his congregation Sunday morning.

He uttered one line of his sermon then stopped. He walked down to a police bellowed from the congregation: "Hey, Chuck, you've forgot your hair about the church in Windsor.

The show was pre-arranged but the congregation didn't know it.

In a rapid-fire series of questions and answers Rev. Lewis outlined his program for a new church building and told of a smack that his income is $2,400 and they had $54,000 worth of cars parked in the church lot.

During the afternoon, 75 canvassers started the drive for a $20,000 building fund with a bang.

'Gingering Up' Of Horses For Shows Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Saturday severely criticized alleged "gingering up" practices in horse shows.

Reports were received at the society's annual meeting indicating that shavetails had been subjected to considerable pain—particularly at Vaughan horse show—by their owners' practice of cutting their tails and ear muscles.

"There is no place for something that is not in the civilization," commented Col. H. S. Timmis, a member of the OSPCA.

Col. Timmis said, however, he had received good co-operation from the veterinary officials where two inspectors of the society are on hand at all times.

The Ontario racing commission has done a great deal to stop abuse of horses in this way.

At the meeting the society again expressed its concern about treatment of bush horses by loggers in the Sault Ste. Marie district. It said it will not let up on its charges public until it has met with the paper companies involved.

South Korea is Practically 'Welfare State', U.N. Pays Bills

BY JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL, (CP)—The United Nations watchdog force is the biggest industry in this war-torn country. South Korea is practically a "welfare state' with the UN paying all the bills.

Jack Brayley

Even the country's best friends here tell you the most optimistic hope for a return to rice production and a few small industries. They say President Syngman Rhee is unrealistic when he speaks of going it alone to attain reunification with the industrial north and of grandiose schemes of economic development. The fanatical old patriot says he is prepared to commit racial suicide rather than give up his aims.

There is, however, a solid body of opinion which supports Rhee but says his more extravagant statements are mere tactics. These supporters form a dedicated band of intellectuals who impress you with their sincerity. They say the practical solution is a patient, long-term program of self-sufficiency based on a strong agriculture and production of some consumer goods such as textiles that are costly to import.

LOOK TO FUTURE

These Koreans are convinced reunification will be accomplished some day and only then can the nation establish itself as a world trader with practical economy.

When Prime Minister St. Laurent pays his visit this month it is certain President Rhee will try to enlist his support for continuing military commitments and the program of economic development that depends on foreign aid.

The Koreans—there are 22,000,000 of them in the 40,000 square miles of the south—have a healthy respect for guns, tin, development and its know-how.

Most civilians in the various UN agencies here—some of them are Canadians — foresee the present stalemate and the partition of the country continuing. They can't see how either side can strategically withdraw. North Korea had the water power and some heavy industry that was complementary to South Korea's agriculture and light manufactures.

DIFFICULT TALK

How will the South Korean economy be balanced? One informant told me it won't. This man has thrown the country and its problems intimately for 25 years.

"Even the enterprising Japanese were never able to run the country without heavy subsidies for consumer goods," he said.

What nucleus of small industry there is — textiles, pottery, ball-bearings and some poor quality coal—is run with most primitive equipment that's always breaking down.

"I think frankly the country's future lies in rice production and that's about it," he said.

The source, while admitting President Rhee seems to have the massive support of the country behind him, said there is an unorganized opposition that is highly critical of Rhee's dictatorial methods, ruthless purges and his unpredictable actions, refusal to take advice and handling of agency contributions.

TORN BY WARS

A Korean source, an editor of one of the important dailies and a known nationalist, said the Westerner must understand the frustration of Koreans through the years. One foreign influence succeeded another in blocking their national aspirations. Their recorded history showed that on average they had suffered a war or military engagement of some kind every three years. Their nationalism was democratic and there was no popular support for the heir to the throne who now lives in retirement in Tokyo.

A vital economy could only come after reunification and that was the goal of all Koreans.

Meanwhile, South Korea needs contributions of machinery, raw materials, technical skill and capable management.

"It will take at least two generations to create a human type competent to match foreign management," said a quiet Korean.

"For our practical program we feel we have a right to expect the sympathy and understanding of our allies who have long since evolved the sort of democratic economy we now are striving for."

LOYALIST FOUNDERS

Leeds county in eastern Ontario was first settled in 1784 by United Empire Loyalists.

CAMPBELLFORD

Firemen Douse Arena Blaze, Boys Questioned

CAMPBELLFORD. — A fire that could easily have destroyed the Campbellford Community Arena had it gone undetected for a few additional minutes, was extinguished by firemen with practically no damage Tuesday evening.

The fire was first discovered by 17-year-old James Brethour, who told police and firemen he went to the arena to check on the condition of the ice. Once inside, he smelled smoke and located the blaze under wooden seats on the north side of the building.

Brethour went to a room at the front of the building to get water to quell the blaze, but the door was locked, so he ran across the street to the house of H. A. MacArthur. Mr. MacArthur telephoned the fire department, who were on hand within minutes.

BREAK LOCK

Firemen had to break a lock on the door of the furnace room in order to turn lights on in the building, which by this time was filled with smoke. Clouds of white smoke were billowing out the front entrance.

After the flames had been extinguished, an investigation led police and firemen to believe the fire had either been deliberately set, or had been caused by juveniles smoking in a secluded spot under the arena.

P. C. Sam Baird questioned four teen-age youths, whom it was established had been in the building a few minutes prior to the discovery of the fire, but they were later released. A small pile of shavings, sawdust and chips were blazing fiercely when firemen arrived, but they were soon extinguished.

The cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, but police are keeping a watchful eye on the building.

STIRLING

St. Paul's W.A. Hears Talk On 'Old Ireland'

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mount Pleasant, was guest speaker and chose as her theme "A Bit of Old Ireland." She said "March is the month when thoughts turn to St. Patrick's Day and the Irish folk," and quoted poems written by Helen B. Anderson, Edgar Guest and other poets.

One of the great days is St. Patrick's and she read several poems which revealed the rich spirit of the Irish. She spoke of several outstanding songs of Erin.

FERTILE SOIL

St. Patrick found fertile soil for his missionary endeavors. He was a leader of intense vigor and courage and was a great laborer for the cause of the Christian faith.

Deputy Secretary Of Defence Will Resign May 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Saturday that Roger M. Keyes plans to resign as deputy secretary of defence May 1. Keyes agreed when he accepted appointment that he would stay for only a year, the White House said. His year was up Feb. 2.

Murray Snyder, White House secretary, was asked whether Keyes' resignation had anything to do with the current dispute revolving around Army Secretary Robert Stevens and Senator Joseph McCarthy.

"None whatsoever," Snyder said.

There had already been reports that Keyes intended to resign this spring and return to General Motors.

What's news at Inco*?

Pumping ore through a 7-mile pipe

IF you were asked to transport more than 12,000 tons of ore 7 miles every day, you would not think of using wheelbarrows. You might think of trucks, or you might use trains, as we did for many years, but that would require 400 big railway cars per day.

Inco engineers came up with a plan to separate the ore at the mine-head into two products—valuable material (concentrate), and waste rock (tailings). The concentrate is pumped 7 miles through wood stave pipes to the Copper Cliff smelter. The waste material is pumped 4 miles to waste beds.

Why pump the waste so far? Because we must not fill up valuable lakes and streams.

This new transportation has helped make it possible to mine low grade ore. It has saved trouble too. These materials in ore cars would freeze solid in the sub-zero temperatures of this district. Freezing has not occurred in these B.C. fir lines since they were first put in operation.

"The Romance of Nickel", a 72-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

FORMER MANAGER TORONTO BANK HELD FOR FRAUD

Say $32,000 Taken In Three Years

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today a second man is being sought in connection with alleged conspiracy to defraud a downtown Toronto bank of $32,000 during 1952, 1953, and 1954.

Davis S. Bloxham, 46, former manager of the Queen and Dufferin streets branch of the Dominion Bank, was arrested Monday and charged with conspiring to defraud the bank of $32,000 by false pretenses.

Police said a second man, whose name was not disclosed, is jointly charged with Bloxham in a warrant signed by John W. Medland of the Guarantee Company of North America, which handles the bank's insurance matters.

Police said the fraud charges are connected with the lending of money for machines to be used in Quebec mining. They said Bloxham recently resigned from the bank where he had been employed for 30 years.

Mine Strikes May Break Out Again

TORONTO (CP) — The northern Ontario and Quebec gold mine strikes, which cost unions in the United States and Canada almost $2,000,000, may break out again. The Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council (CIO-CCL) was told Monday night.

Bert Gargrave, an official of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said miners at East Sullivan mine in the Rouyn-Noranda area have voted 92 per cent. in favor of a strike.

The vote, he said, came after the company offered only half of the 10-cents-an-hour settlement won by strike action by the United Mines Limited.

"The miners are of the opinion the labor movement is pretty well flat on its back, and unless new organization are offering three to four cents an hour increases in the belief the steelworkers' union can't battle them," he said.

Mr. Gargrave said his union's strike at about a dozen gold mines during a seven-month period which began in August last year was "the most expensive in the history of the labor movement in Canada." He said $1,899,000 has been spent so far and "there still are a lot of outstanding debts."

Affiliates of the Canadian Congress of Labor in the strike fully subscribed $500,000, and "substantial donations" came from other unions outside the CCL, he said. The largest part came from the steelworkers' District 6 treasury.

GRANTED NEW TRIAL

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Appeal Court Monday granted Garnet Armstrong, who was convicted in 1952 of murder on a charge of dangerous driving, a new trial. Armstrong was convicted after he pulled from an accident on No. 7 highway between Peterborough and Lindsay last July which caused the deaths of two persons.

Civil Servants Who Flunk Security Test Can Be Fired Without Being Given Reason

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal civil servants who can't pass the government's security screen can be fired or transferred without being given a reason.

They also can be dismissed or transferred if they are known to associate or have associated with Communists.

And, as a rule, a federal employee fired or dismissed as a security risk is not permitted to learn the information against him or the source of that information.

These were the government's replies tabled in the Commons yesterday to questions placed on the order paper by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops).

Last week, the government declined to answer two other questions by Mr. Fulton concerning the make-up and operations of the government's security panel and advising Prime Minister Howe said: "We all abhor McCarthyism."

ASKS RIGHTS OF ACCUSED

Mr. Fulton's two questions were: 1. "When a decision has been arrived at by the employee or grantor a government employee for security reasons, does the individual concerned in each case have an opportunity of learning the nature of the allegations or suspicion held against him before being transferred or dismissed?"

2. "In arriving at their recommendations or decisions in security matters affecting individual government employees, do the security panel and/or the security officers of the various government departments and agencies concerned reject any conclusion based on the principle of guilt by association?"

The government replied, in effect, to both questions: "No."

The answers took up nearly 4,000 words. Salient parts said:

"Under normal circumstances the information obtained about a person as a result of a security screening — and any consequent action as to the advisability of allowing him access to his country's secrets—are not discussed or disclosed, and in my opinion may be subject to transfer or disclosure.

"Because a person is known to associate with Communists does not establish that that person is a Communist, or is that assumed by those in charge of departments.

REVIEW QUALIFICATIONS

"... A review is made not only of that person's professional qualifications and character but also, where access to secrets is involved, of all the available information bearing upon his reliability and the degree of confidence in which he can be held.

"If such a review establishes a history of Communist associations, it is not assumed that that person is or is not a Communist, but it may be decided that there is too much risk involved in allowing a person with such a background to have access to important information.

"Because it is important to prevent any implication of guilt from attaching to these cases, such transfers and dismissals are dealt with in the same way as other transfers and dismissals, which is only proper since they are all subject essentially to the same criteria, that is, that the person possess all the qualifications required to fill a given position satisfactorily."

About 3,000 federal civil servants, new ones and those transferred to "sensitive" jobs, have undergone security checks in the last year.

Longshoremen March to Square To Protest Move

NEW YORK (AP)—Hundreds of defiant longshoremen marched to Foley square today to picket the federal courthouse in protest against a move to cite the International Longshoremen's Association for contempt of court.

The contempt action was brought by the national labor relations board, which wazed criminal and civil contempt citations against the association and three of its local officers.

The board asked a fine of $100,000 if the union fails to end its two-week blockade of waterfront truck movements in two days, and an additional $25,000 for each day the tie-up continues. It has affected about 80 per cent of New York's port watchers.

Charles T. Douds, regional director of the NLRB, charges that the ILA, as an organization, and the three officials, as individual officers, "knowingly and wilfully and intentionally violated and disobeyed" a federal court anti-strike injunction.

Lake Erie, most southerly of the five Great Lakes, has a maximum depth of only 215 feet.

Asst. Manager, Former Employee Face Charges

HAMILTON (CP)—The assistant manager and a former employee of Quality groceteria were arrested Monday night in connection with a Feb. 27 hold-up at the store.

Both men have been charged with armed robbery and with conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

Two men already were in custody and facing identification parades in connection with the $4,000 hold-up. Joseph Leaver, 33, and Robert Hanson, 28, were scheduled to appear March 16. They were arrested in the store on the night of the robbery.

David John Munro, 29, and Philip Bell, 28, were remanded until March 18 by magistrate Banner Hopkins this morning.

Save Fishermen

L'ANSE, Mich. (AP)—A conservation department launch and small commercial fishing boats picked up 15 ice fishermen off the wind-blown ice floes of Keweenaw bay Monday. Police said that if winds had been stronger, all of the 15 might have been lost. The floes were being blown out into Lake Superior when the boats sped to their rescue.

COLDWELL URGES GOVT. OWNERSHIP CHARTERED BANKS

Says Parliament Takes Risks Out of Banking

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF leader Coldwell, urging national ownership of Canada's 11 chartered banks, says Parliament has taken the risks out of banking and should get its profits.

"We (Parliament) guarantee the banks against losses," he said in the Commons Monday. "We cover up their risks and we allow them to take all the profits. It is not the first time that we took the profits as well as the risks."

Mr. Coldwell spoke as members began debate on the government's financial resolution of the Bank Act which authorizes and regulates bank operations.

He proposed that the bill be set aside and "that consideration should be given to the national ownership and control of the chartered banks."

The proposal received support only from the 23-member CCF group.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood), big spending financial critic, said nationalization would lead to political interference and "rigidity" in banking operations. Social Credit leader Low said it is the best interests of Canadians.

Finance Minister Abbott, speaking before Mr. Coldwell, made only a brief reference to nationalization and said he would be willing to set this as part of a general socialization. He did not, however, except for narcotics addicts and any other prisoners requiring special treatment.

CIVIL SERVICE

It recommended that all jail staffs be absorbed into the provincial civil service and that sheriffs be relieved of all powers to erect or indirect, in connection with jails.

The commission, making the first thorough study of Ontario's jails and reform institutions since 1930, proposed that the province set up a commission of corrections which would have over-all authority over probation, parole and after-care.

Chairman W. J. Stewart said in presenting the report in the legislature that the committee tried to find a middle road between two schools of thought. One advocated severe punishment while the other sought to pamper prisoners and turn the province's institutions into rest homes.

"Reasonable punitive treatment is essential, but it has been overdistanced by palliative ideology to the detriment of reform. A reasonable balance of both policies, coupled with common sense, measured by experience, can produce good results."

REFORM ONE-FIFTH

The commission's conclusion, however, that only about 20 per cent of those who enter the institutions can be said to be graded last March 31, there were 33,941 persons sent to prison for the first time, with repeaters being counted among the 20 per cent mentioned. Many of its recommendations concerned ways to help and speed the reformation of the 20 per cent.

For the remaining 80 per cent, the committee recommended that they be sent to the institution at Burwash, near Sudbury, and that the name of the institution be changed from "reformatory" to "Burwash industrial farm."

"Burwash should come to be known as an institution for, and be designated and operated to house, only repeaters and the non-reformable type. There should be sufficient room for all of labor to constitute a good day's work."

ALTER PAROLE BOARD

The committee suggested that the Ontario parole board be reconstituted as a full-time civil service board of five members. It said appointments should be made with due regard to the high qualifications necessary and to the fact that both male and female prisoners are involved.

It urged the establishment of a central place of execution. At present, hangings are held at the jail nearest the county in which a murder has been committed.

Report Calls Ont. Jails Breeding Places For Crime

Says System Completely Out of Step With Times

TORONTO (CP) — Sweeping changes in Ontario's prison system to bring it into line with modern ideas regarding crime and punishment are recommended in the report of the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions.

The 130,000-word report was tabled Monday in the legislature.

It called the old jails, "dismal, changeless monuments to the needs and conditions of the 19th century for which many of them were built," breeding grounds of crime.

"The jail system is completely out of step with modern conceptions of the decency of the individual and the hope of his salvation from crime. Jails do provide punishment by the very nature of their conditions, but, in keeping with 19th century thinking, they provide nothing else."

The report said the jails are degrading to juveniles, innocent persons and the mentally ill. They did not provide the incentive to reform that would protect society against further crimes.

The committee recommended improving standards in jails by providing for proper separation of prisoner employment, medical care, sanitation, exercise and studies. It said jails should be used only for house audit persons on remand and those serving short sentences, except for narcotics addicts and any other prisoners requiring special treatment.

Parking Meters Now Equipped With 'Fine Box'

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Fuming drivers who hate to go to the police station to pay a parking fine have found salvation at last in the "traf-o-teria."

The little device was installed recently on all parking meters here as an experiment, and indications are that it's going over big with the paying customers.

A motorist here receives a parking ticket and an envelope. If he puts the ticket and 50 cents into the envelope and places it in the traf-o-teria, an aluminum box attached to the parking meter, the fine is considered paid. Wait 48 hours and the ante goes up to $1.

Conceding that a few hasty notes crop up along with the ticket envelopes, chewing gum, match covers, and assorted loot when the aluminum box empties the hopper, police insist that so far public reaction has been "quite favorable."

SCHOOLGIRL DROWNED

BELLE RIVER (CP) — An attempt to save a few minutes on her way home from school cost an eight-year-old girl her life Monday when rotten ice in Pike creek suddenly gave way. Carol Sicore was drowned and her companions, Doris Marentette, 8, scrambled to safety.

P.M. Takes Helicopter to View Communist Lines in Korea

By JACK BRADLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL (CP)—After an informal day riding a helicopter, climbing under camouflaged nets to board bagged bunkers and holding onto his seat and hat in rough jeep rides to forward positions for a look at Communist lines, Prime Minister St. Laurent tonight spent a formal evening dining and conferring with President Syngman Rhee.

The touring Canadian leader told his troops they had been a powerful instrument in assuring that aggression doesn't succeed, but what he'd told to Rhee remained a secret. He'll be almost certain that the Korean leader raised the question of Canada's attitude to his widely-speculated intention of recruiting Korea by force if necessary.

However, the visiting prime minister had already said in a well-publicized press conference that Canada is against all aggression and that it is not the purpose of the United Nations to befog about Korean unification by the use of military means.

DAUGHTER GETS MEDALS

The prime minister retired early Monday night after a dinner in the quonset hut mess of the 25th Canadian Brigade headquarters for his daughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, stayed up long enough for an impromptu ceremony and a gunnery message. She had mentioned to Col. Harry Sherre, the Canadian artillery chief from Kingston, Ont., that she had never received her campaign medals awarding the period she served as a captain with the CWAC at home and overseas during the Second World War.

The gunners surprised her by producing the three missing ribbons and pinning them on her.

Said she with broad smile: "This is much more gallant way of getting them than if applied through the regular channels and they came by mail."

Today, the prime minister drove through drizzle and snow to watch a battery fire live ammunition, and was treated to bling-bling salutes by gunners.

A leather-lunged regimental sergeant-major was putting the Black Watch through parade-square drill when he arrived there, and he straightened them to break ranks and come closer.

He told them the Canadians and their allies had shown potential aggressors they weren't going to succeed, and he hoped the aggressors didn't want to start the war over again.

He promised the men there will be "plenty of work" for them when they come home—"there's a lot to be done to develop the resources of our country."

Pope Increases His Solid Diet

VATICAN CITY (AP) —Pope Pius is increasing his solid diet and is gradually regaining strength lost through his various illness, Vatican sources said today.

They said the 78-year-old pontiff has the ability to take greater amounts of solid food "has provided optimism for his steady and full recovery."

Brisbane Banners Welcoming Queen Changed to Read 'Long Live Irish'

BRISBANE, Australia (CP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh landed today at Brisbane airport after a visit to Queensland and were greeted with a roaring welcome.

They arrived after a flight from Melbourne for the last stop on their northeastern Australian state and were met by crowds which 36 hours before had begun finding vantage points to view the royal couple.

Only sour note was provided earlier by a small dissident group who slashed and defaced welcoming banners. But a sign proclaiming "Long live the Queen" were painted-daubed to read "Long live the Irish." Other banners were slashed and torn down in an Irish neighborhood.

Workers hurried to repair the damage in time for the arrival, while police began an investigation.

At Melbourne, the royal couple were given a wildly enthusiastic send-off by thousands of hatless men and women from stores and offices who refused to start work until they had shouted and waved goodbye.

After a 21-gun salute, the royal car drove 11 miles through packed city streets and suburbs to the airport, where a 100-man guard of honor from the Royal Australian Regiment was drawn up.

The Queen wore a small blue hat-headscarf set, a fur-trimmed coat of a blue frock, and white shoes.

Brisbane, Queensland's northern districts have dashed the hopes of at least 60,000 people anxious to see the royalty.

Townsville's Mayor A. J. Smith announced that the floods would prevent about 45,000 people from travelling into his city to welcome the royal couple.

Meanwhile, Australian police experts are meeting in Perth to advise whether the royal visit to western Australia should be curtailed or cancelled in view of the current polio epidemic.

Their three-day conference has been called primarily to consider methods of combatting the epidemic, but they will also discuss its effect on some aspects of the royal tour.

A new idea for handling pedestrian and vehicular traffic in busy cities is shown in operation in San Francisco. The idea is called the 'scramble system.' All vehicular traffic stops while pedestrians cross the intersection, using the zebra stripes diagonally. Then pedestrian traffic is stopped and vehicles may make left and right turns without difficulty. The first test was called successful. (Central Press Canadian).

Police Recover Most of Money Taken From Bank

TORONTO (CP)—Police have recovered all but $600 of the $14,600 stolen by a panic-stricken gunman from the Imperial Bank of Canada branch in downtown Toronto Monday.

States May Turn to Jet-Powered Tanker Planes For Mid-Air Refueling

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Air Force may turn to swift, jet-powered tanker planes to provide mid-air refueling for the new B-52 all-jet heavy bombers of the strategic air command.

The B-52s are expected to begin coming off the production line late this year. Each is being equipped to replenish its fuel supply in flight to offset the high rate of fuel consumption by the six jet engines.

Mid-air refueling for medium B-47 jet bombers is standard practice, but all tanker planes now used are piston-engined aircraft, the KC-97 Boeing stratofreighter, with tanks and a "flying boom" for refueling fuel to jet bombers and fighters.

Airmen are highly pleased with the present method of replenishing jet bombers and fighters in mid-flight. But they also say that a piston-engined aircraft cannot fly fast enough to refuel jet bombers.

A jet engine performs best at high altitude where the air is thin. A piston-engined aircraft produces more power at lower altitudes.

The Air Force has ordered a tanker plane in a refueling operation with the B-47 now in the air, or close to "stalling" speed as it nears full fuel load. while maintaining speed for an hour or less to match the top speed of the tanker plane.

The air force disclosed last fall that it was experimenting with a B-47 converted to a tanker plane by the Boeing Airplane Co. Boeing officials say the plane can carry about 550 for the transport, and that it can be used in jet bombers to operate the tanker at the bomber's normal cruising altitude.

Place For 'Mc' In Alphabet May Decide Vote

CANBERRA (Reuter)—Australian election officials are facing a thorny problem of where names beginning with Mc belong in the alphabet.

Their decision could mean victory or defeat for two political opponents in the state of New South Wales.

J. McLeay, Liberal candidate claims the first two letters of his name are an abbreviation of "Mac"—which would give him the coveted first place on the ballot. His Labor opponent, R. Matthews, says his name belongs first.

First position on the ballot paper is estimated in Australia to draw 2½ per cent of the total votes, cast by persons who don't bother reading the second line.

Utilities Donate $10,000 To Town Council

CAMPBELLFORD—The Campbellford Utilities Commission made a grant of $10,000 to town council on Thursday evening after listening to a request from Mayor D. J. Locke, who said the town would need as large or larger grant than they received last year, if they were going to hold the tax rate.

The auditor's report was received but, as the chairman of the board, A. J. Meyers, was absent, it was decided to leave the discussion of the report until the next meeting, when Mr. Meyers will be present.

Commissioner J. McGregor read a letter from the Orillia water light and power commission, in which a number of questions, asked previously by Mr. McGregor, were answered. The questions dealt with various methods of producing power, the cost of production and similar items.

SENDS REGISTERED LETTER

Commissioner McGregor, in a registered letter to the clerk, gave notice of four motions, which he intends to make at the next regular or special meeting of the board.

The motions dealt with the procedure to be followed in formulating the various methods and terms of supplying power to the Campbellford area.

Mr. McGregor's first motion will be that the following resolution be passed, whereby the town would buy a block of power from the HEPC and continue to operate and operate their own plant under their own jurisdiction, until their own plant be further discussed at a joint meeting of the PUC and town council and that the PUC and town of belford be given the privilege of voting on it.

Mr. McGregor said "I wish to point out the sound and economical advantages of the proposition one own proposition two. which has been considered by the PUC, that the small block of power can be purchased from the HEPC and classified as Department four.

"Department two would be our own generating plant. Department three would be emergency power. Department four would be our own distribution system. Department four would pool the resource obtained from department one, two and three, and distribute it to our consumers at a profit.

"This would enable us to carry on with little or no change in our present annual grant to the town, a grant which is going to be needed to help council pay for our present new excellent hospital."

The second motion that the commissioner will make is that a joint meeting be held to discuss all aspects relative to putting the present power plant on a first class basis and further consider the installation of a third generating unit, to increase the power output and as a standby source of power.

CAPABLE OF 4,000 H.P.

He pointed out that the power site is capable of developing approximately 6,000 horsepower with the present available 4 units and that of the Trent waterway system.

Motion number 3 will point out the advantages of retaining the rural power lines as consumers. The peak load on the rural lines comes at an earlier hour than on the town lines. The PUC can sell this power at a profit.

The fourth motion asks a joint meeting of council and the PUC to discuss the PUC being permitted to establish a sinking fund to take care of old and obsolete machinery.

Commissioner W. Wilthun said he was not in favor of the McGregor motions, and maintained that the questions should be discussed first with the HEPC. A meetine is set for early April when the HEPC will meet with the PUC and council and runs the power situation.

Manager F. C. Hopkins told the board of a report he had received from the department of health relative to the condition of the town drinking water He also reported that the meter reading No. 11 power house had been inspected and found to be running 1.4 per cent slow. This has now been adjusted and left to run .5 per cent fast.

CNR Conductor, Frank Bateman, City, Loses Leg

A Belleville C.N.R. freight conductor, Frank Bateman, 258 Coleman Street, saved his own life early Monday morning when he wrapped his necktie around his mangled leg to stem the flow of blood after he had slipped and fallen from a moving freight.

The 55-year-old man, a veteran of 35 years service with the Canadian National Railways, was later taken to Belleville General Hospital when the leg was amputated below the knee.

There were no witnesses to the accident and railway officials have not said yet what determined exactly what occurred.

Mr. Bateman was conductor on the "short haul" freight running west out of Belleville. The train had been shunting a number of cars from what is known as "the yards" to Bonneville ambulance. Dr. A. W. L. McDonald, who performed the operation, said Bateman had saved his life when he applied the tourniquet after one of the car wheels had almost severed the leg.

$7,000 Fire Loss As Ameliasburg Home Destroyed

Lack of water hampered efforts of Belleville firemen Monday morning and after water ran out they were forced to stand helplessly by as the fire consumed house of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, on Ameliasburg township, burned to the ground.

The home was a complete loss and most of the household possessions were also destroyed in the blaze which caused approximately $7,000 loss. Also lost in the fire was $300 in cash.

No one was home when the fire broke out. Neighbors noticed the fire and turned in the alarm, then were successful in removing some of the household furniture.

Belleville firemen pumped water from the Thompson cistern, but this was pumped dry and when water ran out firefighters could do little to check the advance of the flames. The Thompson garage situated close to the burning home was saved.

Cause of the fire is unknown, although it is believed coal ashes may have been responsible. Mr. Thompson told firemen on hand saying that he spilled some ashes when removing them earlier in the morning and a live coal may have been missed when he swept them up.

Is Eager to Have British Share In Seaway

LONDON (Reuters) — R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, said today the government is anxious to facilitate direct British participation in construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

But during prodding from Conservative Gerald Nabarro in the House of Commons, he did not make it clear how that would be handled.

Butler ruled out capital subscription by British investors in the project. "This would be portfolio investment (investment for yielding an immediate return) which we cannot afford at the present time," he declared.

"But," he added, "certain applications of a more general type have been allowed."

Butler also told the house that he would do his best to provide dollars for British investment in new Canadian enterprise and development.

He said that British investments in Canada had increased from approximately £250,000,000 in 1951 to about £280,000,000 in 1953.

Or Aunt Molly In Mesopotamia

It happened in a west hill household last evening.

The lady of the house was talking to a feminine friend about the goings on of the day, and other numerous subjects the dutiful side discusses when tete-a-tete over a telephone, when the door bell rang.

The breadwinner of the home was blowing bubbles in the bathtub at the time, so he requested the spouse to do the honors.

She admitted two visitors who were associated with proposed changes in the home and who had called to look the repair situation over.

She showed them around the home, and after they had left took up an ironing chore. Finishing, she sat down and read the fourth chapter of Louis' Last Wife", then turned on the television set.

Then she remembered.

She dashed to the phone. The receiver was on the hook, but her telephonic pal had given up the long wait.

Pal hubby started to take her to task for her mental lapse, but being feminine had the last word. It was the perfect squelch.

"It could have been worse, dear" she smiled sweetly. "It could have been cousin Jane in Hong Kong."

Bodies of Thirty Nazi Camp Killers Taken from Grave

HAMELIN, West Germany (Reuters)—The bodies of 30 Nazi concentration camp killers have been moved from their prison-yard mass grave at Hameln and reburied, Lower Saxony state officials report.

The remaining 61—of a total of 91 war criminals, including Irma Greese, the "blonde beast" of the notorious Belsen camp — will be shifted to individual graves within the next two weeks.

The removal of the executed criminals' bodies were kept top-secret to avoid "unpleasant political demonstrations," officials said.

First reports of the reburials early last week brought indignant protests from Jewish spokesmen, and Socialist members of Parliament in Britain promised to bring the question up for debate in the House of Commons.

The 91 criminals were convicted of atrocities against civilians imprisoned by Hitler. Most of the convicted were staff members at the Belsen, Ravensbruck and Neuengamme concentration camps.

Saxony officials allowed no relatives to be present during the exhumations from under the courtyard where Hameln prisoners take their exercise.

The state government agreed to move the bodies after relatives complained that the location of the mass grave made it impossible for them to put flowers on the place of interment.

Continue Probe Of Baby Sales

NEW YORK (CP)—Closed-door hearings by a visiting Canadian commission resumed today under terms of an American-Canadian reciprocal agreement permitting them to question a number of New York couples who have bought babies through a $3,000,000 ring operating in Montreal.

The commission came to New York to take pre-trial testimony from the parents in connection with the coming trial of two Montreal lawyers charged with falsifying birth certificates.

Judge Gerald Almond, head of the commission, said no information will be forthcoming from the hearings here, which may last throughout the week or even longer. Reason for the secrecy was that the defendants "have not yet undergone the due process of law."

Street Parking Thing of Past In Few Years

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Within a few years every large city in Canada probably will have abolished downtown street parking. This was the prediction today of Dr. E. G. Pleva, head of the department of geography at the University of Western Ontario and head of the traffic committee.

Addressing the annual conference of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards, Dr. Pleva said: "Parking is a privilege and just that. The streets are made for the movement of traffic, not the storage of vehicles."

A LOOK AT THE GALLERY

The confidence of the government in the artistic ability of Canadians should be a source of great consolation to those of us who have deplored, through the years, what we considered a lack of native artistic talent outside of the natural skills of the fur trapper and the wood carver. In the finest of the fine arts we have always assumed that Canada was comparatively barren of great talent.

However, we are relieved to learn that such is not the case. Canada is surfeited with artistic talent and the government is going to build a $5,000,000 national gallery in Ottawa as a public showplace for this talent. The architectural model produced by the Winnipeg firm of Green, Blankstein, Russel and Associates has been approved. The gallery will be a national centre of the arts in Canada.

The announcement about the gallery will undoubtedly suffer from the unfortunate coincidence of statements made by an Ottawa painter, Henri Masson, that 22 Canadian paintings commissioned from some of Canada's leading painters by the Seagram Company are "calendar art", "dirt" and "farce". Mr. Masson's judgment obviously does not jibe with that of the art critics on parliament hill who feel that "calendar art", "dirt" and "farce" deserve a $5,000,000 showcase. Then again the men on parliament hill might not be prepared to sacrifice the work of the painters in the Seagram collection. They may have some pictures of their own they want displayed, including, perhaps, some of the cracking old masterworks of leading Canadian painters that brood in the drafty halls of the parliament buildings.

Ottawa's mayor, Charlotte Whitton, however, should rejoice at the announcement of the gallery. It means that the same government that consigned the $5,000,000 National Film Board to Montreal to be near "a greater talent pool" isn't slighting the intellectuals in Ottawa. To those of us in the hinterlands, however, the whole thing is just confusing. It looks like the government is building an art centre to display the work of non-existent artists in a locality that is not even considered the "greatest talent pool" lies elsewhere. The government bureaus should get together and try to be consistent anyway, even though consistency has never been one of their long suits.

GREEN FLASH AT SUNDOWN

Do you get green spots before your eyes at sundown?

If you do, there is no cause for alarm. Your peepers are not petering out, nor is that green flash a flying saucer bringing invaders from Mars.

The latest release from the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization explains that a green flash in the sky a few seconds after the sun has set is a rare phenomenon "sometimes seen at sea, in the desert or from a mountain peak, where the true horizon is visible, when the sun is in a clear sky."

A moment after the last bit of the sun's red disc has sunk below the horizon its place is taken by a flash of emerald green light.

Jules Verne, who wrote "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" and other stories with a pseudo scientific background was so impressed by the green flash that he made it the theme of a novel, "The Green Ray."

What causes this phenomenon? UNESCO says that, as the sun sets, the light is broken up by vapor in the atmosphere into its spectrum. The order of the colors in this spectrum, from the horizon upwards, are red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet, reversing the colors of the rainbow. As long as a considerable disc remains above the horizon, one sees red. As the sun sinks lower, the lower part of the spectrum, red, orange and yellow, disappears below the horizon, leaving green, blue and violet. When conditions are just right, with sufficient water-vapor in a clear sky, this vapor absorbs the blue and violet light, leaving orange with the normal blue of the sky. Thus only green reaches the eye of the spectator.

Except near the poles, the green flash lasts only a few seconds. But Richard Byrd and his fellow-members of an antarctic expedition once viewed the green ray for 35 minutes.

THE CHIVALROUS SOUTH

If any of our readers are crying for the Carolines of song and story, yearning for the mocking birds and the magnolia blossoms, we have bad news for them.

Southern chivalry is unique. If you-all aims to sojourn in the South, honey, yo' should take an interest in the sociological aspects of community life.

That's what southern gals are doing these days and their "unusual interest" in these aspects led sixty-three of them to attend a ceremony in the South Carolina state penitentiary on Friday.

There they saw two men die in the electric chair.

The girls were student nurses. Just how their experience will stand them in tenderly caring for the sick was not explained in the despatch from Columbia, S.C.

One of the male witnesses of the double execution fainted. We are afraid that if 63 Canadian student nurses had attended a double execution some of them would have fainted, too. But not these southern maidens. Some of them cried. It is true, but none of them fainted. It just goes to show the advantages which accrue from living in a land of chivalry and cultivating an unusual interest in the sociological aspects of its community life.

HAND SEWING

A yard was finger tip to nose;
An inch was knuckle to the pad.
Have all such measurements as those
Been punished by precision's scold?
What of the thread? Is mother's
Do women bite it off today?

Hand-sewn was every seam and been Every ruffle, tuck and pleat.
Then mother's fingers fashioned them.
Securing all with stitches neat
As she, in seamstresses know how Quickly to thread a needle now?

I know that measurement precise
Is better than from tip to nose.
Machine-made stitches are as nice
As any loving grandma sews.
But still for charm they can't compare
With mother sewing in her chair.

LOOKING BACKWARDS
GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
MARCH 9, 1934.

A large field of ice which was jammed below the lower bridge moved Wednesday afternoon, but the push was of short duration, and the ice settled into place without doing any damage; it caused but a brief rise in the level of the water which soon subsided. The huge and thick cakes of ice which were jammed at the mouth of the river have been worn smooth and flat by the action of the water which now runs unhindered through the large channels opened by the warmer weather. It is considered by city authorities that the danger of a flood is now over.

Inspector Gardiner of the Ontario Provincial Police headquarters here has been advised that his valuable pedigreed Irish setter dog who disappeared about 20 days ago, has been found in Ottawa. The owner of the dog accertained through the dog tax tag attached to the animal's collar, supposed by the authorities and also by Inspector Gardiner that the setter had been picked up by a passing motorist from whom the dog escaped in Ottawa.

Many grandiloke sidewalks will be built in Belleville during the coming summer.

It looks as though the new drill hall here will be erected on the hospital lot at the north east corner of Victoria Avenue and Church Street. What will the boys and young men use for recreation grounds when they lose this lot? Baseball games and football matches are played here; the soldiers parade to the lot for drill accompanied by the band and hundreds of people throw the wide sidewalks surrounding the lot on Victoria Avenue and Church Street and also along the walk from St. Andrew's Church to bear the band and watch the soldiers drill. When the band plays and the soldiers parade, drill, it is a great night for the children, also for the boys and young men with their best girls.

Letter to the Editor

Dairy Industry's Need Is Less Interference

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

An item on the front page of the G.F.J. in the Saturday, February 27th issue, is headed:

"Dairy Industry To Be Given Shot In Arm."

What is the shot be demoral or morphine?

If our good Provincial Government really gives the dairy industry a "kick in the pants" some four or five years ago, the dairy industry wouldn't need a shot in the arm now.

The dairy industry doesn't need a shot in the arm so much as it needs a healthy glutey where it got the "kick in the pants" when oleo margarine, margene, and similar products (not under prohibitive rates) were allowed to be manufactured and sold in this province by our Provincial Government.

Then, these pseudo products were allowed to ruin Dairy Industry was inoculated by "bacillus oleoea margarinea" thereby doing a great injury to a great industry.

Why should this Province be spending millions and millions of dollars to pay for the importation of cheap oils and fats to manufacture a product to be marketed away from us the home market for our dairy products.

Did you, kind reader, ever try to export dairy products to the U.S.A. for the sake of cash or you wouldn't accomplish it. But the U.S.A. and other countries are pleased to import cheap oils and fats from the great United States of America.

Now, we speak for a moment of our Federal Government. Our Federal Government burn the price of butter to the ground, then find its own market price by supply and demand. If this were done, how very quickly the dairy farmers of Ontario would march on Queen's Park and on Ottawa, get rid of these pseudo products, leaving the home market to our own honest-to-goodness dairy products.

Plastic surgery and plastic surgeons can do wonders to people's noses that need "wonders" done to them; but plastic surgery and plastic surgeons cannot fix noses for us to produce butter from that are being stuck into other people's business. Let our governments leave business to business people, let our governments perform the functions for which they were put in Parliament and Legislative Assemblies and leave business to those of other people's business.

The dairy business doesn't need a "shot in the arm"; neither does it deserve a "kick in the pants."

One thing for sure, "the kick in the pants" is that the "kickee" is always the "kicker."

Yours for less interference in business by our Governments.

Yours sincerely,
—MACK. ROBERTSON.

Englishmen Eat Badgers

(New York Times)

Englishmen are eating badgers again, to the dismay of reformers of the national cookery.

Eighty badgers sat down to a "badger feast" at Market Drayton in Shropshire and survived. The badger is 25 to 29 inches long, with an eight-inch tail. It is gray above and white below and has a white head with a black stripe on each side.

The Shropshire diners reported that the meat was served roasted and cold, apparently badger meat when hot is not aromatic. Cold, the meat has a flavor somewhere between that of pork and beef. One diner said that the flavor was "positively," although not very, "appetizing" to bear meat.

Incidentally the badgers would have been boiled and fed to the terriers that dig the badgers out of their holes.

Uncle Sam's Gibraltar

(Atlantic Constitution)

The United States once had Gibraltar. Its name is Fort Jefferson, and its function was to lock the Gulf of Mexico against hostile powers in the same manner as England's fortress controls the Mediterranean.

This American Gibraltar never had to withstand the fiery shells, the Dry Tortugas, 65 miles west of Key West. It commanded the traffic between gulf ports and the rest of the world, and the fleet that was supposed to be stationed there to gallantly could block-ade the Straits of Florida and the Yucatan channel in tremendous emergencies. Millions of gold and lives to raise the enormous brick walls, a shell was invented that went through brick like cardboard. Fort Jefferson was along. Fort Pulaski and others of the same era automatically became obsolete and merely picturesque.

Fort Jefferson is a startling sight. It rises from the waste of the sea like a mirage, and not until a tonelle on the island is made out can it be seen. It completely covers a small island, and is five miles at sea between it and land aren't enough, there is a moat drawn around the citadel. Inside are cavernous arched chambers, empty of the ammunition places for ammunition storage. The tops of the walls are wide enough for a road-way, but once were catchment basins. The island is waterless, and rain that fell on the parade and the walls for the use of the garrison.

Fort Jefferson was in federal hands during the war between the states. It was the fatal fame as the prison of Dr. Samuel Mudd, the unfortunate who had treated John Booth's leg after the assassination of Lincoln. It was abandoned early in the 1900's as a matter of military tradition, but not in accordance with history, the moat was stocked with fish, and the walls of the parade ground were planted with coconut palms. Dr. Mudd's escape.

Dr. Mudd's escape from the fort by the mainland and newspapers. Now the "do it yourself" plan is to be seen in the chain stores, department stores, and, in some cities, in the appearance of new shops devoted to selling all sorts of gadgets to help you do it yourself.

One of my friends and his wife and mother-in-law watched a couple of housewives fight over a television re-upholstering a chair with foam rubber. The job looked as simple as pie. Up until that moment, the "do it yourself" idea had never tempted me, but after I saw how they had always sent for plumber. If a screen door warped they had in a carpenter to plane it square again. If the kids broke clothesline, the lady of the house always managed to wangle the young clerk in the hardware store to come over and do it for her. But television has an intangible power that is as yet but dimly appreciated by the innocent public. In its-law.

Uncle Sam's Has Scheme To Kill Fogs

(The Times, London).

A scheme whereby, it is claimed, fog could be destroyed by chemical treatment of the clouds has been submitted to the ministry of fuel and power by the British member for the Beaver committee.

Its purpose would be to break down pollutted fog banks, like the one which affected London last winter, and so to prevent the mischief fog rials which frequently disrupt traffic and cause great monetary loss.

The proposal, which is based upon the principle of "cloud seeding," has been made by Mr. N. Pilsel, a research scientist, who has already carried out experiments on his behalf by Prof. Sir Eric Rideal, chairman of the Beaver committee, and referred to the ministry of supply.

It is understood that very weak solutions of surface-active materials, made up with traces of seeding agents and finely sprayed into fogs from aircraft could cause the water droplets of which fogs are composed to flow together until their size and weight made them fall as rain. Soot, tar, and sulphur dioxide, which pollute fogs, would be dispersed as well.

THERE ARE STILL TOO MANY ATROCITIES

Dr. Brady

Dear Sir:—
Everyone in my family (except my husband, God bless him) things I am out of my mind for making such a big fuss about such a "simple" thing as tonsillectomy. Our six year old—we have four children—has enlarged, infected tonsils. When he had a sore throat last week our family doctor examined him and wanted to make immediate arrangements for tonsillectomy. He said Dr. would perform the operation—he always "gets all the tonsil."

This reminded me of the warnings you have sounded . . . and of three cases of tragic consequences which have occurred in our city . . . and I felt sick.

I asked the doctor about diathermy and he said she did it too young. This time the doctor found a ½-inch yellow spot on one tonsil, which he calls infection, but the child has never had tonsillitis and there is no other serious sore throat so far this winter.

I can't seem to remember just what you say about children's infected tonsils.

The doctor wants to take care of it tonsils on the 23rd birthday, and half jokingly suggested that we might get a month's leave if we have all four . . . (Mrs. H.B.M.)

In the first place, tonsillectomy is a serious and by no means the "simple" thing your relatives thing it is. Many tragic fatalities occurred in the course of or shortly after the operation.

Your doctor is correct when he says diathermy is not applicable to young children. The patient must co-operate with the doctor and few children under ten years of age can do so. However, I did see a New York physician who was highly skilled at electrocoagulation successfully treat a child only 5½ years of age—a prodigy. In my opinion, tonsillectomy, or more yellowish spots on one or both tonsils is called, is a minor operation, far less dangerous than tonsillectomy.

Diathermy (electro-coagulation) is the method I recommend for the treatment of infected tonsils. Not for the removal of tonsils.

In fact it is difficult to conceive a sound reason for attempting to "get all the tonsil" unless persistent severe cancer or malignant lesion were detected while it is confined to the tonsil.

I make no bones of saying they're all out of step but Brady they're all out to really try to "get all the tonsil."

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When television started a couple of years ago, the natural thought occurred to everybody in the game to produce programs about it. Exactly how to do things. The "do it yourself" idea, demonstrated daily on television by expert gentlemen showing you how to make a screen for your window or how to build a pigpunt in your cellar, was soon picked up by the magazines and newspapers. Now the "do it yourself" plan is to be seen in the chain stores, department stores, and, in some cities, in the appearance of new shops devoted to selling all sorts of gadgets to help you do it yourself.

One of my friends and his wife and mother-in-law watched a couple of housewives fight over a television re-upholstering a chair with foam rubber. The job looked as simple as pie. Up until that moment, the "do it yourself" idea had never tempted me, but after I saw how they had always sent for plumber. If a screen door warped they had in a carpenter to plane it square again. But television has an intangible power that is as yet but dimly appreciated by the innocent public. In its-law.

A more monstrous sight never met my eyes. They had begun with the chairs. When we arrived, their were in the midst of the chesterfield. The chairs looked like hens that had tried to cross the road and hadn't made it. The chesterfield looked like a buffalo carrying on the rump.

The had an upholsterer come in the next day. "But it was the sad hour of my friend's calamity. "Oh, yeah!" chorused his wife and mother-in-law. Which is an unbecoming remark from a wife and mother-in-law. Which is an unbecoming remark from a husband and father-in-law.

A surge of enthusiasm inspired by the upholstery demonstration, my friend, his wife and his mother-in-law rushed out and bought their chesterfield, chairs and stools. They bought yards and yards of foam rubber and had a wonderful hour downtown picking out the tapestry for the covers. They bought muslin, adhesive tape, rubber cement, and a lot of tacks. Tacks galore.

We usually visit them Wednesday evenings. But they phoned to postpone our visit until later in the week. Something in the tone of voice, some suggestion of distress in their message of postponement alarmed us, gave us the notion they might be ill. So we dropped in for a moment anyway.

A more monstrous sight never met my eyes. They had begun with the chairs. When we arrived, their were in the midst of the chesterfield. The chairs looked like hens that had tried to cross the road and hadn't made it. The chesterfield looked like a buffalo carrying on the rump.

Prejudice

Firm convictions have a very stabilizing influence upon one's character. Especially is this true of convictions solidify into prejudice they penetrate a person in ever hateful ways.

All of us who profess any religion think that our religion is the best. If we believed there was a better religion, we would be quick to ask what we now profess and adopt what is better. But to be sure of one's religion is one thing and to hate everyone else who differs from us is something else. There is not a religion in the world that does not have within certain good points, else it never would have called forth the loyalty of multitudes. To say this is not to say that one religion is as good as another. My religion is best according to me, and your religion is best according to you. That's the way it should be the way it ought to be. But if we have any spiritual vision at all we can see much that is commendable things in other people's religion which we might well strive to incorporate in to our own.

What goes for religion goes also for patriotism. Each of us loves his country and prefers it above all others. Let the other fellow indulge in pride and boasting also. Try to appreciate his virtues and keep prejudiced. Someone has said that prejudice squints when it looks and lies when it talks.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LISTENING—AN ART

Many of the wisest people in life are the best listeners. Listening is the best. Listening is a fine art, for it involves alertness, concentration of the mind, smothers all conceit, and enables the listener to learn while he not only hears but thinks.

The good listener does not attempt to monopolize the talk. The talker does—often to his disadvantage. The listener is like the Judge on the bench. He hears and weighs all evidence, and information, storing it away for later consideration. The society and companionship of the good listener is always worth while.

It is possible for any one to learn the listening, or talking. Great thinkers and men of action are rarely ready with words. But they are with achievement. I once read that Marshall Field, founder of the great merchant stores under the name of Marshall Field & Company, was a man of few words.

Many a person has become well educated merely by cultivating the habit to listen carefully to all talk. Thoreau, the great naturalist, often commented upon the sounds and noises about him. He knew the chirping of every bird and could identify it. Anne Lindbergh wrote a beautiful book, which she named "The Wave of the World." The aviator is so often guided and inspired by the whispering of the wind. It is constantly talking to the air—but he listens.

Those in school and college, who listen to their instructors, always have a head start in the world. They learn the most, even though they may not be the most brilliant. They always keep your eye upon the listener. You are apt to hear great things about him in the future.

He Saw and Believed

"Together the two apostles stood at the door of the tomb, looking in upon the mystery."

CHAPTER 8.

Not even their own sons could credit the women's words. They thought that great sorrow had so afflicted their gentle hearts that they told what must seem to all stolid, simple citizens to be idle tales.

Jude Thaddeus and the two men named James saw the blue circles of exhaustion under their eyes, and their own hearts ached with fresh pain as they led Mary Salome and Mary Cleophas to rest in chairs at the long table.

The proof, if proof there ever was to be, must come from Peter and John at the sepulchre.

And all the women obediently kept silent, for the nine apostles were afraid that the late would be heard in the next room, and distant Mary, the mother of Jesus, who still prayed alone.

Peter ran all the way. His great body, tired from no sleep in three full days, was dripping wet, his beard and long locks were sopping with sweat, and his breath rose in an extreme gulps as he came running through Joseph of Arimathea's gate up to the door of the tomb.

John had run slightly behind him in the beginning, but as they entered the garden, his younger strength enabled him to pass the gasping, middle-aged fisherman. It was John who first reached the door of the tomb. He stooped down, the full morning sunlight streaming over his head, and looked in at that enigma of the room from which the treasure was gone, the corpse carried off, leaving only the linen cloths in a heap on the shelf.

Dumfounded, John did not move as the shadow of Peter's tall figure fell across him and the fisherman's hand laid on his left shoulder. Together the two apostles stood at the door of the tomb, looking in upon the mystery.

Peter, bending down, crept through the low door and edged the tiny area of the tomb first. Peter, years from the moment he was commissioned to lead the Church Jesus founded had been first in everything, now made a special discovery. Within the tomb, he could see something not visible from the outside.

The napkin that had been wrapped around the head of Jesus was lying not with the other linen cloths but apart and folded, wrapped up neatly and put off to itself as if in a special and particular place. One glance over Peter's shoulder, and John, too, came inside and saw and believed.

Now it has been said that these two men, until this fantastic discovery, knew not the Scripture, that they must rise again from the dead. Those are the words of John himself, set down in his own Gospel.

If ever the light of humility has shone in this world, it slants through all the centuries in John's own words. Humbly he makes a confession until this moment he had not understood the Old Testament prophecies of the comings of the Messiah, his death, and resurrection. Only by understanding them, he had not, heretofore, fully believed them — those ringing prophecies in the Psalms, in Isaiah, and elsewhere in the Scriptures, especially in David's song: "Thou shalt not permit Thy Holy One to see corruption."

The witness of the senses was needed, even for John, the son of Zebedee and Mary Salome, whose words as to every moment was trying to tell the other apostles the glorious truth of that open tomb. This John, who, with his brother James the Greater, was a cousin of Jesus and to whom the Lord had entrusted the care of His own mother, this dearly beloved disciple whose head had lain on the bosom of Christ at the Last Supper; this same John had needed the evidence of his eyes to convince him.

The human nature of those apostles, over which Jesus had sorrowed more than once, had never more apparent than here on the first Easter—John had been with Jesus almost from the beginning, an eye-witness of many wonders. He was present when Jesus raised the dead child who was the daughter of Jairus, whose very name meant "he will awaken". John has seen His return to the small corpse of the daughter of that synagogue ruler. John had stood on the mountain top in the very midst of the Transfiguration. He had been with the Master during the agony in the olive garden of Gethsemane. So fervent was John, together with his brother James, that Jesus had called the two of them "Boanerges," a surname meaning "Sons of Thunder." They were positive, dynamic fellows, these brothers, as the fire of faith breathed through their nostrils and the rumbles of Sinai thundered in their voices. John had been the only one of the twelve who did not flee from the bondsmen of Christ, the only one who stood on Calvary with Mary, the mother of Jesus, at the cross.

Yet John, for all this background, records that only after he found the tomb empty, and the linen cloth folded away, was it that "he saw and believed." Many a good man, full of faith yet finding doubts creeping through his mind in solitary moments, has taken heart from the humble confession of John, the saint, standing with Peter in the empty tomb.

The two holy apostles did not speak in the presence of this mystery. Silently praying, they walked home in order to tell the most strange things they had seen. They did not know, because they went down one street and she came up another, that in the fullness of morning light Mary Magdalene was going back again to the tomb alone.

Shopping Centre And 600 Houses Will Be Built

OSHAWA (CP) — A $10,000,000 housing development which will comprise 600 houses and a shopping centre near Brooklin, 20 miles north of here, will be started in June of this year, it was announced today.

The project is being backed by a group of Canadian and American business men headed by Toronto lawyer George Ferguson and ex-pioneer Tom Symons.

Sloping meadowland on which the project will be built was previously owned by Myron Vipond of Brooklin who last year sold his farm to Alfred Baggs of Edgeley for $41,000. The Toronto syndicate is reported to have paid $100,000 for it a few months later.

Congregation Bids Farewell To Rev. T. H. Good

MARMORA — Members of St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, and friends from neighboring congregations met St. John's Church on Sunday evening for the Rev. T. Harvey Good farewell service as rector of the parish.

Spring flowers were on the altar and baskets and potted spring flowers were used elsewhere in the church.

Special music was furnished by the choir who sang an anthem "God Will Take Care of You."

For his sermon Rev. Mr. Good chose his text from St. John's gospel from the story of Christ talking with the Samaritan woman at the well. Mr. Good said he left a challenge to his former people to carry on as well as they had in the past four years during his pastorate.

Rev. and Mrs. Good left on Monday for Kingston where he will become rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church.

FAREWELL PARTY

On Friday evening the members of St. John's congregation gathered in the parish hall to spend the evening with the rector Rev. T. Harvey Good and Mrs. Good. The evening was spent in community singing and a varied program was presented.

Mr. Will Hart on behalf of the church spoke briefly of the fine work Mr. Good had done during his four years as rector and wished him every success in his future work.

He wished Mrs. Good every future blessing.

Mr. E. T. Nayler presented Rev. and Mrs. Good with a sterling silver carving set and a purse of money. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

ANNUAL BRIDGE

Madoc W.I. held its annual bridge and euchre on Tuesday evening in the Orange Hall. Nine tables of euchre and five tables of bridge were in play during the evening.

19,000 More Hospital Beds In Ontario Now Than in 1947

TORONTO — Since 1947 the Ontario Government has allotted $18,000,000 to assist in increasing the province's hospital facilities by a net gain of 19,000 beds. Hon. Mac-Kinnon Phillips, Ontario Minister of Health, gave these figures last night, in an address delivered over the provincial network of the CBC. In all 21,000 beds have been added but during the same period 2,000 beds have been abandoned because of obsolescence.

"We are confronted with numerous problems in the health field," said Dr. Phillips. "And, these problems are in no way lessened by our rapidly increasing population. They are manifold, and three of them which attract public attention at all times, and which cause concern to the government, are related to the fields of hospital accommodation, mental health and tuberculosis. We are proud of achievements in all three fields.

ADDED 21,000 BEDS

"Where hospital beds are concerned, government's funds to the extent of approximately $33,000,000 have been allotted since 1947 to aid hospitals and sanatoria in adding more than 21,000 beds for both patients and nurses, and to help those same hospitals and sanatoria plan for additional 10,000 beds. Space for most of these latter is now under construction. So, since inauguration of our present system of capital grants to hospitals for construction purposes, provision has been made for new accommodation for more than 31,000 beds.

"Close to 12,000 of these are for acute care in general hospitals. Others are for chronic or convalescent patients, special psychiatric wards, detention wards and tuberculosis sanatoria. More than 2,800 are for nurses' residences, while more than half of the planned 2,600 nursery bassinettes already are in use. Also 2,000 beds have been abandoned in this period because of obsolescence.

"We also are deeply involved in assisting hospitals with their maintenance costs. These grants have increased from $1,600,000 in 1946, to more than $12,000,000 in the fiscal year which winds up at the end of this month.

"Government spending in the interest of hospitals has increased more than sevenfold in the last eight years.

10,000 MENTALLY ILL.

"Ontario mental health program is one of our most important concerns, since more than 10,000 patients are involved. You can readily imagine what is involved in treating and caring for these thousands of sick people in our 16 mental institutions, known as Ontario hospitals.

"General hospitals are being encouraged to open psychiatric wards to back our belief that treatment of mental illness at the community level and in its early stage, can prove to be as successful as any cancer or heart treatment of other ailments.

"We believe that many persons treated in the psychiatric wings of general hospital units will not have to go to one of our mental hospitals for further treatment.

"To encourage general hospitals to build these special psychiatric units, we provide grants of $8,500 a bed. So far, this program has resulted in the construction of space for 250 beds of this type, while ward space for another 182 is under construction. In all, about large general hospitals in various parts of the Province are involved.

BUILDING MENTAL HOSPITALS

"Our mental hospital building program is continuing. At the new Port Arthur hospital, 1,000 beds will be available in a matter of a month or two, while 1,000 more have been let for another 400. The ultimate capacity at Port Arthur will be 1,200 beds.

"A new 1,200-bed hospital is planned for North Bay. Choice of a site is now being determined.

"At Brockville, five units of 100 beds each will be completed this year.

"At the Hospital School at Smith's Falls, the first two groups of buildings to accommodate 1,800 beds are now occupied by 1,100 patients. Accommodation for a further 400 beds is under construction now; ultimate capacity will be 2,400.

The Hospital School at Orillia is again being enlarged with a new 300-bed unit for children from two to six years.

"Construction also is underway at Toronto Queen Street Hospital on a medical, surgical and diagnostic clinic building with, 150 beds.

"Plans are being prepared for a 500-bed group of buildings at Kingston, and 400 beds at London. A study will be made as to the location of a mental hospital between Hamilton and Toronto to relieve overcrowding at the Hamilton Ontario Hospital.

"In addition, much renovating has been done in many of the hospitals, along with provision of better fire protection services in the older buildings.

PREVENTING T.B.

"The prevention and treatment of tuberculosis is another prime consideration of your Government. We have evolved such a splendid organization, operating through our own Division of Tuberculosis Prevention and the various voluntary agencies throughout the province that Ontario has the lowest death rate of all the provinces—41 per 100,000 in 1952, and an estimated 37 this year.

"While the number of new admissions to sanatoria over the 10-year period 1942-1952, remained fairly constant, one must take into consideration the increase in the population of 851,000 or 21.7 per cent. Based on a study of 1952 new admission case rate per 100,000 and population to sanatoria during this time, it would appear that there was a decline in the incidence of active tuberculosis of over ten per cent. In comparison the mortality rate decreased 70 per cent during the same period.

"As stated in our review of the hospital bed situation, we plan to assist in the cost of construction of new sanatoria and extensions. However, Ontario is fortunate in this respect in that we now have adequate treatment facilities for the foreseeable future."

JAIL AT END OF LINE

Deane said when he left the controls to look for a conductor, St. Pierre took over the controls and nearly capsized the car at a loop.

Canadian Skater Going to S.A. For Easter Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The most excited Canadian skater in London probably is Vancouver's Jeanne Matthews. She's going to South Africa on an Easter show. The show returns to Britain to star in a summer show at Brighton, south coast seaside resort.

Chestnut-haired Jeane was runner-up to Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott in the Canadian figure-skating championships of 1948 after Miss Scott won the Olympic title. She says skating is her life and she wants to make a name as a solo skater in Britain.

Miss Matthews has three solo spots in an ice revue scheduled for a seven- to eight-week appearance at Johannesburg. She will then play for three months at Brighton, starting in July.

The 20-year-old Calgaryborn skater came to Britain in the fall of 1952—because she was tired touring in Canadian "Ice Cycles," the show-biz British ice shows because they stay in one place for the run of the show.

NOW AT WEMBLEY

She arrived too late to audition for solo parts in the Christmas show and has since been cooling her skates back stage at Wembley, understudy to Gloria Nord and Daphne Walker in "Humpty Dumpty on Ice." "Good fun and a wonderful opportunity to study British ice skating technique," she said.

Miss Matthews has skated twice before in British rinks. She came with the "Ice Cycles" for 16-week summer shows in 1949 and 1950.

Miss Matthews has been sharing London accommodation with Nancy MacKenzie of London, Ont., Miss MacKenzie came to Britain on a holiday with school friend Joyce Vine of London, and decided to stay and skate in the chorus of "Humpty Dumpty on Ice," continuing her holiday in early spring.

Club Activities

KEEN AGE CLUB

The Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church held its March meeting in the church parlors with a good attendance.

The guest speaker was barrister R. B. McCullough who spoke on the making of "wills". Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

dren's Aid Society asked them if they would consider looking after a baby on a temporary basis.

"I was the first infant arrived amid rejoicing, but was adopted a month later by a couple who had promised that the baby, to lighten the gloom, they took another baby, and they've never looked back since.

Mrs. Mitchell has looked after children of all races, sometimes as many as six at once with a convalescing home beside. They have six baby carriages and as many cribs and cupboards of baby clothes.

Mrs. Mitchell says a firm schedule is a prime key of handling babies. When they first come they are usually emotionally upset and need regulated care and a great deal of loving attention. By about the third night they are sleeping "like little lambs."

"I never give in to their opinion of the best schedule," she says. "They soon adjust to mine."

"Our babies have kept us young beyond our years," says Mrs. Mitchell. "Babies should happen to everybody."

Foster Mother Has Cared For 500 Babies

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's top foster mother, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, has cared for 500 babies in the last 13 years.

She doesn't run a nursery school or an infants' home. She and her husband, with part-time assistance of her married daughter Lois, look after as many as five babies at a time for Children's Aid Society.

Most of the babies are foundlings or illegitimate wards of the society. They come to her home before care until they are ready for adoption. After about three months the baby is ready for a new home with a family that's been on the waiting list.

ONE OF THREE

Mrs. Mitchell is one of three foster mothers in the Toronto area who have given more than 500 babies a home, the society says.

Her own daughter was never when she and her husband decided to adopt a baby son. Inquiry showed they might have to wait as long as two years, but the Col-

Fashion Show is Staged By Hospital Auxiliary

Even with snow on the ground, the feminine fancy turns to thoughts of spring, fashions and the Collegiate Auditorium on Monday night seven lovely models showed the newest trends and styles for the coming season, when the Women's Hospital Auxiliary presented their annual fashion show. On stage was a garden setting with calla lilies in white urns at each side. In the background was a garden of spring flowers against a brick wall with white-painted wrought iron chairs and table to complete the picture.

A prelude of organ music by S. Alec Gordon was enjoyed by an audience which filled the auditorium and left the late-comers standing room only. Jane Freeman accompanied some of the numbers at the piano.

The nurses' choir directed by A. Evans opened the program with "O Canada" and "The Last Time I Saw Paris". Mrs. Robert Tanner was the charming commentator for yesterday's fashion parade, wearing what she described as an incredible concoction from the Edwardian era of late, gold brocade which stayed on by faith alone. With this she carried a parasol made of pink taffeta hand-made lace.

Mrs. Fred Deacon appeared in a dress from the 1880's of ruby-colored crushed velvet with a panel of lace, carrying the essential fan of that time. Mrs. Gordon Robertson's costume was mainly hat, kept in place with foot-long hat pins. With the hat she wore a dress with a bustle and an astrakan coat. The Bikini bathing suit of 1925 was modelled by Mrs. Jack Genet and included bathing black stockings, a blue dress with yellow frills guaranteed to protect the bather from any possible rays of the sun.

Mrs. E. Smith wore a wedding gown fastened with over sixty hooks and eyes, hand-made and embroidered with bugle beads, finished with a court train. Mrs. L. Yanover appeared in a white gown heavily embroidered, and Mrs. Israel Lenzner showed what the well-dressed motorist wore in the early days with a duster, yards of scarf about her neck and a dress of velvet piping and leg-o-mutton sleeves. The shapeless twenties showed a straight-cut dress, beaded and sleeveless, worn by Mrs. Charles Taylor. The days of the Charleston, Clara Bow, and "it" meant the short skirt, and Mrs. F. Blue Porter modelled a Paris creation of that time done in black velvet and worn with a white fox scarf.

MODERN FASHIONS SHOWN.

Mrs. J. H. Forrester was commentator for the fashion show and handled her assignment in a most capable manner. She wore a black dress covered in a two-piece navy dress with flared tunic, a wide-brimmed white hat with a shallow crown. Her shoes and those of the other models were from Leslie's; costume jewelry was from Ronald Keel's with many of the pieces created at Avon Jewelry; dresses, coats and suits were supplied by J. Sw. McNabb; hand bags and gloves were from McIntosh Bros.; furs were from Hart Bros.' hair styling was done by Vogue Beauty Salon; flowers and corsages were from Barber and Sons; the make-up was Elizabeth Arden supplied by Doyle's Drug Store.

One of the most interesting features of the showing was the use of the new paper dress in combinations creating new fabrics that aren't creasing and soiling. Dotted orlon and nylon were used with other fabrics to make beautiful materials to delight feminine hearts in any season. Skirts appear to be decidedly shorter. Two-piece dresses, and dresses with bolero give variety and change to many costumes. Almost all the hats were small with a touch of color in a flower or a curled sweeping feather. The pillbox seems to be holding its popularity, worn straight on the brow or tilted forward.

SEDG WELCOMING CHORUS.

The models appeared first ensemble and sang a welcoming chorus of "Hello Everybody." Pat Campbell made her first appearance wearing a brilliant red travel suit, a sou'wester of the same color, navy dress, pumps, gloves and bag. Mrs. D. McDonald modelled a three-piece costume of heather-grey tweed, with raincoat hat that would be a challenge to a navy bag. Mrs. Malcolm Robb was next with her blond coloring shown to advantage in a sport costume of black and white, a reversible McPherson tartan skirt, white leather jacket, and white peaked hat.

Mrs. Freeman Burrows' initial appearance was in an iridescent corduroy English travel suit of a mellon color with matching cloche.

Mrs. Edgar Buchanan wore a coat of orlon and other new fibre in a soft pink shade, lined with striped bengaline over a complementary shade in navy for casual costume. This was completed with navy pumps and bag.

For her entry Mrs. Gilbert Scott was wearing a pure wool suit. The checked coat was cut on long, lean lines and was very British looking, with a skirt of dynamic blue, and matching blue scarf, an off-white shoulder bag and gloves.

Mrs. Fred Carcellan appeared in an English ulster, traditionally tailored, over a navy daytime crepe dress with Roman stripe for emphasis.

Evening coats were featured and so were semi-synthetics, such as orlon, nylon and acetate.

FURS ALSO SHOWN

Muskrat jackets showing new lines in breath of spring, pastels and sheared effects gave high style over suits and dresses. Also shown were coats of grey lamb, moleskin, China mink, cloth caps of natural Canadian wild mink, natural Russian grey squirrel, fine otter sheared and dropped, a coachman style silver blue mink cape, and a black Persian lamb with jewelled brooch on the sleeves. Some jackets showed the ripple back while others were cut straight and narrow.

A sensational costume was a dress with a lynx-trimmed matching stole, and a hat of the same color with red flare. Suits combined tailored lines with dressmaker details. A rustic dress was Italian inspired with the full skirt embroidered. The silvery grey, navy and white had empire lines, slim, suave and sophisticated, topped with a full length brilliant red coat and hat. Many combinations of two or three shades of blue were shown. Linen jackets and silk dresses teamed up to make stimulating ensembles.

A junior style featured a huge white bow worn with a navy dress and coat and a tiny matching hat. An Irish linen model of the popular sheath had a portrait neckline and was worn with an embroidered three-quarter length coat.

Evening gowns and cocktail dresses had full, full skirts. One striking number was white with royal purple and with a sash that reached from the back of the bodice to front knee. A nylon sheer illusion showed the popular new trend of the town' bodice and a charcoal grey and beet red gown had the neckline outlined in sequins. A cocktail dress of window box tones was sequin-trimmed and completed with mother-of-pearl earrings and a beaded bag.

SPRINGTIME FINALE

The wedding party was the finale showing the guests, Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. McDonald, gowned in tucked black and sea-foam green respectively; Mrs. Carcellan as the bride's mother in Wallis blue taffeta; Mrs. Scott, the groom's mother, in rose point lace of nylon sheer; Mrs. Robb and Miss Campbell, the bridesmaids, gowned alike in seafoam nylon net, carrying nosegays, and finally, Mrs. Burrows as the bride, in an imported hand-made lace, carrying shaded pink carnations.

Mrs. J. H. Forrester, assisted by Mrs. L. Fonger, demonstrated how one basic dress could be used for many different occasions in the life of a housewife, and the Auxiliary by the expedient of using different hats, scarves, costume jewellery, shoes, bags and accessories. This took in the hours from 10 in the morning to nine at night.

Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson spoke on behalf of the Queen Alexandra Solarium which takes place next week, intimating Mrs. Barker, who represented the ten homemakers who cared for 365 children last year, as a typical one. A volunteer who has taken the honorarium was Mrs. Fox. Mrs. Ketcheson explained the services rendered to the community by the Red Cross and urged everyone to support the work.

Members of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority acted as ushers for the evening. Mrs. Forrester expressed the thanks of the Auxiliary to all the exhibitors, models the Key Club, Mrs. Forrester, Mr. F. H. Tindale, Walker Hardware, Mrs. G. Faulkner for assistance with the stage decor, and the stage crew.

PRIZES ARE DRAWN

With the assistance of Mrs. J Yanover, Mrs. A. Marshall, Mrs. J. Buchan and Mrs. Kennedy, the door prizes were drawn with the following results:

"Nellie Preston, 242 Dundas St. East, costume jewellery from Avon; Mrs. H. J. Fuke, nylon slip from J. A. McNabb; Mrs Harold Craig, squirrel necklet from Ashley furs; Miss Sharon Wilkinson, 178 Charles St., train case from Leslie's; Mrs. Don Anderson, 201 Brock St., Peterborough, wrist watch from Ronald Keel; Mrs. Coulter, 390 Victoria Ave., fern from Barber's; Marilyn Way, Picton, bath from Doyle's; Mrs. Lorne Blakely, 8 Reynolds Crescent, sweetheart from Avon; Miss Hazel Smith, 84 Donald St., hand bag from McIntosh Bros.; Mrs. Arthur Clare, Trent Road, gift certificate from the Hat Box; Mrs. M. J. Clarke, steam iron from Walker Hardware.

Bouquets of red carnations tied with red streamers were presented to each of the models, and to Jane Freeman, and Mrs. Forrester by the contributors. (Mrs. Gladys Ward.)

WHY I SUPPORT THE RED CROSS!

"My name is Miss D. Grenke and I am a stenographer in Belleville. I am giving to the Red Cross because I firmly believe that . . .

The Homemakers' Service which the local Red Cross Society provides, is without question, vital to the general welfare of our community. With the help of Homemakers used clothing and bedding were given to many of Belleville's needy families during the past year. I have been informed that during 1953 a total of 365 children in 183 different homes were cared for by our Red Cross Homemakers. Actually 1456 days of services were given in these many grateful homes.

Isn't it gratifying to know that in the hous of need a Homemaker is standing by? The wonderful work performed by these women is just one of the many reasons Why I Support Red Cross."

Won't YOU Please Give Too?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

WORDS TO AVOID WHEN SERVING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please print your answer to my question in December, as I know my friends will read it. For lately we have had several arguments about giving a person a "second cup of tea. I always say, "Would you like some tea?" even after someone has had a cup of tea, or perhaps two cups of tea. I have occasionally been checked up on this, and indeed the other evening someone told me that I wasn't very observant when I hadn't noticed that they had already had some tea. My best friend, who agrees with me (and she is the only one who does), would like me to ask you if, when serving at a bazaar for example, one should say, "Will you have some more tea?" . . . or "Will you have some tea?" . . . or "May I refill your teacup?"

Alma J.

The person of gracious manners, when offering tea or coffee or whatever, avoids the word "more" using "another" or "more." Right: "Will you have a cup of tea?" (Even if you know it's her third or fourth cup!) Wrong: "Will you have another cup of tea?" or "Will you have some more tea?" Right: "Can I pass you a piece of cake?" Wrong: "Do have another piece of cake." The point is to gracefully to offer a cup of tea or coffee or whatever beverage, or whatever food, the hostess has chosen to call the person to account for the previous serving!

TO RECEIVE CO-WORKERS IN CHURCH VESTIBULE?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

For my daughter's church wedding we have sent out about three hundred invitations to the church ceremony only, about two hundred to the reception and wedding dinner. My daughter thinks that the receiving-line should be at the church, as she wants to keep their best wishes. She has heard some couples criticized for not apologizing to their friends immediately after the ceremony. Please tell us what we should do.

E.

The correct procedure, the practical procedure, the customary procedure, is for the bride and groom, their wedding party and the bride's families to leave the church directly after the recessional, and drive to the place where the reception is to tak place. In this way the receiving-line can be formed and all will be ready to receive the guests when they arrive from the church. Sometimes when there is to be no reception, the bride and groom do follow the friendly and cordial plan to receive the best wishes of the guests in the vestibule of the church. But obviously, when there is to be a reception. This receiving-in-the-vestibule procedure means that the reception guests are kept waiting until the bride and groom arrive, ...an awkward and inconsiderate plan.

NAME ANNOUNCEMENT OVER THE TELEPHONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I met a very delightful older man at a party at a friend's house. He asked if he might telephone me to make a date. He did so and I was certainly surprised when he said, "This is Mr. Leighton speaking." Was this right or wrong? — Leila S.

Wrong. A man should never call himself "Mr." in a social acquaintance, even if he and he were still on a last-name basis. He should have announced himself over the telephone, "This is Phillip Leighton."

'STRANGER' AT THE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a doctor and a long-time professional friend of mine is a prospective bridegroom. I have been invited to the church ceremony and to the reception at the bride's house. I know very few of the groom's friends, and I don't know the bride of her family or friends. However, I have accepted the invitation, because of my devotion to my friend. I don't want to stay for the reception "doings," which wouldn't interest me, and which indeed bore me. How long must I stay at the reception?

Philip M.

All you really must do is to go down the receiving-line. . . that is, greet the hostess (or hosts, if they are both in the line), say "It was such a beautiful wedding. . . thank-you for inviting me"; give your best wishes" to the bride and your "congratulations" to the bridegroom, and greet the other friends and relatives in the line. Then it is quite proper for you to take your leave. (You may realize, though, dear sir, that perhaps-you might have a good time if you tarry a bit for the festive 'doings'!

VERBAL INVITATIONS TO WEDDING?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A relative of mine had a church wedding recently. Invitations were issued to approximately two hundred people. A reception followed in the church parlors. A member of the family invited verbally several of her friends who were also acquainted with the groom, but who were not sent invitations as the acquaintenceship was not sufficient. One couple did not know either the bride or the groom, but were close friends of this relative.

Was it improper for this relative to invite these friends of hers? And was it improper for them to accept? And, since they accepted the invitation, should they have sent presents to the bride?

W

If the one who gave these verbal invitations is a member of the bride's family, and if she had the bride's permission to invite these several friends of hers, what she did was quite all right. The bride and her family (the bride's parents are the hosts of the occasion) are the ones who make the arrangements for the type of wedding they wish, and therefore no one really has the right to "extend" invitations unless given that privilege by the bride or her parents.

Since apparently the "member of the family" invited quite a group of her friends, it was particularly important that the bride and her family knew what she was doing. Also if the "member of the family" is a member of the groom's family she does not have this inviting-privilege, since the groom's family are the guests of the wedding, not the hosts. If her friends being invited were assured of the circumstances of their being invited were "in order" it was quite permissible for them to accept. They would not be expected to send wedding presents.

Overflow Column For Readers' Letters

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Conducted by Mary Moore

Hold everything! This is a cry for succor. I'm asking you to hold off writing to me for two days so that I can catch up on the stack of correspondence from you that is on my desk.

Unless somebody is dying or starvation or food poisoning threatens, I'd help I don't know! I don't write for two days, and I'll wrestle with answers to the best of my ability, then you can start writing again. Don't get me wrong. I'll miss your letters terribly as those two days, but there's only one of me with only two hands and one foggy head, to cope with the incoming mail.

QUESTION:

Since I am very much in need of recipes for baking with soya flour I thought you might have some available. Also, I find the soya bean is unable to eat anything contained wheat flour, and my efforts at baking just substituting the soy for wheat flour have been most unsatisfactory...Thelma Mcl.

ANSWER:

You have a difficult problem. You may have seen letters here from other readers who have this wheat allergy to contend with. Here is an order 100 per cent rye bread in 5 moderate oven. Instead of pork you can use this pieces of Gruyere cheese. In France this is always served as an entree in the French meaning of the word, that is before the meat course. It is served tepid—never hot or even warm... Quiche Lorraine, for 10 as large unites pre-cooking, no ground ham, no chicken, no cheddar, no Roquefort, no paprika, no salt, sauce, or catsup and no salad. The only accompaniment is Bilzs wine or Alsace wine...the recipe you gave is certainly worth while trying. It is made in one of three days and call it "Canadian Quiche" if you don't mind, but quiche lorraine is quiche lorraine and nothing can change that I apologize for my poor English and for the contradiction... there is a quantity of recipes of "quiez" is served as entree; tourteau fromage, tourteau cervelle, tourte boudonnaise, quiche tourangelle, etc. There are a very pleasant way to start an otherwise light meal. Are you interested? Isabelle B.

ANSWER:

Yes, I am Isabelle and thank you very much for your help and correction. As you say there was a Canadianized version. Do send the others and don't apologize for your English. It is charming.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MARRIAGE ISN'T ALL DANCING AND GOOD TIMES

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am married and have one child, but I am not in love with my husband. I'm in love with another man, who is married and has a family, but I know he is in love with me, too.

My husband and I have never had the same ideas about anything, and I know that I have now found the right partner, someone who has the same ideas that I have, and I am sure we would be very happy together. We both like to dance and have a good time. —W.A.

Dear W.A.:

You don't say so, but I suppose the reason you are writing me is because you want me to express an opinion as to whether or not you should leave your husband for this other man. It seems to me, however, that you already have your mind pretty well made up.

What you say about you and your husband never having had the "same ideas" and you and this man having them, is much too vague for me to put much credence in the matter. I might say, however, that all the "same ideas" consist merely of both of you liking to "dance and have a good time." It's hardly enough.

Unless you have sound and specific reasons for leaving your husband, my advice would be for you to stick with your marriage, do some real work on trying to establish a happier relationship with your husband and put the thought of breaking up two marriages out of your mind until you were quite certain you would be fully justified in doing so.

29 "TOO OLD" FOR IT?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a girl I would like to ask out on a date, but I am too shy. Besides, she is only 17 and I am 20, so I am wondering if I am too old to go out with her.

If you think it is all right for me to ask her, would you tell me how to approach the matter?

Pester

Dear Pester:

In general, I am inclined to believe that girl of 17 is a bit too young for a chap 20 years old. The reason I feel this way is that such a girl is usually still in high school, and so her interests, and that of a young man who presumably is either working or in college, are and should be, quite different.

On the other hand, there are exceptions, and there certainly would be no harm in your finding out if yours might be one of these exceptions. So summon up your courage, call her up, or write her a little note, invite her to go out with you and see if she shares your interest. You'll soon find out whether yours is an exceptional case or whether you should leave her to her high school companions and find a girl friend in your own age group.

Wellington on the Lake

The winds of March are wailing
About the close-shut door,
The lake's cold restless waters
Beat on the rocky shore;
But 'neath the wind's wild clamor
We catch a subtle strain,
For the winds of March are waking
The earth to bloom again.

—H.B.A.

On the morning of Tuesday, March 2nd, we awakened to a white and wintry world with a fierce blizzard blowing. Nature been lulled into forgetfulness of the wild ways of March by a few warm sunny days, the scene was disturbing, but as we write the storm has subsided, although we know from experience that March will renew the warfare with winter-until the latter is subdued and nature springs to new life.

"Oh! that heart and spirit may find out the spring.
And not the earth alone may bud and sing."

A bunch of pussy willows adorn the table of the hallowest weather. Wednesday evening, the supper, under the auspices of the W.A. of the United Church was a fine success. The tables were tastefully laid and the green candle-holders added a touch of color. The varied delicacies served suited every taste, and the ladies serving were most efficient and painstaking. Many from outside points were in attendances and the pleasant social atmosphere stressed the value of these gatherings.

Word has been received by friends here of the death of Mr. Fred Moran at his home in Missouri. His eldest daughter, Mrs. H. Moore, was shorten, W. Wiggins, Norman Webster, George Dorland and Mr. Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Lawrence entertained at cards Thursday evening with three tables in play, the prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald. Refreshments were served.

NEW ENGLAND SUPPER.

In spite of the inclement weather, Wednesday evening, the supper, under the auspices of the W.A. of the United Church was a fine success. The tables were tastefully laid and the green candle-holders added a touch of color. The varied delicacies served suited every taste, and the ladies serving were most efficient and painstaking. Many from outside points were in attendances and the pleasant social atmosphere stressed the value of these gatherings.

Mr. Lumb, Wright, Plainfield, spent Sunday the guest of his aunt, Miss Bella Wright, Maple Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Harris have purchased the home of the late Mrs. Effie Phillips, East Main street.

The March meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Elliott, Lake Shore, with the president, Mrs. James Dick in charge. The meeting was well attended and the program presented. At the close a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawrence, Consecon Street, were at home to a dinner party on Wednesday celebrating the birthday of his sister, Mrs. Mabel Bell. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bell and Jean of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevenson and family, Wellington.

Mrs. Lottie Fox, Belleville, was a guest recently at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. H. Kennedy.

Mrs. C. P. Heaven is ill.

MRS. JANET NOXON.

The death of Mrs. Janet Noxon occurred on Saturday, February 27, at her home, Consecon Street, after several months' illness, occasioned by a stroke.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Henry Jones of Hillier.

Her husband, Mr. Searles Noxon, died some years ago.

The funeral service was conducted in the United Memorial Home on Tuesday afternoon with Rev. C. P. Heaven in charge. Among relatives attending from a distance were a granddaughter, Mrs. Jackson of Windsor and a niece, Mrs. Shark, of Cobourg. Flowers sent by the storm relatives from Peterborough were unable to attend. The floral tributes were beautiful, including a gift from her son in New York.

Interment was made in Wellington vault. The bearers were W. H. Moore, Wm. Morton, W. Wiggins, Norman Webster, George Dorland and Mr. Fitzgerald.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

TENSION TIES NERVES IN KNOTS

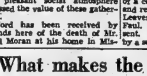
Only the individual who has suffered from a case of nervous exhaustion can understand and sympathize with another victim of this affliction which seems on the increase these days. The woman who is constantly aware of tension, who must consciously practice control of her emotions can regard her nervousness as a warning. She must pause, slow up, ask herself if she is doing everything she can to keep well and strong and to promote peace of mind.

She must cultivate mental hygiene which means that she cannot indulge in worry, the most efficient of all beauty-wreckers. No life is free of annoyances of one kind or another. Troubles come to us all. There are days when everything goes wrong. When bedtime comes one is worn and spent, and that's when one does one's best worrying. Sleep is the restful. One drags out in the morning feeling like a wreck—and looking like one.



If you belong to the jittery contingent, ask yourself a few questions. What about your eating habits? Many women suffer from malnutrition and don't know it. Begin the day with a substantial breakfast—grapefruit or orange juice for supply vitamin C, an egg for protein, toast, a beverage. It has been a long time since last night's dinner and the digestive motors require refueling. A cup of coffee and a nibble of toast won't sustain you until luncheon time.

Do you feel you are "on" crazy all day? Many of us do and needlessly, too. Conserve energy. Try to do your work quietly. If you are a demon party-goer, keeping late hours, you can expect to suffer from fatigue.

Outdoor life is refreshing not only to the body but to the mind. If nothing else offers it the way of exercise, manage a brief walk every day.

Relax wherever you have the opportunity. But remember this: you can't relax your muscles if your thoughts are racing. Close your eyes, close the doors of your mind. Forget everything—if only for half an hour.

Sign of Times in Southern Ontario!

This picture shows traffic stranded five miles east of Chatham, Ont. Over 200 vehicles were bogged down all in particular spot as gale-driven snow descended upon Southern Ontario, isolating many communities with 10-foot drifts. Before blowing itself out over James Bay, it caused five deaths, stranded motorists, plugged highways and threatened floods. New storm, laced by gusts of 70 miles per hour, dumped up to five inches of snow on province. — Central Press Canadian.

Japanese Compliment Canucks On Deportment and Discipline

KURE, Japan (CP)—A Canadian soldier in a Kimono, sitting on the floor and sipping hot sake wine is just as common a sight in this British leave centre as that of a traditionally garbed Japanese girl living with a sailor from Halifax.

The Americans and Australians did most of the missionary work. The Canadians, arriving later, got into the act in a workmanlike acceptance of custom won the hearts of the girls and the respect of the authorities.

Col. John B. Allan of Saint John, N.B., commander of the Canadian base units supplying men and weapons to the 25th Brigade in Korea and looking after their leave, has letters from Japanese authorities complimenting the Canucks on their deportment and indicating that they are about the most popular troops in the Far East. He has records also which show a low rate of crime, venereal disease and other service problems.

BUSY SCHEDULES

It's chiefly because of the busy operational and recreational schedule which gives a man few idle and uninteresting moments on his way to the Korean defence line north of the Imjin or to the leave centres in Japan.

The colonel's command has also done everything possible to facilitate the work of the civil authorities in policing the arcks including the gift of a couple of Canadian jeeps for the police department.

Canadians with good conduct get nine days leave about every four months, according to the exigencies of the service and availability of transport. They are given an orientation lecture in which they are asked to remember they are representatives of Canada in a foreign country—and to observe customs and traditions of the land with understanding. They're also advised to get along with the troops of other nationalities.

If the Canadian gets in trouble he is immediately returned to Korea and forfeits his next leave.

Under a new agreement, Japanese police can handle civil cases involving Allied troops. As a result of the Canadian policy, there hasn't been one case that's had to be handled by the Japanese.

To make sure the Canadian always has a spot to eat and sleep, he pays $2 at the start of his leave to cover his stay at the leave centre of his choice.

FIVE LEAVE CENTRES

Canadian leave centres are located in the Kobe, Osaka, Kyoto, Tokyo and Kure areas and each has something distinctive to offer the Canadian serviceman fortet. If the soldier has saved some money and wants a more or less conducted tour, he can have both an entertaining and educational time.

He can go it alone, using one of the leave centres as base of operations. If he has the patience, he can watch the tea ceremonial.

The soldier has learned to exchange his shoes for sandals at the door of his Japanese host. He has also learned that the warmest spot in the paper-walled dwelling is under the table where a charcoal fire burns beneath a polished grill.

The Canadian has found that some brands of Japanese beer are good copies of the Canadian brew and he passed up the available British and Australian products to support home industry. This also makes him friends.

The Canadian is impressed with the punctual Japanese railway system, which in spite of the war and its aftermath, has amazingly good rolling stock and solid, if not varied, meals at reasonable prices.

REMINDED OF HOME

Between Kure and Osaka, he sees a picturesque countryside reminding him of the sharp, rolling hills of perhaps the Maritimes or the Gaspe with the odd coxen reminiscent of Ontario's countryside. But the countryside is crowded with homes and ground under cultivation.

The inland sea has some beautiful scenes. The Iwakuni-Kure area is defaced by the popularly visited Hiroshima, where the Canadian can buy a post-card from mutilated A-bomb victim.

In the same district is the sacred island of Miya-Jima with its huge "torii gate" against evil spirits. It was here that the famous Kamikaze pilots got the full treatment of feast and dancing girls before starting out on their fatal and destructive raids on the Allied fleets.

Even in winter the gentle climate allows production of good crops and in this area tangerines and mandarin oranges can be seen behind the bamboo stockades of some farmers—a welcome contrast to the icy winter on the Korean front line.

GOOD BARGAINS

Anywhere the soldier can shop at unusually low prices. He can buy silk brocade and velvet at $2.50 a yard for his wife's evening dress, handmade, quality fishing rods for $6 and damascene jewelry and cloisonne pottary at prices half as much as demanded at home.

Col. Allan has recently made a deal with the American forces for use of a Red Cross Hut. Here for $2.50 a day the soldier gets luxury in place of the relatively hard life of Korea. A bell-boy meets him at the door, grabs his bags. He has a comfortable private room with spring bed, sheets and a bath. The facilities include everything from game room to night club in which the soldier can dance with his kimono-clad Japanese girl friend known as "baby-san." The "baby" comes from "wara-baby" and the "san" is a polite Japanese term.

Often an American United Service Organization show is available for entertainment in the cabaret. This centre has become so popular that the American manager recently had to eject 11 U.S. junior officers who got in wearing civilian clothes.

"Boy" says the dusty soldier just in from Korea, as he settles down in the deep upholstery of the roof garden, "fetch me a coke and hot-dog—and, boy, you might make that double. Baby-san will have one too."

Canada's 25th Brigade Is Ready For Anything

By JACK BRADLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—With the potential enemy looking over their shoulders Canada's 25th Brigade is ready for anything.

Jack Bradley

This is the opinion of the brigade commander, Brig. Jean Allard, DSO, who at 40 rides about in his jeep from the rear echelons to the forward observation posts like an energetic subaltern. Setting the style for the command, he comes home at night and goes immediately to the sports court for exercise.

Physical, mental and spiritual character building is the program of this self-styled unorthodox soldier who keeps his brigade on such a busy schedule that there is little time for misconduct. His brigade has one of the best records on the front in which they hold the key spot for the 1st Commonwealth Division north of the Imjin river.

FAMOUS UNITS

Facing the Chinese along the front are men of the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Royal 22nd and the Black Watch. With them are such hard-hitting units as the tanks of Lord Strathcona's Horse and the 4th Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Their mobile role suits the brigadier because it affords him ample opportunity for general training. The troops have rehearsed their role repeatedly and in fact tried it out in a couple of false alarms. The brigadier says everything worked smoothly and with no panic.

"I like the role of mobile operation because our purpose here is to train soldiers—period; not to train them for a specific theatre like Korea," Brig. Allard said.

"Their Operation Continue sees them doing three distinct jobs: Taking part with the Commonwealth Division in the defence of South Korea, policing the southern boundary of the demilitarized zone and carrying out a training program under the most practical conditions possible.

ROLLING COUNTRY

The brigade is situated in beautiful rolling country reminiscent of Quebec's Laurentians. The civilian population has been evacuated, the rice paddies given over. The great pock-marks of last year's battles have disappeared.

The units are comfortably housed well fed, their tents heated with oil stoves, floored and lighted by electricity supplied by unit generators.

The brigadier operates on the theory that "anybody can be miserable and we may have to be again in any future emergency, but while it's possible to be clean and comfortable we're going to be just that because it pays off in efficiency and alertness."

On the same grounds the brigade, which has taken some kidding about being a "Cadillac" outfit, has some of the best recreational facilities in the field. These include gym, theatre, library and lounge within two miles of the Chinese lines.

There's been an unusually large response to the padres' plan for religious training—all on a voluntary basis — and it's leading through regular classes, to many new members for the various denominations.

Also the Canadian soldier has shown by his attendance and enthusiasm that he likes programs of good music and clean and artistic entertainment on his new concert stage.

The theatre and recreation centre as a whole were certainly underwritten by the taxpayer. But the troops themselves have set on discarded oil cans for footlight screens, discarded ammunition tins for stands, and sapper know-how and labor provided the general construction.

STARTED IN TANKS

Sparking the whole show is the six-foot, 190-pound Brig. Allard who looks a bit like Progressive Conservative leader George Drew.

He started out as a tank man with his native Three Rivers regiment and has contributed notably to tank-infantry co-operation. He's former commander of the Royal 22nd, now a part of his brigade, has been a vice quartermaster-general and held the ticklish post of military attache in Russia during the espionage trials in Canada.

His dislikes formality but he's strict and adheres to a policy of spit and polish and parade-ground ceremonials. This is to encourage pride in regiment and in self and also because he believes that a regiment that can act as one on a parade-ground order can act with cool efficiency on the field.

"All in all," said the brigadier, "our training ground is favorable and practical, our program is busy and interesting and the men of this brigade will leave Korea in completely good shape as soldiers and Canadians."

The brigadier keeps a close personal eye on the Chinese, manning positions less than 4,000 yards away from the advanced Canadian lines.

On one trip to the front, Brig. Allard scrutinized the Chinese position and noted they had moved a gun to a new position.

"This certainly must be one of the screwiest situations in history," he commented. "Here we're both watching each other like hawks and getting ready in case we have to go to war with each other again. And down the middle is arable land that should be used to help feed the people who we're defending."

REPORT

It suggested revision of the Criminal Code to make rioting in prison a specific offence.

It called for establishment of a large-scale reception centre to receive, study, diagnose and recommend treatment for all first offenders between the ages of 16 and 25. It favored setting up adolescent courts to deal with cases involving persons 16. to 26.

The committee recommended the practice of supplying tobacco to juveniles in training schools be done away with.

ABOLISH LASH

It proposed abolishing the lash as a means of corporal punishment. It said the strap hurts more than the lash and should be used instead.

Other recommendations: that night courts and special courts be held; that a thorough study be made of the subject of sex deviation; that federal penitentiaries accept a considerable portion of repeaters convicted under federal statutes; that provision be made for long indeterminate sentences to allow a prisoner time to learn a trade or improve his educational standards; that provision be made to transfer to a hospital or other suitable institution prisoners suffering from a mental disorder but not so ill they required treatment in a mental hospital.

The committee recommended the reforms department sell all land at the Mimico reformatory, in a western suburb of Toronto, that is not required for the buildings, grounds and the brick industry. It proposed that the west-end Andrew Mercer reformatory for women be moved outside the Toronto metropolitan area and that its present lands and buildings be sold.

The committee also recommended the selling of the buildings and land at the Cobourg training school for boys and that a new school be built on the grounds of the Bowmanville training school. It also recommended that the training school for boys at Guelph be closed.

PRISONS COSTLY

Dealing with the cost of the prison system, the committee said the persons who pay the penalty of crime are the taxpayers.

"It is a popular misconception that a convicted person is singled out to pay the penalty for his crimes," the committee report said. "Actually, he often pays a much less severe penalty than society generally and his own family particularly."

It said the average cost for room and board for each person serving a sentence in an institution is $3.75 a day. A person who served a one-year term cost taxpayers about $1,500. The figures were net, allowing for the revenue of institutional industries. It said the so-called relief and mothers' allowances for the support of a convicted man's family.

These costs tended to be recurrent. About 70 per cent of the prisoners in provincial institutions were repeaters.

Said the report:

"The investment does not provide the interest, in the form of reformation, to which the public is entitled."

Critics Invited To Make Suggestions About Choosing Canadian Team

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

ONE OR TOTHER!

With Hockey Canada gradually recovering from the stunning shock of the East York Lyndhurst defeat at the hands of Russia's Moscow Dynamos for the world hockey title two facts emerge from the fog of disapointment. First, sustain the rest of the European countries and send the best amateur team possible and, secondly, drop out of the picture and let the Europeans hold their own show, play it their own way, and have all the fun themselves.

The Toronto East York Lyndhursts are not to blame. They gave their best and until they met Russia their best was good enough or so the scores indicated. At that, prior to the finals with Russia the Lyndies were strong favorites to cop the championship bauble, especially after the Russians poor showing against Sweden which went down to defeat before the Canadians by a convincing score, but held the puck-chasing samovars to a one-gil tie.

Could it be that the ice-lane tovarisches were playing possum? Could it be that from observation and the usual Red methods of getting information, that they had fathomed the Canadians' style of play and had perfected a defence for it, which the European rules of play aided and abetted no end? They had plenty of time to study, perfect and perhaps thereby, hang the tale of defeat. It is a definite fact that the Red team that whipped our side was not, by any stretch of the imagination the same team, on the ice, that is, that was held to a draw by the Svenskas, and we're not distracting our lota from the ability of the lads from the land of the smorgasbord.

To offset that, if and when Canada decides to send a team against Europe's best another year, why give them a lengthy Cook's tour of the continent, playing exhibition games and giving the scouts of the continental opposition all the chances in the world to study their methods of attack and defence, and to train their team accordingly?

At Canadian team could train over here and learn the rules and regulations which govern the world series. Send them overseas a week or two before the tournament starts without benefit of displaying their wares and ability before a far too eager audience of would-be snoopers.

Hockey has taken a firm hold in Europe. And you can bet your chances of the hereafter that none of the countries represented in the world series sends its fourth or fifth-rate team to old Canada this year. That team of Dynamos from Malenkov's hideout was the best Russia could produce. The Russ just don't send anything anywhere but what is the best in the Soviet Union. And after their convincing defeat of our side, it is clearly indicated that the Russians have made remarkable strides for a country that has been playing hockey only eight years.

The Canadians complained they were called "cry-babies and pigs" by the spectators. That should be taken with more or less salt. Not that it is untrue, but the self-same Canadians probably have been called worse names in their own backyard. Take your rollicking pig-roaring Canadian layoff or playdown game with rabid fans of both teams lining the rails, and you don't hear anything that resembles a Sunday School lesson, although some of the words may bear similarity.

However sly innuendoes from the European press and radio, not to mention between-game chatter, took some toll from the Canadian morals. They were heralded as the Goliaths of hockey and were subjected to a "cold war." It is evident the "cheering war" did not affect them very much until the game with Russia.

Remember the "rpilled milk" adage. The lesson learned is that European hockey teams no longer will be pushovers for secondary Canadian squads, and as was before mentioned Canada should send her best amateur representation or leave the series alone.

THRILLER-DILLER!

Another game like that Stirling-Bracebridge thriller in Memorial Arena last night and a lot of the village faithful will be undergoing check-ups for cardiac trouble. It was a thriller-diller from start to finish and the issue was in doubt until the village hero of today, Gerry McGee, popped in the winner with seconds to go that sent nearly 2,000 tensilis back to their respective places.

Seldom has fandom heresbouts seen two more evenly-matched teams in hockey action. The y ngsters of both sides came up with brilliant performances in a battle that was a thriller to win and a heartbreaker to lose. Both goalies were a sensation with perhaps the main kudos going to the Bracebridge netminder. Ray Hermigton played 80 minutes of sterling hockey (no pun intended) and was one of the mainstays of the Fyser squad.

The Stirling youngsters now meet the winners of the round robin between Milverton, Kincardine and Fort Dover for the OMHA provincial Juvenile "C" championship. They have been "thoroughbred" before so possibly this time they will wear the "bridle's" championship apparel. More power to 'em.

ALL EVEN!

Orillia Pontiac fans were rudely jarred last night in the Lake Couchiching town when Peterborough Petes waltzed into their hockey barn, handed their favorites a 5-3 defeat and waltzed right out again with the Senior "B" semi-finals series all even at two games each. The Petes must have played dazzling hockey to whip the Pontiacs in their own ice-lane garage for the Orillians are tough eggs to crack in their own backyard. But it can be done, and was. The fifth game of the, best-of-seven series will be played in Peterborough tomorrow night.

Williams Wins Over Kenny

TORONTO (CP) — Denny Williams, a rugged boxer from Oshawa, and Clayton Kenny of Ottawa RCAF fought to a five-round draw in one of the two main events at the weekly amateur boxing show here Monday night.

Kenny, trying for a spot on Canada's British Empire team, is a veteran of several years and easily took the best shots Williams had to offer.

In a three-round bout in the 135-pound class, Walt Kelly of Oshawa and Cliff Chapman fought to a draw.

CAHA Secretary Geo. Dudley Smarting Under Criticism, Defends Organization Action

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The much - maligned Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Monday night invited critical Canadian sports writers and others to "come up with some concrete suggestions" about choosing the country's representative in future world hockey championships. It warned "it isn't the simple problem it appears to be."

Smarting under a country-wide barrage of criticism as a result of Canada's 7-2 loss to Russia in the tournament at Stockholm, CAHA secretary-manager George Dudley of Midland presented the CAHA's case in a statement to the Canadian Press.

In effect, he said, it was "impossible" to send a team of higher ranking than the senior B Toronto East York Lyndhurst that bowed to the Russians in what has been described as a "black eye" to Canada, a "catastrophe," "a national calamity" and "a resounding slap in Canada's face."

MAY MEETING

The issue will be threshed out at the CAHA annual metting in Vancouver May 2, when sports writers, former professional players, coaches and just about anybody who ever had anything to do with hockey, pounced on the CAHA. None blamed the Toronto team for the loss and many felt that the CAHA should have "done a better job."

Many charged the CAHA with "stupidity," "bungling," "blundering" and "short - sightedness." Some suggested that Canada should pass up the championships if the CAHA can't choose a stronger team than a senior B outfit and others called for a "new deal" in the CAHA.

To all this, Dudley put it squarely in the critics' laps to solve the problem.

"In my opinion, teams in Canada which could be regarded as better than the Toronto East York club are those competing in the senior A and junior A series of the association, and these are very competitive teams to operate. It would be out of the question to remove them from competition in their various leagues even for the length of time that would be involved in flying them to Europe and back.

"This would involve a minimum loss of time of at least 15 days and it would come just at the time the senior A or junior A leagues have started their playoffs or when clubs are in their last drives for a playoff position. In my opinion it would be impossible to get one of these clubs to leave."

FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Dudley stressed in his statement that "if a team was flown to Europe and back for championships the expenses would have to be paid by the CAHA."

"While the general impression prevails that the CAHA has lots of money, that is not so.

"Our revenues are derived entirely from money received in from the Allan and Memorial Cup playoffs and other championships in these series have been insistently pressing that less money be taken from the playdowns and championships.

"I believe the CAHA could afford to pay for such a trip for one year only. If it were possible to find a city or group of such a club to go, but this would be out of the question as a permanent annual policy."

RULE OUT OLYMPICS

Dudley pointed out that senior A and junior A teams would be ineligible under amateur rules of the International Ice Hockey Federation to compete in the world championships, and added: "But when the Olympic Games take place, as they will in 1956, the very rigid old-fashioned definition of an amateur prevails which would bar this type of player from the games."

Some comment

Elmer Ferguson, Montreal Herald: "Sunday's defeat was a national calamity, a national humiliation and a mortifying experience.

Doug Vaughan, Windsor Star: "The CAHA, through its shortsightedness, has made a sucker out of this country. Handing a hockey game isn't important, but losing face in these cold-war days is; and that is just what we have done."

INTERIOR TEAMS

Dink Carroll, Montreal Gazette: "For years we have been sending inferior teams to Europe to take part in the world series. We have been lucky enough to win most of the time, but it would be reasonable to suppose that we could get away with it forever. . . . Now in Canada we may have fallen into the error of believing that we are the only country in the world that knows how to develop great hockey players."

Bat O'Meara, Montreal Star: "They (the Russians) trounced our fourth-class team in a third-rate tournament . . . They won it handily, on their merits, and so they deserve credit . . . There will be plenty of criticism for the CAHA in sending over such a side. Still, on their behalf, it might be countered that they picked the best team available for such a tourney. . . ."

Rip Riopelle Takes Over Scoring Lead

MONTREAL (CP) — Howard (Rip) Riopelle of Ottawa Senators today climbed to a top climb by taking over as the Quebec Hockey League's leading scorer.

Riopelle, a former member of Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League, scored two goals and collected three assists during the last week's play to move past Andre Corriveau of Valleyfield Braves, who has held the scoring lead since early in the season. Riopelle now has 28 goals and 54 assists for 82 points. Corriveau is two points behind with 34 goals and 46 assists.

Skippy Burchell of Montreal Royals came up with the hottest scoring spree of the week, collecting five goals and two assists, to move into third place in the standings with 78 points. He has 27 goals and 51 assists, three less than Riopelle, who heads the league in that department.

Leo Gravelle of Ottawa is the top goal-getter with 35. Bobby Bell has 33 assists for a total of 77 points, good enough for fourth place in the scoring race.

Harness Meet Opens July 5

TORONTO (CP) — Horsemen from Canada and the United States have nominated 1,000 trotters and pacers for 11 harness-racing stakes which will be contested at Woodbine Park here during the 35-day meet which opens July 5.

The $6,500 Canadian Cup for pacers has drawn 26 nominations. Argyle Grattan, owned by Duncan Campbell of Allisa Craig, and Malcolm Hanover, owned by Kenneth MacKinnon of Owen Sound, are among the former winners of the Canadian Cup which will be raced for 1954. The Canadian Cup will be run Aug. 7.

Molotov Happy Over Russ Win

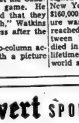
By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer



MOSCO W(CP)—Foreign Minister Molotov personally received John B. C. Watkins, Canada's ambassador to Russia, and talk of hockey lightened the conversation.

Watkins congratulated Molotov on Russia's victory over Canada that gave the Russians the world amateur hockey champion-ship at Stockholm.

"He (Molotov) seemed happy at the thought and said that the Canadians played a good game. He laughed when I replied that they didn't play good enough," Watkins told The Canadian Press after the 40-minute meeting.

Pravda carried a two-column account of the game with a picture of the Russian team.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

If would be passing strange, and what might be termed a reverse play, if a renaissance in lacrosse did not occur this year of grace by the fair sex. And yet, it is possible.

Hoys in Canada, we don't associate lacrosse, marked as it is by hard checking, with the girls. As played in these Dominions, lacrosse is no place for a lady.

But in England, it's quite different. While lacrosse is played by a male athletes in the male athletic clubs, it is also a very popular game among the girls, to the point that a team of English women players is due in the United States this year, starting this month or next, while a male American team abuilds in England.

Possibly one of the reasons for dislike of vigorous body checking in British lacrosse (and this dislike applies to hockey, too) is that it has been developed primarily as a woman's game.

St. Leonard's School, St. Andrew's Scotland and Princess Helena College, England, were the first girls' schools to take to lacrosse after Queen Victoria had many years ago watched a game between friends of French Canadians and Iroquois Indians.

The school did so because it was considered an ideal and rhythmic recreation for young ladies. "Lacrosse" it was stated, "had more natural and graceful movements, and both sides of the body are brought into play."

It's development was hampered by prejudices against the participation of women in sport, which no doubt was typical of the Victorian era, but following the collapse of most of such prejudices during the events of World War I, lacrosse for girls began to establish itself.

By 1930, there were national associations flourishing in all four countries of the United Kingdom.

And today, the game rates the third most popular of all women's team games behind netball and field hockey, with its own "international." Strange, isn't it, that the mother country should in recent years have taken with more favor to Canada's own national game, than we in Canada!

Defeat Called Catastrophe For Canadian Hockey

TORONTO (CP)—Russia's victory in the Stockholm world hockey championships was a "catastrophe for Canadian hockey," Lionel Conacher, one-time National Hockey League great, said Monday.

"We can't weep about the Russians beating us 7-2, but we can do something about it in the future," he said in an interview. "We can send to Europe exactly what we've got, and that's the best pro hockey players in the world, or we can stay right out of these championships."

Conacher, voted Canada's outstanding athlete of the half-century in a CP poll in 1950 and Liberal member of Parliament for Toronto Trinity, said the Russian triumph was more than just a hockey victory.

"Its propaganda value cannot be estimated in my opinion.

"Canadian youngsters are brought up to believe that we have the best hockey players in the world. They know only that the Russians beat us, but they don't realize they beat a fifth-rate Canadian team."

One of Babe Ruth's most publicized holdouts ended 24 years ago today when the home-run king signed a two-year contract with New York Yankees for a total of $160,000. The $80,000-a-season figure was the highest Ruth ever reached, in his playing days between 1914 and 1938. ## Toronto Maple Leafs Offer To Make Puck Tour of Russia

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League have offered to make a tour of Russia, managing director Conn Smythe said Monday in a telephone interview from Florida, where he is on holidays.

Smythe told the Toronto Telegram that the only condition is "suitable compensation which would include travelling expenses and a small remuneration for the players."

He would "very much like to see Canada regain her lost prestige in world hockey," said Smythe, who added that he would personally accompany the team which could leave right after the NHL playoffs.

A committee of Toronto citizens has started raising funds for the trip which would include a brief tour of other European countries than Russia. It was estimated the trip would cost $50,000 excluding any share of gate receipts.

Toronto's Mayor Allan Lamport said he personally would put $5,000 in the kitty to send the Leafs to Russia.

Hot Race For Playoff Berths Enter Final Stage This Week, 'Cut-Throat' Games Thursday

MONTREAL (CP)—Six tie-in ning games last week contributed only feebly toward deciding second- and fourth-place finishers in the fast-waning National Hockey League race. But this week things may be different.

Two cut-throat games, the kind coaches call four-pointers, find Toronto Maple Leafs visiting Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers playing Boston Bruins in Boston. Both games come up Thursday night.

Canadiens lead 18 settle for three ties in three outings last week, and the Leafs took over second place by a single point. The Leafs played four games, losing only one and collecting four points for a win and two ties.

The Bruins had a win and two ties and stretched their margin over Rangers to three points from one point a week ago. The New Yorkers lost ground by failing to post a win and getting two ties in three starts.

Meanwhile, the league-leading Detroit Red Wings almost mathematically home free, kept their nine-point margin intact by winning once and tying twice. They have seven more games to go; the Leafs and Canadiens have nine. The Bruins with six to go, have a game in hand over Rangers.

Sport in Brief

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Members of the Soviet team which defended Canada's title in world hockey championship, received a state bonus of 5,000 rubles ($1,250) each, the Literaturi Sviedish evening paper Aftonbladet reported Monday.

The paper said it had received this information from "one of the Leafs' team's most skilful players."

"He said," Aftonbladet added, "that he was very well off at home, thanks to sport. He had a salary of 3,000 rubles ($750) a month from the army. With his extra income from sport he had bought a car for 18,000 rubles ($4,500).

"Soviet players," Aftonbladet continued, "also received their full monthly salaries from the state when they are on sports errands. And all the Soviet team, published in Aftonbladet and other Swedish papers showed that eight of its 15 members were in the armed forces.

The Socialist Morgon-Tidningen said:

"Russia with her infinite resources may return to baseball sooner than everybody."

Surgeons will open the Boston Bruins' injured Jack Gordon's leg today and wire together his broken collarbone.

The doctors estimate his return to playing status "in the vicinity of two weeks."

Williams suffered the injury last Saturday, 180 minutes after hurling on to the Sox training field at Sarasota, Fla. He tumbled while reaching for a low-hit ball and landed on his shoulder.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Ralph Kiner, the New York Yankees' top salaried pitcher at about $42,000, probably will be strictly a bullpen artist this season.

It all depends on a couple of big "ifs."

1. If youngsters like Bob Wiesler, Steve Ridzik and Wally Burnette make the grade.

2. If Allie's sore back doesn't act up.

The 36-year-old right-hander is taking it easy in spring practice, slowly working himself into condition. He won't start hearing down for a long time.

Start or relieve, Allie doesn't really like to. He'd like be Windward Islands scored 194 runs in reply to the Englishmen's first innings total of 205 for seven declared. With a definite result out of the question, the Britons batted at lighheartedly in their second innings and had made 177 for three by the close.

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweights Nino Valdes of Cuba and James J. Parker of Barrie, who meet in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Wednesday, were examined Monday at the New York athletic commission office. Each weighed 212 pounds.

Joey Clarke of Brantford, 44, was awarded a unanimous decision over Kenny Hohner of London, Ont., 151, in a four-round preliminary.

'Flying Saucers' Tossed at Leafs

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs, returning home after Sunday night's 4-0 National Hockey League victory over the Rangers in New York, complained of being the targets of two metal objects thrown from the gallery in Madison Square Garden.

Leafs said packages-sized pieces of heavy metal, weighing about three-quarters of a pound each, narrowly missed two Leaf players. One piece travelled about 60 feet down from the gallery of the Garden.

In Montreal, league president Clarence Campbell said he had heard nothing of the metal-throwing incidents. He said the protection of players against such incidents is the responsibility of the home team.

Bracebridge Edges Stirling In Juvenile Overtime Battle But Loses Round by 8-7 Score

By GEORGE H. CARVER,
Sports Editor.

Young Gerry McGee's blazing shot that twenty feet out in the second overtime period here last night, broke up the best minor hockey battle seen in Memorial Arena in years, and ushered the Stirling juveniles into the Ontario Minor Hockey Association juvenile "C" finals.

A near-heartbroken Bracebridge goalie leaned over the nets and his cheeks as he slowly picked the rubber out of the net. The clock read 8.10. There was a minute and 30 seconds left to play.

The gallant youngsters from the Muskoka district however, had one consolation. They had won the game 8-4 but lost the round 8-7 since they were defeated at home by a 4-2 count last Friday.

Stirling now meets the winner of the Silverton-Dundalk-Markdale Dover series for the OMHA juvenile "C" championship.

With the seconds ticking away they, the Muskoka champs, replaced back to the attack in a last-minute desperation effort to smash through the Stirling defence threw everything they had offensively at the Stirling goal. They pulled their goalie and the hard-pressed Stirling youngsters iced the puck from centre to ward off the goalward forays.

WAS "IRON-MAN"

Then, Ken Johnston, "iron-man" of the winners who played 90 minutes of hockey, dipsey-doodled the puck out of Stirling territory and the end of hostilities was declared. Only the loyal and faithful nearly raised the roof with their cheers.

It was a thriller-diller from the opening whistle to the final gong. Three times the game was knotted before McGee cracked the winner.

There was no score in the first period as both teams unleashed fast, hard-hitting hockey and both goalies standing out with stellar performances. Bracebridge passing plays started clicking in the second period and they outscored Stirling 3-1 to tie the round at 3-3.

Then Stirling had a brace of goals in a furious third period and again the round-count was tied at 5-5.

Bracebridge took the round lead for the first time in the game three minutes after the first overtime period started, but the astute Stirling hockey sextet forced back to the attack and a minute later the count was knotted for the third time.

The fast tempo was maintained as the squads swept into the second overtime session, and again the round count was tied at 7-7 but bordered on the sensational. Play raced from end to end and at the end of the period was in sight when Gerry McGee became the hero of the game when he shattered a shot from near the red circle outside the Bracebridge goal that glanced off the goalies' pads into the net.

The defensive play of both teams was one of the games features. Both Bracebridge and Stirling front lines checked hard aiding both ways with the defence stalwarts standing out with solid but legal body checks.

Only eight penalties were handed out by Referees Mullholland of Hastings and Timmy Williams of Bellevile, with three going to Stirling. All were minor seniences.

Sanders opened the scoring early in the second period when he took Davis' pass to beat the Stirling goalie, Knapton, on a backhander. Scott with Scott and Parks evened the count three minutes later, but Johnny Ellis, one of the Bracebridge stars scored twice before the period end to give the visitors a 3-1 lead.

Jim Ellis took brother John's pass to make the score 4-1 early in the third but Milton McGee got that one back to tie the round score with seven minutes left to play.

John Ellis got his third goal of the game on the first counter-attack but a minute later McMurray and Hadley's pass to again tie the count.

Then the second overtime period and Gerry McGee's "million-dollar" counter, and the hard-fighting gallant Stirling juvenile gers passed into hockey obscurity for the season.

The Ellis brothers stood out for the losers with John scoring three times and Jim once. Saunders got the other. Ray Hermiston was the lone scorer of Stirling on the Stirling back division. The McGee brothers, Milton and Gerry, with Knapton and McMurray getting the others. The entire Stirling team played heads-up champion-ship hockey to defeat a team that was a late shade, if that, below them in calibre.

Maroons Score Upset Win Over Mercs To Cut Senior Series Lead to 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers, who spoiled Chatham Maroons' bid to lead their best-of-seven Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group semi-finals, are starting to fight back. But it may be too late.

The Trappers, who have won the last two games, will now journey the series to 3-2, have to play the final game on Saturday (or, if the sixth game is Wednesday and the seventh, if necessary, will be Thursday).

Trappers won their second game of the series Monday night on a North Bay when Ches Kooczeny tallied in the last minute of the games to give them a 3-2 decision. The goal was scored on a two-man break with Mike Bialkowski and Kauppi scored two for Sudbury, Red Barrett getting the other.

MAROONS STILL ALIVE

Chatham Maroons, who also gave Owen Sound Mercurys a 3-0 jump in the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association senior A semi-finals, won their first game of the series in Chatham Monday night.

The Maroons rolled to a surprising 4-1 victory over Owen Sound. But they will have to win in Owen Sound Thursday to prolong the set.

Ed Didone led the Chatham marksmen with two goals. Singles went to Gord Byers, Ernie, Dick, Paul Oliver, Don Savage, Jim Connelly and Joe Carveth. Roy Leckie scored two for Owen Sound's total and Bill McDonald one goal.

The other OHA Senior semi-final starts tonight when Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen travel to Stratford for their first game of the best-of-five set against the Indians. The Dutchmen eliminated Hamilton Tigers in the quarter-finals while the Indians disposed of Windsor Bulldogs.

Winner of the Stratford-Kitchener series will meet either Owen Sound or Chatham in the league finals.

Red Sullivan Assured of Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP)—George Sullivan of Hershey Bears is virtually assured of capturing the American Hockey League's scoring title as he closed in on one of the circuit's all-time records in games through Sunday.

The hustling centre has compiled 104 points on 38 goals and 76 assists, and holds a comfortable lead over Jackie Gordon of Cleveland and Don Marshall of Buffalo, both of whom have 86 points.

With two more weeks of the campaign still to go, Sullivan has a chance to break the AHL mark of 118 points set by Carl Liscombe of Providence in 1943. He already has established a new standard for assists this season.

Buffalo's Jacques Plante, recalled by the parent Montreal Canadiens, still is the top goaltender with an average of 2.69 goals-against a game.

Sportsmen's Show Opens in Toronto On Friday

By SAM GORDON
The Khibitzer

TORONTO (CP)—A sportsman's extravaganza hits Toronto Friday for an eight-day run.

It's the seventh renewal of the Sportsmen's Show, sponsored by the 2,500-member Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association. This year it includes everything from boats to boxing, from log-rolling to alligator wrestling.

When the show first opened in 1946 it was primarily a display of latest equipment for camping, canoeing and fishing. But it has grown each year and last year some $73,000 was realized from more than 200,000 persons who attended the show on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

HELPS CONSERVATION

Money taken in is used by the association for conservation work in forest and stream and other fields.

Innovations this year include what the sponsors describe as one of the largest exhibitions of British and foreign-made motor cars and motorcycles ever shown outside Britain.

Other new features include a pet dog show where brains, not pedigrees, will count, and a cribbage tournament billed as for the Canadian championship.

The show covers 80,000 square feet of floor space, and includes exhibits ranging from 12-foot dinghies to an 80-foot cruiser.

There will be golf, boxing, fencing, archery, water-skiing, casting and square-dancing exhibitions, a bowling tournament, and a stage and water revue. The revues feature alligator wrestlers, divers, log rollers, badminton experts, jugglers and acrobats.

Racing fans will see John R. Cobb's car in which the British ace established a world's land speed record of 394.10 miles an hour in 1947.

An international all-breed dog show will feature some 1,000 dogs from the United States and Canada. Proceeds from this show will be used to set up a fund for the purchase of seeing-eye dogs for Canada's blind—believed the first fund of its type in Canada.

HOLLYWOOD (CP)—Jack Benny's reputation as a tight-wad gets a jolt tonight when he foots the bill for a lavish wedding of his daughter Joan to Seth Baker of New York.

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin is scheduled to marry the young pair in private ceremonies at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Present will be the parents of the couple—the Bennys and New York industrialist Harry Baker and his wife, plus a few intimate friends of the family. These include Barbara Stanwyck, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Bob Hope, Mr. and Mrs. William Goetz and Claudette Colbert.

After the ceremony, the hotel's Crystal Room will be packed with about 500 well-wishers, including more of Hollywood's top stars.

"Outside of having an elopement, there were only two ways we could have done it," sighed Benny. "We could have had a very small wedding and invited only the family and a handful of friends. Or we could have a big affair and invite everyone. Because too many people would have been slighted, we decided to have a big wedding."

REPUTATION JEOPARDIZED

I remarked that this might ruin his reputation as a money-pincher, built up for years on radio and TV.

"Reputation nothing!" he protested. "This might ruin me!"

He estimated that the entire affair may run up a bill in excess of $25,000. This might seem high to all those except fathers who have had to finance a wedding lately.

"Oh, well, I have only one daughter," said Benny bravely. "I don't care what it costs, just so the kids have a happy marriage."

CONTRAST TO PAPA

He added that Joan's wedding is a contrast to when he married Mary Livingstone.

"We did it in Waukegan at the home of a friend," he recalled. "There were six or seven people there, and the minister of the wedding was nil. We didn't even have time to have a reception. We were married in the afternoon, and I had to grab the train to Chicago, because I was appearing in a show that night."

Joan, 18, is an adopted daughter and was a junior at Stanford when she decided to get married. She dropped out of the wedding show and was on his TV program last month.

"How to Marry a Millionaire" Rollicking CinemaScope Hit

Last night at the Bells Theatre the audience was treated to a new and enriching experience in motion picture entertainment. It was the premiere of "How to Marry a Millionaire", Twentieth Century-Fox's hilarious comedy romance, produced in the new CinemaScope form, and what a delightful evening it was. Our vantage being invited into a lush penthouse apartment on Sutton Place in New York's east side Marilyn Monroe, Betty Grable and Lauren Bacall, and you'll have some idea of the magic Cinema-Scope gives to a film.

To say that these three Hollywood beauties were more luscious in their new panoramic atmosphere than they have ever been on the screen before would be an understatement of the year. They were gorgeous and they acted their roles of three fashion models out to snare millionaire husbands with a relish that bespoke the enthusiasm they felt in their new environment. From the moment they pool their meagre resources to put on the dog in a swank rented apartment and are forced to sell most of the furnishings in order to eat, until they all wind up at a hamburger stand, husbands in tow, the picture crackles with amusement. Nunnally Johnson's screen play sparkles with wise dialogue which makes the comic situations all the more hilarious.

Among the many wonderful scenes in the picture, two deserve special mention for their hilarious sequence, filmed in Sun Valley and Maine, and the opulent fashion show, forced out as they are by the CinemaScope process both are breath-taking in their beauty. Women will love the lavish display of mink, silks and jewelry worn by the lovely models, and men will get a particular thrill from the vast expanse of the show and musical shown in Technicolor beauty on the Panoramic screen.

The players in this revolutionary production seem to sense the epoch-making possibilities of CinemaScope and they rise to the occasion with scintillating performances. Betty Grable delineates the gold-digger to perfection, and Miss Grable is a comedienne of the first water time with j a performance that scores from the outset while Lee J. Cobb's role as the wily-talking model who believes it is just as easy to nail in love with a rich man as a poor one, is handled with finesse. While the distaff side are the stars, Cobb and his other pretty shoulders the men come in for their share of accolades that must be passed around. David Wayne has the funniest role of his career and William Powell is as debonair as usual. Rory Calhoun and Cameron Mitchell round out the star roster and give outstanding performances.

A special added attraction on the same program is Coronation Parade—in its CinemaScope form by Technicolor. It is a thrilling and new and different. You are actually there surrounded by the pageantry and splendor of this great event. Coronation Parade, condensed into 20 minutes, starts with its highlights of the historic event.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, get involved with ghosts, and zombies in their new hit, "Scared Stiff" now at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday. On the same program for its first city showing "Flight to Tangier" starring Joan Fontaine and Zero Mostel. See them both on our new wide vision screen.

AT THE McCARTHY—Paulette Goddard is cast as a "Jezebel" character in a Sultan's harem in "Babes in Bagdad", now playing at the Queen McCarthy Theatre. Mickey Spillane's thriller, "The Jury" is the 2nd feature.

AT THE CAPITOL—Jack Palance and Joan Fontaine make up an appealing romantic team in Paramount's brand new technicolor action drama "Flight to Tangier" which opens at the Capitol Theatre for its first showing today. Co-starred in the Nat Holt film are Corinne Calvet and Robert Douglas. On the same program Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in "Scared Stiff". See them both on our new giant wide vision screen.

Diefenbaker Opposes Trade With Communists

TORONTO (CP) — John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, said Monday night he hopes Canada will not trade in any way with Russia. He also said Canada must not recognize Communist China nor support her entry into the United Nations.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities, Mr. Diefenbaker said efforts to expand trade should be viewed with suspicion.

"The state is in absolute control there and while materials they might send from us would not appear strategic, we can be sure they would be grasped by Russia as necessary to her foreign and domestic program."

Earlier the convention heard Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar discuss the new per capita provincial per cap grants under which Ontario municipalities this year will receive $11,306,151 from the province. He moved to talk to ranged from municipal income tax levies to the responsibility in cases of cross boundary use of municipal roads.

Mr. Dunbar said the new grants replace the former fire, police and guaranteed one-mill grants the province had paid since 1940. He said the amount to be paid under the plan compares with $5,229,228 paid last year under the old system.

The minister said that actually ownership made the greatest gain under the new arrangement. Their total grants increased by 265 per cent and to her world share a total of $4,632,258 in 1954.

SCIENTIST DIES

KIEL, Germany (AP)—Dr. Otto Diels, 78, who shared the 1950 Nobel Prize for chemistry with a former pupil, died in a Kiel clinic Sunday. Dr. Diels won the Nobel prize four years ago with Kurt Adler for their outstanding work in the field of organic chemistry.

Butter Stockpile Held by Govt. Biggest Ever

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will enter the new butter production year next May with the biggest unsold butter stockpile in price-support history.

The surplus at the end of the current butter year April 30 may range between 20,000,000 and 35,000,000 pounds, biggest since the government's price-support program started in 1948, federal authorities estimate.

The previous high was 20,000,000 pounds in 1949. Last year it was 19,000,000. During 1953 Canada's creamery butter production set a record at 303,000,000 pounds, second only to the all-time high of 312,000,000 in 1946.

And while federal experts are pondering the problems of the anticipated 1954 surplus, indications are that production in 1954 may be even above the 1953 level, according to the government's dirposal problems.

Dairy industry spokesmen estimated butter stocks May 1 included that held by governments, the trade—will be about 46,000,000 pounds. Production in 1954 is expected to soar to a new high of 322,000,000.

This, they anticipate, will make 370,000,000 pounds available for Canadian consumers. But actually the market will take only 278,600,000, pushing the unsold surplus May 1 next to a new high of 91,400,000 pounds.

PLAN HOUSING PROJECT

TORONTO (CP)—Plans for a $13,000,000 apartment project in midtown Toronto, just north of Maple Leaf Gardens, were announced Monday. Norman Hill, a real estate agent acting for its Shields Construction Company says the project depends on the city expropriating the land. The plan calls for 10 16-storey apartments. It is the third such project proposed for the same area.

Candidates File Election Papers

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Liberal and Progressive Conservative candidates Monday filed official nomination papers for the federal by-election to be held in Elgin riding March 22.

Rev. Harry Scott Rodney, minister of Knox Presbyterian church here, is the Liberal candidate and James Alexander McBain, a farmer in Yarmouth and Southwold townships, Progressive Conservative.

The by-election was made necessary by the death of Charles D. Coyle, Progressive Conservative member for Elgin since 1945.

DIPLOMAT DIES

HELSINKI (AP)—Hjalmar Procope, 65, former foreign minister and Finland's envoy in Washington from 1939 to 1944 during the critical period of the two Finnish-Soviet wars, died Monday.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAR. 10, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — No inauspicious aspects now and, with Jupiter and Uranus in favorable positions, much good can be done through intelligent management. Be watchful; invest investments, improvements sponsored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You may achieve gains or benefits in unusual matters. Some monetary returns can be built up from wise investments, business managed astutely. Have faith, keep trying.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Propositions and tasks require keen judgment, smart handling will need your best efforts but day on the whole is good. Unique advertising, promotional ideas can be adroitly used. Forethought!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Promising thought not exciting influences. You are often ingenious, are naturally creative, can give new, valuable twists to antiquated methods, equipment. Display your talents at their best.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Day may seem unimportant, but no day is uneventful! It depends mostly on you, your schedule and how you manage it. Keep emotionally calm and you will find fair advantages.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Gemini advice pertinent now. Display your usually calm disposition but remain inwardly calm too. Don't permit little disturbances to aggravate. Walks being cautious, recognize opportunities, too.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—A few restrictions are in order. Don't give way to ill temper, fretfulness, etc. You'll need your ingenuity to find ways to get around them. Don't be discouraged.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No delaying now, but do not overstrain or worry about doing things in a hurry either. The present period is opportune for useful trades and professions, for improving domestic interests. Some surprise likely.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—This period can, should be a fine one for you, with your Jupiter in excellent position. But don't be careless about details or about confidential matters. Keep steadily progressive.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—All matters should be carefully handled—neither too slowly nor too speedily. So often we ourselves are to blame if our efforts don't produce fullest co-operation and benefits.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus favorably situated now, plus good rays from Jupiter, makes this a promising day for building in many ways. Start day with a prayer so that you may have blessings in all that you do.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Mild influences now but strong and on the whole beneficial ones are on the way. Don't rush, but patiently plan now so that tomorrow's schedule can get a good start and continues to progress.

YOU BORN TODAY are intuitive, highly imaginative, kindly industrious. You may have to correct a tendency toward indecision, being too reticent about displaying your fine talents and ability. Speak up! Don't fear ridicule; you have more true friends than you realize, and your ideas will be welcome. Keep that amiable, honest disposition always to the fore and, when troubled, confused, ask God's help and help from fr[illegible]. Cultivate self-confidence. Birthdate of: Dudley Buck, noted music composer.

8 Persons Hurt As Buffalo Fire Rages 7 Hours

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A ruined 10-storey warehouse continued to smolder early today after a fire that as nearly 200 firemen guarded against fresh outbreaks of a general-alarm fire that raged out of control for seven hours Monday and caused injury to at least eight persons.

There was no immediate official estimate of damages to the Bison Waste and Wiper Co. building, but unofficial estimates by firemen put the loss as high as $750,000.

Tremendous clouds of black smoke swept across the city for hours.

Every available fireman, including those off duty and on vacation, was summoned as the fire threatened to engulf adjoining warehouses. In all, 400 firemen, assisted by civil defence volunteers, fought the stubborn blaze.

TWO QUARRELS

In mid-evening fire commissioner Charles Halloran said the fire had been deliberately concocted. At least 3,000 citizens jammed the area to watch, and thousands more saw it on their television screens after WBEN-TV televised it from atop a nine-storey building across the warehouse.

Halloran said the blaze apparently started when a spark from a welder's torch ignited some tar paper on the third floor.

Three firemen and four workmen in the building suffered from smoke inhalation. Fireman Glenn Ralph, 42, suffered a severe head injury.

About a dozen firemen and the four workmen narrowly escaped on the third floor by an explosion, made their way to safety down some aerial ladders.

McCarthy Wants Chance to Reply To Stevenson

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower, it now is known, picked Vice - President Richard Nixon for the Republican reply to Democrat Adlai Stevenson's of the ruling party is using "slander, discussion and deception" to try to win the 1954 and 1956 congressional elections.

But Senator Joseph McCarthy, while terming Nixon an "excellent choice" to speak for his party, made it clear Monday night that he still expects the big network time to give him an equal TV time to reply to what he called a "vicious attack" on his personality by Stevenson, the Democrats' 1952 presidential candidate.

"I am doing this by no one the authority to defend me," McCarthy told reporters. "I am sure that if he had learned that NBC and CBS had rejected his demand for equal air time to reply to Stevenson, he would have given me equal time."

McCarthy made his remarks Saturday night.

MAY COMPLAIN TO FCC

The Wisconsin Republican senator hinted strongly that he might take the matter to the Federal Communications Commission, of which his friend, Robert E. Lee, recently became a member. The FCC licenses and regulates radio and television stations.

"The FCC rules," McCarthy asserted, "provide that I must be given time to answer these charges . . . I intend to do everything I can to make the television companies live up to their obligations."

Commission source s e e s Monday night said FCC basic law requires that candidates for public office be given "equal opportunities" on the air. But this would not seem to cover the present situation, since no one involved is an active candidate.

However, these sources also said the commission has tried to see to it that broadcasters treat all controversial issues fairly.

BARGAIN PRICE

HUCKHALL, Eng. (CP) — Fifty cartons of 40-year-old cigarets were sold at a hotel in this Nottinghamshire town at five cigarets for a penny, their original price. Current price is about five for eighty-cents. The smokes were found behind panelling during repairs.

PAINTING STOLEN

TORONTO (CP) — Someone has stolen a painting known as "Waiting His Horse." It carries a price tag of $650 and its owner, Leslie Lewis, has offered a reward.

Lewis, an importer of paintings, said there has been a rash of epidemic of picture thefts from galleries and auctioneering rooms during the last year.

Naguib Has Been Given Back All Old Jobs

CAIRO (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib has all his old jobs back in Egypt's military government, and the man who deposed him 24 days ago, Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, has stepped back to the vice-premiership.

Guidance Ministry announced Monday night announced Naguib's reinstatement as premier and chairman of the ruling revolutionary council. Naguib already had taken back the presidency after having been ousted from all three posts and placed under house arrest some Feb. 25 on charges that he sought to become a "dictator."

Salaam said the incidents of Naguib's ouster were erased, at a joint meeting of the revolutionary council and the civilian cabinet as though they had been nothing more than "a passing cloud."

END QUARRELS

Nasser, who had been president during the three days of Naguib's eclipse, and premier and council chairman since April 18, in an interview today that the full restoration of Naguib was made to end all quarrels before resumption of negotiations for withdrawal of British troops from the Suez Canal zone.

Salem said the regime still holds to its pledge to "establish a state in a constituent assembly—an interim parliament—by July 23, and to abolish martial law and lessen press censorship. It was Salem who had announced Naguib's resignation and accused the popular army leader of seeking absolute powers.

Second Moderator Of United Church Dies at Age 88

He served as moderator from 1926 to 1928. During those years he combined the moderator's duties with those of secretary of the church's board of foreign missions, a position he held from the time the church union in 1925 until his retirement in 1936.

TOOK MISSIONARY WORK

Upon graduation, he offered himself for missionary work in West China, where a Methodist mission had been established. He worked in the mission field from 1892 to 1910. He married Georgina Gosse on the Lucan, who predeceased him in 1925.

May Have to Maintain Strong Army 50 Years

TORONTO (CP)—LL-Gen. G. G. Simonds said Monday night strong military forces may have to be maintained for 50 years to prevent another global war is to be avoided.

The chief of the general staff of the Canadian Army, attributing success of international relations in the past months to the build-up of Allied strength after Korea, said "This is not the time to weaken our strength."

WHEEL SMASHES GLASS

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A 100-pound wheel and tire broke from a truck bounded 75 feet across a busy intersection, smashed through a pedestrian to the sidewalk, and then smashed a plate-glass door in a candy store. ## Sales Tax Boost In B.C. to Finance Health Program

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia plans to increase its sales tax to five per cent from three per cent to provide to abolish premiums in its compulsory hospital insurance program.

The premiums amounted to $38 a year for married persons and $27 for singles.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced the proposed change Monday when he brought down the budget in the house at Victoria.

He said the government also proposes reduction of the 17½-per-cent amusement tax, to 15 per cent, reduction of the fee for automobiles being licensed for the first time in British Columbia from $10 to $1, abolition of a 10-per-cent tax on theatre tickets, a 25-per-cent from the sales tax of children's clothing and shoes, and a 50-per-cent cut in the province's cost-of-living bonus to old-age and blind pensioners and to recipients of social assistance and mothers' allowances.

NATIONALIZATION

Russell Cunningham (CCF—Cape Breton East) said in throne speech debate in the Nova Scotia legislature that the national importance of his province's coal industry to any future emergency justifies immediate government help.

"Failing this, the only hope would be the nationalization of the industry as a public utility, divorced from going out of existence."

Premier A. W. Matheson of Prince Edward Island told the legislature he hopes a proposed Maritime Provinces development council will help cure seasonal unemployment in his province.

Expenditure in $1,000,000 increase in provincial grants to schools were announced in the Saskatchewan legislature. All elementary schools will receive a 10-per-cent grant, increase of 50 cents a classroom, raising the grant to $2.50.

An Alberta school teachers' association official told the Alberta legislature the province had used the teacher shortage to get higher salaries.

Royalty Takes Seat on Stage

LONDON (Reuters) — Royalty took a seat on Billy Graham's platform Sunday for the first time in the young evangelist's preaching career.

Princess Ki King of Buganda, exiled from his African protectorate by the British, bought a ticket for the "greater London crusade" meeting at the huge Harringay arena in north London. He was recognized by Graham's assistants and invited to sit on the platform.

A capacity crowd of about 12,000 persons flocked to the arena for Graham's seventh meeting. All church collections taken, doors had to be locked, and 1,000 persons were turned away.

A total of 92,500 persons so far has attended the seven meetings in London. Every night Billy remembers of the audience answered Graham's call to "come forward and make a "confession of faith," bringing the total number of converts to 1,943.

Forestry Association Plans National Parley

Senate's Power To Reject Bills Said Weakness

KITCHENER (CP) — Senator W. D. Euler said Monday the Senate's power to reject any bill that comes from it from the Commons is a weakness in Canada's parliamentary system.

Senator Euler, a Liberal, said in an address to the Kitchener-Waterloo Rotary Club that to that extent the Senate would allow for a more representative body than the present system of appointing senators.

The Senator added that in his 16 years in the Senate he has never seen a division on strictly party lines. He had heard suggestions that Liberal senators are in the red chamber principally to support the government, but if that were the case he himself would favor abolishing the Senate. It was his view that persons appointed under the present system should leave all partisan feeling behind them.

Will Be Pared

KITCHENER (CP) — Preliminary budget estimates of Kitchener city council—if approved—would raise the tax rate by 6.11 mills over last year's 73 mills, council was told today.

However, it is expected that when the estimates are dealt with Thursday there will be considerable paring.

BIG PROJECT

OSLO (CP)—About 1,000,000 Norwegians so far have been vaccinated with SCI serum as a preventive measure against tuberculosis. A government specialist said it was a conservative estimate that many of those immunized would otherwise have contracted TB.

Due Consideration Will Be Given Canada as Supplier

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—John H. Davis, assistant United States secretary of agriculture, says his department will call for more restrictions whenever farm imports interfere with the U.S. price support program.

Mr. Davis, in an exchange of correspondence with a Canadian Press reporter, added however that in setting import quotas the U.S. government will give "due consideration" to Canada's historic position as a supplier.

The U.S. has already imposed import restrictions on dairy products and oats and now is considering a curb on rye. Canada has protested, though it has volunteered to reduce shipments of oats to the U.S. until next October.

NO AUTOMATIC CHANGE

Mr. Davis gave no indication there will be any automatic renewal of the oats restrictions next October, but said the American position must be determined in the light of available supplies and prices when the current agreement ends.

"Our position next October will of course, have to be determined on the basis of the supply and price position which exists at that time, and in the light of then effective legislation," he said.

Under the oats deal, Canada agreed to restrict exports to 23,000,000 bushels in the 10-month period ending next October. This compares with 60,000,000 bushels exported in the crop year Aug. 1, 1952-July 31, 1953.

Canadian officials have stated they will fight any move by the U.S. to extend the restrictions.

Mr. Davis, in his letter from Washington, predicted that Canada and the U.S. will have troublesome farm surpluses for some years. He estimated also that bitter competition will develop between the two countries for overseas food markets. With the two countries supporting the idea of orderly marketing, he added, this competition can and should be held within reasonable limits.

REPLIES TO QUESTIONS

The questions asked and Mr. Davis' answers:

Q. Is it possible that the U.S. government will press for continuation of restrictions on imports of Canadian oats when the current agreement expires next October? Will these restrictions apply on any other products?

A. The department's recommendations with respect to the restrictions on imports of oats into the U.S. were made in accordance with provisions of Sec. 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, designed to prevent such imports from "materially interfering, or threatening to interfere" with our domestic price support programs.

Under supply and price conditions which have existed during the current season, we had little choice except to recommend the invoking of such provisions in this legislation. Our position next October will, of course, have to be determined on the basis of the supply and price position which exists at that time, and in the light of then effective legislation.

A similar position would apply to commodities other than oats. On Jan. 12, the department recommended to the U.S. tariff commission that an order-quota be placed on imports of rye. As in the case of oats, this action was also taken under Sec. 22.

FUTURE ACTIONS

Similar actions may be expected wherever imports of a particular agricultural commodity materially interfere with our domestic price support program. In all these actions, however, due consideration has been and will be given, in the establishment of quotas, to Canada's history as a source of supply.

Q. What are the possibilities of removing the U.S. curbs on imports of dairy products?

A. Possibilities are remote as long as such imports materially interfere with our domestic price support program.

Q. How does the U.S. administration feel about the International Wheat Agreement? Is it likely the U.S. will support renewal when the current pact expires?

A. In company with Canada, the U.S. has been for several years a strong supporter of the IWA. . . I believe the present agreement is less effective since the withdrawal of the United Kingdom. I would also support, however, as wide a coverage of the world wheat trade as possible in the present agreement to make it more effective. As to the future, I would support the broad principles and objectives of the International Wheat Agreement idea. No comment is offered on the likelihood of U.S. support of renewal when the current pact expires. If I may use the vernacular, 1957 "is a long ways off."

Q. Is it possible that as American price support programs are reduced, agricultural import doors may be widened? Is the nature of prices paid to American producers under price support a factor in reducing imports?

A. Regardless of the level of our domestic price support programs, it is doubtful if the principle of not permitting imports to materially interfere with such programs would be abandoned. I would say that the nature of support prices paid to domestic producers is definitely a factor in controlling imports. Domestic price supports need not necessarily be reduced, however.

Q. Is the North American surplus position on grains and other items a long-term problem? Is it likely to become more serious?

A. Forecasts are hazardous. It seems to me, though, that we do have a long-term problem. Whether it becomes more serious, however, will depend to a large degree on the success we have in finding markets (or solving current trade problems) for an increasingly efficient output of agricultural commodities. I am optimistic of the future because of the increasing awareness of the need for more effective world distribution of available supplies of food.

Q. Do you recall suggesting (in a recent radio broadcast) that Canada is considering resuming private trading in wheat?

A. No. I am, of course, aware that the pros and cons of this question are continuously being discussed in certain parts of Canada. I also understand that there is strong support among Canadian producers for the present system of marketing wheat through the wheat board.

Q. Do you believe there will be increasing competition between Canada and the U.S. for the overseas feed markets?

A. Yes. It is only natural that, with abundant supplies of certain agricultural commodities available for export from both countries, there should be increasing competition between Canada and the U.S. for available foreign markets for food. I also believe that with both countries supporting the idea of orderly marketing, the competition can and should be held within reasonable limits.

French Impose Emergency Rules in Haiphong Area

HAIPHONG, Indo-China (AP)—French military authorities Monday enforced a state of emergency in this vital seaport following a Vietminh commando raid on a nearby landing field where American air technicians service United States-supplied transport planes for the war against the Communist-led rebels.

Reports circulated that the Vietminh have declared they plan to attack every area where American personnel work. The Vietminh radio recently accused the U. S. of intervening in the Indo-Chinese war.

The French announced the seizure of 74 men suspected of aiding the Vietminh in the raid. The military said five raiders were killed, "several" taken prisoner and three explosive charges seized.

"Several planes" had been destroyed but these were light aircraft parked along the rim of the airport.

Two Children Burned to Death At Parry Sound

Mother Severely Injured Trying to Rescue Victims

170 Are Injured

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Explosions and fire ripped through naturalgas tanks at Taichung today injuring 170 persons, at least 10 critically.

The tanks were touched off by flames from a truck which caught fire while parked in the city of Formosan city.

The first explosion destroyed the town's bus terminal building.

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Two children were burned to death today and their 23-year-old mother severely injured when fire destroyed their one - storey frame house here. An oil stove was believed to have exploded.

Nancy, 2, and Kenneth, 1, the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Greer, died in the blaze.

Mrs. Greer, who was burned attempting to rescue her children, is in critical condition in hospital. Doctors said she suffered "excessive burns."

Mr. Greer, a brakeman with Canadian National Railways, was away at the time.

Chris Kallo, a neighbor, pulled Mrs. Greer from the burning building. Her hair and clothing were on fire. He had to restrain her from re-entering the burning cottage.

Redistribution Introduced In Legislature

TORONTO (CP)—Redistribution of seats, new highway regulations and a new provincial parks policy were contained in three important pieces of legislation introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

In presenting a bill calling for a study of redistribution of seats in the 90-seat legislature, Premier Frost suggested it be a select committee to examine the question and report back to him in time for the next two or three weeks.

Highways Minister Doucett introduced several amendments to the Highway Traffic Act calling for motorists to signal right turns and stops, rear bumpers on high-bodied trucks, rotary penalties for hit-and-run drivers and establishment of a minimum of $100 damage for obligatory accident reports.

Development of smaller parks near urban centres and the classification of provincial parks into four categories was proposed in a new Parks Act introduced by Hon. G. C. Challies, minister without portfolio.

BUDGET THURSDAY

The government intends to introduce a new financial administration act today and an end to the throne speech debate is anticipated. Mr. Frost said Monday he intends to bring down the 1954-55 budget Thursday.

Redistribution of seats would be the first since 1933 when the number was cut from 112 to 90.

In reply to a question by opposition leader Hollis Oliver, Mr. Frost said in his opinion the cutting up of historic districts would be a mistake."

Speculation at Queen's Park is that at least eight new ridings may be established at Ottawa, Hamilton, Sudbury, Windsor, Niagara and Oakville areas and two in Toronto.

In proposing the development of smaller parks, Mr. Challies said this type was "most desirable." They would be within easy reach of urban centres and would provide "a quiet and convenient place for people to go for a picnic for a lunch or a rest or where a family from the nearby city may enjoy a night or afternoon away from crowds and traffic."

LOCAL CHARACTER

Another effect would be park areas sponsored by counties or municipalities, "more local in character."

The class I type of park would include such parklands as Algonquin, Lake Superior, Quetico and Timagami. The class II would include the large recreational areas such as Rondeau and Presqu'ile within easy reach of urban centres.

Continuing the throne speech debate, Mr. Mickle (PC—Kingston) urged the immediate calling of the public accounts committee to study alleged irregularities in the highways department.

Peter Dooley (L — Stormont) charged the government played "party politics" at the expense of the cheese producers" last year when the price of cheese dropped by a record low.

J. N. Allan (PC—Eglinton and Forest Hill) urged a greater campaign for public safety on Ontario highways.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The weather pattern is speeding through Ontario Thursday giving wet snow and some rain near the lower lakes and snow over central regions is now moving toward the Maritimes and is expected to develop into a major storm off Newfoundland Thursday. As a result of this development northerly winds will keep cool air and westerly gales over the province Thursday.

Queen Mother And Princess Eat at Garden

LONDON (AP) — The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret had a picnic at Covent Garden opera house Tuesday night. No special reason—they just decided to eat there for a change.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, the Princess and friends were presided to the theatre by royal servants who brought hampers containing canapes, sandwiches, wine, silver salvers, a white table cloth and an alcohol lamp for heating tea and coffee.

All the theatre provided was a folding table. The picnic took place in an anteroom off the royal box.

The occasion was a gala performance for the benefit of the Sadlers Wells Ballet benevolent fund.

Caracas Parley Moves to Adopt 'Dulles Doctrine'

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The inter - American conference headed today into talks probably Saturday, of the "Dulles doctrine." A majority support appears assured for the American state secretary's proposal that United States Latin Communist attempts to dominate any part of the Western hemisphere.

Eight of the 19 Latin-American countries attending the 10th conference here already have signified they will back the proposal.

(Canada, as a Commonwealth member, does not attend.)

There have been indications in political committee discussions that some Latin-American countries will propose amendments to the United States formula.

Guatemala, accused by the U. S. of being Communist-dominated, is the only country voicing outright opposition to the resolution.

Not Votes But Equal Pay Is Demand By New British Suffragette Army

By PHILIP CLARKE

LONDON (AP) — Women members wound up another all-night session of the House of Commons today with the shrill clamor of the biggest women's "equal pay" demonstration since the days of the suffragettes.

Carrying banners demanding "equal pay for equal work," more than 6,000 of a hastily - formed women advanced Tuesday night on Parliament where they waited to cheer, jeer and applaud speakers at four separate mass meetings in London.

They unloosed two bulky petitions containing the signatures of 680,000 supporters, read out a declaration of demands at the statue of Emmeline Pankhurst, the original Pankhurst in Westminster, and then poked their faces in a House of Lords window to shout and chant.

The modern-day feminists didn't go as far as their mothers and grandmothers who chained themselves to railings around Parliament and threatened violence. Women's vote, but most harassed members thought the women got their point across well enough.

In House, the women's supporters peppered the chancellor of the exchequer, R. A. Butler, Conservative with 25 questions on equal pay. The speaker had to clamp a lid on more questions.

Finally, Labor member Douglas Houghton, a newly married man, introduced a bill "to set up machinery for the purpose of the principle of equal pay for equal work by both men and women." Houghton's murmur, the House scheduled a second reading of the bill for April 30, three days after announcement of the new budget.

Then, with the women outside, bolt repeated a government promise to start giving equal pay to women in the civil service as soon as Britain can afford it.

Only one male MP boldly spoke out against the women. Brig. Ralph Rayner, 51-year-old married Conservative, said "We have it on the highest authority that women were born into this world to make it much more beautiful place and to perform various other gracious duties, but not to compete physically and economically with men."

BRITAIN ARMING CRUISERS WITH NEW 6-INCH GUNS

Will Match Russia's Most Modern Ships

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain is arming her cruisers with a new six-inch gun whose revolutionary rate of fire makes them the match of Russia's most modern cruisers, the House of Commons was told early today.

The disclosure came from Cmdr. A. H. P. Noble, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, towards the end of an all-night sitting largely taken up with criticism of the government's decision to cancel the construction of navy costs for the coming year.

During the debate, James Callaghan, a former Labor government financial secretary to the admiralty, complained that Britain had "no fast, modern guns" in the early" cruisers between 5,000 tons and 10,000 tons armed with 5.25 and six-inch guns. He asked if these cruisers were to face the "magnificent" Russian cruisers of the Sverdlov class.

Noble said Britain is continuing to modernize her six-inch cruisers and when this is done they will be first-class ships able to face the Sverdlov cruisers on "quite favorable terms."

"We now have a new, first-class six-inch gun which is really of a revolutionary type of fire. Four of these guns will deliver five tons of shell per minute.

"Similar progress has been made with a new three-inch gun with a rate of fire of 60 rounds per minute, associated with heavy machine-guns."

REDS RUSHING SUBS

He said nine ships of the Sverdlov class are in commission and others are being built. Much of the Russian effort was going into the building of ocean-going submarines.

Opening the debate on the £333,000,000 estimates for 1954-55, J. F. S. Thomas, Lord of the admiralty, said greatly improved "homing" weapons for destroying submarines were ready to be in service, and a new sweep-wire jet fighter able to carry "good bombs" would be built for the navy.

He could not say when the new jet will be in service, but he did say the navy will shortly get new anti-submarine weapons.

These include a guided missile launched from the ship which "homes" on its target and an improved type of depth charge called the "limbo mortar." This is automatically fired by an electronic device after it has found a submarine.

NEW LOCATING DEVICE

Another weapon on the anti-submarine front would be a locating device dropped into the sea from the air which is hovering helicopter. This "dipping sonar" probably would be operational by 1956, giving the accurate position of a submerged submarine.

Mr. Thomas also reported steady progress in the development of a large guided missile for fleet use. A guided-weapon trial ship will be in commission in 1955.

Thomas added the warning that it would be a mistake to imagine that the navy would soon be found in general service at sea or would completely change its type of ship as a means of medium and close-range defence against air attack.

Illegal Staking Indicated In Ontario's New Mine Fields

TORONTO (CP)—A considerable proportion of the staking in Ontario's new mining fields may have been illegal, two officials of the Ontario mines department indicated Tuesday night.

The officials, H. C. Rickaby, deputy minister of mines, and Forbes McFarland, chief of the mining lands branch, also indicated that some purchasers of mining claims may find their purchases are worthless.

Both spoke to a discussion session of the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association.

Mr. Rickaby said he hoped fears of widespread infractions are without foundation. However, the rumors would be investigated and if there were found certain "appropriate action must follow."

Under Ontario law a licensed staker may stake nine claims in one mining division, and must be on the scene. The reported infractions have to do with evasions of this provision.

Mr. McFarland, citing what he termed "disturbing incidents," said that licence holders had in person sonally and recorded 500 claims in an active area, and "should be concerned with the possibility that this staking was not done by the licencee in each case."

FAST WORK

In another instance, staking time for 27 claims by three men was given as 15 minutes for each claim. Said there were instances of as many as nine or more claims being staked in a day. It was impossible in such cases to do the work in such short time.

One licencee, to whom tags had been sent, phoned to say he had never taken out a licence nor staked a claim.

"The licence had been taken out in his name, the applications signed with his licencee's number and the fees paid by the same person who paid for the licence."

There had been numerous cases where the applicant had never even been on the property, but had been a marked increase, too, in licences to women and staking of claims by them. It seemed unlikely that the majority of these claims would be staked in the middle of winter to stake holders.

PROXY STAKING

It is rumored, Mr. McFarland added, that a large proportion of the claims staked in the Blind River uranium field and the Manitouwadge base metal field "have been staked by proxy."

He said the effect of evasion of the law was that a few men blanket all the ground around a mine and leave little for the individual prospector.

He suggested that purchasers of claims who "buy solely on speculation" should realize that they may find staking claims which have not been staked in accordance with the act.

Mr. Rickaby said a proposed amendment to the Mining Act would provide that there be no issue of a certificate of record for a claim, there must be first a report by an inspector that requirements of the act have been met. Roy Bates, chief of the discoverers of the Manitouwadge base metal deposit, said there was often inspection of every claim might lead to long delay. Mr. Rickaby said:

"We may be faced with serious difficulties, but we are not running away from the problem."

Eisenhower Labels as Nonsense Stevenson's Assertion on GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today labelled as nonsense Adlai E. Stevenson's assertion that the Republican party is divided against itself—"half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

At a press conference the president also said that Senator Ralph Flanders (R-Vt.) is a champion of great public service in his Senate speech criticizing Senator McCarthy for diverting attention from important world problems.

Flanders told the Senate that McCarthy "by intention or through ignorance" was doing the work of Stalter" the Republican party.

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, said in Miami Saturday night that Eisenhower must take "personal responsibility for Republican tactics."

NO POLITICAL SPEAKER

Vice-President Richard Nixon has been picked by Republican leaders to make the party's official reply to Stevenson. He is to speak Saturday night over the same radio and radio networks that carried Stevenson's speech.

Nixon was reported selected by Eisenhower after McCarthy announced he was going to demand that NBC and CBS give him free time to reply to what he called a "vicious attack on me personally."

McCarthy called the choice of Nixon excellent. But he also told reporters he was going to continue to test whether the networks can deny him free time to reply.

McCarthy said he will not seek equal free time should be given to the Republican vice-president, however and to himself. He said he will speak for Eisenhower "in the same networks as Stevenson and at their expense, if possible. If the federal communications commission had a rule which didn't guarantee that right I would have got to be changed."

MURROW RAPS MCCARTHY

McCarthy's offered free time if he desires it, to reply to a CBS television broadcast by Edward R. Murrow said Tuesday night that the senator "used the techniques of the master of the big lie."

Suddenly has stepped over the line between "investigating and persecuting."

A CBS spokesman said the network has no intention of giving McCarthy more time for hours after the program. Some 2,500 calls were received, the spokesman said, but the network about 60 per cent were congratulatory. He added that 1,500 telegrams also were received, of which all but a suppressed approval of the program.

KIDNAP ACCOMPLICE JAILED

[illegible] (AP)—An accomplice in the Feb. 19 kidnapping [illegible] sicarelli, the ruin heir, was sentenced Tuesday to [illegible] years in prison.

The prosecution had asked 14 years for Manuel Echavarria. The kidnapped child was found alive Feb. 24 in a Detroit search. A chauffeur of the Bacardi family, Echavarria, confessed, was arrested and killed when, police said, he tried to escape.

Soldiers Guard Sudan Parliament At First Session

KHARTOUM (Reuters) —The Sudan's first parliament session, guarded by jittery soldiers, opened in Khartoum today.

The parliament buildings were protected by barbed wire. Troops were on the alert and police patrolled the capital to prevent any repetition of the March 1 riot which killed 34 persons and forced postponement of the first session.

The Sudanese legislators heard a pledge by Governor-General Sir Knox Helm that the Sudan's case army for the new African state would be revised "any outside aggression" after British and Egyptian forces withdraw, some time in the next two years.

Mob Stampedes, Police, Mothers Save Children

BRISBANE, Australia (CP)—Mothers, aided by police, had to fight today to keep their children from being trampled as several thousand persons stampeded at a recreational city's exhibition grounds to see the Queen.

The crowd had been waiting an hour before the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were due to arrive.

The huge crowd had been waiting for hours in stifling heat. Finally they stampeded.

Prompt action by police and ambulance officials averted tragedy. They moved in at the gates as the crowd surged past and helped mothers snatch their children out of danger.

The children had been given a holiday and the royal appearance was the big event. Extra police were put on for them. Some 10,000 had parts in a school display planned for the royal visit.

After the Queen and the duke left the grounds crowds broke through barricades again and began streaming into the area where the Queen was inspecting a guard of honor.

Police and army officers joined hands to halt the oncoming mob. Some children fainted. Others, before the eyes of the Queen in the circle, sub-tropical heat.

The Queen appeared flushed from the heat as she rode through the city, but was composed at both the children's rally and a parliamentary luncheon. She held up a small parasol against the blazing sun.

During the day the Queen also presided at a meeting of Queensland's executive council.

GOVT. DOES NOT WANT TO OWN CHARTERED BANKS

CCF Proposal Turned Down by 171 to 21

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament does not want public ownership of Canada's chartered banks.

A CCF proposal to bring the banks under national ownership and control was defeated 171 to 21 in the Commons Tuesday night.

All members except those in the 23-member CCF group opposed the suggestion placed before the house by CCF leader Coldwell during debate on a government bill to revise the Bank Act.

Only CCF members, Ross Thatcher (Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) and Angus McInnis (Vancouver-Kingsway), were not in the House when the vote, the absence of Mr. Thatcher, who left the chamber immediately before the vote, was noted by Liberal members with the chant: "We want Thatcher."

Mr. Coldwell had proposed that the bill for decennial revision of the Bank Act be set aside to consider public ownership of chartered banks. After his motion was defeated, the legislation received second reading—approval in principle—without a division, and was referred to banking committee for detailed study.

CANADA'S QUIET

Mr. Coldwell's motion was opposed by spokesmen for the Conservative Progressive and Social Credit parties, but was not discussed in detail.

"However, Finance Minister Abbott, in closing the debate before the House, said public ownership of banks is "not illogical" for those who believe in the CCF philosophy, but he felt the House did not want to engage in a debate on socialism.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) described the CCF proposal as the "siren song of socialism." It was no surrey with the fringe on top, he said.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) said there is not enough money in the banks for the government to buy up the chartered banks and that the government to explain in detail how the purchase would be made, but the request was not answered.

TWO-DAY DEBATE

The debate on the government bill to revise the Bank Act continued through two days. However, only about 10 hours were spent discussing the CCF nationalization motion.

The bill would extend the life of the chartered banks for another 10 years, eliminate a number of minor changes in banking laws. Two major changes would permit the chartered banks to lend on insured mortgages and extend their branch operations over the bank credit.

Henry Hosking (L — Wellington South) said the banks were in an exceptionally fine job." More people would be able to borrow, at reasonable interest rates, if it weren't for the "propaganda" which those opposite were spreading.

Mr. Hosking said his only criticism of banks is that they are closed Saturdays, when they are most needed.

Quebec Youth, 18, Is Slain in Home Of His Sweetheart

Police Hold His Rival Who Surrenders Self, Gun

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP) — Gilles Bourassa, 18, was shot to death Tuesday night in the home of his teen-age sweetheart. The girl's mother was hit in the stomach by a stray bullet but she was not seriously hurt.

Police said Gilles' father are holding second charge 16-year-old Gerard Abel, whom they described as Bourassa's rival for the love of dark-haired Colette Lefebvre, 17. They said Abel walked into the municipal police station 15 minutes after the shooting.

Municipal officers quoted Colette as saying she stopped seeing Abel because I like Gilles better."

ANSWERS KNOCK, DIES

They said she told them Bourassa was shot just after he answered a knock on the door of her home. Her mother, Mrs. Benoit Lefebvre, heard the shot, rushed to the door and pushed Colette into a bedroom. Then she called the wounded woman.

Police said a statement made by Abel, along with a gun and ammunition, were turned over to Sqe-per principal police who are conducting the investigation at suburban Grand'Mere, to the East, where the shooting occurred.

An inquest was scheduled for today.

Shawinigan Falls is 17 miles northwest of Trois-Rivieres.

Jail Inmates Cheated TV, Coin Boxes

SEATTLE (AP)—"Some of those guys in there are crooks," sheriff Earlan Callahan said today of the prisoners in his jail.

He reached the conclusion in an Arundel way by which prisoners were allowed to have television. They could get it by inserting slugs in a meter. The slugs were all right—they were purchased for 25 cents each by the prisoners from funds kept for them by the sheriff.

What hurt Callahan was that some of the inmates used the slugs over and over again. He said they would insert a coin into the meter and then, using wire pulled from their bunks, bring it up again for re-use.

The meters have been moved outside the cells and now are fed by the turnkeys. The television stays—it keeps the prisoners quiet and docile, Callahan reported.

Conservatives Retain Seat

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill's Conservative government today retained a parliamentary seat in a by-election in the Kerby constituency, Sussex.

Capt. Henry Kerby, the Conservative candidate, polled 24,837 votes to 13,439 cast for Mrs. Margaret Reid, his Labor opponent in the two-way fight. The by-election was caused by the retirement from parliament of Conservative member Sir Arthur Gulbert.

Kerby took 58.52 per cent of the total votes against 61.37 per cent by the Conservative candidate in 1951.

Eaton Warehouse In Toronto Burns Loss $200,000

TORONTO (CP) — Fire causing an estimated $200,000 damage early today when it raged out of control for two hours in a five-storey warehouse of the T. Eaton Company in west-central Toronto. The blaze destroyed furniture, bedding, refrigerators, radios, television sets and other electrical equipment.

Exploding oil drums on the top floor of the building blasted holes in the roof and sent flames high into the air. Heavy black smoke billowed hundreds of feet in the air.

The fire-weakened roof of the warehouse crashed down at the height of the blaze.

20 FORCED OUT

No one was hurt in the three-storey brick building except 20 nearby residents out of their homes.

The warehouse adjoins the Eaton Parcel post office from the burning building and turned in the alarm. All available firefighting and fire stations was thrown into the battle. For a time fire threatened two blocks of stores and houses in the area, about half a mile from downtown Toronto.

The first alarm was at 3:15 a. m. Those responding to the call of firemen were still fighting the dying fire which gutted the structure.

One-Legged Men Learning to Ski At School at Big Bear Lake, Calif.

By RALPH HOVIS

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (AP)—Ski instructor Ed Link is challenging as a pretty tough enough for a normal person to learn, is being mastered by a group of determined one-legged men.

Link, one of the ski pros around here, is conducting the first ski school for amputees ever held in the United States.

"Skiing, said Smith, a senior at the University of California at Los Angeles, "belongs to Bob Engemo, a former army sergeant and an amputee who died just three months ago.

"Bob saw amputees skiing for the first time in Germany in 1951, and when he returned he convinced there should be an amputee ski school in the United States. Skiing just before he died three months ago."

Smith, one of the obstacles to establishing a ski school came from amputees who said it would be "decreasing" to the public to see amputees skiing. Actually, skiers here now marvel at the amputees' progress.

"We can ride up on the rope tows, make downhill runs, do our turns and traverses and stop," Smith said. "Last week, I even went through the slalom course and did some airplane turns."

AWAITS ADVICE

Trenton council awaits the advice from a lawyer as to the validity of a by-law governing dance hall licensing. It was brought to the attention of the council that Jack Zigman was continuing to operate dances at the Zigman Athletic Club, even though their licence was under suspension. Chief Constable Ed. Taylor reported on the dances asked council for instructions.

At a recent council meeting residents in the neighborhood of the club became complaint about overnoises about the premises. Council decided to cancel the dance permit.

Chief Taylor has recommended that action be taken against Mr. Zigman for ignoring regulations.

COMMITTEE NAMED

A council committee comprising Gerald Weaver and N. J. McNair has been appointed to meet with representatives of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce relative to an appeal from the chamber to council for a grant of $2,000 to carry on operations. The local business-men's group it was explained has been going behind in the past and now needs financial support. Councillor Weaver maintains that unless aid is forthcoming the Chamber will have to disband. Mayor Ross Burtt considers the Chamber an important organization that plays a vital part in town affairs. He mentioned that quarters for the Chamber might be available in the municipal building when the tenancy date plans to remodel the building have been drawn up. One of the Chamber's heaviest expenses is office rent, it was explained.

Lieut.-Governor W. G. Slade Pays Official Visit

Constructive criticism and suggestions for club improvement were points included in an address delivered by W. G. Slade, Kingston, lieutenant-governor at the regular luncheon meeting in the Belleville Centre on Tuesday. Mr. Slade was speaking on the occasion of his official visit to his home city.

In a few remarks directed at the local club made before launching into the major topic, the lieutenant-governor commented on club achievement, attendance and membership. He complimented three of the members for their efforts in assisting in the formation of new clubs in the district. Mark Vanner, Lorne McDougall and Frank Crozier gan were described as being three of the best club builders within the membership by Mr. Slade.

Throughout the text of his address the speaker emphasized the growth and progress of a club to that of the maturities, a form of which is found at certain periods of the sea, resembling somewhat, a small only much larger in size. Mr. Slade said the animal's shell was quite capable of withstanding the terrific pressure of the sea without the coming damaged. He described its growth over the years as being gradual ger and stronger through the efforts of individual members.

A maultus is brightest, when inhabited by the live animal. "Similarly my club is at its best and most effective when it is governed by a hard working membership," the speaker declared.

Mr. Slade said that because of the strength of the shell, developed through years of concerted effort, the maultus is able to withstand hard knocks and is practically impossible to destroy. A club, he said, "if it takes many years to build a shell, similarly it takes many years to build a good club."

TEACHES LESSON.

In concluding his address, Mr. Slade observed, "If a few minutes of study of this shell can teach us all these important lessons, surely in a detailed study of ourselves and our ways of life we can learn many other valuable lessons. Perhaps we may learn not to take for granted, factors such as our way of life, democracy and all those things which go to make up living as we know it.

Mr. Slade was introduced by Bruce Lasby and an expression of the club's appreciation was given by Frank Creeggan.

Flyers Defeat Batawa 5-3 To Win Series

Trenton RCAF Flyers will meet the winners of the Wellington-Trenton series in the Trent Valley, southern district finals.

The Flyers won the right last night in Memorial Arena when they defeated the Batawa team 5-3 in the third and deciding game of their quarter-finals series.

It was a clean, hard-fought battle which was evenly waged until the third period when the Flyers scored two goals while holding the Shoemen scoreless.

The teams battled to a one-all tie in the first period, with each scoring a brace in the second session to tie the score at three-all. Bob Parnell scored the winner after two minutes of play in the third period with Rochon adding the insurance tally eleven minutes later.

CLEAN GAME

Nine penalties were handed out by the officials with five going to the winners. All were of a minor variety.

Rochon paced the Flyers' assault with two goals and an assist, with Beatch scoring once and getting two helpers. Bowman was also good for a goal and an assist with Parnell getting the fifth tally.

Paknik, Rankin and Robson were the Batawa marksmen with Reeves earning the assists.

Beatch fired the opening gun at the 3.30 mark of the first minutes of play, taking Bowman's pass to rifle the puck home. Batawa evened the score one minutes later when Paknik drove Reeves' pass behind the Batawa goalie.

Rankin put the Shoemen one up after seven minutes of play in the second period and with little over four minutes to go Bowman spearheaded a Flyers' three-way foray with Rochon and Beatch to knot the count. Robson gave the Shoemen the lead again a minute later, firing home Rankin's pass from the point 3-2 but Rochon again tied the score with seconds remaining in the period.

Bob Parnell sank the winning marker with a little over two minutes gone in the third period, and the Flyers held off the Shoemen's desperate attempts to score the tying goal. Rochon locked horns with the thirteen minute-mark taking Beatch's pass to fire home the insurance goal.

The Flyers were desperately to pull the game out of the fire but the Flyers defence held and they skated off the winners.

Theatre Guild Will Present Smart Comedy

A merry and mad comedy about a whacky Manhattan family whose members do exactly as they please has been chosen by the Belleville Theatre Guild as their next presentation, and is now in rehearsal for "You Can't Take it With You", the hilarity by Moss Hart and George Kauffman, presents the world's most rugged individualists —the daffy Sycamore family.

Heading the trifle of genial madcaps is Grandpa Vanderhof, who for 35 years has confined his activities to hunting snakes, throwing darts, attending commencement exercises, and ignoring his income tax payments. Equally uninhibited are Penelope, a playwright because a typewriter was delivered by mistake; Paul, who passes his time manufacturing fireworks in the cellar with Mr. DePinna, a congenial iceman who has designs on Penelope's mother; Essie, who studies ballet in the living room and Ed, who put in trouble inserting maxims from Trotsky in the candy boxes he peddles.

Out of this maniac clan somehow has come a normal daughter whose hopes of marrying the son of her wealthy boss are almost wrecked by her family's merry drop in on the Sycamores on a night when they are entertaining.

The play is under the direction of Sydney Carpenter with Stuart Robb handling the stage manage-

Tabernacle Church Men's Club Holds Meet

At the monthly supper meeting of Tabernacle United Church Men's Club, entertainment was provided by the Coca-Cola Co. Ltd., of Belleville, when the film "Refreshments Through the Years," depicting the evolution of carbonated-soft drinks was first shown. Don Charlton gave a short talk which explained how the art of bottling had progressed during the years. The film showed scenes of long ago; the manufacture of many necessary articles used in the bottling, handling and bottling process of the present day and the production of the drink from the laboratory to the shipping depots.

Reverend Ernie Boulton conducted a business meeting and referred to several members who had been ill, after which he welcomed back to the meeting. Minutes were read by Secretary Art Frith.

The Rev. Ray Rowley continued his series of short talks on the organization of the United Church of Canada, and explained the functions of the Missionary and Maintenance Society, especially the work done by this branch in social service.

Supper was served by a group of ladies under the convenership of Mrs. M. C. Burgess. They were thanked for the splendid repast by Ed. Schilvert.

Evan Barlow thanked Don Charlton and asked that he extend the thanks of the club to the Coca-Cola Company.

ment and Mary Moult doing the stage decor. The play will run for two nights, April 1st and 2nd in the Belleville Collegiate and tickets are now on sale.

Kinsmen Will Build Small Pool, Improve Park

Construction of the proposed small tots' wading pool and development of grounds about the Kinsmen Community Swimming pool into a park, will in all probability be carried out during the coming summer.

Members of the local Kinsmen club at their bi-monthly dinner meeting held at the Hotel Quinte had a full discussion as to the advisability of proceeding with the two projects and favorable reception was received from the club roster.

Construction of the kiddies' wading pool and development of the site into a park is part of the long term plans of the club in connection with the community swimming pool.

Most of the work of the remaining phases of swimming pool development would be done by club members themselves. The swimming pool committee was authorized to secure prices for the necessary materials to be used in the work.

W. Harvey, sales manager for Shell Oil Company, showed a technicolor movie film on the construction of the oil pipe line, which was built two years ago between Montreal and Hamilton.

All phases of construction of the pipeline were shown from route to actual laying of the pipe, were graphically depicted in the film. Three big oil companies, Shell, McColl Frontenac and British American, formed the transportation pipeline Company to construct the pipeline, which is used jointly by the three firms.

All three companies now have bulk storage terminals at Canniffon and Belleville which village the pipeline passes.

Michigan Man Battles Posse, Kills Himself

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich. (AP)—A trapper who "lived like a coyote" came out with a posse from a cabin in the lonely woods of upper Michigan Tuesday, ending his last shell for himself.

Sheriff Edward P. Fandri said the trapper, Emil Schroder, 57, committed suicide, firing his last shot into his head after wounding one of the law officers who came to get him.

Harry Urban, a 70-year-old turnkey, was shot in the elbow and thigh.

Fandri said Schroeder, a parolee from Wisconsin's Waupun state penitentiary, had been wanted since September when he fired a shot at his employer, who had dismissed him.

DANGER SIGNAL

WINNIPEG (CP)—A live shell 6½ inches long was discovered by a city workman in a pile of refuse. E. A. Wood, street-cleaning superintendent, said various shells "and plenty of bullets" have gone into the incinerator and exploded in past years. One workman was injured recently.

RoK Newspaper Says St. Laurent Is Red Dupe

SEOUL (CP)—A South Korean newspaper today said Prime Minister St. Laurent is one of a group "becoming tools and dupes" of the Communists.

The English-language daily Korean Republic assailed the Canadian leader for saying here Monday that he believes the Allies should be realistic about recognizing Communist China.

"In the prime minister's definition, it would be 'realistic' to accept disease and murder and bringandry just because we have them with us," the paper said.

It added that "the St. Laurents of this world actually are embracing the faceless creed of communism by unwittingly advocating a policy of appeasement."

The semi-official paper said "the prime minister makes the same Red-inspired and terribly perilous error in thinking that the Chinese accept their Communist masters."

The prime minister, who concluded a Korean visit today, had been quoted as saying he felt the eventual recognition of the Red Chinese regime must be accepted since it was the government the people wanted.

Alaskan Blonde, Alleged Killer, Takes Own Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A beautiful Alaskan blonde, charged with murder in the slaying of her wealthy husband, has removed herself from the jurisdiction of the courts by taking a lethal dose of sleeping pills.

Negro musician Johnny Warren, 33, who claims he was her lover, faces trial alone on the murder charge in Alaska next month.

Police said Mrs. Diane Wells, 31, swallowed 30 sedative tablets and died at the Hollywood Plaza hotel Tuesday. She came here Jan. 22 for health reasons after being released on $15,000 bail.

Sh had been arrested in Seattle after she left Alaska. She and jazz drummer Warren were accused of murdering her husband, Cecil Wells, 51, wealthy Fairbanks auto dealer and former president of the Alaska Chamber of Commerce.

He was shot last Oct. 12 in Fairbanks.

Mrs. Wells contended that she was beaten senseless by two men who broke into the Wells' home and her husband was killed before she regained consciousness. She had bruises and blackened eyes.

She denied Warren's claim of a love affair.

But she left a death note:

"For-one thing I am guilty, too, for ever meeting Warren, and if Warren is guilty . . . one thing is for sure, Cecil is dead. And I must be the cause of it, one way or another."

St. Laurent Reaches Tokyo On World Tour

TOKYO (CP)—The prime ministers of Canada and Japan shook hands today as the former enemy power rolled out the red carpet for the visiting Canadian leader who arrived here on the last official stop of his round-the-world goodwill tour.

Prime Minister St. Laurent clasped hands warmly with Japan's Shigeru Yoshida and other dignitaries as he arrived for a gala ceremony state visit.

The Nipponese welcome was impressive, and the red carpet was literal—a 50-foot plush affair rolled up by the RCAF C-5 transport after it taxied to a stop at Haneda airport.

Emperor Hirohito sent his chief court chamberlain, Yusumasa Matsudaira, to welcome the Canadian party, and Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki and other cabinet ministers were also on hand.

WAVES TO CROWD

The prime minister looked fit as he stepped from the plane which had flown him from Seoul after talks Tuesday night with President Syngman Rhee. Carrying his hat in his hand, he stepped out into the freezing cold, waved to the waiting crowd and stepped briskly down to greet Canadian ambassador Robert Mayhew.

The Tokyo metropolitan police band played "O Canada" and the Japanese national anthem, then the two prime ministers were introduced and the round of handshaking began. The Canadian leader personally greeted some 50 members of the Tokyo diplomatic corps and Japanese officials.

Showing no signs of feeling the cold himself, he then spoke to Canadian residents and their children who had come to the airport to greet him.

He also had a word with Canadian-born Japanese who also turned out, and to a reporter who said he brought "warm greetings to the people of Japan from their friends in Canada, and added: "That we shall retain your friendship and hope you will continue to consider us your friends."

Exchange Men, Employees Hear Talk on Safety

A special employer-employee meeting of the Belleville Builders' Exchange was held last night in the Kiwanis Centre. This was the first such meeting to which employees were invited in the history of the Exchange and the guest speaker for the evening was Harry J. McGough, general manager and chief technical director of the Construction Safety Association, Toronto.

In his talk Mr. McGough stressed the need of educating today's children in the art of safety through wise parental counsel and good safety habits practised by the adult." By teaching the children safety in the home, the speaker said rich dividends will be reaped by the time the child is old enough to go out on his own. "If a child is taught the rules of safety, while growing up he will leave home with those ideas firmly lodged in his mind better prepared to become a good citizen through practice of elementary safety rules learned in the home," Mr. McGough declared.

William Cole, chief field staff representative of Mr. McGough's company, quizzed the audience on safety standards required on a construction project. With the aid of chalk and a blackboard, he also described safety requirements of construction machinery as laid down by the Construction Safety Association.

Alderman Robert Temple was present and acted as representative of Mayor Jack Both.

A meeting during the development of progress of Toronto's rapid transit system, scheduled to be put in operation by the end of this month, was shown at the conclusion of Mr. McGough's address.

The speaker was introduced by the president of the Builders' Exchange, Bev Quinney, and the expression of thanks to Mr. McGough and Mr. Cole was extended by Harold Blakely.

Justice Hope Against Courts Fixing Punishment For Murder

OTTAWA (CP)—A judge with 21 years experience on the Ontario Supreme Court bench says it would be "unfortunate" for the administration of justice if the courts could select the punishment for murder.

Mr. Justice J. A. Hope said Tuesday the responsibility for ruling on the punishment should remain with the people—through Parliament.

At present, trial judges must impose the death sentence on convicted murderers. They should not have the choice of imposing a penitentiary term instead of the death penalty.

He said the death penalty "is one which in my humble opinion should be imposed by the whole of the people."

Mr. Justice Hope sat in the assizes division of the Ontario Supreme Court for 12 years before being appointed to the Appeals Court in 1945. He gave his personal view before the Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

LAW ADEQUATE

He said the criminal law at present is adequate with regard to murder. He saw no benefit in classifying murder into degrees, first, second or third-degree.

This was done elsewhere but Canadian law provided enough safeguards by making clear-cut distinctions between murder and manslaughter.

D. G. Blair, committee counsel, asked for comment on present provisions of the code concerning cases where the "lookout" in a bank robbery may be charged with murder if someone is slain inside the bank.

Mr. Justice replied that sometimes the man who does not pull the trigger is the "most culpable." He might have the "dominating mind" in a group and might be responsible to blame than the "weak-minded youngster who holds the gun."

ANCIENT LAND

About 80 per cent of the people of Turkey are engaged in agricultural occupations.

Hold Second Man For Conspiracy Against Bank

TORONTO (CP) — An off-duty police inspector on his way to a movie Tuesday night spotted and arrested Nalfie M. Stephen, 43, wanted by police on a conspiracy charge.

Inspector Arthur Harris took Stephen into custody at a downtown intersection.

Stephen was the second man arrested in connection with an alleged conspiracy said to have cost a west-end branch of the Dominion Bank $32,000 over the last three years.

David S. Hoxham, 46, former manager of the branch, Tuesday was remanded to March 16 on $5,000 bail.

WHY I SUPPORT THE RED CROSS!

"My name is Mr. M. Acquafreddo and I am employed by the Northern Electric Company Limited in Belleville. I am giving to the Red Cross because I firmly believe that . . .

"1953 marked a year of continuous aid to our community's needy families for the Red Cross Society of Belleville. With many disastrous fires in the vicinity our local Red Cross experienced an increased demand for assistance. Numerous families were furnished with new clothing, bedding, shoes etc. A number of families were supplied medicines, vitamin capsules, etc., which are so vitally important in maintaining the health and growth of children. Milk was supplied to several homes with large families, and many war brides were afforded assistance by our local Red Cross in order that they may live a normal existence with their children. These are only a few of the countless number of accomplishments of this local organization . . . just a few of the many reasons Why I Support Red Cross."

ST. LAURENT MAKES A MISTAKE

At Seoul, the capital of Korea, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent declared that the free world will eventually have to recognize the Communist government of China.

Nobody can deny that the Canadian prime minister was courageous in making such a statement in South Korea.

Some will dispute the accuracy of his assertion, but a strong case can be made out for the recognition of Red China.

Even among those who favour such recognition, however, there will be many who will doubt the wisdom and the accuracy of the language in which St. Laurent advanced his views.

"We are going to have to admit the present government of China is the government the people want," he asserted.

Now there are a great many people who are never going to admit that and they can back up their stand with an impressive argument.

There is considerable doubt that the people of China want the Communist government. It can be argued, with much weight, that the people of China did not want the government of Chiang Kai-Shek. It is possible, although not probable, that when the Communists and Chiang were battling on the mainland the majority of the Chinese people thought that the Reds would be preferable to the Kuomintang. But it is also possible—indeed we might be pardoned for regarding it as probable—that many of the Chinese people thought they were facing a choice of two evils. And if they picked the Communists as the lesser evil then, that does not mean that they necessarily hold the same opinion today, after they have tasted Communist rule. Nor, it may be added, if they now prefer Chiang Kai-Shek's rule to the Communists. That does that necessarily mean that Kai-Shek's government is the type of government they really want.

Mr. George Ignatieff, Ontario, chairman of the harbor commission, Mayor Geo. Tice and Ald. T. V. Wills, secretary of the harbor commission, were in Ottawa this week to interview the government with regards to requisition improvements to the Belleville harbor.

For better and for worse they vowed,
Together until death should part;
But each of self being over-proud
They let the petty quarrels start.

They listened to what others said,
Since much they heard they wished to hate;
Love from the constant wrangling
Not always can the vows be kept
No passing fancy long endures.
And the tears of hurt are wept.
For two alone the home secures.

Many Birds For Stamps

(Ottawa Citizen)

Now that the Post Office department has decided to put out a new five-cent stamp with the bird's head in a garnet on the Canadian naturalists may be expected to come forward with other suggestions for an attractive design. Ornithologists have already advanced the claims of the vanishing whooping crane—one of the most striking birds in the world—and the Canada jay or whiskey jack. The garnet breasted grosbeak became generally known.

Certainly there is a wide range to choose fro . The gannet itself is distinguished by size and strength. Its flight, with its all-white body apart from a straw-colored head and neck, and black-tipped wings, it would be a pleasure who has lost his pouch. It is a strictly marine bird, but not confined to North America, and this fact may encourage the more nationalistic of the bird folk to press for an all-Canadian candidate.

This would narrow the field considerably, because most of our birds do not harbor strong political leanings. They are to be seen in Canada and forsake it because they cannot stand the winters, and when their time away, until next housekeeping time, anywhere from the mid-United States to Patagonia. Nowhere do they pay taxes. Perhaps, however, the snowy owl might do. He is certainly striking enough for the purpose. Or, to take a more familiar though by no means exclusively Canadian species, the black-capped chickadee confines cheerfulness in the face of the worst that winter in Canada can devise. And in one form or another, the chickadee is found in every region of Canada where trees grow.

The stamp designers might also perform a useful service by showing unfamiliarity with the more striking creature, the ovenbird, looks like. ## Wives Opposed 35-Hour Week (Gali Reporter).

Often one hears a wife say, "Well, if he's going to retire, I don't want him around me all day!" In that connection here's an interesting story:

The Milwaukee brewery workers of Milwaukee launched an early drive for a 35-hour week in the breweries of the Wisconsin beer capital. But their demands immediately had a bad reception with a most formidable opposition. At the forefront part of the opposition came from the wives of the brewery workers.

In the midst of the uproar the Milwaukee Journal was flooded with letters, mostly from women, from incensed wives, "Deliver us from the 35-hour week," was a common refrain. Wrote one excited wife: "It appears to me that men have too much time on their hands as it is, I for one, protest that his employer have him do the job so he can't raise Cain at home."

One priceless comment came in words as follows: "I'll root for a 35-hour week until the day the 'hard' ruling husbands give their wives some kind of a break." Just like that. And that is that.

Tennessee Drinking

(Financial Post)

It is not surprising that United States brokers in Ontario his liberal liquor laws are stricter than they like A great many residents in the province go to Buffalo every day and back, and particularly about the week-end. Ontario's liquor shortage makes it impossible to tell whether any given liquor dispensary in a city like Buffalo is open or closed on the day on which one feels drawn to pay it a visit. But Ohio American friends should be reminded that a good many of their own states laws have which gives rise to difficult, and sometimes even embarrassing, situations.

In Tennessee the hotel in which the visitor arrives is not permitted to sell him any spirituous liquor either in its bar (which seems to be merely a beer "beverage room") or in its dining room. But it is permissible to supply him with what is called a "set-up," being the stuff with which you mix your spirituous drinks if you want them mixed, and the drugstore which occupies a part of the hotel and has a door opening into the lobby is permitted to sell him spirituous beverages in bottles. Why the severance of the two concomitant halves of a drink should thus be divided into two parts, so that the drinker is required to eat his bottle around with him, is beyond comprension.

The inhabitants of Tennessee, and of a good many other Southern States, have as a result of these and other sumptuary laws developed the habit of doing their drinking straight from the bottle, long pull or bourbon and then a long pull of one of the cola concoctions. It is not one of the more gracious or more dignified methods of consuming alcohol, but it seems to meet their needs.

Oil is Shipped West and East

(Christian Science Monitor).

The modern version of "carrying coals to Newcastle" is the shipment of oil to Texas. It happened last week. A tanker from the Middle East tied up in the Houston Ship Channel to discharge a cargo of crude petroleum at the Eastern States refinery. The cargo came from a so-called neutral zone between Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, where American independent oil producers are tapping rich deposits.

This may result in fresh demands for a higher tariff on oil imported into the United States. Curiously, however, the call for such a tariff lately has come not from the American independent oil producers so much as from the coal industry.

A duty of 21 cents a barrel was levied on petroleum in the 1930's when Venezuelan oil was coming in at $1 a barrel. That was cut down a couple of years ago under a trade agreement to 4½ cents, which is a very slight barrier when oil is priced around $2.65 a barrel.

But there are other factors in the picture besides tariffs and quotations. Unrest in the Middle East makes operators eager to get oil out while they are sure they can. The prospect of Iranian oil coming back into the free marketplace presses there. But with the big Abadan refinery still in mothballs and with Egypt preventing shipment of oil to the refineries of Haifa in Israel, Middle East crude has to be shipped somewhere for refining.

So there is more than one anomaly in the situation. Texas, with its low-wells ripped in by prorating, still produces more than 40 per cent of the total United States petroleum output. But while a tanker-load of Texas crude is forwarded to bring oil to Houston for refining, other tankers are carrying Venezuelan oil eastward across the Atlantic to keep at one-fourth rate position the refineries built at Haifa to handle Middle East

Beards Are For Romantics

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record).

Women judges of a beard-growing contest in an English mining town went out to award the prize to a young miner who grew a three-inch goatee. It was doubtless the romantic appeal of the goatee on the young man's well-chiselled chin that moved the women to make him the winner.

Beard growing is competition was a novelty for the miners. Is it strange that in this day beards are an oddity among men?

Beards were an adornment of the age of romance. That age has definitely passed. The romantic has been ruled out in our time from the arts, literature, music, painting, sculpture and architecture.

How much genius it has developed in that task is conjectable now. Its pragmatism has at least shaved whiskers from male, and perhaps manly, chins.

EXPOSURE AND THE RHEUMATIC.

Dr. Brady

One of my first patients in private practice was a veteran of the Civil War. He had slept on damp ground several nights while in the service and forty years later he developed rheumatism as a consequence of the exposure, whereas, if he were happy to help him get rid of it. No one would know that in most cases the insidious stiffness, soreness and disability called chronic rheumatism is not inflammation, not even "low-grade inflammation," and not infection, but simply typical old age degeneration.

Yahoo, how long would the average customers stay with a doctor who would say "No, it isn't (factors of the B complex).

arthritis is no inflammation of the joint. It is not rheumatism — there's no such ailment, if you think exposure to wet and cold, or some kind of acid in your system has anything to do with your joint trouble. It is degeneration of joint tissues.

In the minority of cases of so-called chronic rheumatism, which Dr. Kerr defined as "chronic low-grade inflammatory process" and Dr. Osler, said "comes on insidiously in people who have passed the middle period of life," the cause is probably nutritional deficit, subsidization, slow metabolism to combat which I recommend two remedies: (1) General daily exercise equivalent to six miles of oxygen on the hoof—walking; and (2) an adequate daily intake of iodine.

In most instances of physical degeneration of joint tissues — whether you call it chronic rheumatism or chronic arthritis as the cause is probably nutritional deficiency through the years from early childhood up to and including breakfast this morning, particularly inadequate intake of riboflavin, thiamine and iodin, vitamen D, thiamin and riboflavin

I am never so happy as when I am able to report the discovery or discovery that accrues to me. I want to impart it at once. I used to call often upon a famous man whose ideas always inspired me. He would always have something new to tell me. It might be a book, or some new great person he had read and wanted others to know about.

In one of Montaigne's essays he said: "I do not so much as apprehend one new thing, or conceive one excellent good thought in my mind, but me thinks I come to it too late, as if it had been produced the same alone and that I have no friendship or companion to part it unto."

Recently a friend asked me to his home to show me his treasured books. We went from room to room, where he had his books so carefully divided. Little was said, for we were both among old friends. But there was a companionship of happiness that we both felt toward these treasures and toward each other.

Most of us wish to share our happiness. It isn't very pleasant enjoying anything alone. In traveling

THE UNSPEAKABLE GIFT

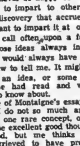
Sometimes we know that in spite of the fine qualities of a host of young people today, nevertheless they have to be stacked against youth in general that multitudes of them will be brought to ruin.

But the best young people today are as good as any generation has ever produced—and they are now in the insignificant number by any means. Just today I received a letter from a mother concerning her son among youth to which I had sent a small contribution. The effect that this regular told me of another who had called to thank him for what he and his association had done for her boy.



"She told me of the problem the questionable companions outside the home, and the considerable worry that he caused her and her husband. But the boy had found Christ, and in becoming a Christian had an amazing new set of values and outlook on life. This morning she and her husband visited our office to talk about the right kind of college for him."

Multiply this by the infrequency and dope addiction among minors as we find it among most of them, there is light on the horizon, and it spreads the dawn of a better day. Young people in large numbers are finding Christ as Lord and Saviour, and are accepting Him and saying so and living so.

"Thanks be to God for his unspeakable gift."

'Why Do You Weep?'

"To her, then, a wonder that the others had not seen."

CHAPTER 7.

Sobbing, she stood there, soon after the departure of Peter and John. Her heart failed her at joining the darkness of the tomb within. Yet her deep desire to know what had happened was ungovernable; John tells us in his Gospel that Mary Magdalene stooped down and looked into the sepulchre.

To her, then, a wonder that the others had not seen!

For sitting there, one at the head, the other at the foot of the place where the body of Jesus had been laid, were two angels in white. And she regarded them, all strembole and afraid, she heard their gentle voices, speaking directly to her:

"Woman, why do you weep?"

Any Mary Magdalene, with faltering voice, told them the simple truth:

"Because they have taken away my Lord; and I know not where they have laid Him."

Perhaps the angels smiled, wiser than she, knowing the miracle so close to her that as yet she had not seen. Their serene silence must have puzzled and yet alerted her, for she looked up and around, and at last behind her.

And then she saw the figure of one who seemed to her a stranger, and she heard a tender voice say:

"Woman, why do you weep? Whom do you seek?"

In the surging confusion of that instant, in spite of the blinding radiance behind her at the door of the tomb and the familiar echoes in the voice, still, as Mary Magdalene afterward admitted to the others, she had the sudden, mistaken idea that she was talking to the gardener.

"Sir," she said, "if you have taken Him away from here, tell me where you have laid Him and I will take Him away."

"Mary!"

That voice she could not mistake. That pronouncing of her name awoke her to the truth.

"Rabboni!" she sobbed. "Master!"

And she, out of whom He had once cast seven devils, fell to the ground, her hands reaching out to caress His feet, white and bare, on the green grass before the tomb. The Son of God, who had before her eyes given up His life in the blood and sweat dropping from the cross, stood before her now, alive, and yet with such a glory around His face and form that she knew it was as if a door had been opened into another world.

"Fear not." He said tenderly, with the same tones, speaking the same words and in the same way as she so often had heard Him comfort His followers, up and down the dusty roads of Galilee and Judaea. "Mary! Fear not!"

She knelt, as His voice deepened:

"Do not touch Me! For I am not yet ascended to My Father, and to your Father; to My God and your God."

There was no sharpness in His words and Mary Magdalene understood perfectly what He meant her to understand. It was as if He were saying: "Things are different between us now—between Me and all human beings, even those I have known and loved. The old human relations between us are at an end, and I have entered on a glorified life as a preparation for My final departure from the world." That is what He meant her to hear and that is what Mary the Magdalene understood.

In His next words to her He made His commission explicit:

"All hail!"

That was addressed to all His old friends, all who grieved for Him as though He were dead. And so:

"Go, tell My brethren that they go into Galilee. There they shall see Me."

Net Profit Of $598,119,478 Made by GM

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corporation reports it sold more than $10,000,000,000 of its products in 1953, a record for any private corporation.

Its direct taxes exceeded $1,250,000,000 and with sales and excise taxes, the corporation's total tax bill was nearly $2,000,000,000.

The giant auto maker, world's largest manufacturing concern, said its sales of $10,027,985,482 compared with $7,549,154,419 in 1952, the previous high for general motors or any other company.

However, its net profit of $598,119,478 was only its third highest, being eclipsed by the net income of $636,434,222 in 1949 and the record high of $834,044,039 in 1950. But it remained the biggest money-maker in American industry.

BIG TAX BITE

In their annual report to the GM's 432,000 stockholders, Harlow H. Curtice, president, and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board, commented:

"Earnings continued to be adversely affected by excess profits taxes, and in 1953 earnings also were affected by higher materials costs, particularly higher premium steel costs, high labor costs including large amounts for overtime premiums, and increased costs for special tools."

The net income amounted to six per cent of net sales and was equivalent, after the $12,228,312 annual requirement for preferred dividends, to $6.71 a share on GM's 87,000,000 shares. Last year's net income was $559,721,179 or $6.25 a share, which amounted to 7.4 per cent of net sales.

The company's total taxes came to $1,898,000,000, equivalent to $21.17 a share, including $681,000,000 in sales and excise taxes collected by GM on sales of its products.

Curtice and Sloan reported General Motors sold 3,760,000 cars and trucks in 1953, a gain of 43 per cent over 1952 sales of 2,620,000. Of the cars and trucks sold in 1953, 2,675,000 were produced in U.S. plants and 484,000 in Canada and overseas. Of every 100 passenger cars sold from U.S. and Canadian factories last year, 45 were GM cars.

Toronto Youths Go on Trial For Murder

BARRIE (CP)—The first of at least 26 crown witnesses was scheduled to testify today at the murder trial of Ian Robertson, 21, and Stephen Kingsley, 19, in the shooting last Oct. 29 of Fred (Scotty) Cameron, 66-year-old Toronto investment firm messenger.

The trial started Tuesday in Ontario Supreme Court with Mr. Justice H. A. Ayles presiding. A defence request to have the two Toronto youths tried separately was turned down.

Crown attorney W. M. Thompson, outlining the crown's case to the all-male jury, said he will seek to prove that robbery was the motive in the slaying of the former professional soccer player for St. Mirren of Paisley in Scotland, whose body with five bullet wounds was found in a ditch in this area 30 miles north of Toronto.

ROBBERY MOTIVE

Robertson and Kingsley listened as Mr. Thompson told the jury:

"The crown's case is that the two accused drove Cameron from Toronto and robbed and killed him. Whether the robbery came before or after the killing is immaterial. The evidence indicates Cameron was robbed and killed by two men who had gone out on a joint enterprise.

"How could two young men get a man of Cameron's age to go for a ride in the country? It is sad but true that some men are afflicted with homosexuality. Some satisfy their sexual urge with male persons. Part of the crown's case is that, knowing this, Cameron would be a very willing victim and in the course of the car drive was led to his death."

Mr. Thompson said witnesses will testify that when the youths were arrested Nov. 25, police seized a bloodstained car at the home of Robertson's father.

The jury comprises a hospital attendant, a merchant, a mechanic, a trucker, two agents and six farmers.

At the time of the slaying, friends described Cameron as a confused and lonely man who often played bagpipe records in his cheap boarding-house room.

Prospectors Told To Use Pick A Little More

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Barker, one of three prospectors who are potential millionaires as a result of their discovery of the Manitouwadge base metal field, gave prospectors some advice Tuesday night.

Speaking to the Prospectors and Developers Association, he held up a black bag and said:

"I have here an instrument that has helped in the establishment of every mine in Canada, and, if used, will help find many more."

He opened his bag, held up a prospectors pick and commented:

"Don't mind bending over and doing a little digging."

The second piece of advice had to do with map reading. It was:

"Work on the first 10 miles off the watershed, and let the geophysicists have the rest of it."

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Joan Benny and Seth Baker embarked on a Hawaiian honeymoon today while her father, Jack Benny faced an estimated $25,000 bill for one of the most fabulous weddings in Hollywood history.

Benny, wearing white tie, tails and glasses, Tuesday night led his 19-year-old adopted daughter down the flower-festooned reception room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. "I'd rather not look so good and wear glasses than fall on my face," the comedian explained.

Benny gave Joan in marriage to Baker, 26-year-old New York stock broker and son of industrialist Harry Baker, before a crowd of stars of stage, radio, television and movies. Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin performed the double-ring ceremony.

OPENED PURSE WIDE

Billed as a tightwad on his radio and TV programs, Benny spared no expense in the wedding. White lilacs were flown from Holland to add to the white and green motif that converted the crystal room into a spring garden. Designer Don Loper, who staged the affair, flew to France to arrange for an exclusive weave of brocaded white satin for the bride's gown. Thirty-five yards with lily-of-the-valley figurings were used.

The principals faced news cameras before the ceremony and after. Then the bride's mother, Mary Livingstone, who had arranged all the details, became impatient with the photographers and ordered the reception line to begin.

Benny played it straight throughout. He smiled warmly and made some attempts at humor, but he seemed obviously nervous with his role as the doting father. He even resisted the temptation to join the orchestra of 10 violinists who serenaded the reception with "Love In Bloom."

The wedding brought the biggest star turnout within memory. Two hundred attended the reception swelled the guest list to 600.

Moscow Mothers Park Junior At Nurseries at Early Hour

MOSCOW (CP)—Baby goes to the day nursery here before mummy cooks her own breakfast in the morning.

Working Moscow mothers—and that means most—park junior in the nursery at 7 a.m. They don't get him back until 7 p.m.

The number of Moscow day nurseries run between 1,800 and 2,000. I visited one opened three years ago. Like most of the rest it is a two-storey brick building accommodating 100 toddlers from two months (mother returns to work when they're that old) to three years.

About one-half the children stay in the nursery all week from Monday morning to Saturday evening when the parents take them home for Sunday. Parents who do the occasional night shift for a week also leave baby in the clinic that week.

NURSERY ROUTINE

Apart from his nights at home the whole routine of baby's life is in the clinical motherly care of the nursery staff.

When mother takes baby to the nursery in the morning, he is stripped down in a "filter room" before being admitted to the clinic proper. One of the nursery's three doctors takes temperature, records pulse and examines skin. No sick babies get by that daily test.

Each child has his or her own nursery clothes. In the nursery boys and girls dress alike—shirt waist and pants, with a sort of corduroy dress-over-all that looks like a shirt and buttons down the back. Some parents like their little girls' hair cropped short for the first three years. Nonetheless they, too, like ribbons around their heads. So the absence of the ribbon is the only way a stranger can tell a boy from a girl.

FOUR MEALS DAILY

The nursery cares for the children four meals daily totalling 2,000 calories.

Babies usually are breast-fed during the first year. Mothers are driven from work twice during the day to feed them.

Baby is weighed before and after feeding. If mother hasn't been generous enough the nursery adds more. If mother makes a habit of this baby gets pasteurized mothers' milk, delivered to the clinic bottled.

The tots take regular fresh-air naps the year round in enclosed verandahs. They wear snuggie pyjamas and are rolled up in blanket-type sleeping-bags.

The staff of 47 is headed by a medical doctor, buxom Dr. Maria Victorianva Platjery, who at 38 has been a doctor 14 years. She is an affectionate person and has two sons of her own, aged 14 and six.

MUSIC TEACHER TOO

Her staff, besides three doctors, includes two teachers, one music teacher, 17 registered nurses who share day and night duties, 11 nannies aged from 20 to 60, four cooks and assorted laundresses, dishwashers and cleaners.

Her duties are the children of various types of workers, office employees and a good number of students. The parents pay according to income. Most pay between $8 and $15 rubles a month. Some pay as much as 40, the top.

Moscow is a city in which a good pedagogical student earns 300 rubles a month, a high school teacher 800, a barber 1,000 and a high school principal, 1,800. The ruble's official rate of exchange is (25 cents.)

The children seem to have a really grand time. The teachers tell them stories which they illustrate with toys, lead them in games, and teach them songs and dances. Musical education begins young here.

"Their parents complain that at home they break the rules," Dr. Platjery said, "but on Monday morning the children complain to us. They say their parents don't go to bed, so why should they?"

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TRUTH, RIGHTLY SPOKEN, NEVER HURTS ANYONE

It is never safe to bring children up with an unrealistic point of view toward life.

If they are taught to believe that anything, or anyone, is wholly good or wholly bad, it is sure to cause serious difficulty in their emotional growth as they leave childhood behind and try to cope with the problems of maturity. Led to expect too much of life, they may become disillusioned and bitter when they find how far reality can fall short of rosy dreams.

On the other hand, if they have given a distorted outlook of humanity who have been disappointed in their own hopes and ambitions, their confidence in their ability to achieve, and their trust in other people, may suffer serious damage.

The only wise, safe and fair thing is to tell children the truth from the very beginning — explain that no one is perfect, and that life is composed of both happy and unhappy things, in which the person of character must learn to adjust. Children who have been handled in such a way are going to grow up with the ability to stand on their own two feet, see things in their true proportions and cope with them intelligently.

A mother of two children, a girl of 18 and a boy of 18, whose marriage apparently has been unusually happy, writes that she finds difficulty that now confronts her fast because she and her husband have always given their children the idea that all marriages are happy.

"We tried to teach them, through fairy tales, when they were very young," she says. "They are fine children, and at their age now believe that some day they will magi their prince or princess and be as happy as we have been. We have them believing that all marriages should turn out that way.

Now the children are witnessing the spectacle of the home of their exact dear neighbor being broken up by the husband's infidelity.

"Our children have been asking questions about this," the mother writes. "We have been very evasive, but cannot keep up this way. We don't like to tell them any lies, yet how can we square what they are seeing and hearing with what we have told them about love and marriage? We know it's wrong to affect their outlook on life.

"Must our children be disillusioned just a time when they will be seeking the companionship of the opposite sex?"

As I see it, there is only one thing for this mother to do, and that is to correct, as quickly as possible, the bad mistake she made earlier in teaching her children fairy tales about life. She can tell them that her own happy marriage is the way the love of a man and a woman should normally turn out, and that it will do so if each of them has the right attitude toward the other and toward the responsibilities of life. But she will have to go on to say that when either husband or wife fails in these respects, there can be no happy marriage.

If she explains all this carefully, there is no reason why it should disillusion the children or poison their outlook on romance. On the contrary, it will strengthen it, as made with the understanding and wisdom, it can result only in good, by giving them a much more mature and sensible view point and by showing them the importance of developing in themselves the qualities that will make them happy and successful marital partners.

This mother should stop being evasive about these neighbors and take herself and her children out of the dream world in which they have been living. Rightly spoken the truth can never hurt anyone.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

FRECKLES

It is no good telling a teen-aged girl that those golden specks on her nose are not disfiguring, that they are not a real beauty defect. She yearns with all her heart for a fair complexion. She doesn't realize that, with her fresh, young loveliness, others may consider her freckles piquant and sassy.

There are two kinds of freckles: those that appear along with the blue blooms and disappear when the leaves begin to fall and those which are permanent features. The thin delicate skin of the blonde attracts them more readily than the epidermal coat of the brunette which seems to have a certain amount against the caresses of the sun.

In nearly all cases freckles disappear with the years—sometimes even before a girl is in her twenties. Occasionally, of course, they stay with one for a longer period. Many of our most famous movie stars had them in their younger days.

No matter if freckles are fleeting or permanent, the skin should be protected from the strong rays of the sun. This can be done by wearing a make-up foundation that will screen it, or a light film over the face and neck.

Frequent lubrication is important. A thin oil or cream should be used before applying make-up of any kind; it should also be used for the removal of cosmetics. At bedtime a heavier cream should be applied, massaged lightly into the flesh, allowed to remain on during sleep. The more oil on the skin the less chance of sunlight causing the freckles to increase in number.

Sponging the skin surface with a solution of lemon juice and water parts of strained lemon juice and peroxide will help in some cases.

Good-Natured Complaint Re Economy

By Mary Moore

Grietje (Dutch for Margaret) writes "...wouldn't it be more fair to introduce the Canadian cooking on a not quite so stingy basis?"

Her long letter was engaging and individualistic and I would dearly love to print it but she hoped I would not.

After dinner last night I thought "Now there's a meal Grietje can't call stingy." Yet the meal was not extravagant, as you can judge for yourself. It bears out my argument that you can serve an infinite variety of meals from foods that are all procurable on Canadian markets.

In my opinion the following shrimp dish is a rare treat.

SHRIMP AND SMOKED OYSTER CASSEROLE

One lb. shrimp in the shell ($1.25), 1 4-oz. can smoked oysters (Salco brand Japanese No. 2 is excellent brand U.S. Sec), 2 cups white sauce (see below), 2 oz. or less old Cheddar cheese grated, 2/3 cup buttered crumbs, ½ teaspoon each salt and paprika, ¼ cup sherry.

Fresh shrimp in the shell are a nuisance to prepare but the crispness they retain when after cooking is worth all the trouble. Shell them, remove intestinal vein with sharp pointed knife scrape out the dark vein from the back. Drain the oil from the oysters and arrange with the whole sauce by heating in top of double boiler 2 cups white milk, and stir into it a mixture of 4 tablespoons each melted butter and flour, until thick. To add the grated cheese, salt and MSG. Gently stir in the prepared fish and the drained oysters. Turn into casserole. Sprinkle sifted crumbs mixed with paprika over top, dot with tablespoons melted butter, over top. Bake at 350 degrees F. or 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 or 25 minutes or until bubbling all over and tinged with gold.

We served this with new beets and spinach and celery hearts and our semi-tropical

APPLE PIE A LA PEADY

Six average-sized Spy apples, 2/3 to ¾ cup light brown sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, about 1 or 1½ tablespoons butter, about ½ to ¾ teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg.

The Pastry (for deep 10-inch pie plate): Two cups unsifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup lard, ½ cup butter, sift into bowl with 1 teaspoon salt. Cut lard and butter with pastry blender or 2 knives 2/3 cup good quality

Weather change catch you short of drying space? Just turn baby's pig pen on its side for extra rack room.

Vitamin C . . . Spy . . . Apple . . . No squeezing, no peeling to give baby the precious Vitamin C he needs every day. Gerber's Strained Apple Juice is specially processed for babies. It's made from tree-ripened oranges, selected for uniform Vitamin C content and the mild, fresh-fruit flavor you take to. Carefully pasteurized and finally strained to be fed from bottle, cup or spoon.

Cover-up! If you do not use all the orange juice, or any baby foods, at one feeding, leave the remainder right in the container. Just cover well before placing in your refrigerator. If you don't save Gerber's handy can covers, a bit of wax paper, and a rubber band will serve nicely.

Five to go! Gerber's five famous Baby Cereals are all ready to prepare and ready to serve. Simply add milk, formula or other liquid, and in a moment, easy-to-swallow texture. Each one has a delicate, but distinctive flavor pleasing to unawakened taste buds. And all five are enriched with the blood-building iron, bone-building calcium and the important B-Vitamins baby's growing body needs. For variety, rotate: Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat, and Mixed Cereal.

Important! When first introducing cereal to your eager little eater, try a soupy mixture at first, so the texture will seem more familiar. Increase the thickness of the cereal gradually as your baby learns to swallow.

shortening and when this resembles fine meal sprinkle over top 2 or 4 tablespoons cold water (4 tablespoons are preferable) and cut in with knife just until flour is moistened. Roll out half of it on floured board to just fit your 10-inch pie plate. Slice pared Spy tipples thinly into crust, sprinkling half of the sugar over apples when half of them are in. Finish with apples then sugar. Sprinkle over the spices then dot with the butter. Roll out top crust, gash centre section to allow steam to escape, fit over apples, seal edges by moistening under rim, trim off excess dough and seal by pressing with tines of fork. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes reduce heat to 400 for another 30 minutes or until apples are thoroughly tender and crust is golden brown.

We are cheese addicts so we served old cheddar and Camembert. There are folk who come to this house who want homemade ice cream on this, but until I can make a shrimp casserole, after peeling the shrimp, and made an apple pie after peeling the apples, they are lucky to get cheese with it.

I certainly know more vegetaresome cooks will try the shrimp casserole and will to your permanent cooking repertory. It will serve six adequately.

SUGGESTIONS FOR INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are planning to give a combination Tea and Cocktail Party on a Sunday afternoon during the visit of a married couple, dear friends of ours, at the home of mutual friends. I would like to write the invitations on our informals. Since they evidently won't be very often at home here too long before our party, how long before the party is the proper time to send the invitations? — Katherine T.

If possible, have your invitations out at least a week before your party. If you ask for a "reply," you will of course have to allow more time, probably two weeks. Don't try often a hostess who has not much time to receive replies. Telephones her invitations then at once the guests' acceptance or regret), and follows up the telephoned invitation by sending "reminders" to those who have accepted. You might like to do this, and use your informals for the "reminder." Like this, for example:

Dear Helen,

Arthur and I are so happy you and Bill are coming to our party "to meet" Isabelle and Walt Browne, from Detroit, who are visiting the Atwaters. Sunday, March 28, four to seven o'clock.

BRIDE WANTS TO GIVE GROOM A CAMERA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As my wedding present (to wear on our wedding day) I would like my groom is going to give me a string of cultured pearls. Although I haven't known many brides who have given their bridegroom a wedding present I want to give my man a wedding present. He has a wrist watch, several pairs of cuff links, an evening set, two wallets, and such. I've been wondering if it would be suitable for me to give him a really fine camera—I know exactly the one he'd like—and keep it as a surprise until I give it to him. I would like to seem the customary present to give. What to do? —Cathy S.

You've hit on the perfect wedpresent for your bridegroom. . . I'm sure of this. Don't worry from this plan of yours. . . he'll be delighted that he chose such a knowing girl as his wife!

THE PROPER THING TO SAY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm the "big sister"—I like food, am never "fussy" about it, but I don't like to see it wasted. For example, when I dine at a friend's house, and the host does the carving and I see he is going to give me as large a serving as he gives the others, I always wonder if it would be proper for me to ask him to give me a small portion. Would this be polite, or would they possibly think that I wasn't enjoying the food they were so kindly offering me?

Florence K.

When you are dining at the house of a friend, it is entirely correct for you to say to the host when he is doing the carving "Just a small piece, please, Jack," (or "a small portion"). (No explanation of your request is necessary.) It is kinder, more sensible to do this; than to accept a large (or larger) portion and, as you say, waste it.

"DEAR SIRS" OR "GENTLEMEN"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please clear our discussion."A" says that when one is addressing a company, the correct salutation is "Dear Sirs," while "B" says it should be "Gentlemen." Which is right?

A and B

"A" is right . . today's salutation customarily used 'is "Dear Sirs."

Business Women Hear Address On Arctic Trip

CAMPBELLFORD — The Business and Professional Women's Club met at the Trent House, on the hill overlooking the town of five members of the Campbellford council, Marjory Perrins, provincial president, and five other guests were present. President Jean Morrison presided.

Barbara Smith, Fannie Peters and Peggy Darey were appointed to the nominating committee. The club is planning a tea to be held at the home of Fannie Peters, shortly after Easter. Jean Morrison welcomed the guests and proposed a toast to the town council, to which Isabel Tatham replied.

Dr. R. S. Robertson, of Colborne, who visited the club recently with the C. D. Howe expedition several times, was introduced by Nicolas Scott and proceeded to take the audience on a 15,000 mile trip through the medium of colored pictures, up the coast of Labrador, in and around Hudson Bay and as far as Baffin Land. Dr. Robertson also gave a descriptive commentary on the life and habit of the Eskimo and the Indian.

STIRLING

Officials of New Cotton Industry Address C. of C. Dinner Meeting

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING — Stirling Chamber of Commerce sponsored a dinner meeting at Stirling community hall on Thursday evening. Many from 100 points attending.

The two guest speakers were Mr. William Young and Mr. David Young, directors of Hamilton Cotton Company.

Mr. William Young gave a graphic picture of the textile industry in general. He told his audience that his grandfather started the Hamilton Cotton Co. in 1880 and for the past 73 years some of the members of the Young family have been actively engaged in the cotton industry. The Youngs operated as a private concern until 1929 and since that time the firm has been a publicly owned industry with listings on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

THREE PLANTS

Hamilton Cottons have three plants in operation, situated in Hamilton, Dundas and Trenton and three employ approximately 1,000 workers. The speaker stressed that this company has always been a leader in bettering labor relations and it was proud to be known as such.

Mr. Young spoke briefly on the present crisis in the textile industry and felt it was largely due to below cost competition from the United States. He was sure that it was only of a temporary nature and that the textile industry would quickly recover

BROAD PLANS

The speaker said any industry must be progressive with broad ideas to be assured the confidence that Hamilton Cottons were planning for bigger and better plants for the future Mr. Young in giving reasons why a small centre like Stirling was chosen as the site of their new plant said that heavy industry and light industry do not go well together and that a light industry is better in a small centre. He also stated that the buildings in Hamilton are older and do not lend themselves to satisfactory production.

It is much more satisfactory to have a new, up-to-date building with modern lighting and other conveniences.

NO DATE SET

The second speaker, Mr. David Young, said this new development in Stirling would come under his department, which is narrow fabric weaving. He told of future plans now developing the new plant and said it would be impossible to give the exact date when operations would begin in Stirling. The company plans to erect a plant with 14,000 square feet of floor space, costing in the neighborhood of $350,000.

The new plant will be equipped with the most modern machinery. There will be 80 employees with 60 percent female and 40 percent male workers. The plant will have a three-shift operation and the estimated annual payroll will be approximately $100,000.

NO SMOKE PROBLEM

One of the main reasons for shifting plants of this nature from city areas was to avoid the smoke problem. This is a very clean industry with no excessive waste or smoke and it fits in very nicely with a residential section.

This new venture holds first priority with the company but at present officials cannot state when building will be started but hope that it will be in the near future.

Members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, served the turkey banquet.

Mr. E. D. Ketcheson, president of Stirling Chamber, of Commerce, presided. Head tables guests included: Jos. Michaels, president Elaine Footwear Co. Ltd., Stirling; two vice-presidents, of Trent Cotton Company, Joe Valchar and George Lyons; R. D. Patterson, secretary of Stirling Chamber of Commerce, and others, whose names have been mentioned in this article.

FOOTWEAR INDUSTRY

President Ketcheson spoke briefly of the Elaine Footwear Co. which was established in Stirling in 1950. At the beginning 15 people were employed and now there are 65 employees in 1953 the average shoe output was 300 pairs, and now it is around 1,000 pairs per day. The shoes are shipped from coast-to-coast, and the company is growing larger each year.

Reeve R. K. West welcomed the guests and the representatives of the new cotton industry. He stated that all residents of Stirling and community were hereby interested in this new venture and sincerely hoped it would be of mutual benefit to the company and the community.

Fred Houchin and Russell Pryer led the group in assembly singing and Mr. K. P. Mayhew played several musical selections.

"BAKERS" OF STERLING

Lt. H. R. Tompkins, past president of Stirling Chamber of Commerce, introduced Mr. C. A. Baker, manager of Trent Cottons Ltd., Trenton.

Mr. Tompkins gave a vivid picture of the name "Baker" and said it was synonymous with progress and prosperity in Stirling

Stirling will soon be 100 years of age. In 1853, when it was called Seldon's Mills, Mr. William Baker erected two mills and later became the first president of "The Sons of England."

Mr. Thomas Baker was first to see the need of fire fighting equipment in the village and through his efforts the first reels were purchased.

Mr. Edward Baker and his son, Mr. C. N. Baker, played prominent parts in the progress and prosperity of the community.

At the present time, Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's United Church, has given valuable leadership for the past four years. He and his centennial committee are doing a worthwhile job in putting Stirling on the map.

Since May 24, 1953, many outstanding ministers, church officials, men of high rank in lodges and government have visited Stirling and had a part in the centennial services. The speaker stated that Mr. C. A. Baker, manager of Trent Cotton Co., of Trenton, was born and educated in Oshawa. He followed the trade of cabinet maker for several years and in 1931 he moved to Trenton and accepted a position with Trent Cotton Mills.

Mr. Baker, a good worker and business director, was promoted as manager of the plant at Dundas. In 1952 he came back to Trenton as manager of the plant in that town.

Mr. C. A. Baker thanked Mr. Tompkins for the "Baker" history and for his kind introduction and then introduced William and David Young, of Hamilton.

Following these two addresses, Mr. D. W. Rodgers, vice-president of Trent Cotton Company, of Commerce, thanked the guests for their addresses.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THIS IS IT!

From the talk we hear along the hockey rialtos in Wellington and Trenton tonight's Trent Valley League playoffs shindig at Memorial Arena should just about pack the ice emporium. Feeling is running high between the squads and as tonight's tussle means elimination for one or t'other it should be a dilly of a fray. The teams are even-steven on the round and the winner of tonight's tilt will clash with the winner of the Trenton ECAF-Batawa series for the southern division championship. Marmora and Havelock are battling it out for northern division honors.

Wellington came up with a sustained offensive in the last tilt that netted them three first-period goals. But the Admirals hitched up their britches and nearly pulled the game out of the fire in the third heat. Should be good!

SHOULD PACK 'EM IN!

They tell us the tickets for the Kingston Goodyears-Oshawa Treadmen Senior 'B' playoff finale here Friday night are going fast in the proverbial hotcakes. It is estimated that nearly 2,000 Kingston fans will make the safari from Rodenhurst to cheer the Goodies to victory and, if the near-by rival hikes from this village will be on hand to take in the tilt. The teams play in Kingston tonight in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series and if Oshawa wins it will give them a 3-1 stranglehold on the series.

* * * * *

ZONE EXAMPLE!

There was a subtle "crack" in the St. Catharines Standard's sports editor's column a short time ago anent what he termed the "rough play in minor hockey that is apparent around Belleville."

Since the greater part of "rough play" incidents have occurred in Eastern Ontario it would have done our old friend Clayton Browne, yo sports editor, good to have witnessed the outstanding display of minor hockey as was given here Monday night between the Stirling and Bracebridge Juvenile "C" teams.

In fact it would have warmed the cockles of the hearts of such estimable gentry of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association as Percy "Mike" Welchel, "bless his heart"; the imperturbable Jack Corbett; the "Midnight Maurauder"; Herb Parker, (ditto), and the rest of the OMHA fraternity that is doing such an outstanding job in minor hockey organization in the province.

It was Young Canada at its hockey best.

There was not a gnat's whisker difference between the squads as far as ability is concerned. But the Stirling youngsters had just enough of the old punch left to ram home the winning goal and walk off with the honors.

It was fast, hard-checking hockey with both teams handing out stiff bodychecks, all legal. Not once in the eighty minutes of play was a stick or an eyebrow raised in anger. The squads realized there was too much at stake and a penalty at a crucial time might cost victory. The eight sentences handed out by the referees were of a minor nature and one or two hovered on the borderline.

One of these came in the first minutes of play and although the Bracebridge contingent voiced slight disapproval, it was apparent the penalty was intended to rule with a firm hand. That first penalty probably had a lot to do with it as from there on, Referees Mulholland's and Williams' thumbs were seldom used.

The game could easily have developed into one of those "ask-no-quarter-give-none" affairs that occur all too frequently in hockey playdown series when so much is at stake. There was tension and excitement in the packed arena. Elimination hung in the balance and the teams, knowing each other's ability through a previous encounter, could have gone off "half-cocked" at the slightest provocation.

The rest is an example of what two well-coached teams can do when the pressure is on." We do not know the name of the Bracebridge mentor but he, with his Stirling counterpart, Russ Pryear, deserve huge pats on the back for a job well done. The good hockey season's work was seen in the outstanding playing of clean, hard-fought hockey that characterized the game. And it was a crucial if every there was one, with both teams emerging, as Harry Balloch would say "with escutcheons unblemished and honor untarnished."

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association need not worry over the criticism of alleged hockey-experts, who, in the past, have tossed cold water on organized hockey for youngsters, as long as representative teams come up with a display of knowledge, ability and sportsmanship such as was exemplified in the Stirling-Bracebridge game here.

Teeps Lose But Brian Cullen Shoots At Ontario Junior A Scoring Record

By The Canadian Press

Brian Cullen should become the greatest scorer in junior A hockey this year.

Cullen, scoring at a fast clip with St. Catharines TeePees all season in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, tallied only once Tuesday night but it gave him his 85th goal of the season and tied the record held by two other players.

The league-leading TeePees lost 5-3 to Guelph Biltmores but still 9 points ahead of Barrie Flyers who lost 5-3 to Kitchener in the only other league contest.

Cullen made it No. 85 at 19:10 of the first period when he beat Guelph netminder Bill Ramsay on a three-man rush. It gave TeePees a 3-0 lead but they soon frittered it away before the end of the game.

BARRY SCORES TOO

Brian's brother, Barry, and Will Roberts scored the other St. Catharines goals. Barry scored twice for Guelph, Jack Muckler, Bob Attersley and Menard tallied the others.

At Kitchener, Glenn Cressman scored twice for the Greenshirts. The others went to Buddy Horne, Graham Joyce and Greig Hicks. Terry Carney tallied two goals for the losers. Ross Graham got the other.

The win moved Greenshirts into a four-points-up tie with Hamilton Cubs, two points behind the third-spot Toronto St. Michael's Majors. The Greenshirts have only one game left in the schedule, which ends Sunday. The Cubs and the Majors each have three games to go.

Tonight the Cubs are at Guelph, Galt is at Toronto Marlboros and the Flyers meet St. Michael's at Toronto.

Send Con Smythe To Moscow And Another War Will Start, Quips Ranger Boss Boucher

By Ed Simon
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs told the Russian ambassador in Ottawa Tuesday that their proposed tour of the Soviet Union would "promote international ice hockey and goodwill."

No answer has been received from the Soviet embassy but lack of artificial ice surfaces in Russia would probably force postponement of the proposed tour until next winter.

Manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers said Tuesday night that "if Canada wants to take responsibility for starting a third world war, I can see no surer way than for sending (Leaf managing director Conn Smythe) to Moscow with a hockey team."

Boucher, a longtime National Hockey League adversary of Smythe and the Leafs as a player, coach and manager, wasn't entirely serious about the dangers of world conflict.

But the reaction of European crowds and players to Canadian-style hockey, even the relatively tame senior B brand served up by Toronto East York at the world hockey championships in Stockholm, Sweden, is the sun-picion that a taste of the thumping Hitler, with Smythe behind the bench dubious gesture of international friendship.

KNOCK 'EM OUT, CUT DOWN

A former NHL player of smallish stature once said "you've gotta be able to knock 'em out with a body to stay in this league." And every coach's first word to his rookies is the warning: "Keep your head down going in on the other team's defense, you'll get killed."

These maxims may be commonplace, to fans in NHL cities, but their application to the relatively mild scale by East York players brought cries of "dirty hockey" and "terror tactics" from Swedish reporters accustomed to European style bodychecking. "violent bodychecking" is grounds for a penalty.

Boucher said: "Canada's defence seldom punished under Canadian rules, and proved a thorn in East York's flesh as players found themselves thumbed off consistently for shoving and roughing with a dasher. The thump of bodies crashing into the boards can be heard frequently from coast to coast on any Saturday night NHL broadcast.

Playing under their own conservatively interpreted rules, the Leafs have committed 924 minutes' worth of infractions in their 66 games this season, a crime sheet second only to that of Montreal Canadiens.

GOODWILL DUBIOUS

Whether the Russians would take readily to such goodwill ambassadors as centre Tod Sloan (92 minutes) and defencemen Tim Horton (90 minutes) is a question to give pause to the most sportsminded Ottawa diplomat.

Returning members of the East York club have recommended a thorough schooling in European rules for the next Canadian club that goes to seek its fortune in European play.

Since Monroe dispatches report Smythe's proposed May tour of the Soviet Union is doomed by lack of artificial ice, the Leaf general manager might be able to give his players a little rule-book drill before reviving his plan next year.

Referees, Ice, Rules and Politics Blamed For Canada's Puck Defeat

TORONTO (CP) — Canada lost the world amateur hockey championship because of some weird refereeing, unfamiliar European rules and sloppy ice conditions. And the champion Russians were about the fourth best team in the Stockholm tournament.

"We aren't crying, but that's the way it is," four Canadian team members said on arrival home Tuesday night. The consensus of the four was that the Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Canada had better teams than the Russians but that politics entered into the picture when the Czechs and Swedes held back to protect, against the Soviet team.

The four—Eric Unger, Don Lockhart, Bill Sinil and Doug Chapman —received a hero's welcome as their plane from Montreal landed at Malton airport. A crowd of about 75 was on hand, newspaper men and photographers flocked around them and they were interviewed on television.

They said the Russians had prepared four years for the Stockholm championship.

"We were told that when the team was picked, they practised eight hours a day for months," Lockhart said.

The Russians are not natural hockey players, but they are fast and their short-passing game was good," Unger said. "They just don't forecheck and when they are the defending team five of them line up at their own blue line waiting for the opposition to come in."

The four had only one word—"no"—for the Russians' 1-0 victory with Sweden and 5-2 victory over Czechoslovakia. (Canada defeated the Czechs 5-2 and Sweden 8-0).

All agreed, to, that the referees were biased.

Asked to explain Canada's 7-2 loss to Russia in the final game, the players said only that the team played a "rotten game."

"We just couldn't get going that day but I think we could take them if we ever met again," Unger said.

'15,000 Bucks' Says Canada Can Win Title

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver sportsman Cliff Hall has offered to gamble $15,000 that he can send a Canadian team that would win the 1955 world hockey championship.

Hall, owner of the professional Vancouver Canucks in the Western Hockey League, said in an interview he is willing to pick an amateur team for the next world tournament. If the club lost, as Toronto East York did to Russia in Stockholm, Hall would finance the trip. If the club won, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would pay the bill. He estimated the cost at about $15,000.

"My idea is to send an amateur team, probably all players from British Columbia, and wipe out the stigma which is strictly the fault of the CAHA."

Blues Must Pluck Chihawks If They Want Playoff Berth, Trail Bruins By Three Points

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lynn Patrick has just as many hockey veterans as Muzz Patrick.

Ever since Muzz, coach of New York Rangers, brought old-timers Doug and Max Bentley and Edgar Laprade, National Hockey League fans expected a great stretch run by the Rangers to edge Lynn and his Boston Bruins for the fourth playoff berth in the Stanley Cup championships.

They got it. The Ranger winning streak is history now but it didn't get them past the Bruins.

The Bentleys and Laprade have been terrific. They helped win many games for the Rangers. Lynn's old-timers have been all right, too. Such men as defenceman Bill Quackenbush, a 12-year man in the big leagues, Milt Schmidt, who has never had a bad season in 15 years in the NHL and Porky Dumart have given the Bruins staying power all year.

It's a veteran show of whose veterans will falter.

The Rangers are up against the odds. They meet the last-place Chicago Hawks at New York's Madison's Square Garden in the only league game tonight.

COULD TRIP RANGERS

The Hawks can't go anywhere in the closely bunched race but they can help ruin Ranger hopes of catching the Bruins. The Rangers are in fifth place with 60 points, three behind Boston, and have six games left in the 70-game schedule.

The Bruins have a game advantage plus the three-point edge. If the Rangers drop one tonight they will have to count on the Bruins dropping a few games.

A big game comes Thursday night when the Rangers and Bruins meet at Boston. In two other tilts Thursday, the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs play at the third-place Canadiens at Montreal and the Black Hawks meet the league-leading Red Wings at Detroit.

Hershey Bears Trounce Hornets

HERSHEY, Pa. (CP)—Hershey Bears took over second place in the American Hockey League from Pittsburgh Tuesday night by trouncing the Hornets 6-1.

The Hershey victory clinched first place for the idle Buffalo Bisons.

Arnie Kullman paced the winners with three goals. AHL scoring leader George Sullivan got two, Norm Corcoran, Murray Costello and Don McKenney completed the Hershey total. Bobby Hassard was the lone Pittsburgh marksman.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

LAKELAND (AP)—Although big league clubs training on Florida's west coast ran into a spell of the winter's worst weather during the opening of their exhibition schedules, and lost heavily at the gate, none of the managers is complaining that his players are behind in conditioning. Sore arms and legs are few and far between.

"You can train the modern player in almost any kind of weather," one pilot explained. "He used to be that you needed lots of real hot weather to sweat off the beer bellies, but not any more. Almost all of them keep themselves in shape now and are about ready to go when they tie on their shoes. Big salaries have made a lot of difference."

Speaking of ball players and their money, we learn that they finally have emerged victorious in a long and stubborn battle with the income tax collector concerning the necessity of their maintaining two homes during the season.

Always before when a manager or player closed his winter home, say, in Florida, and moved his wife and kiddies into an expensive apartment in a big league city for the summer, it was just his hard luck.

Now our athlete is entitled to deduct the cost of the apartment, providing he returns to his home town each winter and holds a job there for three months.

Steve O'Neill of the Phillies has had the unique distinction of managing three players who widely regarded as the greatest over the past dozen or so years—Bobby Feller at Cleveland, Hal Newhouser at Detroit and now Robin Roberts.

"All three were entirely different," he says. "All Feller wanted to do was rear back and throw. He never liked to try a change of pace—had no confidence in it. Newhouser was a beautiful, smooth workman who gave a batter a little of everything. Roberts is more like Newhouser than Feller but he's easier to handle than either. When he's right you don't have to worry about anything. You just hand him the ball and sit back and you know he'll likely pitch you a complete game."

Archie Moore Gives Bob Baker Savage Beating

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, carrying the heaviest fighting weight of his career, gave Pittsburgh heavyweight Bob Baker a savage beating Tuesday night to win by a technical knockout in 2:06 of the ninth round.

Baker was reeling before a murderous attack when referee Peter Serron stepped in and stopped the fight. Baker's blood had splattered reporters at ringside and the crowd of 2,704 had wondered for two rounds why the Pittsburgh boy boy didn't go down.

Moore was 13½ pounds over the light heavyweight limit at 190½ and experts doubted that Archie would be able to make the class weight without seriously weakening himself. The once-promising Baker came in at 200.

Stratford Indians Whip Dutchies In Series Opener

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Indians drew first blood in Senior A Ontario Hockey Association best-of-five semifinals Tuesday night by defeating Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 4-1.

George Scholes scored Kitchener's goal in the first period while Indians were two players down through penalties. Johnny Muretich evened the score in a lone effort before the period ended.

Mickey Roth tallied the only marker of the second frame, which saw 10 penalties.

Dutchmen were forced to open up in the third period which proved fatal when Lou Reade banged home his own rebound at 7:31. Three minutes later Fred Pletsch scored for Indians.

The second and third games will be played in Kitchener Thursday and Saturday nights.

Gleason's 'Bum Better Bum Than Other Bums'

NEW YORK (CAP)—"My bum is a better bum than all the other bums around and that's why he should get a shot at Rocky Marciano," said Bobby Gleason, manager of Cuban heavyweight champion Nino Valdes.

"Okay, Okay," chimed in the 210-pound fighter with a big grin. "Okay" apparently is his entire English vocabulary.

Nino was the guest of honor at a luncheon party Tuesday given by Gleason and the International Boxing Club. The IBC is promoting the 10-rounder between Valdes and James J. Pr or of Barrie at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Nino's record is 29-8-1 with 20 knockouts. He stands six-foot-three. Pr Parker he will meet another 6-2 fighter who will weigh about 208. Parker has won 17 in a row, 13 of them by knockouts.

Dufferin Track

TORONTO (CP)—Nancy Patch, owned and driven by Allan Walker of Owen Sound, was an easy double winner in the class BB pace, top harness attraction at Dufferin Park Tuesday.

Miss Jean Chips, owned by C. Mewhinney of Wallenstein, and guided by Keith Waples, scored a double-dual victory in the six featured fifth event, also a class B Space.

POISONOUS VISITOR

LONDON (CP) — A poisonous West Indian spider was found in a bunch of bananas that arrived in the kitchen of a junior school in Hammersmith. A Kitchen worker detected the insect, now lodged in London Zoo.

Kingston CI Football Team Is Disqualified

KINGSTON (CP)—An ineligible player last season cost Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute the Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association B group football championship, it was announced Tuesday.

The player in question did not obtain a 50 per cent average without a failure in June examinations last year and was ineligible for participation in sports the following school year under a rule of the EOSSA constitution.

In a letter to Fred Fleming, coach of the KCVI football team, league convener B. J. Terry said: "As convener of the B group EOSSA, it is my unpleasant duty to inform you that the KCVI football team of 1953 has been disqualified in all games in which an ineligible player appeared."

Kingston has been requested to return all crests and trophies won by the team to Arnprior, EOSSA finalists.

Sport in Brief

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Surgeons worked 30 minutes Tuesday to wire Ted Williams' fractured left collarbone, an eight-day-old break.

The operation probably will shorten Williams' time with the Boston Red Sox line-up from months to weeks.

After the 35-year-old outfielder had been trundled out of the operating room, Dr. Russell Sullivan told reporters:

"Everything is fine.

"... It (the operation) had to be done, otherwise it would have healed 'askew' to have a break healed.

Dr. Sullivan, aided by two other surgeons, used a six-inch steel nail to join the broken pieces of bone and also stitched a triangular fragment into place. The clavicle then was encased by insertion of silvers.

Dr. Sullivan said Williams should be able to bat and throw "lightly" in six weeks—when the pin probably will be removed—and should be able to play ball in eight weeks.

The big slugger suffered the fracture March 1, 10 minutes after he bunted out to left field at Boston's Florida training camp.

MIAMI (AP)—Jackie Robinson, former all-star second baseman, probably will see the baseball season in left field for Brooklyn Dodgers.

That was indicated by manager Walter Alston in announcing he will use his regular line-up for the first time against Philadelphia Phillies today.

Also announcing that PeeWee Reese would play short for the first time, Alston listed Robinson for left field and Billy Cox as his third baseman.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A Russian swimming team Tuesday night claimed a world record for the men's 400-yard medley relay.

The Russians said they swam the 400 yards in three minutes, 33 seconds. The listed world record is 3:37.1 set last year by a Yale University team.

An Ohio state team has a record application pending for a 3:35.1 set Feb. 8.

The Russian team has an application pending for the world's 400-metre medley relay.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Composition of the British Empire Games athletic track has been approved.

The test was made by miller Bill Parnell, sprinter Bob Hutchinson and track and field officials Lloyd Swindells and Fred Rowell. Four different tracks, each composed of different mixed ingredients, were tested.

The one approved was composed of 45 per cent coke breeze—fine-powdered coal—and 55 per cent clay. This will be used as a cover for the track at the game stadium.

VICTORIA (CP)—New Zealand All-Blacks opened their three-game exhibition Rugger series in British Columbia with a 30-3 victory over Victoria Crimson Tide Tuesday. All-Blacks move to Vancouver for games Thursday and Saturday.

George Blames Canada's Defeat On 'Bad Game'

LONDON (CP) — Toronto East York got a bad game out of its system at a bad time when the Canadians lost 7-2 to Russia in the world hockey championships, president W. B. George of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said Tuesday.

"They played the worst game I'd seen them play," said the agricultural professor from Kemptville. "They would have had trouble beating Finland" — the squad they trounced 20-1.

That fact and the Canadians' fear of winding up in the penalty box spelled defeat, said George in an interview. He is en route home from the world championships at Stockholm, which concluded Sunday with Canada second and Russia on top after its first crack at the world crown.

He will present his report on the games to the annual meeting of the CAHA in mid-May at Vancouver. He refused to say what view he will offer on whether Canada should pull out of the world championships.

Sal Maglie Not Worried Over Showing

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sal Maglie had just finished his first pitching assignment of the spring, and for a man coupled on bringing New York Giants way back into the National League's first division, Sal the Barber's performance was open to discussion.

The boxscore showed that the New Baltimore Orioles — winning their fourth straight exhibition—had collected seven hits and four runs in the three innings Maglie labored.

It was a calm and unperturbed Maglie, however, who reviewed the matter in the dressing room. The main thing, the veteran hurler said was that he "felt good"—felt good pitching, and felt good in the back.

The Maglie back was a major problem last year, and the reason the barber came up with an 8-9 record in contrast to his 18-6 the year before and 23-6 in 1951.

The 37 year old star from Niagara Falls, N.Y., was brought up on the Ontario side of the river, explained that obviously he wasn't putting everything on his pitches. At this stage of the spring, he certainly was not striving for a no-hitter.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop started to drink his coffee with a happy expression this morning, saying, To hoom it may concern, I feel better today.

Why Williams, you didn't say you weren't feeling well, ma said, and pop said, Well, the less said, the soonest mended, and now I'm all mended. Dont be serprized if I drink a toast to my continued good health with a 3rd cup of coffee, he said.

Now William, you know 2 cups are your safety limit, regardless of your helth, ma said. I thought you weren't looking quite like yourself, she said, and pop said, As a matter of fact I was feeling like somebody elts, but I tried not to show it.

You know you cant keep anything from me, so there's no use trying, ma said. Why didn't you speak up rite away? How long has it been going on? she said, and pop said, It isn't going on at all now, and I didn't see any reason to bother you about it. You've got troubles of your own, he said.

Now William, you're my biggest trubble, I assure you ma said. Do you actually mean you were bothered for a long time without even mentioning it? That was absolutely senseless, she said, and pop said Oh, it only lasted a cupple of days.

I dont care, there's never any telling how far a thing like that will go if it's not stopped in its tracks at the first sine and simptom, ma said. I dont want you to ever do that again even if you live to a harty old age, she said, and pop said, Oh well, all's well that ends well. I knew it would come out all rite, and it did come out all rite. There's no use making a big fuss and going through the agonies of having a splinter extracted at the ferst sine of trubble. Just let it alone and it will work itself out, he said.

Not being quite the end of the subject.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The tide of bridge battle can turn quickly. You get a mess of bad hands and bad breaks in a row. Opponents pile up a big score on you. The lucky stiff at get laydowns against which you have no defence.

Then all of a sudden something happens. You and your partner get a pair of mitts that dovetail like cereal and cream. You hoist yourselves into a grand slam and get all back in one deal.

Such was the case in the deal shown here:

♦A Q J 7 4 3

WEST
♥10 8 7 4 3
♦K 10 9 8 2

EAST
♠7 5 4 3 2
♥9 5 2
♣5 4 2

SOUTH
♠J 10 9 8
♥A K Q J
♣J 10 9 8

North had opened the bidding with two diamonds. Not long after, south had bid three notrump which south lifted into a grand slam of seven notrump. The opening lead from west was from a red suit.

First glance at dummy gives declarer a sinking feeling. Even if opponents diamonds are split three-three he must lose a trick in that suit. So, emergency requires him to study the situation.

All of a sudden it dawns on him that 13 cards are right behind him. Not even a diamond finesse is necessary. It is so easy that a child could do the work for him without half trying.

If the opening lead is a diamond there is absolutely no need to take the finesse in that suit. All dummy has to do is hop on it with the ace and lead a heart for south to win.

If the opening lead is a heart simply let the ace in hand get it with one of the solid tops in that suit. The other three hearts are then led and won in rapid succession.

On these final three hearts he sluffed the three dummy tops in spades. Now he led his four good south spades. On three of these he cast the three dummy club tops. On the fourth went a diamond.

Now he led his four good south clubs. On these he sluffed the four remaining diamonds including queen and jack. There was nothing to it, really. They were right before his eyes.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A comforting in-between day with necessary activities and work ranking high. Also sponsored are domestic and family affairs, personal investments if handled smartly.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — An encouraging day for your specific talents and matters concerning friends, courtship. Don't neglect those who have been your standbys for newer and truly less concerned acquaintances.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You who live up to your best traits and talents can make gains, regardless of uncertainties and hazards. Don't overtax, and don't yield to depression because credit isn't always given.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Sincere aspects but you can reflect your own schizilating personality and buoyancy into activities and turn in a fine day's achievement. A really interesting period—especially after 1 p.m.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Same as for Cancer now. You, when living true to your character, have the advantage of being able to cope cheerfully with a touchy situation. Here is a big chance to make good.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—You may need extra patience (who or us doesn't!)to round out a desirable program. An evenly balanced schedule, with good humor as a stimulant, will do the job. Mind obligations.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your own ideas and foresight has advantages. Stars' benefic outlook is for you who deserve and try honestly. Let's not blame others for our shortcomings; let's correct them.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Lay up for yourself precious resources of strength; Spiritual development is always more important than material gains. Contentment is the most valuable ingredient in the recipe for happiness and success.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Good fun, enjoyable friends help our sense of proportion in business, too; they relieve mind, bring calmness. Avoid too strenuous endeavors, but don't neglect any duties.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Planetary indications excellent for you who are thoroughly acquainted with your work; for sincerity, honesty in intent. Spend judiciously, smartly; don't listen to unscrupulous people.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Matters of lighter vein, artistic endeavors, efforts to improve your position and knowledge prominently sponsored on this generally progressive day. New advantages for those who deserve them.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Varied lines of business, industry, professional matters mildly favored .No need to frai or worry as we often do needlessly. Don't do attend to essentials first. Domestic affairs favored.

YOU BORN TODAY: Peaceful meditation helps you who are naturally kind and sympathetic. Natives of this Sign usually have a great deal more down-to-earth sense than people realize. At times you do not may too readily believe the words of boastful or tricky people. You Don't be careless about contagious diseases and keep your circulatory

MARMORA

Dr. C.B. Hamann Special Speaker At Marmora

MARMORA — Marmora Free Methodist church was filled to the doors on Sunday evening on the occasion of the visit of Dr. C. B. Hamann, Ph.D., of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., who visited the church in the course of tour of Ontario centres.

Dr. Hamann referred to the shrinking values of the material things of life. Of greater importance was the fact that there was a striking shrinkage of spiritual values. The standards of the world today, he declared, are not what they were in the past in spiritual things. Two world wars have added their toll to this backwash. Science has made remarkable contributions to our welfare. People as a result have been addicted to choosing the scientific text book in preference to the statements of the Bible.

But if moral standards are not based on the word of God,-chaos must ensue. Critics have come and gone but the Word of God still stands and should be resorted to despite all else, said the speaker.

PRESENT SCIENCE ALONE.

He recited a poem to the effect no scientist has believed ever set out deliberately to destroy the statements of the Bible, but by just presenting science alone, they failed to emphasize where science and the Bible agree.

Science has given us wonderful methods to save life, but too has provided that which works for the destruction of mankind. Man has never made anything yet that he has not misused, said Dr. Hamann.

Science has been lifted up until it has been worshipped as a god. God has given us two revelations. He has given us the Bible which is His word on Salvation. He has given us the book of nature, too. You cannot find God in the outdoors. You may meditate on Him there but you cannot find God or worship Him right without the Bible, he said.

PUT UP IDOLS.

Man who has tried to worship solely through nature has put up idols and images. You must worship God through His two books —the Bible and nature. God's plan of creation is wonderfully revealed.

It has been said that a miracle is the setting aside or a natural law. That is not so. In a miracle, God is working in some way we do not know. His laws are not set aside or broken in His dealings with man.

Moses could not have the story of the creation without error had not the inspiration of the Spirit been granted him.

Dr. Hamann conducted his address with elaboration on the following assumptions: God is a Creator; the Bible is God's Word; sin entered the world caused a defacement of the world.

QUESTION PERIOD.

Dr. Hamann then conducted a question period.

Rev. G. H. Bache, pastor of the church, conducted the service. Rev. W. J. Hind of Campbellford offered prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Snider sang a duet, and Mrs. Wesley Lohnes sang a solo.

The pastor announced that his congregation would observe next Sunday as Easter.

The closing prayer was taken by Dr. Hamann.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nobes visited relatives in Peterborough on Sunday.

Midweek Lenten services are being held on Wednesday evenings at St. Paul's Anglican Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Kilpatrick of Eglinville visited Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kilpatrick at Deloro on Sunday evening.

Board Allows Annexation Of 1,580 Acres

TORONTO (CP) — Confirmation of a municipal board's decision allowing the annexation of 1,580 acres of Saltfleet township by the city of Hamilton was given Tuesday night by a divided and fighting private bills committee of the Ontario legislature.

The confirmation — seen at Queen's Park as a key decision affecting future annexations— added 4 rider to the section in a private bill presented by R. G. Elliott (PC—Hamilton East) that the farm owners of the area be protected for the next five years by having an assessment fixed annually by agreement between the city and the farmers. If disagreement arises the question would be considered by the municipal board.

WILL REPORT BILL

The committee finally moved that the bill be reported to the legislature, the committee is reactive to Jan. 1. The municipal board's decision was handed down last September.

The committee room, overflowing for the sessions, was rocked by applause, jeers and arguments over the issue.

The main problem confronts the committee for the next two Tuesdays when the cases of Hamilton and Sandwich West will be considered.

Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton said the city had run out of industrial property and proposed to develop the Saltfleet land on the western fringes for light industry.

Harold Robinson, solicitor for Saltfleet township, argued that the city wanted the annexation "only for money."

Reeve Bertram Corman said it would be "years" before the city would supply services to the area.

Eric Deuxberry, representing the Saltfleet ratepayers, claimed that within 10 years the city would have possession of 50 per cent of the fruit farms for tax arrears.

Want Agreements Signed Before Work Started

TORONTO (CP) — The Southwestern Ontario Planning Association, which for the last several months has been feuding with the department of highways over a meeting over methods used in taking over highways for roadbuilding purposes, Tuesday received backing from the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities.

The association passed a resolution criticizing the department's methods and asking that all agreements between parties of land for controlled access highways be signed before fencing or construction is undertaken.

Other resolutions the 300 delegates approved asked the province to increase grants for education and social services, to levy a 3-higher rate of tax dealing with the expenses of the administration of justice, to increase grant terms for drains and to increase substantially the subsidy for maintenance of wards.

Approved was a suggestion from Niagara township that if a fine made an offence for any vehicle to pass a standing school bus be made any road or highway. The association also decided to ask the government to adopt a standard colour and marking scheme for school buses.

CENTRAL EXECUTION SITE

Delegates also approved a petition from the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry that a central site for executions be established in the province. The request will be sent to the attorney-general.

The united counties of Prescott and Russell sponsored the request for increased subsidies to counties for children's aid work. Delegates from those counties said maintenance and operating expenses are increasing at an alarming rate from the provincial subsidy is inadequate. They asked that the subsidy be paid directly to the county, rather than the municipality, and that present campaigns for private donations be replaced by grants.

The association elected John McLennan of Martintown president in succession to W. M. Abraham of Chatham. A. Keeley of Windsor and W. J. Holgrove of Westbrook are vice-presidents and F. B. Seaman of Stoney Creek is secretary-treasurer.

Directors for 1954 are: Willard Morris, Merlin; Lewis W. King, Tilbury East; Hamilton Hoskins, Chester Little, Atwood; Nelson Charlebois, Navan; Bert Ecker, Alvinston; Fred A. Reid of Seaforth; and Harold Vardey, Tweed.

Legislation Will Make Motorists Indicate Turns

TORONTO (CP) — Legislation making it compulsory for motorists to signal right turns and stops was introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

The legislation, amendments to the Highways Traffic Act introduced by Highways Minister Daucett, would also provide stiffer penalties for hit-and-run drivers and the introduction of road pumpers on high-bodied trucks.

The left-turn signal has been required for several years in Ontario but the right turn and stop signals have not been required because of a lack of uniformity in other jurisdictions, Mr. Doucett said.

The signals would be made "by means of hand and arm or mechanical signalling devices."

Magistrates would be given wide discretion in imposing more severe penalties for hit-and-run drivers. A minimum penalty would be fined from $100 up to $500, jailed up to six months and have his licence suspended for one year.

SPEED LIMIT UP

Another amendment would allow municipalities to increase the present speed limit of 30 miles an hour on certain sections of highways under their jurisdiction. A reduction of speed limits would be allowed in highway built-up districts, villages and police villages.

A ban on the littering of highways with rubbish would also be put into effect. Farmers would be required to equip their tractors with two separate means of attachment for their trailing implements on a highway, thus reducing the number of accidents caused by equipment becoming detached from the tractor.

PICTON

To Spend $60,000 To Improve Hydro Transformers

PICTON — The sum of $60,000 is to be spent to improve hydro transformers in Picton, Town council Monday night approved a motion that a by-law be prepared to raise this amount for use by the Public Utilities. The commissioners, C. Reilly, said he believed the work can be done without any increase in the hydro rate.

When grants came up for discussion, Mayor H. J. McFarland said he would donate in paving, gravel or machinery rental, an amount equal to all grants approved by council to various organizations. In 1953 these grants totalled $750.

Requisition of the public library for 1954 was $5,500, an increase of $750 over last year. This is due to the increase in staff wages, the Mayor said.

Council decided to do away with having a constable check relief cases, at a cost or $25 a month, and have investigation in the hands of the relief committee.

Council accepted tenders for a truck at $2,790 and a tractor loader at $2,400.

Campaign Opens To Raise $15,000 For The Blind

PICTON — A campaign to raise $15,000 in Prince Edward County's share of the cost of erection of a Home and Service Centre for the Blind of Quinte-St. Lawrence district, at Kingston, opens next Saturday, already, nearly $5,000 has been subscribed.

Representing the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, P. I. Hamilton and C. Sparkes during the past week have addressed service clubs, schools, women's organizations and other groups, outlining the importance of the centre.

Township reeves are spearheading the drives in the various townships. Many groups are supplying canvassers.

There are 35 blind persons in Prince Edward, with more than 400 in the area to be served by the home and training centre.

Chairman of the campaign is Phil Judd of R. W. D. Mackenzie, Ltd., as treasurer, Colin Carter is chairman of the Prince Edward Advisory Board of the C.N.I.B.

New relief without pills by greaseless, odourless, stainless cream.
Toronto, Ont. (Special)— Discovery of a new and more powerful relieving pain has been announced. Known as Infra-Rub, this new developed a cream that acts in a new way to bring relief to arthritis, fibrositis and muscular aches and pains. Sold at any drug store and called "InfraRUB", this new odourless and greaseless cream relieves these pains without the use of pills and other internal medicines.
InfraRUB does not merely set up a surface irritation but penetrates deep down into sore muscles and joints. This permits fresh oxygen-rich blood to be carried to the newly afflicted areas and actually helps drive away the painful poisonous congestion and pressure.
Another benefit of InfraRUB that appeals to so many people is its ease of application. Clothing may be put on right on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

InfraRUB users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.
Now for the first time, InfraRUB can be obtained without a prescription at most drug stores and costs for only $1.30. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give hours and hours of comforting relief from arthritic, rheumatic, muscular aches and pains or your money will be refunded in full.

The March meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Heaman with about 25 persons in attendance.

Mrs. Edward Heaman conducted the business and Mrs. J. T. Donohoe reported a successful year to date. Various notes and expressions of thanks were tabled as well as a letter from the district secretary concerning Federated Board nominations. This year it is West Hastings' turn to be represented.

It was decided that each program convener be responsible for three minutes of A.C.W.W. news from the magazine at each meeting. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Gifford.

Prospectors Quit Meet as Uranium Found at Orillia

Rush From Their Convention To New Sparrow Lake Find

Auditor to Give Statement On Highways Probe

TORONTO (CP)—The public accounts committee of the Ontario legislature will be "within a day or two" a statement from the provincial auditor on related irregularities in the highways department Premier Frost says.

"I hope that within a day or two the provincial auditor and others will give a statement to the public accounts committee," the premier said Wednesday in an interjection during an address by opposition leader Farquhar Oliver winding up the Throne Speech debate.

"Nothing will be spared," the premier added.

BUDGET DUE TODAY

The end of the debate cleared the way for presentation of the $264-55 budget today by Mr. Frost, also prospective treasurer.

The House voted 69 to 9 in favor of moving the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne read at the House opening Feb. 11 by Lieutenant - Governor Louis Breithaupt. The motion was made earlier in the session by Arthur Ardiey (PC—Niagara Falls) and seconded by W. G. Noden (PC —Rainy River).

Mr. Oliver attacked the government's record in his three hour speech was question over to the public accounts committee.

"The public accounts committee dies with this house," he said. "There is only, I suppose, three weeks or so left of this session. It will, therefore, be impossible to give the attention needed to the question if the committee sat for the whole three weeks."

Mr. Oliver said he wanted to know if the divisional engineers were instructed to "ball out contractors who bid too low." He added:

"I doubt very much that the divisional engineers and from that level down were responsible for the mess we're in. It is done by those above the engineering level. . . . It is time the high brass in the highways should always stop shouting 'thief', . . and turn the spotlight on their own front door."

RIVER A 'SEWER'

Earlier J. E. Gordon (PC—Brantford) called the Grand river "an open sewer" and urged the government to enforce pollution legislation.

Thomas Kingstar (PC—Welland) asked for elimination of level crossings, construction of high-level bridges across the Welland canal and an increase in unemployment benefits.

Premier Frost announced a new arrangement by which five executives civil servants will act as watchdogs of the treasury. He introduced a bill to accomplish what is in effect a reorganization of the treasury department. The five men are to work all year 'round on the preparation of the annual budget, Mr. Frost said.

PERON SEES 'CHUTIST DIE

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina (Reuters)—Lola Alberto Ojeda-Jardo, record-breaking South American parachutist, fell to his death Wednesday when his parachute failed to open in front of thousands before President Peron. Movie stars here for Argetina's first film festival watched horrified as the leading hotel as he crashed onto crowded Peron Square. A woman was injured by his fall.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Under the influence of an extensive high-pressure area, mainly clear skies will continue over the entire province today with the exception of a few clouds over southwestern Ontario. As the high drifts slowly eastward, western sections of the province will see increasing amounts of cloud Friday followed by wet snow or rain.

TORONTO (CP)—Reports that uranium has been found in the Sparrow Lake resort district about 100 miles north of Toronto sent members of the Prospectors and Developers Association hustling on of their annual meeting here early today.

By dawn four cars of men and equipment were reported heading north. Another group was reported trying to rent a helicopter to fly to the bush area about 20 miles north of Orillia.

Few details of the reported find were available except that it was made by an unnamed private company which had previously operated in the Yellowknife area of the Northwest Territories.

Word of the discovery reaching here said that the find had not yet actually been staked.

Given 15 Years For Mutilation Death of Woman

TORONTO (CP)—James Houghton, 26, today was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter in the mutilation death last November of Mrs. Sadie Thompson.

"If it weren't for your age, I would give you life," said Mr. Justice Kelly in passing sentence.

He said the killing was the most horrible in his experience, and described Houghton as "sadistic, barbarous, and cruel."

Houghton was tried for murder, but an assize court jury found him guilty on the lesser charge after his counsel entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter.

White Slave Syndicate Said Cracked

HULL, Que. (CP)—Police today said they have cracked one end of an international white slave syndicate with the arrest of two Toronto men here.

Inspector J. M. Lavigne of the Hull police and Sgt. Assist (Tony) Ethier, 25, and Marcel LeBlanc, 31 were arrested about 6 a.m. EST here and taken to the city jail. The men had recruited the women for prostitution in Toronto and Montreal about to drive to the Ontario capital when arrested.

The men were booked on charges of inducing women do prostitute themselves.

Inspector Lavigne said a list was found in possession of the men which indicates they received fees for syndicate recruiting women in cities in Quebec, Ontario and the United States.

London Daily Mirror Takes Bitter Blast at Eisenhower Government

LONDON (CP)—The mass-circulation Daily Mirror in a dispatch from its Washington correspondent today said "America is unhappy, bewildered and disjointed because of the appalling failure of the self-confessed amateurs who elected president."

The dispatch, from correspondent John Walters, said President Eisenhower has surrounded himself with back-slapping tycoons whom the writer called the spokesmen of an "arrogant capitalism."

Below the picture was this bitter comment: "But the trouble is that hardly anyone likes Ike."

BRITISH CAPTAIN GIVEN 5 YEARS FOR CRUELTY

Will Be Dismissed For Actions in Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Gerald Griffiths, British army captain, today was found guilty of five of six charges alleging cruelty to African prisoners.

He was sentenced to dismissal from the army and five years imprisonment. Both the verdict and sentence are subject to confirmation.

The incidents occurred last summer during the height of the campaign against the Mau-Mau. Mau-Mau cult, now in its 36th month. The arm of each victim was sliced off and another's ear was pierced with wire to be used for leading him like a goat.

Lord Russell, the judge advocate, earlier directed the five-man military court to find Griffiths not guilty of one of six charges brought against him. He said there was no evidence to support a charge that Griffiths behaved in a disgraceful manner by ordering a "lean-age Kikuyuli woman" to have his cut off a Mau Mau suspect's ear.

OTHER CHARGES

The five other charges listed against Griffiths were:

1. Causing grievous bodily harm to an African named Njeru Ndwega, and who had been placed in the custody of his company by the civil authorities.

2. "Disgraceful conduct of a cruel kind" by ordering Kavenli to mutilate Njeru further.

3. That he failed to provide "any aid or comfort" to Njeru when his ear was cut off.

4. Committing grievous bodily harm to an African named Kavenli Ngala, with intent to maim or disfigure him.

5. Committing "disgraceful conduct of a cruel kind" by knowingly permitting Kavenli to be taken out as a guide to a patrol with his ear pierced and with a piece of wire through the hole by which he might be led.

Standing stiffly at attention in his red, airforce countersuch red corrugated-iron-roofed but normally used as an army mess, the slight, bespectacled, 43-year-old Griffiths heard both the verdict and sentence with no sign of emotion.

WARNED OF PREJUDICE

Before retiring, the court trying Griffiths were warned by Lord Russell not to allow themselves to be swayed by the fact "there is in this colony today an atmosphere of intimidation and feelings running high."

Griffiths had pleaded not guilty on all counts.

Griffiths admitted he had suggested threatening a group of Mau Mau suspects with castration when they refused to answer questions.

But he insisted "there was no intention whatever of castrating or mutilate them in any way." He said he thought it would be a quick, and Lieut. David Innes-Walker before he handed his knife to a Kikuyu tribesman. The All Seeing "Trousers of one of the prisoners were taken off and Segal grabbed the man by the ear, holding the knife to his other hand, the witness testified.

"He said he would castrate the man. He said 'I will do it like this,' and cut the man's ear off, throwing it on to the ground.

"It was the quickest thing I have seen. There were three Europeans and a Kikuyu and no one could possibly have stopped it."

Four-Year-Old Girl Insists She Received Kiss From Queen

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters) — Blonde Narelle Dick, the four-year-old who managed Wednesday to kiss the Queen, insisted today that the Queen kissed her too.

She said Her monarch's lips touched her forehead. So today she refused to let her mother wash her face because "I want to keep the Queen's kiss there forever."

While 75,000 Australians watched dumbfounded Wednesday, Narelle slipped away from her mother, sprang into the Queen's lap and smacked the royal cheek.

LOVED QUEEN AT SIGHT

"I saw her and I loved her so much I wanted to kiss her," Narelle said.

And not only did Her Majesty return her kiss, Narelle added—she also squeezed her, asked her her name and where she lived.

Her mother said she was so engrossed in watching a children's display for the Queen that she didn't notice Narelle sneak off and climb onto the royal dais.

"But the Queen is a mother herself and should understand," she said.

TOUR MANAGERS QUIT

The pro-tuberculous Australian royal tour management, however, viewed the incident with alarm.

"We have taken steps," said C. McPherson, Queensland's royal visit executive committee chairman, "to see that it does not happen again."

"Any roamers in the Queen's vicinity will be grabbed quickly and lively—Queensland police security officers and visiting Scotland Yard men will see to that."

Today at Toowoomba the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were treated to wild-and-wooly dancing by aboriginal aborigines.

It was 84 in the shade as the royal pair watched the corroboree tribesmen, wearing gaily-colored loincloths, perform a primitive hunters' dance.

DANCE CENSORED

The dancers omitted certain parts of the ritual which the tribe never performs in the presence of any woman.

The dancers were two-foot-high bandicoot-like mats of grass plaited by the tribesmen, and painted and topped with white cockatoo and emu feathers, and they were daubed with red and white ochre.

While the royal pair watched the tribesmen fling their long, decorated spears in the abandon of the dance, other aborigines clapped rhythmically and native instruments created a weird dance melody.

Some of the dancers travelled 2,000 miles from the northern territory for the ceremony.

Normally the dancers' feathers are plastered to their bodies by blood drawn from the dancers . . . today a sugar solution was used.

MEMBER WANTS ALL SAFEGUARDS ON CONFESSIONS

Diefenbaker Makes Request in House

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has been asked to increase the legal safeguards around the acceptance of false confessions of guilt by innocent men.

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative lawyer from Prince Albert, Sask., made the request in the Commons Wednesday as he told of a man who confessed to a murder he did not commit.

He said the man, who was voluntary, detailed confession of the murder of a little girl at Naicam, Sask., in 1945 was freed in 1952 an innocent even after he was exonerated by a farmer who proved the man's innocence. The farmer said the man was working for him 300 miles from the murder scene at the time it occurred.

He asked the government to consider having judges make a declaration setting out the proper practice in the taking and use of confessions. The present practice was "haphazard" and there should be safeguards "against the possibility of a false confession being made or exacted."

IMPOSSIBLE REQUEST

Justice Minister Garson said the law on the admissibility of confessions would be studied but that would apply generally in criminal trials and still exclude confessions made "quite irrationally and voluntarily" by innocent men.

He said he would consider Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal. However, he said, a large number of judges and lawyers believe the present law on admissibility of confessions are "in pretty good condition as they now stand."

The discussion arose as the Commons renewed detailed study of the proposed new Criminal Code. It has been complete revision for 20 years.

At another point Mr. Diefenbaker suggested a pardon for Edward Bryan, a Cornwall, Ont., news agency dealer sentenced to 10 days in jail for contempt of court in connection with a recent murder trial.

FREED NEXT DAY

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario freed Mr. Bryan the following day and ordered him to pay $50 costs.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the penalty "stigmatized" Mr. Bryan.

He was convicted of contempt of court for distributing three United States magazines containing articles dealing with the murder of Marie-Anne Carriere of Bienville, Que. At a trial in Cornwall, Lieut. Peter Blanchard of the Quebec provincial police was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

Mr. Garson said an application for Mr. Bryan's pardon would be dealt with on its merits by solicitor-general Macdonald.

TITO MEASURE OPPOSED

BELGRADE (Reuters) — The Yugoslav House of Representatives Wednesday for the first time strongly opposed a government measure. Only seven members voted against the government after a heated debate on a measure to make Yugoslavia's 11 republican and provincial holidays uniform. The measure was approved carried its bill with 85 votes. There were five abstentions.

Life-Long Protection Against Polio May Be Provided By 'Tame' Viruses

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Albert B. Sabin, Cincinnati virus expert, today urged upon his colleagues a new kind of polio vaccine which might give life-long protection.

He announced that "tame" living polio viruses which have been developed in recent months in tests on monkeys.

Although still alive, these viruses are harmless "cousins" of regular polio virus, and don't cause sickness. Because they are alive, they presumably would be far more powerful in creating protective antibodies than killed viruses, such as used in the Salk vaccine. The antibodies created by living virus could last for years, and perhaps a lifetime.

Much more work is needed on the "tame" viruses, Dr. Sabin, of the University of Cincinnati medical college, told the Michigan State Medical Society here.

Foundation for Medical and Health Education.

Dr. Salk expressed the opinion there are still some unanswered technical questions about the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh.

The vaccine is how effective killed viruses are in creating antibodies, now long it lasts in the bodies last, he said.

Another is how many thousands or millions of killed viruses are needed for one vaccination. The virus for vaccines now is grown only in monkey kidney tissue, he explained, and there is a limit to its availability.

Dr. Salk is expected to report new findings on just such questions at a meeting in New Orleans.

The Detroit prepared paper did not imply that the Salk vaccine is not safe.

'Progress Budget' Shows Big Grants To Municipalities

Total Spending in Fiscal Year Will Be $601,459,000

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario, closing out a year of record spending, will pay out $518,585,000, more than one-third of its ordinary revenue, in educational and other grants to municipalities in the coming year, Premier Frost announced today.

Figures the premier tabled in the Ontario legislature in his budget address showed that total spending in the fiscal year ending March 31 would reach a record $601,459,000 total, made up of $576,465,000 for current requirements and $224,994,000 in capital expenditures. The previous high was $518,585,701 in the last fiscal year.

In what he called a "progress budget," the Premier announced a surplus of $1,009,000 for the year just ending, the 11th consecutive surplus since he became provincial treasurer in 1943.

The surplus compares with a forecast a year ago of $185,000. It was achieved after distribution of an extra $20,850,000 in supplementary grants and allocation of $2,500,000 beyond estimates for sinking fund, or debt retirement.

For the coming fiscal year, ending March 31, 1955, he forecast a surplus of $530,000.

The new fiscal year "marks a high event" in the development of our program of assistance to municipalities" with final payments of unconditional assistance grants, totalling $12,000,000, announced a year ago. Previous grants for police and fire services would be terminated but municipalities would benefit by an increase of $7,000,000 in payments. Educational grants to municipal school boards would increase $5,-000,000, from $57,800,000 to $61,400,000.

Other grants would bring the total for municipalities to $134,-000,000 compared to the current year's total of $125,100,000, an amount equal to 45 per cent of municipal tax levies in the province last year.

NO NEW TAXES

The budget proposed no new taxes. The tax on race-track pari-mutuel betting was reduced to seven per cent from eight. In the pre-budget press conference, the premier said no aim was to discourage bookmaking. The security transfer tax would be amended to exempt bonds or debentures guaranteed by the government of Canada or any of the provinces. Both changes would be made in the succession duties act.

Toronto Police Hunt Arsonist

TORONTO (CP) — Police today sought an arsonist who set a blaze that did $500 damage in a west Toronto factory Wednesday night and said the man may be responsible for setting other Toronto fires and for earlier building fires in Toronto in recent weeks.

Tim Blair, of the factory of the Mecne Company, a toilet preparation manufacturer, said he saw a second fire in Dundas and Bloor streets area within a week. Fire department officials refused to say if the man may also have caused a small blaze that broke out at Pudel's combe Motors next door to the Mennen Company last Saturday.

Prepare to Mark Anniversary Of Pope's Crowning

VATICAN CITY (AP) — High prelates of the Roman Catholic church prepared today for Friday services in the famed Sistine Chapel honoring the 15th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII. But for the second straight year, illness will keep the pontiff away from the ceremonies.

A solemn pontifical mass will be conducted in the chapel, and members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican will attend. Similar services marking the anniversary will be held in Roman Catholic churches throughout the world.

The Pope is recovering slowly from a gastric disorder. Last year at this time he was convalescing from a bronchial ailment.

'FAINLESS DEATHS' MOUNT

VIENNA (Reuters) — Two suicides occurred in Austria today brought to 36 the number of people who have killed themselves in 15 days with the German-made "painless poison" Interetchin "T-2-65." ## TICULIER REPTILE HOWN TO STAFF

A peculiar reptile possibly of the lizard family was booked by S.V. Woddaze and Joe Seama, while fishing for perch near Wesley Island on Wednesday morning. The lizard was caught in a hook and line, which is extraordinary because that type as a rule does not bite a hook.

Apparently the lizard lives on the spawn of other fish and debris of the deep. The lizard shown to the editorial staff was about nine inches long and in appearance like an alligator. A number of red patches on each side of the head were said to be the animal's lungs. The fishermen intended to dispose of the peculiar creature. The consensus was that it was a mud puppy.

Red Cross Campaign Getting Fine Co-Operation From All

The population of the city of Belleville numbers approximately 30,000 persons and the objective in the Red Cross campaign only 2,516 people in the city contributed and of this number, 1,367 donated a dollar or less. This information was included in a message to canvassers released by the 1954 campaign chairman W. J. Morrison and by Judge J. C. Anderson, president of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

This year, however, campaign officials are hopeful we betterted last year's results. A report from the headquarters in the Y.M.C.A. building indicates things are a fever of activity as final plans are being rapidly made for the Kick-off Night, which is scheduled for next Tuesday. A large rally of volunteer canvassers is being held at the Y.M.C.A. this afternoon. At the rally a battery of prominent speakers will outline the work accomplished to date and brief the canvassers on their tasks.

Judge Anderson and Mr. Morrison have been visiting centres outside the city and assisting local officials in preparing for the campaign.

Close co-ordination is being effected between the outlying areas and Belleville.

According to the headquarter's report, co-operation has been excellent on all fronts. A large volume of volunteers have already been contributed by individuals, organizations and business establishments. Belleville Boy Scouts and high school students are aiding in the campaign through the distribution of advertising material for store windows.

The Coca Cola Company has offered to supply boys and girls assisting in the campaign with refreshments and three local theatres are distributing guest tickets to the drive.

Campaign officials have described the degree of local co-operation being one of the finest efforts yet encountered in a campaign of this nature.

Men of St. Andrew's Honor Wm. Springer on 90th Birthday

Mr. William C. Springer, on the eve of his 90th birthday, was guest of honor at the annual ladies' night of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Men's Club on Monday evening. Recognition of the club of this milestone in the life of one of its oldest and most respected members was the highlight of the evening.

Rod Cameron, president of the club, called on Dr. J. M. Young to express the tribute of the club to the honored guest. Dr. Kinnear briefly outlined Mr. Springer's career as manufacturing industry in Peterborough and Belleville, and his contribution to the life of the city of Belleville in particular, interspersing several humorous tales of the nonagenarian's personality. The members and guests applauded as heartily as the close of the closing remarks of Dr. Kinnear, the guest of honor responded to his feat as smartly as a man half his age, thanked the club for the tribute and made a brief but very pointed retort to some of the amusing incidents Dr. Kinnear had received credit.

Rev. J. G. Hornsby paid a further tribute to Mr. Springer and his associates with the church. The president read a letter of regret from Mr. Justice Cameron of Ottawa, one of the founders of St. Andrew's Men's Club, expressing his regret in not being able to accept the invitation of the club to be present for this memorable occasion. Mr. Cameron sent his good wishes to Mr. Springer, the club, etc.

Accompanying Mr. Springer as head table guests were his two daughters, Mrs. Ross Graham, of St. Augustine, Florida, and Mrs. Arthur McCann of Belleville. During the dinner several birthday cakes were brought to the tables amid the singing of "Happy Birthday Mr. Springer."

Other features of the evening's entertainment included a violin solo by Mr. Ralph Dickinson, accompanied by Mrs. Egerton Boyce; a tenor solo by Mr. E. Buckley; a soprano solo by Mrs. Harry Bowen, and a humorous trailo sung by Mrs. J. Q. Bridge, each of whom was accompanied by Mr. Egerton Boyce.

Peter Smith entertained those present with a piano solo. Mr. C. O. Bridgin showed a motion picture feature on Africa, and brought forth a round of applause when he projected a short feature of his own on the birthday party of a colored movie on people going and coming from St. Andrew's church in which he had collected, after many Sunday morning's effort, remarkably good "shots" of a large number of the members of the congregation, from the oldest to the youngest.

Tuesday night's meeting was the last of the season for the club and the president of the club took the occasion to thank those who had assisted the executive in their activities for the season. He particularly paid tribute in his remarks to the assistance given to the club in the way of musical entertainment by Mr. Egerton Boyce, organist and choirmaster of the church.

Don Stirling, a past president of the club, tendered thanks on behalf of the club to Rod Cameron and his executive for the successful activity season terminating with this meeting.

Musical Show By Lions Club Much Enjoyed

Despite the rather slim attendance at the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday evening, the musical show "Let's Help Hayti" presented by the Lions Club of this city and staged by Don Mondeau, musical director and directed by Bill Long, was one of the finest shows staged in this city for some time. It will be repeated again tonight and those who do not show would warrant an attendance by the music lovers and those presented deserved.

In commenting on the production it would be amiss not make special mention of the good taste Mr. Long showed in selecting and arranging the music for the singing and dancing numbers. Organ selections were rendered effectively in the vocal renditions. However, it would not be fair to say that any one part of the two and a half hour programme was any better than another part. In plain words the whole show was good.

"Hayti" was the opening number, "England's England", kindled much applause and audience participation. A special arrangement of Schubert's "Ave Maria" added a religious note to the production. The finale featured the Belleville Lions Band of Dimord and Thrasher against an unique backdrop, added to the effective singing and musical cast.

The cast included: Shirley Fox, Helen Hagerman, Mary Ann Reynald Frauia, Barbara Burley, Sheila Lee, Peter Hamilton, Lee Patrick, Glenna Sitckle, Cor Upoldkamp, Mary T. Long, Jack Turner, William Leatherland, Ronald Neyvaite, Ray Dube, Carma Fuller, Barbara Adams, Lloyd Fox as well, Shirley LaMorre, Joanne Hopkins, Patricia Woods, Barbara Taylor, Bill Allore, Elaine Martin, Elsie Herron and Wilma Lowe.

Dance artists from Belleville Barbara Diment and Barbara Thrasher were featured in a tap and ballet numbers.

Accompanying organist was Mrs. Lenia Baker; pianists, Miss Marie MacDonald, Miss Sandra Bedford and Miss Joanne Hopkins. Harold Adams.

Mrs. Bill Steenburg advised a committee producing the costumes.

C of C Offered $100 Monthly And Free Rent

TRENTON (Special) — A joint meeting of a committee from the town council and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting Thursday morning, agreed to a proposal which if adopted, will save the life of the Chamber in Trenton.

The proposal calls for a grant of $100 a month to the Chamber from the town, plus provision of rent free quarters for the Chamber's offices in the municipal buildings. This recommendation will be presented to the town council at its regular meeting next Tuesday evening.

Originally the Chamber had sought a yearly grant of $2,000, claiming that without such a grant the organization would be forced to discontinue activities in Trenton.

The Chamber feels that the new proposal, if adopted, will make it possible to continue. At present the Chamber is paying $35 a month for an office on Elgin Street. Should council give it rent free quarters in the newly-enlarged and redecorated municipal offices, as well as the monthly grant, the Chamber feels it can carry on.

The Chamber also outlined a program for the summer months that would stress publicity for Trenton and the provision of two centres for tourist information. An information bureau would be set up in the Chamber's offices, and a second one in a booth on Dundas Street near the downtown CNR station.

Information about accommodation, recreational facilities, and scenic attractions in the Trent Valley and Hastings County would be available.

Victoria, Grey Trust Will Open Kingston Office

OWEN SOUND (CP)—At the annual meeting of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company, held here C. H. Stinson, president, announced the company will open an office in Kingston. The Shaw-Linton building had been purchased and the office will be opened as soon as renovations have been completed, he said.

The company has been doing considerable business in Kingston, and the opening of the office will be a great convenience to the community," Mr. Stinson said.

Tax Refunds In District Will Be $1,500,000

More than half of all taxpayers served by the Belleville office of the Department of National Revenue will be receiving refunds this year according to statements released by the revenue department through the district officers.

Of the 19,000 returns filed at the Belleville office, some 40,000 refunds will be made according to tax officials' estimates. Total amount of the refunds is expected to be about $1,500,000.

Reasons for the refunds are alterations in the Income Tax Act enacted by parliament last year. Included in the changes were an 11 per cent reduction in the tax rate in force during the final six months of '53; increase in the allowances for unusual medical expenses; an increase in the allowable income for dependents; the dependent child clause for those over 21 who are in "full time attendance at a school or university and whose total income does not exceed $750 per year."

Interrupted employment, charitable donations; marriage during 1953, and increase in the number of dependents, and deduction for allowable union dues are among factors which may also bring about a refund.

Will Represent Quinte District In Hoop Tourney

The Ontario School for the Deaf will represent the COSSA, Bay of Quinte district, in the junior girls' basketball tournament being held in Toronto on Saturday.

The OSD team will meet the junior representatives of Niagara, Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario districts in the quest for the COSSA title.

The team will play the Midland High School squad, winners of the Georgian Bay district on Saturday at 1 p.m. The winners of this game will meet the victor of the game between Niagara and Lake Ontario districts at 7 p.m.

All games are being played in the Danforth Technical Institute.

The OSD girls defeated the Trenton High School team in the playoffs for the Bay of Quinte district championship, winning the home-and-home series necessary to decide the title. The second game was an overtime thriller with victory going to the OSD by a single point in two periods of overtime.

The team leaves for Toronto tomorrow afternoon at 2.30.

Project Engineer Tells Members Of Development

D. H. Sharpe, project engineer of the C. D. Howe Construction Company, told members of the Belleville Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada about the Seven Islands' iron ore development at the branch's monthly meeting held Monday in the Masonic Temple.

This talk was of particular local interest as much of the machinery to be used was manufactured in Belleville by the Stephens Adamson Company.

The Seven Islands' development, a joint project of Canadian and American mining companies known as the Iron Ore Company of Canada, is expected to be in operation in July 1954. The project included construction of the longest railway built in North America since 1900, and the building of docks, power plants and airfields.

Weather conditions will limit mining operations to five and one half months per year while shipping will be open for eight months.

Mr. Sharpe illustrated his talk with slides and the film, "Up the Line in '53."

The speaker was introduced by Jim Young, sales manager of the Stephens Adamson Co., and was thanked on behalf of the branch by A. D. Janitsch.

Scale Model Summer Camp Is Exhibited

A scale model of "Merrywood" summer camp for crippled children is presently on exhibition in the display window of Caven Elliott Ladies' Wear on Front Street. The actual camp, located on Rideau Lake, near Perth, Ontario, is operated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and covers approximately 29 acres of land.

The model, constructed by the O.S.C.C., is circulated by the Society only shortly before the beginning of the Easter Seal Campaign. "Merrywood," one of five such camps in the Province, is maintained largely by funds realized from the sale of Easter Seals and through support of various service clubs. In actuality it is a camp designed specifically to accommodate crippled children under a closely supervised and specially regulated program.

The camp has been in operation for the past five years and accommodates up to 70 children for a two to three-week period.

EDUCATION WEEK

This is Education Week.

This week not only will members of the public be invited to visit schools and to learn about today's educational theories and methods but most of the nation's newspapers will also carry editorials on education.

Two of Canada's larger and more influential papers, the Montreal Gazette and the Toronto Telegram, by a coincidence which may or may not strike the reader as strange, have chosen to base their editorials on observations by Dr. Hilda Neatby, professor of history at the University of Saskatchewan. Dr. Neatby recently published a book on educational problems, entitled "So Little for the Mind." She also has been talking about the same subject recently delivering the Armstrong Lecture at Victoria College, University of Toronto, and being one of the speakers at Education Week meetings in Montreal.

In this connection it is significant that "So Little for the Mind" heads the list of non-fiction books now being read in Toronto. The fact that her criticism of the Canadian educational system should arouse such intense interest proves that many Canadians are concerned about much on their minds.

That they should be exhibiting an intelligent interest in a vitally important topic does not necessarily mean that Dr. Neatby's criticisms are unjustified. Sixty-six days in which it is pretty conclusive proof that; if there are things seriously wrong with our school system, these defects have not yet caused irreparable damage.

The way to repair any damage which has been done is, of course, to show keen interest in Dr. Neatby's book and similar criticisms of existing methods.

For one thing we are certain. These criticisms do no harm. No editorial on Education Week could do better than to close with the words of John Milton, as quoted by the Montreal Gazette: "If there is much desire to learn, there of necessity will be much arguing, much writing, many opinions; for opinion in good men is but knowledge in the making."

Whether because of or in spite of our school system there are unmistakable signs that in Canada today there is much knowledge in the making in the field of education.

THE RED, RED ROBBING

The great Communist experiment has run into an old capitalist snag. Here's Castel-Franco Emilia in the heart of "Red" Italy. Not a large, party-splitting, policy-altering, thing, to be sure, but a snag nevertheless.

Castel-Franco is the little vineyard of "the workers' paradise" have quit the party because it is "a luxury I cannot afford," to quote one of the quitters. "I am doing well for myself in 1953 and in 1953 they (the Communist Party) took $40 from me. First it was for this, that or the other party newspaper, then it was for funerals of victims. I do not know what country, when it was for comrades in jail and later for comrades who had been released from jail, then it was for the Indo-Chinese comrades. They were always asking for something but never giving anything," said this disillusioned member of the classless party as he quit in indignation.

There are many morals to be drawn from this little story. But we will not dwell upon the poor economic plight of this man and the terrible conditions that allow him to earn so little that he can give only $40 dollars a year to the local party branch.

Nor we would console him with the comparison of his lot with that of the comrades in Russia, who, because they are all equal, pay nothing to the party bosses because they get it all. Neither do they have to contribute to newspapers because the party up-lies all the reading matter anyone would require and even is kind enough to insist that it be literature he read.

No wonder an Italian Communist is bitter about paying for funerals for comrades he does not know. In Russia funerals are free and the cost to the rest of the comrades is reduced considerably by comrades who dig their own graves. And who in the Soviet is ever called upon to donate money to comrades who have been released from jail?

Perhaps the party had better look more closely at this defection from the cause by ex-true, humble workers. Maybe they are yearning ardently for that moniless, propertyless, newspaperless environment provided by the Soviet and are the only really convinced Communists left. Then, on the other hand, the party leaders might be criticized for trying to impose these conditions in a country that doesn't have the Communist ideal in working order and in a society where money is still the root of all evil—even at $270 a year.

PREDICAMENT

The 10-year-old has decided he can't win. If the report from school shows him deficient in courtesy, he gets scolded. And if it shows him clear in his manners his parents want to know why he doesn't act that way around home. (Hamilton Spectator.)

HOSPITAL TRAY

Here's to the lady who fills up the tray
For hospital patients three times every day!
Here's to the maiden who carries it in!
And here's to the soup, be it thick
or one or thin!
But here's to the nut with the knife in the hand
The little tin helmet that covers
the chop!
Here's to the sugar in envelopes
small,
And here's to the coffee! Oh,
here's to it all!
Here's to the orange juice,
The head supervisor in cap and cape,
But here's to the helmet I frequently drop—
The little tin hat that is over the soup!
It glistens like silver. It's polished with care,
I tenderly lift it to see what is there.
I watch for its coming. I frequently say
It's the brightest of things on my hospital tray.
May never the lure and the gleam of it elope—
The little tin helmet that's over
the chop!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 11, 1934.

After a successful season the local arena was closed on Friday. Through the efforts of Mr. W. H. Patterson and Mr. Sanford Burrows the Belleville arena was taken over early in January and thereby assured the sport loving populace of this community the use of an up-to-date skating arena for the season. The records show that during January and February 3200 children were afforded free skating. This speaks well for the generosity of Mr. Patterson and Mr. Burrows. It is reported that the revenue from the final GAA. hockey game of the season, between Peterborough and Belleville Juniors, was practically sufficient to put the venture out of the "red" and assure the managers of the arena no heavy loss. The untiring efforts of manager E. Ford and the ice maker, Geo. Gay, also added to the success of the enterprise. A public vote of thanks is extended to Mr. Patterson and Mr. Burrows who afforded this city a fine skating rink during the past season.

Cannilton defeated West Huntingdon in a fast hockey game at Stirling in the first of the final playdowns in the Central League loop by a score of 3 to 1. There was a large crowd of local sport fans to witness the game. The following composed the teams: Cannilton — Sharpe, Stedman, A. McQuigge, Johnson, Empson, Jarrell; subs: Williams, Kelly. Cannilton — West Huntingdon — Sarles, J. McGowan, F. McCoy, Mott, C. Wright, S. Kerby; subs: E. Murray, E. Post, Bray and Cooke. The Cannilton team was minus F. McQuigge and Bill Hanna from their team. The referee was Earl Wallace and the time keepers were Maurice McGee and J. A. Carmichael.

(Providence Bulletin).

The Moa, a flightless bird that lives in crossword puzzles, has a depressing biography.

The bird became extinct in the 14th century after a history devoted entirely to the pursuit of stupidity. By the time the last moa died, the species was almost extinct to 10 times as stupid as a chicken. That is some record.

The moas became extinct because of where they ate. Sometime during that last century on earth, some moas began feeding in the swamps, and the other moas followed, and lived securely amid plenty.

It was all right for older moas, but it was tough on little moas that did not reach the firm swamp bottoms with their short legs. Many more perished in the egg than reached maturity, and it wasn't many years before the last young moa disappeared beneath the surface.

He can be found almost every day on the comic page, trapped in a little blind corner of the crossword. In a state of perfect preservation.

Men Over 65 Doing Fine Job

(Financial Times, Montreal)

First tried out in the Montreal office of the company, Winnipeg executives are showing keen interest in the experiment of the Wawanesa Mutual Insurance in hiring retired men, over 65 years of age, to deal with the public in the sale of automobile insurance on a drive-in basis, rather than through agents.

Recently the company advertised for 20 men over 65, an age limit subsequently lowered to 60, for the new $500,000 office building and parking area between the Montreal Tramways Co. and the Royal Alexandra to sell its insurance directly to the public on an over-the-counter basis on a drive-in basis, rather than through agents.

The method is expected to reduce the ratio of selling and administrative costs.

At the salary offered of $150 a month there were 1,000 applications. The men were hired and each signed a statement waiving rights to pension and group insurance and other fringe benefits except holidays and agreeing that they would be employed only so long as their mental and physical health enabled them to do their particular age job.

The company had the pick of the "retired-boy-young" market. It obtained retired bank managers, retired army civil servants and men of this calibre. All of them were eager to have a productive and useful life and the salary was a secondary consideration.

Success of the experiment of the company is regarded as an outstanding success, and the policy has already been extended to other offices across Canada. Happy in their jobs, they are proving they have the bearing, integrity and judgment to deal with the public.

Located in Manitoba's Souris river valley, Wawanesa with its population of 439 has little to distinguish it from any other little prairie town except the large brick building which is the home of the company. It was incorporated there by 20 farmers in 1896 to insure their own and other farm machines which had been uninsurable by city companies.

Now the company has assets in excess of $18,000,000, in eastern branch headquarters in Toronto and offices in Montreal, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina, Edmonton, Winnipeg director, Milton C. Holden, lives in Wawanesa and 80 per cent of the directors are farmers and business men in the Wawanesa-Brandon area.

Farm Wives Fortunate

(Windsor Star).

The other day we noted a sparkler on the engagement finger of a fetching miss, and a pleased expression on her face. The one that indicated she had plighted her troth to the man of her choice and that all other men were now anticipating marriage with more than a casual interest.

In explanation she revealed: "I am going to be a farmer's wife." Which statement suggests how times have changed.

Time was when girls in the past did marry farmers, and were happy to do so. Then the boys would have been a mighty lot of farmers' wives. But, just like everything else, the boys would catch a city feller with a good position and prospects, and marry him for the fortunate. She would escape the drudgery of milking many farm wives had to endure in the past. Apart from having much fewer work to do than farm wives of yesteryear they were deprived of many of the conveniences city dames possessed.

That has gone, however. Most farm homes now have all the facilities offered by city homes, indeed, often are better equipped than the average city home because farmers have been prosperous and financially able to make all needed improvements. Miller Slater, veteran farm reporter, has already said: "As the essence of courage is to take a risk on a possibility, so the essence of faith is to believe that the possibility exists."

Then James remarked: "These, you know, are the days of faith." We may speculate all that we want to about life and its meaning, but to live each day through

Floods Are Costly

(Financial Post)

In the recent mild spell millions of dollars of soil were washed away by creeks and rivers. Each spring we lose more and more. Not only is good soil gone but there is enormous other damage as well. Towns and villages are flooded, goods damaged, bridges and roads swept away, water supplies polluted, fishing streams ruined. And hardly a dollar of all this loss is really necessary.

All that must be done is to take certain familiar steps in land preservation, steps that we have known and discussed for years. A few dams, a lot of tree planting on land that is of little value, a little contouring, some sense in farming practices and town planning.

If we do this we take the pressure off the spring rush of water and allow far more of it to seep into the ground where it will benefit all of us. If we don't then we are going to see more country literally ruined, and summer water shortages plaguing more and more municipalities.

Fought Cruelty 200 Years Ago

(Hamilton Spectator)

Passing almost unnoticed is the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Richard Martin, often called the father of humane laws, a fierce and dogged little Irishman through whose efforts was passed the first act of Parliament in the world protecting animals from human cruelty.

It seems odd that today Martin is known to so few. During his life he was such a controversial figure. Like most idealists who believe their time, Martin had to endure considerable ridicule from hide-bound thinkers on all levels of society. The thought of being kind to animals in those days was preposterous, while the idea of prosecuting a carter for flogging his lame horse was like degrading a man to a level lower than the beasts he owned. Even Dickens, first Martin's day, this is an age of enlightened consideration for the treatment of animals. In the early years of the nineteenth century apart from the many forms of "routine" cruelty due to unthinking ignorance, there was much deliberate cruelty, particularly in the so-called sports of the day.

Bull-fighting, cock-fighting, dog-fighting and bear-baiting were common forms of sport and had the hearty support of the British public in the land. Cropping dogs' ears, the slow bleeding of calves to whiten their flesh before putting them in the pit and the use of spiked collars were features but a few of the cruelties.

The Irish Department of Agriculture has already given attention to the bi-centenary in its bulletin, says the Irish Times, and recalls that the British House of Commons, was known as "humane" Dick, passed the Commons but was defeated by the Lords. The measure was at last brought in another bill which despite ridicule and opposition by no means unanimous, became law.

Martin then went out himself on his own to enforce the law and prosecute infractions. He was the first Secretary of the Society, in 1824, he became a charter member of the Society for the Protection of Cruelty to Animals—the first of its kind in the world.

The public conscience was awakened at last and other countries soon followed suit, introducing legislation, notably Germany and France.

Maria Edgeworth, the novelist, has left a pen picture of Martin—"a tall man, with a countenance that my blood crept slow and my breath was short when I came into the room; a pale little insignificant-looking mortal he was, when he still lived, but of indomination . . . ."

It is said that so little is done to mark the anniversary of this tenefactor. The most evil form of ignorance and humanity owes Martin a debt he can never fully discart upon it. The fact that he is scarcely remembered to-day is one that would not trouble Martin. He started the great fight against cruelty and he left it to others. An all Irishman, Martin loved a fight, particularly in a good cause.

NINETEENTH CENTURY OBSTETRICS

Anonymous critic says in Public Forum that the conclusion of this column "does not sound like a professional man, and his sentiments sound (1)k(2) something out of the past decades."

I suppose I don't sound like a professional man because (1) I try to use plain language and (2) I call names such as wiseacre, stupid, mollycoddle —but since no one can say I have ever called him or her an objectionable name, why get sore about it?

Some of my sentiments, ideals, teachings or beliefs are out of the past decades, all right. So is the Code of Medical Ethics.

How many women today would consider having their babies born at home? And yet that is what Dr. Brady advocates, the anonymous critic adds.

The critic, and a good many physicians, would be appalled if they could read the steadily increasing number of letters from prospective parents who seek a doctor who delivers patients at home or, alternatively, a hospital where twentieth century obstetrics has been established in a separate "rooming-in". Where people are treated as human beings.

Typical of the nineteenth century obstetrics to which many gullible customers are subjected, is the woman I met with a client in the middle west:

Dear Dr. Brady:

I've had one child at home and one in the hospital, my first. The doctor arrived about half a minute before he was born, bungled the job and is unacceptable, although I asked for him and he was in the hospital, a nurse said she didn't want to bother him.

Because of the complication that occurred before the doctor consented to be "bothered") the baby had to be kept in hospital for . . . They said they'd charge $7.50 a day, but they moved him without our knowledge into a more expensive ward, at $11.75 a day . . .

Our second was born at home, everything fine. If we have any more they'll be born at home, too.

(Signed) . . .

Not always too often the factor which makes young prospective parents choose hospitalization for childbirth; is—let's face it —snobbishness, the determination to keep up with the Joneses, who themselves are straining to keep up with other prosperous folks, because that they can't afford a home to rear a baby in — which is all to the good for the hospital. The impressive clothes, cars, cocktail parties, club membership and other pretences of these Joneses may impress the general public, but not a doctor who in the course of practice has occasion to visit the cubbyholes in which they hide away when not on parade.

THE WORDS WILL STAND FOREVER

Jesus declared that although heaven and earth would pass away, his words would never pass away.

Think how utterly absurd this statement must have sounded to the people who first heard it. Here was a common, unofficial person in a remote corner of the world, member of a subject nation, declaring that his words would outlast heaven and earth. Can imagine a Roman soldier throwing back his head and laughing uproariously at the first statement. But where are the legions of Rome today? The high priest of Israel would have smiled cynically at such a statement. Yet within a forty years after the death of Jesus, the high priest and thousands of other persons in Jerusalem were dead, and the Temple was a heap of Rome and sold on the auction block.

Now only 2000 years in which to judge the validity of our Lord's statement. Still heaven and earth would pass away his words would never pass away. Christians at the present time are that on that occasion he was speaking of eternal truths. He has a brief three-year ministry. He was executed on a Roman cross. His fame has been dated from his birth. Today even non-Christians confess that he was the wisest man that ever lived.

Heaven and earth . . . But the words . . . never . . .

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For Christmas, one of the girls in the house received a pretty pair of gilt slippers from relatives in the States: but they did not fit. One of her chums, whom they did fit, offered her ten dollars for them, and the deal was made.

But the ten dollars was not forthcoming. The January weeks slipped by, then that of February, and it was not until would have let two weeks go by and then said: "Hey, how about that ten dollars you owe me?"

But girls are different. In mid-February, the party of the first part was down town and called for supper and a movie.

"Can you lend me a couple of dollars?" she asked.

"Sure," said the chum.

Three or four days later, at the college, party of the the first part pulled up to her chum.

"My locker fees! Have you got three dollars on you?"

"Sure."

Three days ago, the party of the first part found her chum were in the party of the first's car.

"Have you got a dime? Have you got three bucks?"

"Look:" protested the party of the second part. "This makes eight dollars you've got off me in the last couple of weeks."

"I've only got two more dollars to go, then," said the party of the first part. "And the slippers will be paid for."

"Thank good heavens!" cried the chum.

Men can employ this technique too, though it may be a little too subtle for the masculine taste. Especially when the party of the first is not as delicately tuned as the party of the second. For example, one on the train the other day I lent a friend $3, as he was returning a little out of cash for his kids, ice caps and so forth. Yesterday, I mentioned the matter.

"Don't forget that five bucks you owe me."

"Never," he assured me. "I'll pay it the minute you pay me that $3 I let you have in November, just before Christmas."

"Holy smoke!" was all I could utter.

TODAY'S TALK

LIFE IS WORTH LIVING

I have in my library a little book by William James, the late American psychologist. It is entitled "Is Life Worth Living?" It is the publication of an address given before the Young Men's Christian Association of Harvard University. In it I found a brief quote from the last part of the address, where he quotes from Robert Louis Stevenson. Stevenson said: "As the essence of courage is to take a risk on a possibility, so the essence of faith is to believe that the possibility exists."

Then James remarked: "These, you know, are the days of faith." We may speculate all that we want to about life and its meaning, but to live each day through disappointment, sorrow, and struggle, yet with a high vision, a steadfast purpose, through the exercise of such faith, and a demonstration of our courage, we can make life not only worth while, but triumphant.

Many years ago I invented, for my own use, a word that I formed to embody two meanings—"pep" and "joy"—and the creation of the word optimist plus the syllable "pep." Or, in other words, optimism plus "pep" equals "joy" not? You can't lose by it, and you are sure to gain. As Stevenson once said: "Live your life so that whenever you lose, you are ahead."

The Lie

"In spite of our vigilance, He is gone."

CHAPTER 2.

But the brethren did not believe, not though Mary Magdalene told them over and over, with all the eloquence that comes to the mouth of a witness who has looked on infinity and heard it speak to her. They mourned and they wept, in spite of all that she said; shaking their heads and believing her delirious in her own grief, when she told them:

"I have seen the Lord, and these things He said to me."

No, they would not believe her. Not though they knew the frightful malaise from which He had once fully restored her, and the devotion that sent her trudging after Him through all His later journeys, the love that kept her by the side of Mary, His mother, throughout the long hours of His agony. Why would they distrust her? Not because they thought she lied intentionally, but because they felt sure that sorrow had turned her mind.

They could not believe her.

But Annas and Caiphas and their satraps were in no doubt about what had happened. The Roman guards, assigned to Joseph of Arimathea's garden by Pilate, came running back to town, released from their first stupor of fear, to confess their failure. They told the scribes and the high priests, and especially the old taskmaster, enemies of Jesus, men who did not believe in a resurrection by anybody:

"The body is gone! We watched all night. Our eyes were never closed in sleep. We were completely faithful to our assignment. But in spite of our vigilance, He is gone."

Crafty old Annas believed them. He had traded in human nature too long not to know the truth when he saw it. The blanched faces of these soldiers of the Empire bespoke no ordinary cowardice. But whatever the nature of the mystery, the fact remained — a miracle that might have a dangerous effect upon public opinion. The Sabbath and the feast were past; soon the streets would be thronged again: what if people began to say it was time for a prophet they had nailed to the cross?

Annas could see a crisis a long way off, and his remedies in all such emergencies were simple and dependable.

"Here is money!" he cried, pouring two bagfuls ringing on the council table. Other veterans of the trial of Jesus joined him; even Caiphas, the miser, had to contribute. Soon a heap of Roman money, all coins bearing Caesar's head, lay in a glittering pile. Annas told the soldiers to stow the money unseen in their armor; to divide it evenly among all the guards who had spent the night as sentinels in the garden and:

"Say, you," entreated Annas with a wheedling smile, all the brighter for his knowledge of the danger, "say you His disciples came by night and stole Him away when you were asleep. And if Pilate hears about all this, don't you worry for a moment. You will be thoroughly protected. We will persuade him and secure you."

That assurance was not powerful of itself. Those soldiers were more frightened of Pilate than of any dead man rising to life. Their own lives would be forfeit, if Pilate were to believe that they slept on duty, or that they had taken bribes. But they also knew, as Annas himself knew, of Pilate's obsessive fear of the high priests during these last years as procurator of Judaea. If these powers of the Temple backed them up, they felt safe in lies. The tale that they slept must be for the street crowds only, and the whole mystery of the open tomb must be kept from Pilate.

Both sides carried out their plans faithfully. The soldiers talked out of the sides of their mouths, telling this man and that the lie they were paid to spread

Deny Labor Charges

LONDON (AP)—The government has denied charges of a Labor member that the Queen's new yacht Britannia was built in a wild burst of extravagance.

J. P. L. Thomas, first lord of the admiralty, said Wednesday the opposite was true. He told the Commons that the late King George VI, the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, had requested that "every kind of economy" be used in building the vessel.

Hastings County Farm Forum

Four forums met on March 1, when there was a very interesting discussion on "The School Tax Rate." Brookdale met at Ken Paul's (19); Hazzards at Alma and Roy Moorcroft's (19); Melrose at Clarence Hagerman's (9); and River Valley at Jack Bush's (17). No report from Foxboro.

Melrose forum Hazzards Forum and part of Brookdale think the property school tax is on a fair basis under our new county assessment. Hazzards adds "However we are living in 1954 and this assessment is based on 1940 actual values, so if we consider actual values based on earning power of owners or tenants and their ability to pay, farmers are paying too large a share." River Valley and other group of Brookdale say "Oh, it is not fair. Only property owners pay taxation. A number of laborers and professional wage earners are not paying directly to school tax and yet have large families receiving education at local schools, e.g., new Canadians."

All four forums believed there was room for improvements. Some of the ideas suggested were:

(1) More equalized means of local taxation;

(2) Higher provincial grant through a federal grant;

(3) A more modernized educational system throughout the Dominion with emergencies were simple and dependable.

(4) In planning and building of new schools provide only for essential facilities at first and work the frills in later;

(5) Those with little or no property value but with higher earnings than farmers should pay some tax to help, a sales tax or a poll tax;

(6) Do not charge administration of justice, children's aid and indigent patients costs to property but leave this for school tax;

(7) As Sidney township lost the assessment at the Trenton airport (federal) and the Ontario School for the Deaf (provincial) we feel we should receive some federal and more provincial aid.

—that the disciples of Jesus had come by night and stolen it.

As Matthew reported in his Gospel, "So they, taking the money, did as they were taught: and this word was spread abroad among the Jews . . ."

As for the disciples themselves, they did not know what to believe.

Mack Sennett Re-Lives Life On TV Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mack Sennett, once Hollywood's king of comedy, took a sentimental journey into the past Wednesday night as his stars of yesteryear gathered for a reunion at his old studio.

The Canadian-born creator of the Keystone Kops and the Mack Sennett bathing beauties was the subject of the television show "This Is Your Life".

Ralph Edwards assembled many of the old Sennett troupe for dinner and drinks at the site of the old Keystone studio, now used by a van line, and the company erected an obelisk in honor of the studio for the occasion.

The 69-year-old Sennett was taken by surprise. He was induced to attend the program by Cameron Shipp, with whom he is writing his memoirs. He was supposed to be appearing on a show called "so you want to write a book," and even a phony script was concocted.

"How am I going to live up to the king of comedy," Sennett remarked afterward, referring to his billing on the show. "I wish I had gotten more laughs."

LAUGHS AND SENTIMENT

There were many laughs and much sentiment at the after-show party. Edwards had assembled many figures from the Danville, Que., native's past, among them his boyhood sweetheart from Northampton, Mass., Mrs. Rose Clark whom he hasn't seen in many decades.

Also there was Fritzi Scheff, star of "Mademoiselle Modiste," in which Sennett played as a chorus boy 40 years ago.

The dwindling ranks of the Keystone Kops included Hank Mann, Chester and Heinie Conklin and Andy Clyde. Other Sennett stars present included Sally Eilers, Phyllis Haver, Louise Fazenda, Jack Mulhall, Franklin Pangborn, Minta Durfee Arbuckle and Alberta Vaught.

Harold Lloyd was there, and recalled working three or four months as a juvenile for Sennett at $30 a week before moving on to greater fame. Sennett, who also started such stars as Charlie Chaplin, Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields, Carole Lombard and Gloria Swanson, has been in semi-retirement since 1933. He leads an active life, though, remaining in touch with the show world and playing golf daily.

The only disappointment of the evening was dessert. Custard pie was not served.

Tabernacle WMS Plans May Tea

The March meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.M.S. was held in the ladies' parlors of the church, with Mrs. May in the chair. There were 15 members and one visitor present, Miss Horton was at the piano.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. May. Reports were given by the general secretaries and announcement made of the coming Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. to be held in Grace United Church, Napanee, on March 24. A number of ladies offered to go. Two delegates were assigned Mrs. Archibald and Miss Johns.

The tea to be held at the manse in May was discussed with the leader, Mrs. Archibald, and five helpers chosen from the afternoon auxiliary, Mrs. Hogle, Mrs. Winters, Mrs. C. Brickman, Mrs. R. Brickman and Mrs. Davidson. The evening Auxiliary will assist with the names of leader and assistants announced later.

The meeting was taken over by Miss Johns. The theme of worship service was "The Church in Their House." Mrs. Ashley read the Scripture lesson.

Miss Johns took the last chapter of the study book "Where's the Sun," assisted by Mrs. Baird and Mrs. Hogle.

Mrs. Baird spoke of how we send missionaries overseas and yet in our own country there are those who never enter a church. In the United States 87 million people belong to the church, the Methodist and Baptist being the largest denominations. What are we doing in our own country? Faithfulness to Christ is what counts not just belonging to a church.

Miss Johns said, "After 2,000 years, the world is not converted. We sing "Jesus Shall Reign". Does He reign where people have never heard of Him or where those who have heard of Him are not yet Christian?

"There is more to missions than preaching or handing out tracts. Of course Christ commanded His disciples to preach but they did more and we must do more," said the speaker.

Christ Church Parish Guild Holds Meeting

The meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild took place in the parish hall on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Cleo Colling, presided and all sang a hymn.

The president welcomed visitors from Point Anne, Shannonville, St. Margaret's, St. George's and other organizations of the Anglican churches.

Mrs. Button gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. A. Jordan, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and also a letter regarding the building fund.

St. George's Guild invited Christ Church Guild to spend an afternoon with them on March 30, when Mrs. Clegg will give a talk on her trip to Mexico.

It was announced that a rummage sale would be held May 1. A tea will be held in the parish hall on Friday, May 28. Mrs. G. Wright and family will be in charge of the doll's booth at the bazaar and Mrs. Wright would appreciate dolls for this booth.

Mrs. R. Follwell gave a report on the Corn-Meal collection.

Mrs. Boyd sang the hymn "God of Our Life and Lord of Our Salvation," Mrs. V. Hibbard was accompanist. Mrs. Dillmut, of St. Thomas' Guild, read the collection. Mrs. E. Hickey introduced the guest speaker, Miss Margaret Young, of Belleville, her topic was "The Life of Mr. Schweitzer".

Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gander and her committee.

Baby Contest Sponsored By Foxboro W.I.

Mrs. G. Meyers was hostess to the members of the Foxboro branch of the Women's Institute for this March meeting. Mrs. M. Shorey had charge of the meeting.

A special feature of this meeting was a baby contest for babies of Institute members, under two years, with Mrs. James Fox and Miss M. Hicks, as judges. The winners of this contest were Sharon Rombough and Derry Anderson with Dawn Bastley, Janet Skinner and Carolyn Lewis as runners-up. The winning babies each received a five dollar bank account and the others each a silver dollar.

It was decided not to take advantage of the opportunity for representation on the hospital board at this time. It was also decided to try to organize a girls' 4-H Club in Foxboro. The rest of the business was discussion concerning catering for the Threshermen's banquet at Tobe's.

A social time was enjoyed during the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Meyers and her assistants.

52 New Members Admitted To Catholic Women's League

The March meeting of St. Michael's C.W.L. was held on Monday evening in the K. of C. Hall with the president, Mrs. F. E. Logan, in the chair. Wilkinson gave a detailed financial statement and the correspondence for the month was read. Mrs. J. E. Bowers and Mrs. R. E. Barrett were thanked by the president for their successful efforts in connection with the Queen of Hearts ball, held in conjunction with the Children of Mary. During February, Mrs. C. Burley had made forty-one Hospital visits, Holy Rosary C.W.L. will send a representative for March, and Mrs. K. Blaind will visit during April.

Mrs. J. E. Boyd and Mrs. F. Donnelco were elected as auditors to examine and audit the books.

Boxes of clothing have been sent through Mrs. J. E. Boyd, to a needy family in the City, also to a family near outside Trenton and a box is being packed to send to Spanish, Ontario. Anyone desirous of donating used clothing please send it to Mrs. Boyd, 9 Oak Street.

This group will be known in the future as St. Michael's Angels Club, with Reverend Father F. F. Murphy as Spiritual Director. The donation of a dance record by any C.W.L. member to this Club, would be gratefully appreciated if sent to Father Murphy at the Rectory.

Father Murphy addressed the meeting and urged the members to be zealous in their endeavour to attend Holy Communion on the third Sunday of each month.—Lenore Sunday. Mrs. Logan thanked Father Murphy for his remarks.

Women's Activities

ST. MARK'S W.A.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Anglican Church met on Monday of this week at the home of Mrs. M. Wodzak. Mrs. Karl Holoff was assistant.

The group was led in prayer by Rev. T. H. Loseby, their guest for the evening.

In addition to the usual business, a supper and social evening to include all members of the church was planned for April. The president accepted the invitation extended by Mrs. Hansaman of Trenton, for the group to meet at her home in April.

A short story "Helping Our Children Grow Up" read by Mrs. W. Calbery began a very interesting and worthwhile discussion.

The evening closed with "The Lord's Prayer."

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Work Night At Contact Club

Monday evening was work night at the Contact Club of Christ Church. Aprons were the main items on the program, and machines, needles and imagination produced some highly satisfactory and pretty results. Those not engaged in apron-making worked on smocked baby nighties or knitting for the forthcoming Strawberry Tea in June.

Members were reminded to bring in their favorite recipes for the cook book which is being compiled by the Bayview-Queens group. The suggestion box was in a prominent place to receive any new ideas for the club. Members were urged to attend the Parish Guild meeting on Tues-

The next discussion will be held on Immanuel Kant's, "Fundamental Principles of the Metaphysics of Morals," led by Mrs. J. Ormsby and Mr. R. H. Macklem.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

A QUICK AND SURE WAY TO LOSE A FRIEND

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Is it proper for me to correct a friend of mine on her English, and also on certain things she does? Or do you think I will be hurting her by constantly correcting her? E.W.

I am so glad that you have brought this very human question out into the open, for I have a feeling that you have perhaps begun to realize, from your friend's hurt expression, that you have been wounding her by your constant criticism. Please do, like a really good and kind friend, give up your inclination to criticize. That isn't kind, it isn't right. If you persist in this criticism of your friend, the chances are that she will, and she should, withdraw her friendship.

A BRIDE'S QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

(1) I am to be married soon. Semi-formal daytime wedding in a church. Is it necessary for my bridal attendants to wear gloves?

(2) Is it incorrect to use informal notes for thank-you notes?

M.B.

(1) Not necessary for the bridal attendants to wear gloves, and today they usually don't even, at very formal weddings. However, the white kid "thirties" are so pert and youthful-looking that occasionally a bride chooses to have her attendants wear these, particularly when the attendants are carrying very small bouquets, such as old-fashioned nosegays.

(2) If the informal thank-you cards are of large size, they are often or less permissible to use for thank-you notes. But even large-size informal cards have the unattractive impression that the thank-you note just must be limited to the space of the card. So it's really a better taste to write your thank-you notes on letter-paper or even semi-note paper.

A DIVORCE COMPLICATION

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My mother and father were divorced several years ago and for a very special (and very unfortunate) reason I have not been able to live with my mother. My father remarried and I have lived with him and his second wife and they have both been wonderful to me. I am to be married soon and my father is paying all my wedding expenses.

In whose name should the invitations to the church be sent? And in whose name the invitations to the reception which is to be held here in my father's home?

Rita W.

From what you outline of the circumstances I should say that the plan should be that your father would issue the wedding invitations in his name only. But the invitations to the reception must be issued in his name and that of his wife. His wife of course will be the hostess of your wedding reception.

"MAID OF HONOR" OR "BRIDESMAID"?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My daughter is having only one bridal attendant. I think she should be called "the maid of honor" but she has been told she would be called "the bridesmaid." Please tell me which is correct. H.

Customarily when there is only one bridal attendant she is called "the maid of honor" ("matron of honor" if she is married.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAKE NEW ACQUAINTANCES THE RIGHT WAY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My church holds dances every once in awhile and the young people come from all over to these affairs. In this way, my girl friends and I usually meet some nice fellows we haven't known before and date them thereafter.

Would you consider it a pickup to meet fellows this way, since there are never any formal introductions? And do you think it is the same thing as talking to boys at the movies or at the beach? — Alice S.

Dear Alice:

Making new acquaintances at dances sponsored by a church and making them at the movies or at public beaches are two entirely different things.

It is perfectly correct to dispense with formal introductions in the first case, since one may reasonably believe that any young people attending a social affair at a church would be perfectly proper associates. On the other hand, the movies and public beaches are frequented by every sort of person, and you have no possible way of knowing, when you talk casually with strangers you meet there, whether they are the type of people you can trust. It's always wiser to make your acquaintances under approved auspices.

A MAN OF THIS SORT WILL NEVER MAKE ANY GIRL HAPPY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a man I love very much and who says he intends to marry me in a couple of years. He is 24 and I am 21.

Recently we had a disagreement because he wanted me to do something I don't approve of, and he told me that unless I changed my ways to his, we might as well break up. When I told him he would have to change to my ways, he walked off and left me, and I haven't heard since. That was about two weeks ago.

I love him very much and don't want to lose him, so I am wondering what you would suggest.

M.T.

Dear M.T.:

I suggest that when you say this man asked you to do something you don't approve of, you mean it is something you believe is wrong. Do you think that any man who would try to persuade a girl to act against her ideas of what is right and what is wrong is the sort of man you would be a good husband to her and make her happy?

If you lack the courage and good sense to stick to your standards and encourage this man to return, he would naturally take it to mean that you were going to agree to his proposition, and in effect all you would be right back at the point where you started from.

So what I would suggest is to let this man go his own way. To do anything else will, I am sure, only result in unhappiness for you.

WOULD MARCH NORTH

HONG KONG (AP)—Brig.Gen. Choi Duk Shih said today that if a Nationalist Chinese invasion of the China mainland should force withdrawal of Red Chinese troops from North Korea "South Korea would take full advantage of this and march north." The South Korean officer arrived here with two other members of a South Korean mission on a tour of Asian countries in an effort to promote an anti-Communist alliance.

Hey-Day With Cheese

By Mary Moore

There are a great many families in our audience who are observing Lent. There are also a large number of cooks who crave variety to spice up their meals (I'm one). There are hundreds who implore me to keep my recipes within their budget-range.

For once I can please everybody, for cheese takes the place of meat adequately; is the joy of the imaginative cook with all its variations and may be bought for as little as 35c per pound.

My paternal grandmother used to make what she called Cheese Dish. When I reached cooking-school age I discovered Cheese Fondue was the same thing.

Made properly—as of course all you faithful folk make everything—it is a piece de resistance, and what's more fits into all of the categories mentioned above—Lent, change-cravers, slim budgets.

GRANDMA'S CHEESE FONDUE

Cut white bread into 2-3 inch cubes and measure 3 cups. Grate old cheese and measure 1 1-2 cups and put these in alternate layers in buttered baking dish. Beat 3 eggs a little and to them add 3 cups hot milk to which you have added 3 tablespoons butter so that it can melt, and 1-4 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper and 1-8 teaspoon dry mustard. Mix and pour evenly over the bread and cheese. Cover and let stand 1-2 hour. Stand dish in larger dish containing about 1 inch of hot water and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes —or until custard is set and top is attractively flecked with brown This much, for serving at once to be at its puffy best and goes well with spinach and new beets. Pretty too.

Cheesecake has a reputation of being involved and expensive. The version of cheesecake which is below is in the form of a pie and won't strain anyone's skill or bend her budget. Serve it after a first course where the protein content (meat in other words) is low or nil.

CHEESECAKE PIE

Filling—8 ounces white cream cheese (it is less expensive to buy this in two 1-3-lb. bar than two 4-oz. packages); 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons flour, 2-3 cup milk, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind. Cream the cheese and butter together until smooth, then add the sugar and egg and beat well. Add remaining ingredients in order, mixing well. Pour into unbaked graham cracker shell (below). Sprinkle 1-2 cup graham cracker crumbs (which are reserved for this) in a circle around the edge. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. This is at its best when thoroughly chilled before serving.

Graham Cracker Crust—1-3 cup sugar, 1-3 cup melted butter 1 1-4 cups sifted graham cracker crumbs. Add sugar and butter to cracker crumbs. Mix well. Reserve 1-2 cup mixture for topping. Press remainder on bottom and sides of well buttered layer cake tin or pie plate. Chill until set.

There is a new onion soup on the market but it contains beef stock—so Lenten observers take note. The reason I mention it is that it's a wonderful foundation for cheese on a raft. In other words float rounds of dry toast on each bowl of boiling hot onion soup, sprinkle that generously with grated Parmesan (or old Cheddar) cheese and Presto! you have French Onion Soup. (Strictly speaking the whole business is baked after it is assembled—and you can do that too.)

CHEESE BALLS

These may garnish your soup bowls or salad plates or be served as hot hors d'oeuvres. Combine 1-4 cup softened butter with 1-3 cup grated cheddar cheese, 1-3 cup dry fine breadcrumbs and the beaten yolk of 1 egg and 1-4 teaspoon mustard. Form into little 1-inch balls, roll in fine crumbs and fry in deep fat at 375 deg. Fahr. Drain on unglazed paper. Don't attempt to hold these. They must be served with dispatch.

Wife Preservers

Take special care to revitalize linen that's been packed away for months. Run an electric fan to places that cannot be exposed to outdoor breezes.

$124,300,000 Will be Spent On Highways This Season

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario, entering the fifth year of a five-year plan of highway expansion, intends to spend $124,300,000 on highways during the 1954-55 fiscal year, Premier Frost said in the budget address for the legislature today.

The total included $1,000,000 for farming roads.

The estimate would leave an unexpended balance of $21,500,000 in the province's highway reserve account which will be used as required.

Expenditures by the highways department during the 1953-54 fiscal year would be $127,200,000.

"With the steady climb in motor vehicle registrations and the mounting use of our highways, we must proceed with a broad-scale highway program."

Frost set estimates included: property, building, bridges, surveys —$4,293,000 compared with $3,977,-974 a year ago; elimination of level crossings — $1,531,000 compared with $500,000; maintenance — $18,035,000 compared with $13,275,-000; municipal road subsidies — $12,584,000 compared with $18,412,-000.

During the 1953-54 fiscal year the department will have completed 178 miles of new highway, permanent improvement of 10,500 miles of main highways and development of roads to 2,000 miles of gravel roads paved with hot mix, 272 miles of roads surfaced with a light mulch pavement and 302 miles of graded roads.

A total of 240 miles of the Trans-Canada Highway, or 74 per cent of the 1,000 miles, will be completed and complete. An additional 104 miles was under construction for grading, of which 80 per cent had been completed. Final grading contracts to join the Ontario section between Ottawa and the Quebec border had been let.

An appendix to the budget listed a total appropriation for 1954-55 in the various divisions as follows (estimates for the 1953-54 fiscal year in brackets):

Southwestern Ontario divisions—Chatham, Windsor, London, Stratford and Owen Sound, including completion of divided highway in the Chatham area; Chatham, London and Woodstock areas; new grading in the Chatham division; new culvert overpasses in the London division and new grading and surfacing in other two divisions: $8,643,000 ($8,-682,620).

Central southern Ontario divisions—Hamilton, Toronto and Port Hope, including the completion of the Toronto and Orillia by-passes and the bottleneck over the Canada Creek bridge; two railway overpasses and paving and grading: $10,012,000 ($10,-275,092).

North central and northeastern Ontario divisions—Huntsville, Sudbury, North Bay, New Liskeard, Cochrane and Blind River, including completion of work on the Trans-Canada Highway in the Huntsville, Sudbury and Blind River divisions; work on the section of highway north of Montreal river and grading and paving in North Bay, Huntsville and Cochrane divisions: $9,056,000 ($15,200,-218).

Northwestern Ontario divisions—Fort William and Kenora, including completion of work on the Atikokan highway and the Trans-Canada Highway, paving and grading of the Trans-Canada Highway east of Marathon and White River: and grading: $4,604,000 ($7,536,343).

Closes Budget Address With Quotation

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost closed his budget address in the Ontario legislature today with a string of words used by another on a former occasion . . . in the hope that they will never lose their binding force for Canadian people."

The quotation:

"Realizing the inherent greatness of Canada as a nation, and realizing the strength that can come only from unity of purpose, we believe that all the peoples of Canada should unite in fostering a common pride in Canadian achievements and institutions and a common loyalty to our ancestral traditions of equality, justice and freedom. We should seek with due regard for constitutional rights to achieve that profound sense of unity without which no national interests which will ensure harmony and understanding and that future for our country which was the aim of Confederation."

The premier did not tell the legislature that the author was his colleague, the late Cecil Facer, former president of the Ontario Conservative Association, who in his practised law together in Lindsay, Ont., until Cecil's death seven years ago.

COMET YIELDS NO CLUES

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of British Overseas Airways Corporation says wreckage of the Comet jet airliner which crashed in the Mediterranean Jan. 10 has given "no lead at all to the cause of the disaster." Thomas told a radio audience: "Down to day right that be is satisfied the framework of the Comet "is sound and airworthy." About 10 per cent of the wreck has been recovered in intensive salvage operations.

GETS DEFENCE NOD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday nominated Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson to be deputy secretary of defence, succeeding Roger M. Kyes. Anderson, a Texas rancher-lawyer-business man, was a "Democrat for Eisenhower" in 1952. The White House said there would be no immediate announcement on a successor to Anderson in the top navy post.

Committee Will Consider, Report On Economics

TORONTO (CP) — A committee to consider and report on the economics of the province's gold mining industry will be appointed shortly, Premier Frost said in his budget address to the Ontario legislature today.

Mr. Frost said in a review of natural resources — mines, agriculture and forests — that the committee would study the serious depressed state of the industry, particularly gold.

Despite the downward trend in the price of some metals and the state of the gold mines, the value of the province's mineral output rose in 1953 to a record $400,500,000, an increase of $.5 per cent over 1952.

Discovery of copper, zinc and silver in the Manitouwadge area, Frost indicated in the report of a provincial geologist 22 years ago, "is of first-rate importance."

Outstanding in the Blind River and Haliburton areas are of "exceptional interest." The Sudbury area has been the scene of great expansion and progress.

That Ontario holds fascination for prospectors and offers many lures to the capitalist is attested by the nearly 9,000 miners' licences renewed or issued in the year, and the record 27,000 claims registered."

FOR ROADS

During the coming fiscal year $1,000,000 would be spent on mining roads. The government would also continue its program of financial assistance to municipalities within the major mining areas.

Despite a 25-per-cent reduction in the timber cut, Frost said there increased their physical output by 10 per cent. Part of the forest building year emphasis would be placed on measures to effect an orderly marketing of forest products, greater stability of income for the forest industry and a more balanced product for consumers.

Research in the pulp, paper, outlining a long-range plan on reforestation and control of timber cutting, had been presented to the legislature for study and consideration.

Proper Revision Of Taxation Must Be Made

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said today a proper revision of taxation arrangements at the federal-provincial level must be made before there can be any reduction to the municipal problem is solved.

"I think it may fairly be said that we have been doing our share to assist the municipalities," the premier said in his budget address to the Ontario legislature. "We will course, there is a limit to what the province can do. Over the past 11 years, when demands for direct provincial services have also increased, we have stepped up our provincial assistance seven times.

"The tempo of this assistance cannot be continued without increasing provincial rates of taxation or curtailing government services."

With the introduction of its new grants conditions announced earlier this year, the province was terminating grants for fire and police services, but the net increase in municipal aid of $7,000,000 to the municipalities. The new grants, he said, represented a unique attempt to provide for the equitable distribution of the burdens placed upon the municipalities through the assumption of certain welfare costs.

During the coming year the province also planned a building program which would rise to $134,000,000, compared to $125,100,000 estimated for the current year.

Unconditional grants would total $39,000,000.

Dealing with municipal debentures, Frost said $8,000,000 had been chased through the Ontario Municipal Improvement Corporation. The corporation was formed for such purposes as waterworks and sewage disposal systems. Since its inception in 1950, it had purchased $17,912,000 in debentures.

Premier Urges Closer Integration Of Federal, Provincial, Municipal Policies to Continue Employment

TORONTO (CP) — Closer integration of federal, provincial and municipal policies to ensure continuation of a high level of employment was urged today by Premier Frost of Ontario.

"On several occasions, I have urged that the economic council office, which was established at the Dominion-Provincial Conference of 1945-46, be re-appointed," the premier said in his budget address to the Ontario legislature today.

The committee — a fact - finding body composed of technical advisers of the various governments — would not confine its inquiry solely to questions pertaining to the allocation of responsibilities and tax sources. It would also undertake the study of problems dealing with economic stability, income and unemployment, trends of capital investment and public works, and other matters.

"The committee would submit plans on these problems to the provincial representatives or to their respective governments.

Where "rather painful" adjustments in economic or social industries resulting in substantial unemployment there should be some method of giving guidance to the timing and action in unison.

"Unfortunately, the division of responsibility between the federal and provincial governments on unemployment relief is not clearly defined, nor have we made progress in instituting public investment proposals discussed at the Dominion - Provincial Conference of 1945."

Mr. Frost said the time had certainly come, indeed, if it has not passed" when the 1945-46 discussions could be resumed on capital investment and planning and timing grants.

"It may be necessary in the future to undertake, as stabilizing measures, a larger capital program than that upon which we are now engaged. In Canada, most of the projects which lend themselves to timing lie within the field of municipal and municipal jurisdiction. Accordingly, a working partnership with the federal and provincial governments is necessary."

Supplementary Grant of $300 A Bed to Be Given Hospitals

TORONTO (CP) — A supplementary grant of $7,000,000 to hospitals in Ontario at the rate of $300 a bed was announced today by Premier Frost in his annual budget address to the legislature today.

The payment would bring to $20,000,000 grants to public general hospitals during 1953-54 to help meet operating costs, to retire debt charges and equipment.

A special capital payment of $1,-000,000 would be made in the 1954-55 Cancer Foundation for the new institute building in Toronto. The province will contribute a total of $8,500,000 of the $9,500,000 cost of the project, the foundation's government paying the remainder.

HOSPITAL GRANTS

PROGRESS BUDGET

The highways reserve account, a fund to help pay for road-building, at the beginning was $17,500,-000 — of funds distributed in supplementaries and estimates closing the books on the present fiscal year. With an original appropriation of $23,000,000, the additional sum put a total of $40,500,000 into the highway fund in 1953-54.

$7,000,000 FOR HOSPITALS

The supplementary payments included $7,000,000 for general hospitals, funds on a basis of a grant for each bed in service last Dec. 31. The grants could be used for retirement of capital debt or for capital improvements.

Another $3,000,000 in capital grants went to universities, including $1,000,000 to the University of Toronto for extension of its dental teaching facilities. Premier Frost said there were only five dental colleges in Canada and he hoped the Canadian government would recognize the dental health problem by contributing to the cost of the project.

Other special university capital grants were: Carleton College, Queen's University and the University of Western Ontario; $250,000 apiece; Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, $250,000; McMaster University and the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Ottawa; $200,000 to the Ontario College of Art; $150,000 to Assumption College at Windsor; $100,000 to the Royal Botanical Gardens at Hamilton, associated with McMaster.

$1,000,000 GRANTS

There were three supplementary grants of $1,000,000 apiece: the Ontario Research Foundation, bringing to $6,300,000 the province's contribution since 1930; the Ontario Society for the Crippled; the province's annuation fund for provincial employees. Another $500,000 was a grant to the Canadian Mental Health Institute for the Blind for its rehabilitation and occupational service.

Supplementary grants were to be paid in the current fiscal year, ending March 31.

Miscellaneous grants of $7,271,000 were provided for universities in the coming fiscal year, including $4,700,000; Ontario College of Education, $475,000; Queen's at Kingston, Western, $675,000 apiece, up $50,000; Hamilton College of Music; University's medical faculty, $225,000 apiece, up $25,000; Carleton College, $145,000, up $10,000.

HIGHWAY COST

Highway construction and maintenance costs for the new fiscal year were estimated at $124,300,000 compared with $127,200,000 in the year now ending.

An appendix to the budget set out the status of the highway reserve account, established a few years ago. The account, at the beginning of 1953-54 after the year ending March 31, 1953, and the $40,500,000 total for the year brought total to $61,500,000. Expenditures from the fund this year were estimated at $37,000,000 and the balance at next March 31 at $53,500,-000. The year's appropriation of $23,000,000 would bring the total to $86,500,000 and it was planned to spend $25,000,000 in 1954-55.

Gross ordinary expenditures of $376,465,000 in the current fiscal year outran estimates by $25,656,000. Revenue at $377,474,000 topped the estimate of a year ago by $26,-994,000.

GAS, LIQUOR UP

Gasoline tax revenue of $85,000,-000 and liquor profits of $42,000,000 showed the largest increases over estimates—each up $6,000,000. Succession duties produced revenue of $4,500,000 over the estimate, and $134,448,000 from the tax agreement with the Dominion was $1,448,000 over the anticipated amount of $131,000,000. The tax agreement is expected to provide $140,800,000 in the next year.

For the current year gross ordinary expenditures were estimated at $370,623,000 and revenue at $373,162,000.

Capital expenditures, which reached $224,994,000 this year, was forecast at a lower level for the new year at $137,203,000.

MORE SOLD IN CANADA

In his 11 years as treasurer Ontario had invested in the province's guaranteed bonds of the province's Hydro-Electric Commission totalling $1,638,207,000. Of the total only $285,000,000 was sold in the United States. Canada, he said, had easily absorbed $1,000,000,000 and more than four-fifths of the total issued was for refunding maturing bonds.

Although the province's net debt rose from $450,000,000 in 1943 to $649,000,000 in 1953, or over a per basis it dropped from 1126.71 to $122.91 and "in terms of real purchasing power the reduction was even greater."

In all, he said, the province had invested in physical assets to a value of $466,000,000 and he felt it was a matter for satisfaction to us that we have capitalized only 35 per cent of the total expenditure.

In a review of economic developments, the premier said that in Canada there were some soft spots such economic indicators as capital investment, employment, construction, mining and forestry output, but trade and employment had reached higher levels. Capital investment in 1953 for the first time passed the $5,000,000,000 rate of more than $2,000,000,000 in the province.

FARM INCOME DOWN

However, there was a downward trend in farm incomes and slackening in the farm implements and tractors industries and some other branches of industry, although not a matter of concern.

But "there are many strong and vigorous elements in our economy which justify an attitude of confidence." Ontario's population was growing at the rate of about 150,-000 a year and had increased by 1,000,000 in five years. In percentage terms, the growth was greater than in any other province. The capital investment would be higher in 1954 than in 1953.

It was hoped a start could be made this year on the St. Lawrence project and the natural gas pipeline from Alberta to central Ontario, which would create employment opportunities.

Of labor's responsibility between Dominion and provincial governments on unemployment measures was not clearly defined the premier said, mentioning recent "painful adjustments" in several industries.

ECONOMIC COMMITTEE

He called for re-appointment of

Ontario's Credit At High Point Says Premier

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's credit ranks "with the highest" among Canadian provinces, Premier Frost said today.

The premier, in his budget address to the Ontario legislature, said a $20,000,000 provincial debenture sold March 2 in New York had an average maturity of 18.8 years at an average interest cost of 3.11 per cent. The money was for capital expenditures of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

"This was one of the best issues any province has sold for several years, and it demonstrates that despite the formidable demands we have made on the money market, our credit ranks with the highest among the Canadian provinces."

By a policy of applying every dollar of current revenue surplus to sinking funds, debt reduction or capital expenditures "we are able to assure the province a high reputation among the investing public, and thus facilitate our borrowing at low rates of interest."

The net debt rose from $405,600,000 on March 31, 1943, to $804,100,000 on March 31, 1953 but on a per capita basis, it dropped from $126.71 to $123.94.

In Mr. Frost's 11 years as provincial treasurer, the province had issued its own bonds, or guaranteed Ontario hydro bonds, totalling $1,631,000,000. Of this total $285,000,000 was raised outside Canada while the remaining 83 per cent was obtained on the home market. Hydro's capital requirements absorbed $1,000,000,000 of these borrowings, while more than four-fifths of the money for the province was for refunding of maturing issues.

Since 1943, physical assets of the province had increased by $466,500,000, not including grants paid out for the construction of schools, universities, hospitals and charitable institutions which were treated as ordinary expenditure.

'Shelf of Plans' Now Prepared For Conservation

TORONTO (CP) — Conservation expenditures in Ontario during the 1954-55 fiscal year were estimated at $16,500,000 in the budget presented to the Ontario legislature today by Premier Frost.

The premier said a "shelf of plans" for further conservation and flood control has been prepared which, when carried out, will entail a capital investment of $82,000,000.

Work completed and in progress during 1953-54 included the Fanshawe dam and reservoir, Conestogo dam and reservoir, Luther Marsh dam, Deioro dam and Brampton flood control, costing a total of $11,500,873.

Fifteen conservation authorities had been established, covering 10,505 square miles and having a total membership of 256 municipalities. Twenty-six watershed surveys had been made.

Reforestation by organized conservation authorities was being stressed, and agreements made between seven of the authorities and the department of lands and forests. So far $440,000 had been spent for land purchases, planning and management.

Wife, Doctors Urge Churchill To Step Down

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill is under strong pressure to retire within the next few months.

His wife and doctors have joined in urging the old warrior to step down, perhaps in a position to know said Wednesday.

Some Conservative party stalwarts are saying that Churchill, 79, must turn over the helm soon to 56-year-old Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. They argue the voters must get used to Eden as prime minister if the Conservatives are to win the general election to be held before October, 1955.

Senator McCarthy Gets Jump On Administration Drive To Take Spotlight From Him

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator McCarthy, sailing down the chance to make the first broadcast reply to Democratic leader Adlai E. Stevenson, has the jump on a republican administration drive to lure the spotlight away from him.

The Wisconsin senator, a republican himself, still insisting he is entitled to free television and radio time over the networks which carried Stevenson's party speech Saturday, announced he will make a "partial" reply tonight (7 p.m. EST) on the Mutual radio network.

That will be two days before the official Republican party reply by Vice-President Richard Nixon.

McCarthy will appear on the 15-minute show of commentator Fulton Lewis Jr. McCarthy said it will be a "question and answer—mostly answer" affair, touching on criticism of him by Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1952, and by Senator Ralph Flanders, Vermont Republican.

NBC and CBS, which carried Stevenson's speech, have granted free time to the Democratic national committee for reply. The committee, which beat McCarthy to the draw in requesting it, chose Nixon as the party speaker.

SAYS DECISION FAIR

President Eisenhower told his press conference Wednesday that he regarded the networks' decision as a fair arrangement, and said he heartily concurred in selection of Nixon. High party sources earlier had said the president handpicked Nixon.

Eisenhower also said, in commenting on Flanders' Senate criticism of McCarthy, that there is danger in "magnifying certain items of procedure and right and personal aggrandizement . . . to the point where we are endangering the program of action that all the leadership is agreed upon. . . ."

"The White House later granted permission to quote the president directly. Presumably those remarks normally may not be so quoted.

Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Republican chairman of the Senate policy committee, said in an interview that he considers the president's words as indicating concern that his legislative program might be lost sight of in wrangling over McCarthy and his controversial investigations.

INVESTIGATIONS HAMPERED

McCarthy, perhaps taking the line he may employ in any reply he makes tonight to Flanders, told reporters:

"There's a tremendous, concerted effort to cut down the investigation of Communists. A very few Republicans are joining in it. It's as easy for a Republican to be a hero in the eyes of the left-wing press by interfering in the investigation of communism—I'm happy they are so few."

Asked to list the "few Republicans" he had in mind, McCarthy grinned and said "no comment."

Flanders, who told his Senate colleagues Tuesday that McCarthy was "doing his best to shatter" his party, got what he termed a "nice letter" from Eisenhower, but declined to make it public. At his press conference, Eisenhower voiced general endorsement of Flanders' speech.

Dumant Made Red Cross Shine Across World

By VON NIKOLAUS B. MIKA

About a century ago a wealthy banker from Switzerland wrote a book about the battle of Solferino. He had taken a trip through Italy, but not far from Solferino his journey was interrupted by a raging battle. The combat only lasted a few hours, but no less than forty thousand soldiers were killed that afternoon. The fact that shocked him most was not the multitude of dying men but the cruelty of leaving the wounded enemies helpless on the battlefield. For it was unthinkable in those days to help a wounded enemy. The commanding general only did his duty when he refused assistance.

Although his help was not more than a drop of water in the sea, he bought bandages and medicines with his own means and improvised a hospital in a little church nearby.

Back in Geneva he was haunted by the cruel scenes he had seen and it was as if he continuously heard the moaning, dying men pleading for mercy.

Without knowing anyone in the whole of Russia, he went there to see the Czar. He was granted an audience of several hours, although to his own ministers the Czar did not usually allow more than a few minutes. The idea seemed clear and simple—medical care for sick and wounded in a war, regardless of race or country.

WAS PERSONAL GUEST

The Czarina had a medallion made for him bearing the sign of the Red Cross and he was the personal guest of Russia's Crown Prince.

When the first official conference in Geneva was held, he was given the absurd task of entertaining the foreign guests. Others would have been offended but he knew that his time for rest had not yet come.

He sold his house and his luxurious belongings and travelled for a quarter of a century from country to country with nothing else before his eyes but the realization of his idea. When his means were exhausted he found shelter in the slums of Paris.

When the Nobel Prize was awarded to him, it was not even known whether he was living. But he was living in a forsaken old people's home, almost forgotten from the world. As poor as he was, he did not want the money for himself, but gave it for his work of mercy.

The Red Cross still is the symbol of brotherhood and charity among the nations. The man who sacrificed his wealth and lifetime to make it shine across the world, was Henry Dunant.

BURNED WORKMAN DIES

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—George Chesney, 55, died Wednesday of burns suffered two weeks ago at the Canadian Carborundum Company. He was splashed with molten aluminium oxide which escaped from a leak in a furnace.

$125,000,000 In Tax Refunds Will Be Paid

OTTAWA (CP)—Individual taxpayers will claim refunds of around $125,000,000 on their 1953 income tax payments, the revenue department estimated today.

The department figured that 4,650,000 persons will file tax returns and that 2,500,000 will apply for refunds because of overpayments for a variety of reasons.

One of the major 1953 tax changes that will bring on refunds was a reduction in tax of 11 per cent during the last half of the year.

Other changes included a greater allowance for tax-deductible medical expenses, an increase in the income allowed those listed as dependents and a provision that a wholly-dependent child over 21 may be regarded as a dependent if he is attending university.

The deadline for filing returns is April 30.

The department's estimate of refunds expected and number of refunds and amounts claimed, in that order, includes: Kingston, 40,000, 18,000,000; Belleville, 12,000, 4,000,000; $1,500,000; Toronto 745,000, 400,000, $21,000,000; St. Catharines, 105,000, 55,000, $3,000,000; Kitchener, 130,000, 70,000, $2,000,000; Sudbury, 125,000, 73,000, $4,000,000; Fort William, 61,000, 35,000, $2,000,000.

Legendary Figure Of Northland Dies in France

MONTREAL (CP) — Most Rev. Gabriel Breynat, "Flying Bishop" of the Canadian Arctic, is dead.

The frail Roman Catholic prelate, a legendary figure in the north, died Tuesday night near Lyons, France, a city he picked for retirement after 51 active years in the Arctic. He was 86.

Word of his death was received here by the provincial of the Oblate Fathers, the order to which Bishop Breynat belonged.

He joined the order in France in 1888 and came to Canada in 1902, travelling immediately to missionary outposts in the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories. He was appointed Vicar Apostolic of the district in 1902 and held the post until ill health forced his retirement in 1943.

He became known as the "Flying Bishop" and "Bishop of the Winds"—names given him by Indians and Eskimos because of his extensive travels, first by dog-team and later by plane.

During one of his dog-sled treks he froze the toes on both feet and was threatened with gangrene. A brother missionary cut off the toes with a pocketknife.

St. Laurent Says West Must Trade With All World

TOKYO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent lunched today with the Emperor of Japan after a press conference this morning at which the controversial issue of Red China came up again. The Canadian leader predicted to reporters that eventually the West will deal with the Communist government of China and resume trade with the communist world.

He told the press conference that it is "only the common-sense, realistic approach" that Allied countries eventually will deal with Red China as the government "in effective control of the (China) mainland."

On East-West trade, the prime minister said:

"If we want stability in the world, there will have to be all kinds of relations between various countries in the world. This includes commercial relations."

The prime minister drove to the palace in a 19th-century horse-drawn state coach for the luncheon with Emperor Hirohito.

TALKS TO PRESS

At the morning press conference he took note of the current stops by Premier Nehru and the Philippines.

In his remarks on China, the prime minister said "I think I had better keep away from that world for a while," because there's been a lot of controversy."

The United States opposes recognition of Communist China, while Britain and some other Commonwealth countries favor it. Britain recognized Peiping soon after the Reds drove out the Nationalists in 1949.

(In Ottawa Wednesday, External Affairs Minister Pearson told the House of Commons that Canada has no immediate intention of recognizing the Communist government of China. He made the statement after earlier questions by Opposition Leader Drew, who had challenged statements concerning the recognition of Red China attributed to the prime minister in other press conferences during the world tour.)

DESIRE FOR PEACE

The prime minister also told reporters here:

1. "Canada will certainly do its best" to get Japan admitted to the United Nations.

2. "I think there is a genuine desire now to try and keep the world at peace."

3. "Neutralism or isolationism are not practical for Canada or the United States. We have come to the conclusion that we need to build up our strength."

During his tour, which took him to London, Paris, Bonn, Rome, Karachi, New Delhi, Colombo, Jakarta, Manila and Korea before coming to Japan, he said he found a genuine desire for peace throughout the world.

Rhee Will Send Delegates To Geneva Parley

SEOUL (AP) — President Syngman Rhee says he probably will send delegates to the Geneva conference but how much advance financial assurances there will be no sellout of Korea."

The president of South Korea set forth his position—with heavy emphasis on his displeasure at the way the conference was arranged—in answer to written questions from The Associated Press.

Among things, Rhee wanted to know whether State Secretary Dulles would stand by an agreement reached with Rhee in Seoul last year to walk out on the peace conference if it became apparent the Communists were stalling.

Rhee referred to the Geneva conference opening April 26 as "further useless talk."

Rhee repeated a statement that South Korea will push north alone, if necessary, in an attempt to drive the Chinese Reds from the north and unify Korea.

In Washington, informed sources said the United States is expected to give South Korea assurances soon that there will be no "sellout" of its vital interests at Geneva.

Tito Accepts Invitation To Visit Countries

By JOHN EARLE

BELGRADE (Reuters) — President Tito's acceptance of invitations to pay official visits to Turkey and Greece is symbolic of the importance he attaches to friendship between Communist Yugoslavia, republican Turkey and monarchist Greece.

The invitations come at a time when differences of opinion have shown themselves between these three countries which a year ago signed the Balkan pact of friendship and co-operation.

The differences began when Greek Premier Marshal Papagos on a visit to Belgium and Holland urged that the Balkan pact be linked with the Atlantic pact, of which Greece and Turkey are already members. Turkish Foreign Minister Fuad Loprulu backed the Greek view.

Yugoslavia, however, opposes such a link. Yugoslav officials say it is not necessary for Yugoslavia's defence and they would not allow Yugoslav forces to be under the command of American or western European generals.

ZHELEZOV FINISH INVITE

Marshal Papagos' acceptance of an invitation to visit Russia also aroused displeasure in Yugoslav official quarters, although this was not commented on in the Yugoslav press. Yugoslavia does not recognize Gen. Franco, but the exiled Spanish Republican government.

Yugoslavia's trade with both Greece and Turkey has increased enormously during the last year. But Yugoslavs are dissatisfied with Greece because Yugoslav firms were not invited to participate with western European firms in the Greek government's $286,000,000 reconstruction program.

Yugoslavs also are dissatisfied with what they call the rigid licensing policy of the Turkish authorities, which they maintain results in Yugoslav goods waiting for months in Yugoslav harbors and Turkish customs warehouses.

On the other hand, the first year of the Balkan pact can show on the positive side increasing defence collaboration between the three countries. Representatives of the three general staffs meet periodically to plan defence. And visits are taking place with increasing frequency between public bodies in the three countries, such as theatre groups, musicians, students organizations and war veterans.

Manager Wants Mushers Barred From Dog Derbies

OTTAWA (CP)—K. G. Switzer, manager of the Ottawa Humane Society, proposed in a report to the society that two Quebec City mushers be barred from future international dog derbies held here.

Mr. Switzer charged that Narcisse Dompierre abandoned a dog on the trail during the running of the two-day, 65-mile derby here Feb. 9-10 and that Wilf Lepine, two-time winner of the race, was "relieved" to have used ether on his crack hounds.

He said in his report that Lepine was the subject of a complaint by another contestant this year. The complaint to the judges was that Lepine "was using a substance believed to be ether on his dogs."

Lepine was charged by the society with mistreating his dogs following his victory in 1953 but was dismissed in court after testimony by one of the judges, Inspector H. J. Larson of the RCMP, who said he did not believe ether was used at the time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nansen, who was in charge of this year's derby won by Emile Martel of Lorettieville, Que., said "action will be taken in the future regarding these two men" if the complaints are factual.

Commenting on the complaint regarding ether for Lepine's dogs, Mrs. Nansen said "there is no proof." Only a blood test at the time could have confirmed such use of ether. She added that many liniments smell heavily of ether.

At Quebec, Lepine said the charge that he used ether on his dogs during the derby is false.

Lepine told The Canadian Press: "I transported my dog by trailer to Ottawa and it was the gasoline (fumes) that made them sick. I didn't use ether."

Dompierre could not be reached for comment.

'Drug Orgy' Central Figure Named as Former Nazi Spy

ROME (CP)—An official report has named the Marquis Ugo Montagna, key figure in the current "drug orgy" trial here, as a former Nazi spy believed to have organized parties at one time "to satisfy the lust of many political personalities."

But the report said it had not been possible to establish whether drug trafficking was among the many activities of Montagna as alleged by journalist Silvano Muto.

Muto, on trial here for sedition, alleged in an article that police were induced to drop investigations into the death of a girl after she had participated in an "orgy" at the marquis' hunting reserve.

Attracted by the sensation, crowds gathered at Montagna's reserve today to peer into his parkland said to have been the scene of wild drug and sex orgies. One enterprising Italian set up a soft-drink stall outside.

ORGANIZED PARTIES

The court here Wednesday heard the report, prepared by police, stating Montagna was a former agent of the Fascist secret police, a Nazi spy and an organizer of parties for United States and British officers after the liberation of Rome in 1944.

"It was believed that Montagna used to arrange parties with women of questionable morality to satisfy the lust of many political personalities of the time," it said.

Main defence witness for Muto was 23-year-old Anna Maria Caglio, who said she had been the marquis' mistress for a year.

She said she knew of no concrete evidence, but suspected the marquis of building a large post-war fortune in drugs.

SLANDER SUITS FILED

By today she was the target of 25 slander suits, brought by people cited by the defence as being connected with the marquis. Another five suits were directed at other witnesses and another dozen at various newspapers.

Premier Mario Scelba promised parliament that his government will push an inquiry into the case. His vow came during his speech in the chamber of deputies just prior to a vote of confidence on his government.

The death of Wilma Montesi, an obscure party girl, on the beach at Ostia last April, touched off the controversy.

Muto alleged that Wilma passed out at a high-society dope party and was left to drown in the rising tide.

Soviet Union Is Fighting Fit Says Bulganin

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters) — Russians read in their newspapers today the strongest hint yet given that the Soviet Union is fighting fit if a third world war should break out tomorrow.

That was the theme of a major speech made Wednesday by the Soviet defence minister, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, who also is a vice-premier and one of Russia's "big five." Bulganin's speech contrasted in tone with recent pacific and "co-existence" declarations from the Kremlin.

Most responsible observers of Soviet affairs believe that the Soviet army, in the background, holds the real power in Russia today. Bulganin was clearly speaking for the army Wednesday — and he pulled no punches. He publicly admitted that for the last four years Russia has been building up her military strength—as it intends to continue.

RECRUITING EXPERTS

Bulganin declared that the Soviet army and navy at present are drawing into their ranks skilled technicians from industry and agriculture, men "who are well trained in the handling of machines and whose practical and theoretical knowledge is adaptable to service conditions."

This is being done at a time when there is the greatest need for skilled men in industry and agriculture in view of the Kremlin's drive to boost living standards. Thus Bulganin is taking away the skilled men badly needed by Nikita S. Khrushchev, who is directing the reorganization of agriculture and is faced by a shortage of skilled manpower.

Bulganin said in effect that Russia has no time to lose in the arms race. Yet the Kremlin has recently been advocating publicly an all-round reduction of armaments in the interests of "reducing world tension."

School Board To Implement Recommendations

CAMPBELLFORD — The February meeting of the Campbellford Public School Board was held on Friday.

It was decided that the Board meetings in future be held on the first Wednesday of each month at 7.30 p.m. in the primary school. The March meeting was held five days later on March 3rd.

At both meetings all members were present and Mr. Charles Young, inspector of Public Schools, was present at the February meeting.

Dr. W. W. Baker was chosen chairman for 1954 with Mr. F. E. Frederick as vice-chairman; Mr. Sidney Hopping is chairman of the internal committee; Mrs. H. Cowell of the finance committee; Mr. Forrest Dennis of the property committee, and Mr. W. C. Tatham remains convener of the insurance committee until the work is finished.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

The inspector's report, following his first official visit to the school was studied carefully. In it, Mr. Young congratulated the board on the following improvements:

1—Providing an adequate principal's office and necessary office equipment.

2—Purchasing new maps and globes.

3—Adding particular equipment in several classrooms to promote better instruction.

4—Replacing teachers' desks and children's desks in some of the rooms.

5—Permitting distribution of cod liver oil capsules and milk to the pupils.

He also made a list of recommendations which he asked the board to consider separately and make provision for implementing them at their discretion.

ACTION TAKEN

These, too, were studied and action taken on the following:

The property chairman is to arrange and oversee the placing of adequate bulletin board space in each class room. This is to be done during the Easter vacation; also to examine the ventilation system, condemned in both the M.O.H.'s and Inspector's report and bring in a detailed heating suggestions for its improvement.

A half hour earlier dismissal for pupils who warrant such consideration, was agreed by the board. In this way the remaining half hour can be allotted to individual pupils who need extra help on any subject or who need more time to complete the day's assignments satisfactorily.

Mr. Rothwell was asked to make plans for a future school library especially needed for the junior and intermediate divisions. This project will be undertaken when it has been studied thoroughly and when possible financially.

The same plans will be for the replacing of old desks for new and translucent blinds on the windows, both recommended on the inspector's report. This will be done gradually and as soon as financially possible.

PROVIDE SUPPLIES

The biggest question of the meeting was the decision whether or not the board should provide all school supplies which is being done in almost all schools now and which was especially urged by the inspector. In view of the fact that fifty per cent of this cost is carried by the provincial government, the board decided it would be a saving to the community in most cases. It was unanimously carried that all school supplies should be provided starting September 1, 1954.

Mr. Young commended the fine leadership given by the principal, Mr. Rothwell. He also noted that he had found much strength on the staff judging from his first inspection. He asked that the board try to make more free time possible for the principal in order that he might organize the school and help by inspecting the work of the school.

Mr. Tatham reported the findings of the Cooper Appraisal Co., who had appraised the school and contents for insurance purposes. The secretary was asked to write the insurance companies telling that the appraisal gave the "depreciated insurable value" of buildings and contents to be $200,332.88 and invited them to make quotations accordingly.

Crests and plaques for the local public school sports day in May were discussed, the board will buy all crests for this event and it is hoped to have all donations of permanent plaques to be placed in the schools.

A letter from the public school staff asking for a few changes in the salary schedule was read. The chairman of the internal committee was asked to study these changes and bring recommendations to the April meeting.

Cook County's Overcrowded Jail Scene of Riot

CHICAGO (AP)—Nineteen prisoners in a Cook county overcrowded jail rioted for more than seven hours before they surrendered Wednesday night after a barrage of tear-gas and streams of water from fire hoses.

The prisoners, soaking, shivering and gasping, stumbled out of a cell-block day room on the jail's third floor after a final hour of defiance.

Three of the 19 suffered injuries in the stormy battle waged with guards, police and firemen. Four guards also were slightly injured.

The thwarting of a jail break was named by sheriff John E. Babb as the reason touching off the siege by the prisoners. All were confined to the "maximum security" section of the jail and were considered dangerous. The ringleaders were described by officials as a condemned murderer and a bank robber.

Another jail official said overcrowding of the jail, which houses nearly 2,000, contributed to the riot. The jail was built to accommodate 1,300 prisoners.

More than 50 gas shells were fired into the day room, which measures 30 by 100 feet. Firemen poured water in through broken windows and through ports inside the building.

The gas-saturated room was left in ruins, six inches of water covered the floor. Tables were overturned and bunks destroyed. Broken glass and plumbing fixtures littered the floor.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

COULD BE IT?

Kingston Goodyears' "championship machine", which Michael J. Rodden dearly loves to call the Limestone City Senior "A" representatives, would appear to be in need of some spare parts. The master mechanics from Oshawa have developed a nasty habit of taking it apart to see what makes it tick and last night was no different in the home garage of the Goodies. That Dickensian from the Motor City did a neat job in dis-assembling the Goodies to the tune of 8-2 while another sell-out crowd watched the procedure.

It appears it makes no difference which "garage" the Truckmen operate in, Mr. Rodden to the contrary, and from here it would appear that Dickens ever has a great big Indian sign tacked but good on the faltering champions from Roddenville. They lead the series three games to one and could end the agony here tomorrow night when the teams clash in the 11th game of the semi-finals.

But while there is life, and Mr. Rodden, there is hope. It should be remembered that the Goodyears trailed the Oshawans three games to one last season and in a sensational comeback went on to not only tie the game record but cop the championship. And if we can borrow a leaf from Mr. Rodden's statistical book it might be said that Belleville ice does not recall many happy memories to the Oshawa Club. Of course the Memos had a lot to do with it, but the Motor City group did not have the success here they had in other hockey leftovs of the circuit.

However, with the chips down and a spot in the finals staring them in the face, the Oshawans may shake the jinx and take the series by a 4-1 count. On the other hand the Goodies have their backs to the well-known wall with exhilaration all around the corner, so all-in-all tomorrow night's clash should be one for the group archives.

PETES CAN WRAP IT UP!

Meanwhile up in Peterborough, the Petes took a strangle-hold on their series with the Orillia Pontiacs. They defeated the Couchiching laddybucks 6-3 last night in the Liftlock City to lead the series 3-0. The Pontiacs go back to Orillia tomorrow night and the Redmond gang could sew up the series with a victory. However, the Pontiacs are potent on their own ice and with oldtimer staring them in the face can be depended on to go all out in an effort to tie the series and force the seventh game.

ONE IN A MILLION!

There probably are many chewed tonsils, dislocated vocal cords and out-of-position cardiacs among the hockey faithful of Trenton and Wellington today. This department had viewed a lot of hockey thrillers in Memorial Arena over the years, but for sheer excitement, and last-second spine-shakers, last night's Trent Valley League clash between the Dukes and the Admirals wins the silver-plated bustle.

The Dukes won it 8-7 after 25½ minutes of overtime, but gadzooks, it was closer than your underwear. The Dukes started like a house afire, but Trenton beat them to the punch with two quick goals. The Dukes roared back with five in a row and the game appeared to be salted away.

The Admirals came back with four straight in the third period and the show was on the other pedal extremity. The issue was never subsiding in Wellington and it took Orillis read 45 seconds. Then a roar that made that of fabled Modville sound like a baby whimper went up as Ray Carey, ace of the two Wellington heroes of the piece, whipped home the puck with 29 seconds to go and the game was sewed up tighter than a haggis.

But the second big thrill of the night, in fact it should rate tops came when the Admirals leading 7-6 after scoring with a minute to go in the first overtime, Carey won the hockey V.C. when he scored with the timekeeper's hand on the gong and a second off time.

For the next fifteen minutes or so the crowd was on its feet. Midnight had passed and it looked like an early morning session when Brian Mulvihill raced down ice, drilled the puck like a soccer player and kicked it alongside the Admirals' net. His passout struck the Trenton goalie in the back and slid into the lurtne for a heart-breaking goal. That was it. Workmen will repair the roof and rafters of the arena some time today.

MAY EXTEND SERIES!

Don't look now but there is a bare possibility that the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile "C" finals between Stirling and a Western Ontario team may develop into a best-of-five series instead of the conventional two-games goals-for-count affair.

At the moment Kincardine and Port Dover are battling it out for the right to meet Ross Pyear's youngsters. Kincardine ousted Hillverton in a hard-fought series.

OMHA executive member Doug Paiterson, who represents "Lower Canada" in that august assemblage, said today that the executive body is strongly considering making the finals "best-of-five series. "Two games could be played in Belleville," Doug said, "and another two in the opposition's rink, if its goes that far. If a fifth game is necessary, a toss of the coin will decide the venue."

If Kincardine emerges the winner over Port Dover, it will be a case of history repeating itself after a lapse of four years. For it was the "Kincs" that defeated Stirling in the Juvenile "C" finals back in the 1949-50 series. And, incidentally, Gu Schwarzcon (gee, which was ousted by Beachridge this season, were the runners-up to Blenheim in the 1952-53 championship series.

The Stirling youngsters will see a lot of Ontario if they have to make the safari to Kincardine. The Bruce county community nestles on the shore of Lake Huron, some 270 miles from here. Should Port Dover provide the opposition, the Stirlingites will trek some 190 miles to the Lake Erie town, which is some forty miles south of Hamilton.

Cling to Hopes of Playoffs With 4-2 Defeat of Chihawks, Key Game With Boston Tonight

By JI SHASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York Rangers, behind hockey's eight-ball all season, still have a chance to make a Stanley Cup playoff berth. But things are getting to the mathematical stages even with the Rangers winning some clutch games.

The Blueshirts moved to within a point of catching the fourth-place Boston Bruins Wednesday night by taking a 4-2 National Hockey League victory over Chicago Black Hawks. Unless the Bruins lose a few games the Rangers haven't a hope because Boston has two games in hand.

The New Yorkers picked up their fifth victory in 15 starts by scoring two goals in the third period. They have five games left in the 70-game schedule.

It was the only encounter of the night. Andy Bathgate, Rangers' rookie Camille Henry and Bob Chrystal drove in shots past Chicago netminder Rollins in the last 10 minutes.

MEET BRUINS TONIGHT

Coach Muzz Patrick and his Rangers will know tonight just how tough the race will be from here on. They meet the Bruins at Boston in a key game for both clubs. In two others tonight, first-place second-place Toronto Maple Leafs go against third-place Canadiens in Montreal and the last-place Hawks, with only 11 victories in 65 starts, clash with the league-leading Red Wings at Detroit.

The Hawks made it tough for the Rangers at Madison Square Garden. They battled from behind a 2-0 count to tie the game early in the third period but couldn't do anything after that.

The other Ranger goals were scored by Eddie Kullman and Red Mickoski. George Toe and Lou Jankowski scored for the Hawks.

Cullen Ties Junior Loop Scoring Record

TORONTO (CP)—Players of St. Catharines TeePees hold down first, second, and fifth spots in the individual scoring race in Ontario Hockey Association junior A league, the league's statistics show. The statistics, which included games of Monday, March 7, show Brian Cullen in first place with 65 goals and 82 assists for 157 points—1 point more than the previous record of 139 chalked up by Ken Laufman of Guelph during the 1951-52 season.

Cullen's 65 goals tied the league goalscoring record for a season, equalling the mark set by Lou Jankowski with Oshawa Generals in 1949-50 and George Armstrong with Stratford 1947-48.

Jankowski now is with Chicago Black Hawks and Armstrong with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

In second place is Hugh Barlow of St. Catharines with 115 points and Bob Attersley of Guelph is third with 113. Fifth is another St. Catharines player, Brian's brother Barry, with 102 points.

The top 10:

| | G | A | Pts. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Brian Cullen, TeePees | 65 | 82 | 157 |
| Barlow, St. Catharines | 44 | 71 | 115 |

| Robertson, Oshawa | 52 | 58 | 110 |
| Barry Cullen, TeePees | 60 | 42 | 102 |
| Marian, Barrie | 44 | 57 | 101 |

N.H.L. Takes Drastic Steps To Strengthen Weak Clubs

NEW YORK (CP)—The National Hockey League's board of governors took steps Wednesday to strengthen the league's weaker clubs by forcing unwanted players kept in the minors in the farm systems of stronger teams.

The governors passed legislation drastically limiting the number of players an NHL club is permitted to keep under wraps and instituting draft and waiver regulations to permit other clubs to strengthen their rosters.

At the same time the governors set up tentative dates for the Stanley Cup playoffs starting April 23. Final arrangements will be made when the standings are clarified by results of the remaining games in the league schedule.

LIMIT 20 MEN

The new player regulations require every NHL club to cut its roster to 20 players—two goaltenders and 18 defence or defencemen —by Aug. 31 of each year.

At a draft meeting held in the second week of September, players in excess of a club's "protective list" of 18 will be subject to the draft for $15,000 each. The only exceptions are amateur players under the age of 20 by Aug. 1, who are eligible for junior hockey.

At the draft meeting, the team in last place at the time will have first choice among the unwanted players. Second pick goes to the fifth-place club with the teams continuing to choose players, one at a time, in rotation.

The new waiver rule will wipe out the practice of an NHL club sending a player to the minors "on loan."

After Aug. 31, any club wishing to send a player to the minors must first put him on the league's waiver list. He is then available to all other clubs at the $15,000 waiver price, with the lowest club in the standings having first chance at him.

The player may proceed to a lower-ranking league only if all NHL clubs notify the league that they do not wish to exercise their waiver privileges.

WINGS FAR AHEAD

The playoff dates were drawn up under the assumption that Detroit Red Wings, currently leading the league by a nine-point margin with seven games left to play, will finish in first place.

Alternative dates were set allowing for a second-place finish by either Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens—currently the Leafs lead the Canadiens by a single point—and a fourth-place finish by either Boston Bruins or New York Rangers.

In series A between the first and third-place clubs, Toronto or Montreal will play at Detroit March 23 and 25, April 1 and April 4 or 5, with the Wings playing at Montreal or Toronto March 27 and 30 and April 2.

If Boston plays Montreal in series B, games are set for Montreal March 23 and 25 and April 1 and 4. If the Rangers finish fourth, the first two games will be in New York March 23 and 25, with all remaining games at the home-rink of the second-place club. A circus is booked for Madison Square Garden after March 25.

No dates were set for a possible meeting between Boston and Toronto.

SMITHE BEATEN

GLASGOW (AP)—Don Smythe of Toronto, Canadian badminton champion, suffered his second defeat of the year as he was beaten by Jolyon Hoad of Malaya 15-3, 8-15, 18-14 in a four-day international tournament here Wednesday.

Figure Skating Championships Open In Calgary

By PHIL ADLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP)—The Canadian figure skating championships open today with Barbara Gelfraith, 21-year-old Toronto instructor who makes a habit of mocking champions, launching two of her 12 students in the junior women's competitory figures.

About 30 of Canada's top amateur skaters from 16 clubs are entered in the three-day program. Competition lasts three days.

Barbara Jean Jacques and Mildred Harris of the Toronto Skating Club, where Gelfraith is instructor, test their skill against 13 other skaters in the first section leading to the junior women's singles championship. The title was won last year by Sonia Currie of Calgary who is a senior this year.

A champion won't be crowned until after the free skating Friday night.

Gelfraith, teacher of Barbara Ann Scott for two years, has a host of champions. Among his stars are Florence Chafe and Norris Bowden, winners of the world's pairs title at Oslo last month, who will be defending their Canadian laurels in the same event; Barbara Clarke who will try to repeat her 1953 senior women's singles victory; and Douglas Court who will skate the senior men's singles after last year's win in the junior class.

TITLE VACANT

The senior men's title has been left vacant by Peter Firstbrook who turned professional after winning the event last year.

The junior dance elimination round will be held tonight with three pairs taking part.

The experts pick the Dafoe-Bowden team to retain their pairs honors but none offered a guess on the other nine events.

Junior men's compulsory figures, senior dance elimination round, junior women's and men's free skating and junior dances are scheduled for Friday.

All senior women's and men's classes, senior fours, senior pairs and senior dance competition will be held Saturday.

Beaten Barrie Has Playoff Chance, Marlies Trounce Galt Hawks 9-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Many fans thought Hap Emms was talking through his hat when he told them before the season that Barrie Flyers weren't going anywhere. The coach of the defending Memorial Cup champions apparently knew what he was talking about.

But the seventh-place Flyers, faced with elimination from the playoffs, still have a chance of taking third and last playoff berth by beating out Guelph Biltmores and, mechanically that two remaining games give them a better chance of making the post-schedule play than has Guelph.

The Flyers have games coming up with the third-place Toronto St. Michael's College Majors and the last-place Galt Black Hawks. Guelph's remaining games are with St. Michael's and with the tough fourth-place Hamilton Cubs at Hamilton.

MAD LITTLE HOPE

Even if the Flyers do squeeze into the playoffs it will be a big change from their Brabazon finish last season when they finished five points ahead of Toronto Marlboros. The defending champions' chances, however, can't be blamed for their crazy season. Only three members of last year's championship team are their regulars this season. The Flyers never die easy they were going far, Kramer even threatened to withdraw the team from this year's competition before the season started.

The Flyers lost the services of their top netminder, Jack Spreeuwers, a few weeks ago when he was hit by a flying puck.

The Flyers gained a chance to take over sixth place Wednesday night when they were shaded 6-5 by St. Michael's in Toronto. A Barrie victory would have put them one point up on the Biltmores, defeated 6-2 by Hamilton in Guelph. Toronto Marlboros walloped Galt 9-0 in Toronto in the other league game.

Barrie led St. Michael's through most of the game. They jumped in front 3-1 in the first period and held a 5-4 edge going into the final stanza.

But the Collegians scored twice in the last period, their final goal coming during the last minute of play, for the victory.

Dick Duff scored twice for St. Michael's, including the winning marker. Jim Logan also notched a pair. Singles were by Ken Gribbons and Les Duff. John Roberts, John Marian, Bob White, Dan Polisiani and Ed McQueen were the Barrie scorers.

MARLIES RAMPANT

The Marlboro-Galt game was the first contest of a Toronto double-header watched by 3,178 fans. Marlboros led 4-0 after the first period and 6-0 after the second.

Gerry James, Billy Harris and Jack Bionda each fired a pair for the Dukes. Wally Maxwell, Al MacNeil and Chuck Burns scored one each.

Hamilton hadn't much trouble with Guelph, either, winning 6-2 after the first and 4-1 going into the third. Larry Hillman and Bill Binney, a Junior B import, scored two each for the Cubs. Joe Sevics and Cuthbert Burton rounded out the total. Ed Mateka and Sidney Dimma counted for Guelph.

St. Michael's plays at Guelph Friday while Galt is at Barrie.

Ralph Kiner Hits Two Homers Against Giants

By BOB MYERS

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Ralph Kiner of Chicago Cubs gives every indication of a young man who hopes to regain the home run championship of the National League and of re-establishing his claim as an all-round baseball player.

His bat sank New York Giants Wednesday for their fourth straight defeat, 10-7, with a performance that started with a two-run homer his first time at bat and a grand-slammer later in the game.

In five exhibitions to date, Kiner is hitting well over .500. He has three home runs and has driven in 10 runs.

Kiner reported to camp weighing a trim 210 pounds, seven less than when he finished the long grind last year and 19 or 18 pounds under the 230 he carried last spring into the quarters of his former employers, Pittsburgh Pirates.

'BAD' IN '53

One general impression is that Ralph had a "bad year" in 1953, though many a club would like to have "bad" figures from a guy who belted 35 home runs, drove in 109 and batted .276 and had a fielding average of .973.

But not written in the records are the facts that Kiner in 1953 played under the handicap of a groin injury that was not a pull and late start because of a row initiated by his boss then, Branch Rickey.

The Rickey mess is part history and Kiner is happy to be with Chicago.

Kiner was home-run king of the National League for seven straight years until Milwaukee's Eddie Matthews dethroned him last season.

Wellington Dukes Edge Trenton 8-7 In Trent Valley Overtime Thriller

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

They probably will hand largesize photographs of Ray Carey and Brian Mulvihill in the seat of municipal government in Wellington.

For they entered the village hockey hall of fame last night when Carey played of certain default-on two occasions, and Mulvihill popped home the winner just before the milkmen started their rounds.

Over 600 fans from Trenton and Wellington ran the entire gamut of emotion during the game between the Dukes and Admirals, that the lakesiders snatched after 23 minutes of frenzied overtime that lasted until well after midnight.

The Dukes won the hassle 8-7 to take the Trent Valley Hockey League semi-final two-game total finals series two games to one with one game dominated by each team before the Trenton RCAF Flyers in the right to enter the sectional finals with Point Anne.

THRILL-A-MINUTE.

It was a thrill-a-minute hockey with the Dukes at Carey hurling first one way, then the other. Ray was given dismissal by referee in their grasp with seconds to go, and twice Carey blasted home the tying goals with the game tied at 7-7.

Mulvihill's million-dollar goal was garnished with a touch of freakishness. For it came in the first overtime minutes, after the first overtime period had resulted in a deadlock with the score 7-7 apiece. The crowd went up and down with the rush like commoners ,urtseying to royalty, and both goalies came up with brilliant saves.

Then Mulvihill dipsy-doodled down centre ice. He raced in on Bobby Green in the Trenton nets but kept control of the puck. He booted it and the rubber rolled past the net. He picked it up again and shot. The shot must be would circle the net, turned to wait for him. Instead the first Dukes' winger passed the rubber out. It struck Green in the back and dropped in the net.

While the honor of winning the game goes to Mulvihill, Ray Carey actually was the hero of the game from a Wellington standpoint. He not only scored three goals but two of them actually brought the Dukes up after they had been defeat with seconds remaining on both occasions.

Trenton had tied the score at 5-5 early in the third period after staging a sensational comeback that netted them three goals in a row, then added another to give like the winner with a minute left to play. Carey's goal was traced in with the former scoring as the game ended.

Again in the first overtime period Trenton forged in the lead with a quick goal at the 1.28 mark. It looked like certain curtailing of the Duke's hopes. But time, but just as Lorne Burke's hand was raised in the air to call hostilities, Carey brought the Dukes supporters to their feet with a low-angle drive from Trenton goalie. The clock read 8.56.

DREW A MISCONDUCT.

And just to show his versatility the former Belleville junior drew a misconduct for deliberately slapping the ice with his stick in disapproval of an official sentence to a team-mate. Referees Vern Goyer and Stewart handed out nine penalties, eight of them officers, in a game that never threatened to get out of hand.

Both teams opened at a fast clip that was maintained throughout the 23 minutes of play. Trenton smashed home two goals to take a commanding lead in the first eight minutes of play before the Dukes struck back with a pair to even the count by the period end. It was practically all Dukes in the second period with the village crew firing home three goals with not a return to take a 5-3 lead at the end of the best.

But they had not reckoned with the Admirals. By the time thirteen minutes had been played in the third period, they had banged home a trio of markers to tie the count and at 19 minutes took the lead for the first time. Enter Mr. Carey and the game was tied six-all at the game end.

Then came the frenzied overtime sessions and Mulvihill's game-winning counter, and they was that.

Carey spearheaded the winners offensive with three goals with Mulvihill getting two and an assist. Scott scored a pair and Doug Boon accounting for the other.

Johnson hit the hemp twice for the Admirals with Scott, Barr and Island accounting for a goal and two assists each. Leavry and Campney got the remaining pair with Bryant drawing two helpers.

The teams:

Wellington — Goal, Letnan; defence, Hill, Yorke; centre, Scott; wings, Bryant, Garrison-gabe, Cousins, Hatfield, Mowat.

Trenton — Goal, Carey; Pettigrill, Boon; defence, Green, Graham, Parks.

Trenton — Goal, Green; defence, Watson, Schmidt; centre Beale; wings, Scott, Johnson; subs, Leavry, Barr, Baker, Carter, Stoliker, Graham, Campney, Hill, McDonnell.

Detroits' Shortstop Star Believes He Can Lick That Sophomore Jinx

By GAYLE TALBOT

LAKELAND (AP) — Detroit's sensational young shortstop, Harvey Kuenn, muscular redhead who believes he has figured out why so many players experience the "sophomore jinx" and how he's known how to lick it.

If true, this will be of extreme importance to the Tigers, who will not have a great deal to sell in the coming American League race unless Kuenn can repeat the season which won him rookie-of-the-year honors by an overwhelming vote. Don't sell him short, say his teammates by a wide margin.

"Wait'll you see what he can do," said "is that the first year a player is up he isn't trying to impress and out-think the pitchers. All he's trying to do is hit the ball. Then he has a good year, he has the off-season he gets to thinking that if he can outthink the pitchers and figure out what is coming on a certain pitch, then he can outhit 'em. And he's got the brains for the fences. In other words, he quits hitting naturally. Next thing you hear this sophomore jinx has got him."

Asked to name the pitchers who gave him the most trouble in his first season, or whose work he admired most, he said he would name the big Dutch Reynolds of New York Yankees and Bob Lemon of Cleveland.

"Pitchers plenty of them gave me trouble," he added. "Take a fellow like Bob Porterfield of Washington. For a couple of games it would seem like I could hit anything he had. I would have a big time for myself. Then the next two times I couldn't hit him at all. He was giving me somethin' different. That's the way it goes."

One of the things that made Kuenn's play stand out in his freshman year was the fact that he did not permit the fiddled state of the Tigers infield to affect his own performance. At one time or another he was flanked by a total of nine different second and third sackers.

His fielding should be even more polished this year that Ray Boone is a fixture at third and only two players, Fred Hatfield and Frank Bolling, the latter a promising rookie, are regarded as being in contention at second.

AT THE BELLE

"How to Marry a Millionaire", in CinemaScope, a Delightful Technicolor Romance

Marilyn Monroe, Betty Grable and Lauren Bacall head the all-star cast that Twentieth Century-Fox has assembled for its second picture in CinemaScope, "How to Marry a Millionaire", a delightful Technicolor romance, showing for three more days, today, Friday and Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

David Wayne, Rory Calhoun, Cameron Mitchell and William Powell share co-starring honors with the three Hollywood lovelies, will be revealed on the screen in CinemaScope for the first time. What the new anamorphic lens process has done to their personalities is another chapter in the revolutionary new method of filming motion pictures.

For the story background, producer Nunnally Johnson and Director Jean Negulesco used New York City's famous skyline, its fabulous harbor, the canyons of Wall Street and fashionable Sutton place. These scenes, when spread out on the Panoramic Walker screen more than twice as large as the old standard screen, captures the awe-inspiring spectacle of the big city as it has never before been shown on a motion picture screen.

Among the many wonderful scenes in the picture, two deserve special mention here—the skiing sequence, filmed in Sun Valley and Maine, and the opulent fashion show. Spread out as they are by the CinemaScope process both are breath-taking in their way. Women will love the lavish display of mink, silks and jewelery worn by the lovely models and men will get a particular thrill from the vast expanse of snow and mountains shown in Technicolor beauty.

In its CinemaScope form there is so much new and different about "How to Marry a Millionaire" that it is difficult to single out specific highlights, but it can be said without reservation that Twentieth Century-Fox has given us a really delightful motion picture.

Coronation Parade in CinemaScope

A special added attraction on the same program is Coronation Parade, in CinemaScope, by Technicolor. You are actually there — surrounded by the pageantry and spectacle, of this great event.

Allied Officers Working On 'New Approach'

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—Allied officers are working on a four-year "new approach" to western European military strategy, it is learned.

Study groups are looking for forecast what new weapons may be available in 1957 and what impact they will have on manpower requirements.

Officers say the survey will take four to six months to complete, and there's no suggestion its results will necessarily point to any reduction in the size of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

A NATO officer explained Wednesday:

"Up to now future planning has been strictly in terms of conventional weapons. But obviously the war of the future, if ope comes is going to involve a range of new weapons such as guided missiles, atomic cannon and so on.

"The object of the survey thus is to look ahead to 1957, to see what NATO nations can expect to provide by that time, to determine how these new unconventional weapons can be integrated into the NATO defense program, and what impact they will have on such things as manpower needs."

NATO's "emergency war plans" are instructions to military commanders in event of any sudden enemy move—remain unchanged.

The new long-term strategy was outlined by senior officers at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe during a visit by newspaper correspondents representing the six NATO countries, including Canada.

NEED OKAY FOR WAR

"After the wonderful results I got by taking Synions I will gladly recommend this medicine to any person suffering as I did," said Miss Marjorie Root, 495 Victoria Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

Didn't Feel Well

"About 18 months ago I started breaking out on my face and I haven't felt well ever since. I would have awful gas cramps and heartburn after my meals. Sour acid rising came up in my throat and I would frequently get bad headaches, dizzy spells and nervous attacks. I had a nagging backache and by noons were so on edge all the time I couldn't get my housework all right.

"A few weeks ago I read about Synions [illegible] and decided to try this, so I got some and even during the first week I was taking it I felt better. As I continued, the gas, sourness and heartburn started to disappear. The backache and dizziness disappeared also and I began to sleep fine. My nerves are also much better and I have more energy through the day."

Lake and Ocean Vessels to Aid Spot Aircraft

ROSLYN, N. Y. (AP)—Details of the first organized effort to use air-craft spotters for hundreds of large and small vessels sailing off the United States Atlantic coast were announced today.

The United States Air Force, with operations headquarters in the coast guard, has successfully completed a 60-day test of a plan linking selected Atlantic coastal vessels by radio-telephone with the ground observer corps, a volunteer civilian aircraft-spotting group.

The test was announced by Brig. Gen. James W. McCauley, commander of the 26th Air Division defence; which has headquarters in this Long Island community.

McCauley said U. S. air defence command headquarters had indicated that plans are being made to extend air-spotting warning network to the Great Lakes within the next month.

PCs HONOR DREW

OTTAWA (CP)—New Progressive Conservative members of the Commons held a dinner Wednesday night in honor of party leader George Drew, who is to run as Speaker, deputy Speaker and members of the parliamentary press gallery and their wives were among the guests.

Strike of 2,000 Rail Workers Is Averted

DETROIT (AP)—A strike of 2,000 Michigan Central Railroad employees was averted early today—six hours before it was scheduled to start—when unions and management negotiators agreed to submit claims and disputes to arbitration.

The successful negotiation session also cancelled a planned freight embargo and the layoff of 12,000 other Michigan Central employees, many in southwestern Ontario.

The 13½-hour meeting was attended by W. E. B. Chase, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, L. W. Lasoke, general manager of the Michigan Central, and L. W. Horning, vice-president in charge of personnel of the New York Central Railroad, of which the Michigan Central is a division.

The strike was scheduled by the BRT after a dispute involving an interpretation of working agreements.

Michigan Central spokesmen said only a few workers were involved in the issues under dispute, and claimed strike action by the Brotherhood was unwarranted.

The brotherhood includes 220,000 American and Canadian members, the largest group of "operating" rail employees. The Brotherhood is comprised of conductors, trainmen, switchmen and yardmen.

TRAINS COLLIDE, 20 HURT

CHICAGO (AP)—More than 20 persons were injured early Wednesday when the Pennsylvania Railroad's Liberty Limited and the Burlington's Ak-Sar-Ben Omaha Zephyr collided Wednesday in the Union Station's train shed. Twelve of the injured were passengers in the Limited, which was bound for Baltimore and Washington. Five of the train's porters and waiters also were hurt. Seven were six Burlington employees aboard the Zephyr. Three were the engineer on the Zephyr, which was backing into the big station prior to an outgoing trip.

CHARGED IN HOTEL MURDER

LONDON (Reuters)—Two young men, arrested earlier in the day, were charged Wednesday night with the murder of a London night porter, George Smart, 55. Kenneth Gilbert, 21, and Arthur Grant, 24, were charged after questioning by police only a mile from the Abas Court Hotel where Smart was battered to death early Tuesday.

Dr. W. G. Penfield of Montreal Big Name in Soviet Medicine

In this story, first of two articles on the U.S.S.R. Academy of Medicine, Bill Ross tells of the academy's surgical institute. His visit was arranged by the Soviet foreign office and he was accompanied by an official who acted as interpreter. Tomorrow he describes an operation at the institute. All news reports from Russia are subject to strict Soviet censorship.

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—A big name in Russian surgical and medical circles is Montreal's Dr. Wilder G. Penfield.

He is remembered for a post-war visit made in 1945, and known throughout the Soviet union for his book "The Cerebral Cortex of Man."

In it, says one of Russia's greatest surgeons, Penfield was one of the first to confirm a particular theory of the famous Russian physiologist Ivan Petrovich Pavlov.

IMPORTANT THEORIES

Pavlov is the basic figure in Russian physiology, medicine and surgery, and his theories on the function of the nervous system are all-important. Pavlov, who died in 1935, won a Nobel Prize in 1904 for his research.

Penfield's Moscow admirers are Professor Alexander A. Vyshnevsky and Peter K. Anokhin.

Vyshnevsky is director of the surgical institute of the Academy of Medicine of the U.S.S.R., a general of the Red army medical corps, and one of Russia's greatest clinicians. Anokhin heads the institute's physiology department. He met Penfield here in 1945.

Vyshnevsky is a squat 47-year-old dynamo with sparkling brown eyes and a direct, vivacious approach. His father before him directed the institute. The son was on the western front during the war then became general of the Red army's medical services in the Far East, was in the thrust down through Manchuria and Korea against the Japanese, and remained briefly in Korea after that campaign.

SPECIAL GROUPS

His is one of the several types of specialized institutes working on particular problems in Russia. The surgical problem, he said, is that pre- uses today have out-run theory.

"So we have planned the work of this institute to further the theoretical aspects in the context of their physiology," Vyshnevsky said.

One of the problems being studied by the institute is that of transplanting organs from one body to another.

The institute claims to have wholly removed the left hind legs of three dogs, keeping them apart from the body for periods of 45 minutes, then restoring the legs to the body, reconnecting bone, nerves, muscles and fibres. The animals are still romping around and I saw motion pictures taken during the operations.

Within one year the dogs were running and jumping, although the legs were imperfectly co-ordinated. Within another year they were normal.

The Russians call this "autoplastic" surgery—the restoration to the same organism of elements earlier removed from it.

TRANSPLANT ORGANS

From this they have gone on to the problem of transplanting organs from one organism to another.

"In this we must say that so far we are not making much progress" said Vyshnevsky. "We have managed to transplant the heart from one dog to another but after eight to 12 days of apparent post-operative recovery the dogs die. The same is true of our work with kidneys."

"But we keep at it. We know that one day one of us is bound to succeed—once we have caught up with our theoretical knowledge."

The work on the nervous system, for instance, produced the technique of painless surgery under local anaesthesia.

"Now where does Penfield come into our major work? It is in his book, 'The Cerebral Cortex of Man.'

"The results it gives of direct action on the human brain confirm entirely Pavlov's point of view, which was expressed in 1930, on the physiological possibilities of a 'moving analyzer.'

"While most neurologists said the locomotor region of the surface of the human brain directed movement only, Pavlov on the basis of his work said it also 'analyzed' the sensory impulses coming from the periphery.

"The work of Penfield on the brain confirms this point of view because activity on the locomotor region caused sensation in the related part of the patient's body.

"Penfield and Pavlov both link sensation with movement.

"This opens new fields in research into the function of the nervous system."

Premier Scelba's Govt. Approved

By JAMES M. LON G

ROME (AP) — Premier Mario Scelba's minority bold government has won parliamentary approval to push for a knockdown fight on ratification of the European Defence Community treaty.

The tough anti-Communist premier won a final vote of confidence Wednesday night in a stormy session. The 590-member chamber of Deputies approved his program of mild social reform at home and continued ties with the west by a 17-vote margin.

Scelba pledged to rally his backers quickly for approval of the pact which would bring West German troops into a one-uniform army with Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

But it probably will be several weeks before he can clear the way through the maze of complicated domestic issues of confronting his wobbly four-party coalition government to get final action on EDC.

DIFFICULT TASK

With the thin majority the 52-year-old Christian Democrat premier commands it will not be easy to push through his domestic program. And the fight over EDC may be the toughest hurdle of all.

Plagued by the Communists and fellow-travelling Socialists on the left and the Monarchists and neo-Fascists of the right, Scelba managed to win the vote of confidence 309 to 282. The 334-member senate gave him a bare five-vote margin of approval Feb. 26.

HOUSE APPROVES TRANSFER OF NFB TO MONTREAL

Motion to Delete Item Lost 80-33

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has approved the transfer of the National Film Board to Montreal from Ottawa, with one Liberal member dissenting.

George McIlraith, member for Ottawa West and parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, sided Thursday night with the three opposition parties against the government's decision.

A standing vote of 80 to 33 defeated a CCF motion to delete a $1,500,000 item in the government's 1954-55 estimates providing for the NFB building in Ville St. Laurent, a Montreal suburb.

The government already had decided to award the contract to the Hardy Construction Company of Toronto for the building, which will house film board operations now scattered over a number of buildings in Ottawa.

MUCH DEBATE

The Montreal move, under consideration for several years, has sparked debate both in the Commons and from Ottawa's Mayor Charlotte Whitton.

Mr. McIlraith, speaking in the Commons last week, said the board's work could be done under the eye of the government and Parliament, and added that several matters of NFB policy should be decided before any move was made.

Opposition Leader Drew, whose constituency of Carleton includes part of Ottawa, charged the government with going over the heads of Parliament and denying it information on which it could decide the question.

Public Works Minister Winters said Parliament had been fully informed of the government's intentions.

He said the move will put the film board in the middle of Canada's largest pool of talent, both French- and English-speaking, and in contact with Montreal's private film industry and the CBC television operations there.

Two Witnesses Say One Youth Told Them Details of Slaying

BARRIE (CP)—Two witnesses, friends of two Toronto youths on trial for murder, testified Thursday that 19-year-old William Kingsley told them he shot Fred (Scotty) Cameron on a downtown Toronto street.

Both Victor Kemp and Kenneth R. Shank, who worked with Kingsley for a railway express company in Toronto, said their fellow-employee described the details of the shooting and how Cameron, still alive in the trunk of a car after a 50-mile drive from Toronto, was "finished off" on a deserted Barrie sideroad.

Kingsley and Ian Robertson, 21, were charged with Cameron's murder following their arrest nearly a month after the bullet-riddled body of the 21-year-old bookmaker's messenger was found in a ditch at Barrie late last Oct. 29.

Kemp, about 20, related that the night following the slaying Kingsley handed him an evening paper and told him to "read the part about the murder."

"He told me that he did it," said Kemp.

The witness said that Kingsley related to him that he met Cameron in front of a pool hall at Queen and Yonge streets in Toronto, shot him on the street, shoved the body in the back of the car and then transferred it to the trunk when outside the city.

Kemp testified that Kingsley said "We" did it but didn't say who the other person was.

WANTED ALIBI

Shank told the court that the morning after Cameron was shot Kingsley asked him to provide an alibi for him (Kingsley) for around seven o'clock the previous evening.

"I asked him what for and he said 'If I tell you I have you to worry about'."

Shank also testified that Kingsley told him later Cameron was shot in front of the Colonial Tavern in Dufferin in the car revved up the engine.

"He loitered and shot the man," Shank quoted Kingsley as saying.

Ed Savage, automatic and slug expert, identified parts of an ammunition clip as being from a .38 Savage automatic and said three spent bullets taken from Cameron's body were fired by the make and type as two unfired ones found in Robertson's room in Toronto.

HIGHWAYS PROBE TO BE CONDUCTED BY COMMITTEE

Move Reverses Earlier Decision by Premier

TORONTO (CP)—Alleged irregularities in the department of highways will be probed by a select committee of the Ontario legislature, premier Frost announced Thursday.

The premier gave notice of motion on the appointment of the committee in the house following the presentation of his 1954-55 budget. The move reversed an earlier decision, and Mr. Frost said the matter in question would be referred to the public accounts committee.

Mr. Frost said the committee will have full power to examine witnesses under oath. He did not indicate when it would begin hearings. The irregularities were discovered by the department last October.

The original investigation began in the Fort William division and since then further irregularities have been uncovered in the Ottawa and Huntsville areas.

Three division engineers and five members of the departmental staff have been suspended. The names of these men have been withheld.

In giving notice, Mr. Frost said the committee will have "the fullest of powers."

MEMBERSHIP

He gave no indication as to who would be on the committee. In reply to a question by opposition leader Farquhar Oliver, the premier said he is considering a membership of 11.

Earlier, Mr. Oliver moved an amendment to the motion in reply to the address to the speech from the throne regretting that the government failed to call a judicial commission to investigate the irregularities. The house turned down the amendment Wednesday by 80-19 votes.

Mr. Frost said he did not believe the public accounts committee would have time to conduct a suitable investigation and was therefore recommending the select committee "in order not to take from parliament the right to deal with matters to which they are entitled by reason of the course of the investigation and the normal procedure."

Last January the Toronto consultant firm of J. D. Woods and Gordon Limited was appointed to make an "unlimited investigation" into the highways department. Last February 20 Mr. Frost said the contracting firms working in the Fort William district had been given the names of federal and provincial members.

Frozen Bodies Of Man, Woman Found in Car

Think Two Asphyxiated As Auto's Gas Tank Empty

SUDBURY (CP) — The frozen bodies of a man and woman were found early today in a car parked on a little-used road in a Sudbury suburb.

Police, who said the bodies may have been in the car for more than three days, identified the dead as Omer Jackson Caldwell, 27, a mine worker, and Mrs. Mildred Hirtle, 37, mother of two children and wife of a grocery store owner in suburban New Sudbury.

Police said they believe the two died of asphyxiation after the car got stuck. The gas tank was empty and the ignition was on.

Two police constables making a patrol of sidereads, found the car almost hidden by a cluster of trees.

They found a man lying against the right front door of the car. The body of Mrs. Griffiths was in the seat.

Caldwell had worked at Creighton mine in this district since June of 1951, and was a native of Windsor, N.S.

Britain to Test Germ Warfare Off Bahamas

LONDON (AP) — Britain will carry out germ warfare defence tests off the Bahama islands this year, the government said Thursday night.

A communique from Supply Minister Duncan Sandys said tests have been going on off the coast of Scotland for some time and now are being switched to the Bahamas widely removed from any normal shipping route.

There was no indication what form the tests would take or on what scale they would be carried out.

Canadian Sailors in Far-off Lands Give PM Welcome

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (CP)—Canadian sailors had a showy hour with Prime Minister St. Laurent this morning, and after a break down their proper rigid, well-scrubbed lines he told them they made him prouder than ever to be a Canadian.

He mounted a saluting stand for a 10-minute talk to the 800 men of the Canadian Far East flotilla whose spanking-clean gun turrets and yards formed an appropriate background.

He had travelled on his round-the-world tour with the RCAF, which contributes to the United Nations' airlift, and he had spent three lively days with the 27th Brigade in the Korean war zone. Today he completed his inspection of a combined fleet assembled by visiting the destroyers.

The flagship Athabaskan, along with the Cruiser and Cayuga, had moved into dock from their patrol stations and they were dressed from stem to stern with a gay assortment of pennants. Gun barrels glistened in the shafts of sunlight.

The prime minister drove to the dock accompanied by Ambassador Robert Mayhew and escorted by motorcycle police with sirens screaming. He passed a United States Army honor guard at the gate. A bugler signalled his arrival, bringing a few tentative composite honor guard from the three ships. Forming a hollow square around the outside were the remainder of the ships' companies, their white hats and gaiters gleaming.

MEETS THREE MASTERS

The Canadian Far East naval chief, Capt. John Charles of Victoria—who is the cousin of Lady Haida—greeted the prime minister and introduced him to the skipper, Hayes Hatch Current, Sask., of the Cayuga and Lt. Cmdr. W. H. Willson, Calgary, of the Athabaskan.

After pacing past the guard and talking briefly with CPO Maxwell Rigby of Ottawa and Halifax, the prime minister stood at attention with the Canadian and American Army band played "O Canada."

Then he mounted the saluting platform and spoke at his pride in the Far East forces. He looked down at the sharp and efficient-looking sailors and said, "nothing more stirs the pride of a Canadian than the sight of your men aboard your fine ships."

He drew a round of cheers by making part of his speech in French.

He sympathized with the men that their peacetime work has become for the most part routine, but said:

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CF) — Synopsis: While, an extensive high pressure area now covers the Great Lakes to the Arctic continues to give mainly clear skies over Ontario, the Maritimes are being battered by an intense storm which developed over the Atlantic Thursday and is now spreading over Newfoundland. Another intense storm centred over Kansas is giving gales, rain and snow to a considerable part of the United States. Present indications are that high pressure area will begin to yield to the advancing storm today, permitting snow or rain to edge into Southern Ontario tonight or Saturday.

"Their generation was more important than that of older men like himself, and it was fitting that young men of their calibre were prepared to accept the responsibility of seeing that Canada's obligations to world peace were carried out.

Then he became philosophical and said that when the burden of office weighed heavily and his thought wistfully of life former peacetime days he like Quebec lawyer office he remembered the many tributes he had heard of the role of Canada and Canadians in creating a peaceful world. This was full compensation for the effort.

The navy men should think too of these compensations as they continued their valuable service to the Canadian people.

He said the move will put the film board in the middle of Canada's largest pool of talent, both French- and English-speaking, and in contact with Montreal's private film industry and the CBC television operations there.

Four Lose Lives As Taxi Collides With Heavy Truck

GERALDTON (CP)—Four persons died, Longlac in northern Ontario, when a taxi and a heavy pulpwood truck met head on Thursday night.

Killed were Ernie Clark, 40, of Longlac, driver of the taxi and father of two children; and Eric Bryant, 43, Longlac lumberman.

Marcel C. Chaput, 20, Longlac pulpwood cutter known in the district as the Iron Man, died about three hours later in hospital at Longlac, about 35 miles northeast of Fort William. Ovida Bacon, 21, Longlac chef in hospital early today.

All the dead were in the taxi. Pte. Jay Borscheff, 23, of Geraldton, driver of the truck, was badly shaken up.

Borscheff said he veered off the road into a snowbank in an effort to avoid a collision. He said his empty truck had almost come to a stop when the taxi hit it.

He told police the taxi appeared to be weaving as it approached him.

The truck was returning to Longlac from Geraldton. Borscheff was returning to Geraldton after unloading his pulp truck at Longlac.

Doctor Claims Vaccine May Give Permanent Immunity to Polio

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The children who get the Salk polio vaccine this spring possibly will become permanently immune to polio Dr. Jonas E. Salk says.

He reported new evidence Thursday night for this unexpected and heartening turn in research on his vaccine.

He finds that two small shots of the vaccine, with a third "booster" shot later, can even outdo nature in creating tremendous amounts of antibodies to combat polio.

Antibodies are disease-fighting "soldiers" created, naturally when germs invade you, or created by plan by giving a vaccine containing dead or altered germs.

Dr. Salk, 39-year-old University of Pittsburgh bacteriologist, gave the vaccine, killed by formaldehyde triple-tested for safety.

delaying the mass vaccine tests on half a million or more American children.

These trials, scheduled to begin April 26, first must be studied to see if the vaccine actually protects against paralytic polio, Salk said. The key question is whether antibodies in the blood are the protective.

Dr. Salk declared the vaccine is safe, perfectly safe, and that it has been given to nearly 5,000 children in the Pittsburgh area including Dr. Salk's own youngsters —and not a single one has shown any fever, or reactions in the arm from the inoculations, he said, adding:

"I would not go ahead with the trials if I had any doubts about the safety of the vaccine."

The vaccine is made of dead virus, killed by formaldehyde, triple-tested for safety.

Master List of All Contacts Of Reds Hidden in Toronto

MONTREAL (CP)—John Hladun, described as a Toronto restaurant operateur who now has become lecturer and author, has written a highly his greatest ambition is to "find the secret master who has men on a card index, hidden somewhere in Toronto, and containing all known Canadian contacts of the Communist party."

Addressing a Rotary Club audience he told how he underwent an eight-month course in sabotage in Moscow after the end of the war in 1930 and added:

"Among the tactics taught us was the importance of compiling a thorough index listing all party members, sympathizers, people we could count on from time to time, persons who could be blackmailed into helping us and our chief opponents."

He said he believes this master index now is kept by the party at the Toronto headquarters.

Hladun, a farm boy from a small community near Winnipeg said: "During the depression, the idea of a classless society where everyone had an equal share of everything sounded very good. But, I found through experience, their plans were diabolical, beastly, and had no respect for the sanctity of the individual."

Hladun, who said he left the party in 1934, stated the course, for 20 Canadians and 6,000 other people at Moscow's Lenin Institute began with indoctrination lectures in which we were told to prepare for an eventual world revolution.

"The greatest emphasis was placed on the value of sabotage in inciting and leading strikes, in keeping the masses in a turmoil and in fighting as possible.

"We studied maps of strategic Canadian cities then had to answer a quiz showing where we must strike to cut electricity, communications, water works, the army. . . ."

Fur Processing Plant at Midland Burns Thursday

MIDLAND (CP)—Fire destroyed one of Canada's largest fur processing plants Thursday night in this town 8 miles north of Toronto. The flames raged out of control for three hours before being extinguished at $300,000.

The blaze broke out in the rambling, two-storey plant of Midland Shearings Limited in Midland's east end about 6 p. m. All but three of the firm's 90 employees were in the building at the time.

They were Alfred Evans, Rainer Lang, and Lorne Bowes, who ran from the building unhurt after the fire broke out from undetermined causes in the section of the building.

BUILDING LEVELLED

Firemen said the blaze spread quickly to chemicals used in the processing of furs. Three hours before firemen got the blaze under control, the building had been blown apart by the plant. The two men, Walter Dube and Ross Edwards, rushed into the building's furnace room and turned off the steam into large boilers.

The plant was one of Midland's biggest industries. Furs from many countries, including Russia, were processed in it.

Canadians May Be Given More Time to Pay Fines

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians may be given more leeway in paying fines.

Justice Minister Garson said in the Commons Thursday he is willing to accept a suggestion by Leon Crestohl (CCF—Yorkton) that the Criminal Code be "extended at the elbow room a little bit."

Spokesmen for the CCF and Social Credit parties agreed with Mr. Crestohl. Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) that the present system of allowing a month in default of payment of fines is unfair to the poor.

Mr. Diefenbaker described the system as "a relic of the past" and urged adoption of the United Kingdom system of paying fines on the instalment plan.

The discussion centred around a section in the revised Criminal Code dealing with "summary conviction" offences—the minor crimes which carry maximum penalty for such offences is a $500 fine or six months in jail or both.

IMMEDIATE PAYMENT

Mr. Garson noted that the present law permits magistrates to allow time for payment of fines. It agreed with opposition speakers, however, that immediate payment in part from the practice of requiring immediate payment.

Mr. Crestohl (PC—Oxford), a former crown attorney, proposed that imprisonment for default be ended by the introduction of fines.

Mr. Garson said he does not consider that a practical way to change. It involved the administration of justice, which is a provincial responsibility, jurisdiction. Parliament was limited to writing the law.

Fines could be paid by time and He said some control is needed to see that those who simply couldn't be sent to jail there would be nothing to stop them from committing crimes.

The section of the new code was set aside to allow the government to reword it.

PEOPLE STIGMATIZED

Mr. Diefenbaker said the courts "stigmatize" people by sending them to jail if they are unable to pay a fine.

Mr. Garson said the instalment system was in the U.K. because of that country's probation system. It would be possible for a minister in Canada because of the wider area served by individual courts.

The Commons Thursday night completed the once through study of the 733 sections in the revised code. However, members still must study the more than 50 sections, most of them involving contentious issues, which were passed over.

Buffalo Warehouse Is Swept by Flames

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A three-alarm fire roared through a five-storey paper warehouse this morning, causing damage to their second major blaze within a week.

The brick warehouse of J. W. Mead and Sons was a mass of flames by the time firemen arrived. Some 30 minutes later reports indicated they were being hampered by the lack of water flow on one side of the building. Fire commissioner Charles Hoverman said it was likely the fire started in the basement and smouldered for hours before breaking out of control at about daybreak.

Got an Old Hat or Dishpan? That's All You Need to Go Smelt Fishing

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Any day now the smelt will start streaming up connected to the Great Lakes, the first smelt will answer the call of spring water and begin their journey to spawn.

When that happens, one of the sanities of outdoor sports will be under way.

The smelt spawning smelt will be followed immediately by uncounted thousands of men, women and kids in the streams in such hordes that you wouldn't believe it unless you saw them.

When the Great Lakes water reaches a certain temperature—which, by the way, is not known—one of nature's strange and wonderful mechanisms go into operation.

The smelt, which normally dwell in open water, head for the nearest small stream. The silvery little fish seldom grow over six or seven inches in length, but when they are at the peak of their spawning run they pack into the streams so full to bask and from top to bottom.

You think that behaviour is strange, you ought to see what happens to humans.

They swarm to the streams in thousands and, dressed in their oldest motley clothing, plunge into the water.

The streams are armed with the strangest assortment of equipment ever seen save, bipeds, baskets, gunny sacks, old hats, dishpans—anything that will serve the purpose is plunged with wild abandon into the myriads of fish.

Like kids at a penny scramble, the humans gleefully scoop up and make off with hundreds of pounds of the tasty smelt.

Then the monumental fish fries spring up all over.

Tax Reduction Matter of Govt. Policy--McCann

OTTAWA (CP) — Reduction of federal sales taxes on textiles is under study by the government and any changes will be announced in Finance Minister Abbott's forthcoming budget.

Resource Minister McCann made that reply in the Commons Thursday to Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto-Eglinton). He added: If the sales tax will be reduced to help Canada's ailing textile industry?

Mr. Fleming referred to Dr. McCann's recent statement that the industry's case appeared good, and asked if the government will take any measures to deal with the problem.

Dr. McCann said the government has "already taken such measures deemed necessary up to now to deal with the situation and the matter is continuously under consideration."

Dr. McCann, whose own Renfrew South constituency has been affected by the closing of textile mills was interviewed Monday by a delegation from the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL). He said afterwards he told the delegation the government is not planning any new action now to help the textile industry.

Want Covers Censored

Three Cars Damaged, Carload Of Bottles Broken in $12,000 Blaze at Roblin's Dairy

Completely unaware of the fact that flames were leaping 15 feet into the air as fire swept through a barn just outside their door, employees of Roblin Dairy on Coleman Street continued milk bottling operation this morning.

When dairy employees finally noticed the fire, the flames had already been spotted and firemen arrived on the scene just as they were about to turn in the alarm.

Total damage as a result of the blaze was estimated at close to $12,000. Damage to the two-storey frame barn formerly used to stable delivery horses was about $3,000. Three employees' cars stored in the barn were damaged, while $4,000 worth of bottles, bottle caps and hoods stored on the second floor of the barn were lost.

The mid-morning blaze which brought out three fire trucks was first noticed by George McIntosh, service station operator on Bridge Street. When noticed the flames were already leaping out through the roof of the barn curling up along the roof.

A strong south breeze quickly drove the flames through the building and hampered firemen in their efforts to bring the fire under control.

FIVE CARS IN BARN

Five cars and trucks were stored in the building at the time the fire started. Cars owned by dairy employees J. McAllister and Mel Reid parked in the end of the building farthest from the fire were rolled to safety but the flames proved too hot to move cars owned by Howard Mountenay, Jack Chatterton and Ab Christopher, also employees of the dairy.

As firemen were getting the blaze under control the second floor of the barn gave way and a carload of bottles, caps and other supplies crashed through to the ground floor.

Origin of the blaze which attracted a big crowd of shoppers was not determined. Deputy Fire Chief Roblin said it definitely was not electric wiring as a transport only yesterday had caught on the hydro service and ripped the wires away.

The blaze was spectacular as the strong north wind carried billowing clouds of black smoke over a nearby residence and at times almost obscured the Canada Bun Lock Company plant to the south.

To Command Regt.

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Col. Robert James Graham, M.C., D.C., of Belleville, has been named commanding officer of Lord Strathcona's Horse (Royal Canadians) effective June 1. A Second World War veteran, he has been a general staff officer in the directorate of military training at headquarters in the regular army.

to put the protective screen in place, when he left the room to go to another part of the downstairs section.

The boy, helping his mother with the laundry heard a crackling noise in the play room and ran to investigate. Attracted by calls his father rushed downstairs with the fire extinguisher and when it was spent braved heavy smoke to throw water on the mounting flames until firemen came with equipment. Mr. Bowman explained that the under dry cedar plywood walls burned fiercely while great clouds of choking black smoke swirled about. All the time he battled to save the house.

Mrs. Bowman faces the discouraging task of having to have clean again after she finished the job earlier in the week.

Co-Operative Home Building Plan For 100 Houses Mooted

"A co-operative home building plan which may ultimately see the erection of approximately 100 houses, is in the course of organization in the city, it was learned today.

To date approximately 75 prospective home builders have shown definite interest and have been formed into two study groups to study co-operative building. Up to 50 others are interested, it was stated.

This far the organization has not progressed much beyond the "talk" stage as to what has been accomplished in other centres, where co-operative home building has been started. The two groups are meeting and studying a set of books furnished through St. Patrick's College at Ottawa, where the idea of co-operative building to cut home erection costs was fostered.

According to citizens interested the movement co-operative house building has caught on in certain other Ontario centres. Groups have been formed at Ottawa Kingston, Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton, Thorold and Kitchener. Homes are going up under the plan at Lindsay and it is expected that construction will get underway this year at Peterborough.

Sharp reductions in home building costs are claimed for construction under the co-operative plan. Group members pitch in with their own labor to do a big percentage of the actual building, which will greatly help reduce the cost of materials. Group members study construction method before embarking on their building program.

It is claimed that construction costs can be pared by one-third or more under the plan. The co-operative, which must have a government charter, arranges finances for the entire group and each prospective home owner carries his own individual mortgage.

Judo Troupe To Visit 6RD Trenton

6RD TRENTON. — Professor Bernard Gauthier, L. Emb., Shodan, Professor of Judo at Ottawa University School of Physical Education and president of the Canadian Judo Federation, will visit 6RD Trenton on the evening of Saturday March 13, to officiate at a public display of judo, Flight Lieutenant Terry O'Byrne, sports officer of the maintenance depot, announced today.

With him, Prof. Gauthier will bring part of his Ottawa Judo club to give the airmen and airwomen an exhibition of the ancient sport. In his club are two boys of about 13 years of age who will put on a display of speed and dexterity as they take their fling on the mat.

Apt pupils, but repeating the old title 'the weaker sex' three women from the Ottawa club will also be present to show once and for all that a female judoka can hold her own in any company. One of the girls will put on a display of self-defence, a subject of interest to all young folks.

The Trenton Club was formed under the leadership of LAC. Cousineau, holder of the Green Belt (the third KYU) will act as host to Prof. Gauthier's party as well as the Kingston YMCA Kano (Army) who will compete in the exhibition against both Ottawa and Trenton opponents.

The 6RD RCAF club formed January 1954, has grown rapidly through the efforts of Mr. Cousineau and interested airmen and airwomen. At a recent competition at Kingston, the 6RD club in spite of its youth, won over the more experienced and stronger Kingston club proving that 'brawn' is not always the best bet in this game.

Parcel of Land In Dispute Only Quarter Acre

TRENTON (Special) — It is interesting to note that the parcel of land council is asking the Parks Board to convey back to the town comprises 0.23 parts of an acre or a shade less than a quarter of an acre. The piece is split up into three parts and at the present all three are being used for parking. Another portion beside the group belongs to the Bank of Montreal. It is in sod and maintained as a lawn by the owners.

The Parks Board turned down council's request, Council's answer came from Mayor Ross Burtt who recommends expropriation action.

Meanwhile council and the parks management remain at loggerheads with councillor James MacDonald in opposition to the mayor's proposal.

Since Mayor Burtt first made public mention of council's intention volumes of words and numerous letters have flowed back and forth between council and the parks secretary. Mayor Burtt holds that it is not for the best interest of the town that the parks board should have the property north of Fraser park. This land was deeded by the town late in December to Parks secretary O. G. Alyea who in turn deeded it to the board of parks management in perpetuity. Other factions on the other hand argue that property in permanent possession of the parks board is secure for future Trentonians. And so the controversy continues.

Checking facts and measurements the parks property under criticism is just large enough for the orderly parking of 18 cars. November 30th Q. Public finds the area close to the downtown shopping district within a minute's walk of Dundas Street through a laneway between a bank and a shoe store. Public parking is permitted seven days a week and there are no meters in this part of the town next to the water front.

Official figures from the Parks Board shows that of the 1,800 acres making up the total area of the Town of Trenton, roughly 21 acres have been made available for parks.

Mrs. V. R. Ryan is in the Kingston General Hospital recovering from a surgical operation performed earlier this week.

Police Report Shows Crime Up Little Over '52

TRENTON (Special) — Persons who are convicted a third time for drunkenness just have not got a chance of escaping punishment by paying a fine.

Chief Constable F. J. Taylor's annual report to the town council shows that there was one person convicted of third offence intoxication under the Liquor Control Act. There was one fourth offender who obviously was out of circulation in society for a long time.

Fined for being under the influence as a first offender were 124 an increase of 18 over the previous year. The police department convicted six for having or consuming liquor under 21 years of age. A conviction was brought against one person for having a fictitious permit.

During the year the law officers of Trenton cracked down on speeding. The annual report noted that 218 offenders were brought to justice. Drivers drunk in charge of cars numbered 14 and were dealt with accordingly. Eight persons were convicted of inducing persons to gamble.

MANY CONVICTIONS

Other credits to the department were listed as convictions under the Criminal Code. Police got the man the report indicates who staged an indecent show during the carnival in the summer, and they also got the woman found guilty of an indecent performance at the same sideshow.

Cases of crime totaled 1,623 for the year more than double compared with the records of 1940. The general trend was only up a little with an increase of 56 cases over the 1952 total.

That splendid co-operation is being maintained with other police departments was indicated in the report that 68 persons were apprehended for other law enforcement authorities. No inquests were held during the year.

Seven adults and 33 children reported missing were all located.

The number of transients given shelter in 1953 totalled 471 an increase of more than 30 per cent over 1952.

Mileage recorded by the police cruiser amounted to 61,125 listed as mileage for essential patrols, investigation, and the transport of prisoners.

The financial statement showed that the police department actually cost the taxpayers $34,595.90. Actual expenditures amounted to $34,522.08 and since the budget appropriation amounted to $56,021.08 a credit balance of $1,498.92 was shown.

IS THIS AN ILLUSION?

J. L. Hodson, British novelist, playwright and war correspondent, writing in "Time and Tide", a London publication, says that the ten "illusions" which he maintains are largely responsible for Britain's present economic difficulties.

One of these "illusions" is given as follows: "That the world's good things can be far more equitably distributed among the earth's teeming millions without us going shorter than we have done hitherto."

Before discussing this statement it is necessary to attempt to discover exactly what Mr. Hodson is saying. His meaning is obscured by his use of the phrase "far more equitably." "Equitable" is defined in our dictionary as "just and right under all the circumstances of the particular case; fair and equal." If one considers the oldest available statistics as equal distribution, then it is indeed true that most of the people in the world cannot have more without some people in the world having less. But if, (as appears from the use of the words "far more" before the word "equitably"), Mr. Hobson considers an equitable distribution as one which is "just and right under the circumstances of the particular case," then we do not believe that it is impossible to achieve a closer approach to such an equitable distribution "without us going shorter than we have done hitherto."

What Mr. Hodson is suggesting is that, if the lot of the "have-nots" is to be substantially improved, it will be necessary to take from the "haves."

Fortunately there are many good reasons for believing that the lot of the underprivileged can be improved without impairing the standard of living of the privileged.

Look at Russia, the only country experiencing on this continent in keeping all our factories busy. Consider the manner in which surpluses of agricultural products pile up, and the various devices which are used to limit production, in order to prevent a decline in prices. Look at the many ways in which we waste manpower and money. If all these devices were curtailed, could we not help others without hurting ourselves?

Of course we could. It may be replied that the solution of these problems is extremely difficult, if not impossible. Nevertheless, we have here an alternative to Mr. Hodson's method of helping the "have-nots" by taking from the "haves."

We ought to remember, too, that in many instances the "have-nots" could do much to help themselves, if they were only provided with the opportunity and the tools to undertake the task.

And, if the day ever comes when we are no longer faced with the necessity of pouring billions of dollars and man-hours into armaments, our ability to help others without harming ourselves will be vastly increased.

The belief that Mr. Hodson regards as an illusion is, actually, a happy fact. The world's good things can be far more equitably distributed among the earth's teeming millions without us going shorter than we have done already. What is more, the supply of good things to be distributed can be increased, without overburdening ourselves with work.

We are fortunate that this one of Mr. Hodson's ten "illusions" is not an illusion, for there is another one that does not fall into the same category. Mr. Hodson assails as false the belief that there can be lasting peace and widespread prosperity at the same time. Actually, he is right. And it follows that, if we want peace, we must find some method of alleviating poverty. Under wise leadership we can do that, without making ourselves poorer.

ANOTHER FAULTY ARGUMENT

It is often discouraging to discover how easily facts can be twisted, by wishful thinking, into unwarranted conclusions.

Latest example we have noted was in "The Letter-Review" of Fort Erie. Since 1940, more than 5½ million Canadians have insured themselves against hospital costs. The Letter-Review sees this as "convincing evidence that the vast majority of Canadians prefer existing private health insurance schemes to any other type of protection." These figures, as we count, provide evidence of nothing of the kind. What they do prove, most conclusively, is that the majority of adult Canadians want to be insured against hospital costs.

But the fact that 5½ million Canadians availed themselves of the protection of private health schemes does not, in any way, indicate that they are opposed to public health insurance. Quite obviously the vast majority of these Canadians, perhaps all of them, reside in provinces where compulsory health insurance plans are not of existence. They chose private insurance because this was the only type of insurance available. It is as erroneous to state that these people prefer such private insurance schemes to public health insurance as it would be to maintain that all the residents of Saskatchewan and British Columbia prefer public health insurance to private health insurance, because they have elected governments which have forced them to participate in compulsory health insurance plans.

NECESSARY STEP

The British people are aware that it is to the interests of their own country as well as that of Europe and America that United States aid should be based here. But, a great and self-respecting nation they do not regard their independence as in any way lessened by a step taken in the interests of all. (Birmingham Post.)

Letter to the Editor

Thanks Expressed

The Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer Limited.

Dear Sir:

I would like to express through your paper the thanks of the Belleville Association to Chief Gerald Vance and all members of the Belleville Fire Department for the most efficient and capable manner in which they extinguished the blaze which occurred last Sunday morning in our building on Front Street. Every member of the Department including all off-duty men were on hand shortly after the alarm was sounded.

The work they did in confining the fire to one office on the second floor shows me, and I hope the entire population of the City of Belleville, how fortunate we are to have this calibre of men fighting our fires. Not only were they interested in extinguishing the blaze but also in keeping losses at a minimum by carefully covering our office stock and fixtures with tarpaulins which saved thousands of dollars worth of valuable stock.

The courtesy and thoughtfulness of the men was appreciated by all members of the department was also greatly appreciated.

Yours sincerely,
Bruce Luther.

Are We Acting Like Russians?

(Ottawa Journal).

The Russians have beaten Canada at hockey and a lot of Canadians are acting like Russians about it. "A national calamity, a national humiliation", says one newspaper writer, and a member of Parliament threatens to split the Commons wide open over the catastrophe. It seems that the hockey officials who selected the Belleville team for the trip at will probably be investigated by a royal commission before they get back.

And over the water where it all happened the manager of the team has lamented bitterly that some spectators and the press "booed" and so upset is he that he suggests that "if they don't want us" Canada should not enter the world championship any more. Some of the rooting against Canada, he said, darkly, "comes from Communist countries".

This all looks suspiciously to us as though we take it. It reminds us, sadly, of some of the comments made by the British United States tennis players about how terribly nasty those big Australian spectators all were with their 'orrible cockney accents. It was rooting against us at Wembley when a (beaten) Russian soccer team left the field in indignation, declaring it had had a cap-full of liliat plot to buy the referees.

The facts are, for example. The team chosen to represent Canada did not play the game, not once or twice, and the team chosen to represent Russia put the puck in the Canadian net seven times according to the rules of the game and the judges of the game say they regret that Russia had beat Canada. So, in Canada, today, won the world championship.

It may be that Canada could beat seven Russias at hockey, but if it comes to that it may be that Russia could beat seven Canadian tennis team. Those canny Kremlins aren't inclined to waste their time on a game they can't win. They don't put it past them to send out a second-string team to practise on keeping their stem secrets for the future.

Canadian hockey officials may well search their souls and reselves to avoid the sin of pride. In the meantime we are no longer world champions, but we find in this no catastrophe, no Communist plot, no national humiliation. We just got beaten, that's all.

'Goods Trains' Plink-Plink

(Hamilton Spectator)

We noticed a report the other day that British railways are adopting a larger standard "mineral wagon"—that is to say a four-wheeled box-waggon across between 4 goods and a hopper car—and it set us to thinking not so much of the sight of the United School, which has gone with the wind, but of the sound of it.

There are few really distinctive national sounds left in this age of cross-fertilization of things and manners. The noise of a British freight train stopping is one of them.

The train does not have air brakes, so the braking is done principally by the locomotive, with an assist from the "brake van"—a distinctively British caboose, with a cocktail cabin and sort of porch at one end, from the centre of which there rises a little cupola surrounded by a massive brake handle. Nor does the train have knuckle couplers; its cars are joined by hook-and-chain couplings with plenty of slack in them. The engine starts from backing into each other by a long set of spasmodic jolts—rooms of steel called buffets.

It is the buffers that make the noise. As the locomotive brakes go on, the slack in the couplings runs out and the buffers bang up against each other in sequence. There is no music except that bang is not the word. It is higher and lighter and more tinkly than a clank, but not quite a ping. A plink, perhaps. Plink-plink-plink-plink-plink receding or approaching, depending on where you're standing.

Some time ago we were at a movie in which the director had the actors were incontrovertibly English but artistic writer, and, with fatality in the farth-est background of the soundtrack, the train station stopped at a signal. Plink - plink-plink-plink - plink. Instantly we could smell a cloth-ier of the countryside, see the subtle gradations of green in it, and experience a rich, rural feeling. The sound brought it all back. Plink-plink-plink-plink-plink.

Law Is Too Darn Logical!

(Milwaukee Sunday Journal)

If the President of the United States takes you behind the door and asks you to do a bit of spying for him, you expect to be paid for it, but regard it as a labor of love.

That seems to be the lesson of a curious case in the history of the United States court of claims at Washington. A man sued for $30,000 which he said he had duly expenses as a super-secret agent for President Franklin Roosevelt. He said he operated all over the world, sometimes behind enemy lines, always reporting to the Federal Bureau of Investigations, secret service and state department.

Upon turning him down, the claims court applied a rule set forth by the supreme court in a similar case during the time of Abraham Lincoln. The very secrecy of the contract between the secret agent and president, said the court made it unenforceable. A court cannot enforce a secret agreement.

Sometimes the law is just too darn logical.

An old Canadaigua boy calls asme fill—after all, he lives on Gorham street, which is a good two miles from the tracks, so I hope Chaney streetcars won't mind if I call him a rumrunner—but how much fun we used to have at the United School, which has gone with the wind.

This young fellow reports that Canada is a igus dentists and physicians are trying to have the municipal water (from Canadaigua Lake, one of the famous Finger Lakes of Western New York, as you ought to know if you get around the more beautiful parts of the country) fluoriated.

This, the Canadaigua man says, the doctors believe will be a fine thing for all the people who drink Canadaigua Lake water. It will keep children's teeth as free from decay as children's teeth can be in Yankeeland. "But the doctors do not know," he argues, "how do they seem to care what might happen to the health of us people long as long as we drink better teech. I am against this. What do you think? (Signed)....

The purpose of fluorinating (adding sodium fluoride) to drinking water is to prevent decay of the teeth. Right here I will say something no paper will print about the prevalence of tooth decay in America. We people spend more time and money on our teeth than the people in any place in the world, but please unoover your long ears—I'm not going to shock you.

Fluorine (fluoride) is naturally present in the water in some regions and long study has proved to those have shown that when the water contains approximately one part of fluoride in a million the teeth of children in that region are much less susceptible to caries (cavity formation, decay) than the teeth of children in regions where the drinking water contains little or no fluorine. This is not just a coincidence—dentists and physicians have made the same observation in many widely separated areas.

Here and there the drinking water may contain more than one, two parts of fluoride in a million, and school children's teeth are not "pearly" but an opaque white and very likely stained brown, yellow or almost black; the skin mating irremovable. Not the baby or temporary teeth, but the permanent teeth, those that come, the age of six to fifteen. (Dentists call this mottled enamel).

In January, 1950, I visited Trinidad in Cuba's group of "Windward Islands" ("Leeward Islands" in the South Atlantic midway between Montevideo and Lisbon). The native inhabitant (European and American descent), young and old, have the finest teeth in the world and they have no use for tooth brushes or dentifrices. Their diet is like ours except that they have no chewing gum, no drinking water, from a crater lake, contains less than .2 parts of fluorine in two million. Whether this natural fluoride content of the drinking water is responsible for, and has their freedom from tooth decay I don't know.

If Canadaigua rejects fluorination of the water supply I'll have to find a hole, crawl into it and pull the hole in after me.

PREACH THE WHOLE GOSPEL

A minister was told recently by one of his angry parishoners that he should stop mentioning politics and social questions in his sermons and stick to the gospel.

It is not surprising of course that the minister was rebuked. Not even the prophet Amos was told to go easy on the sins of the people of Samaria and confine himself to pious generalities. The Pharisees would not have objected much with Jesus had his preaching not jeopardized entrenched interests.

The angry parishioner was right—the preacher should stick to preaching the gospel. But he should preach the whole gospel, which is what we expect to announce wherever he finds it—in politics, business, or in the social life of his comfortably living people.

Stick to the gospel. Yes, brother minister, stick to it and you will find that every "gospel" takes in a wide territory. It has a word to say to sinning kings, to dishonest businessmen, to Amos as well as to adulterers, thieves, and liars. It smites not only the sinner as well as the indulgent. It has a mighty message which involves economics, government, politics, as well as theology.

Preach the gospel—but preach the whole gospel.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

In Buffalo, N.Y., yesterday, witnessed a most unusual perform-ance. Six men were sitting at a table in the Statler-Hilton hotel dining room. At other tables, men were gathered, and from all but the one table there was loud laughter and chatter added to the clamor of the dining room.

But the table for six was strangely quiet. In the centre of the table sat a man with a finger to his lips, enjoining silence in the midst of the hubbub.

Each of the men facing me was speaking, the other five were listening. When the man speaking ended the man slapped the table lightly with his open palm, and turned to the man on his right. The man on his left began to speak. The other men listened, while eating. It was the movement of his hand that caught my eye. He too rapped on the table with his open hand and turned to the man on his left.

That man began to speak. By now, I was intent on the table to the left. Each man in turn, moving clockwise around the table, had his say and signalled with his hand that he had finished. There were no interruptions that I could see. No one of the six made or heard any comment whatever, while another was speaking. During the half hour we sat and watched, the discussion went round the table four times at least. Some people, for only a minute, others spoke for three or four minutes. Everybody said was listened to with interest, laughter or gravity, but with never a word or comment from anyone out of turn.

I was fascinated by the performance the man facing me glanced up and detected me at the end of the table. He smiled. I smiled back. And from there on, we exchanged looks and smiles, nothing and I waited at my table until they had finished and then approached the friendly man.

"What sort of meeting you was that?" I enquired with interest.

"We've been doing it for years," he replied. "Every time we have ordered, the man in the seat nearest each corner opens the subject for any subject he likes. Then, working clockwise, we each take our turn and the proceedings the subject. Anybody can return to it, but everybody has talk as long as he likes. When he has had his say, he signals. It cuts out side argument. No one at it can interrupt. And a most amusing luncheon."

INFLUENCE

Influence is perhaps the greatest power in the world, whether considered in a personal, a business, or an environment, a great book, the world of nature, or that most beautiful of topics—the weather. Each had its own method of influence. Not through life are we influenced by one or all of these. Great thoughts influence mankind and that they have raised the standard of thinking among millions of people. Nature has influenced many so that they have devoted their lives to the study of it. Every friend that we have influences us unconsciously for greater or less degree. Every one of us is influenced by his or her environment. The most widely read of any newspaper is that of the weather, whether true or false!

Far greater than any possessing is the influence of absmind on other minds. The influence of a great character is both cumulative and endless. Every year such a character as that of Abraham Lincoln grows in stature, and larger the influence of religion upon the lives of men. Influence is a blessing that gives personal peace and hope.

Think for a moment upon the influence of music. Music that increases in circulation every day, and that holds the minds of the world the writings of Shakespeare have had upon all mankind. Wonderful and great books never die! It is impossible to estimate the influence of a book that is read for a bad one often has tremendous influence, but life is a short one.

The influence of an idea keeps travelling. We note this in the many useful inventions and discoveries. Shakespeare spoke of the little candle that threw its beams afar. Edison improved upon this idea by giving efficient light to an entire world! The influence of a good home permeates into the very structure of a nation, civilization, and its greatness.

Dinner At Emmaus

CHAPTER 9.

The disciples of Jesus were still confused. They did not know what to believe.

Soon reports of mysterious meetings with Jesus began to reach them. Most startling of these was the visit He had with two of His followers on the way to the town of Emmaus, about seven miles from Jerusalem, probably on the site of the modern Qalunya.

On that first Easter Sunday morning two devoted followers of the Christ, Cleophas and his youngest son Simon, were walking toward Emmaus, conversing about the marvels and sorrows of the last four days, all unaware that at that very moment Jesus was drawing near to them. Cleophas certain knew Jesus well. And he had heard from his own wife, Mary Cleophas, of the empty tomb and the angels' words.

"But their eyes were held" is St. Luke's cryptic way of explaining that "they should not know Him." The historic fact is that Cleophas and Simon, who had been so close to Jesus in His lifetime, were now, nevertheless, to walk with Him on the open road, and not recognize Him. Singular paradox!

He met them in the middle of the road, standing in their way, and saying to them:

"What are these discourses that you hold one with another as you walk and are sad?"

If there were no familiar accents in the well-beloved voice, certainly reminders in the very nature of the question should have stirred the torpid recognition of these two followers. In other days, Jesus had asked just such questions, especially when His disciples were disputing among themselves, full of error and pride. But His words failed to stir their lethargic minds.

"Are you only a stranger in Jerusalem," Cleophas replied, "and have not known the things that have been done there in these days?"

"What things?"

"Concerning Jesus of Nazareth? He was a prophet, mighty in work and word before God and all the people. And how our chief priests and princes delivered Him to be condemned to death and crucified Him?"

The unrecognized figure stared, silent and compassionate, as Cleophas floundered on:

"But we hoped that it was He that should have redeemed Israel: and now, besides, today is the third day since these things were done. Yes, and certain women, also of our company, affrighted us today. Before it was light, they were at the sepulchre, And not finding His body, came, saying that they had also seen a vision of angels who say that He is alive. And some of our people went to the sepulchre: and found it so as the women had said, but Him they found not."

Only then did the unknown figure reply to this impassioned recital of grief.

"O foolish and slow of heart to believe in all things which the prophets have spoken! Ought not Christ to have suffered these things and to enter into His glory?"

And smiling at their puzzled air, the dazed attention they gave to Him, Jesus began to recount and expound to them the prophecies concerning the coming of the Messiah, beginning with Moses and continuing through all the prophets. But they still did not recognize Him.

They walked together toward Emmaus as Jesus gave Cleophas and his startled son this amazingly appropriate and timely scriptural lesson. The long list of forecastings which the last three days had fulfilled came to an end as they reached the first little houses on the town of Emmaus. There He was for parting from them, but they entreated Him not to leave them:

"Stay with us! Because it is toward evening, and the day is now far spent."

With them, He entered a house where they would tarry for that night. He sat at table with them, and once again, three days after the Last Supper, "He took bread, and blessed and brake and gave to them."

And at that moment their minds were flooded with wonder. Was this again a eucharistic consecration, the miracle of bread and wine becoming the blood and body of the Lord, as at that supreme time in the Upper Room of the house of the Cenacle? Who can answer? There is no proof.

"What are these discourses that you hold one with another as you walk and are sad?"

Neither Cleophas nor Simon had been with the twelve at the great feast. But they had heard from James and John about the Last Supper.

And suddenly they realized the literal truth of the prophecy the Lord had made long before the crucifixion. The resurrection — not the spirit alone — but of the body as well, a risen body that could walk and talk, and even eat!

A hoodwink seemed to fall from their eyes; they knew the stranger for whom and for what He was, the visible victor over death! They knew Him and in the instant of their knowing, He was gone, vanished from their sight.

Any they whispered to one another:

"Was not our heart burning within us while He spoke in the way and opened the Scriptures to us?"

No wonder that they hurried back to Jerusalem to tell in the highway and at table when the living, risen Master broke bread for them to eat.

Fear blanched the faces of the disciples, not fear of the supernatural, but concern that Temple spies might be listening. If reports of such a miracle late reached Annas and Caiphas everyone in the room might be in danger of crucifixion. Without a word, as one of the eleven impulsively left the house on a private errand, the other apostles rose and shut fast the doors, bolting them against eavesdroppers.

Only then did they allow Cleophas to go on with his story.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. John McMullen of Harold has returned home after visiting Mrs. Asa Lloyd, Herchimer Avenue. During her visit Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. Lloyd spent a day in Kingston.

Miss Ruby A. Bulman, an employee of the Bell Telephone Company, is confined to the Isolation ward in Belleville General Hospital.

St. Andrew's WMS Holds March Meeting

St. Andrew's W.M.S., met in the school room on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members. Mrs. J. Craig, president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Mills reported that $145 of the $407 allocation had been met so far.

Twenty-seven visits were reported in "shut-ins" and newcomers. Mrs. Kane gave a short reading on advice in "Welcome and Visitors." Be friendly with strangers, with leaders of groups, and in hospital visitation. Miss H. Blake gave a missionary commandment, a set of commandments. Mrs. Manlie told in her "Current Events" how they had enjoyed the day of prayer and especially the excellent address by Mrs. Middleton.

Last month the report neglected to mention that Mrs. York and Mrs. Kane had been presented with life memberships.

Mrs. Ball sang a solo entitled "Others".

Mrs. Diamond led the prayer, and Mrs. Ball read the Scripture after which a short lesson was given in the form of a play by Mrs. Manlie, Mrs. Diamond and Mrs. Bell. It was taken from the study book and was different in its appeal, and very much enjoyed.

Mrs. Craig thanked the ladies taking part. The next meeting will take the form of a "Family Night" with the W.M.S., the C.G.I.T., the Jr. Club, and Explorers all taking part as one big family of missionary workers.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Evening Auxiliary Presents Short Skit

Members of Holloway Street United Church W.M.S. Evening Auxiliary met Wednesday evening in the church parlors.

Miss Norlene Frederick, president, was in the chair for the business period. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Bernice Ford and her group, who presented an interesting skit outlining the work and difficulties of the Evangelicas in several countries in South America. Theme of the evening's program was "The Church—An Image of the Kingdom."

A contest was conducted and the hostesses for the evening served refreshments.

Women's Activities

COMBINED MEETING

The combined meeting of the W.M.S. and the Ladies' Guild of Foxboro Presbyterian Church was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ainsley Chappell with 13 members present. Several interesting readings were given on the meeting's theme, "Worship."

Sharon Chappell played a piano solo and Miss Grace Jiby gave a paper on "Why I Go to Church". Mrs. William Barrie sang a solo and Miss Watt conducted a Bible quiz. Miss Bell gave a reading on the life of Miss Hilda Hermanson while she was in Formosa.

The singing of a hymn and recitation of prayer closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Reg. Skinner.

COLLEGE HILL W.A.

The monthly meeting of the College Hill W.A. was held in the church on March 10, with 22 members and one guest in attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Annie Dickens, with the singing of the W.A. theme song, followed by a hymn and a prayer in unison.

During the business period, plans were completed for catering to a dinner on Friday, March 13, to the hymn of the presbytery. A discussion followed regarding choir gowns while the W.A. group had the reading.

Mrs. Nina Walker opened the devotional period with a hymn, followed by a Scripture reading by Mrs. Hattie McMullen. The devotional theme was "The Way of the Cross."

During the social hour which followed a contest was conducted by Mrs. Jen Smith, and refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Father Marries Off Five Girls, Son in One Day, Four Couples Will Make Home in Canada

ENSCHOT, The Netherlands (Reuters)—Farmer Henricus Kort one day last month married off five daughters and a son—one after the other. Nearly all of this community's 3,215 citizens turned out for all-day festivities—and to say bon voyage to four of the couples who will make their homes in Canada.

The four brides and four grooms who will fly the Atlantic to take farm jobs in Ontario are not all strangers to Canada. Frans Bertens, 24, and Jan van Haaren, 22, have already worked for 18 months in Ontario.

They acted as "advance guard," learning Canadian customs and farming methods and preparing for the others.

PROSPECTS DIM AT HOME

Frans and Jan decided to emigrate because there was no room for them in densely-populated Holland. Jan van Haaren said he was one of eight children "and there is no prospect for me here."

His father's farm could support only two families, and it was practically impossible for a young farmer to buy additional land in Holland.

They chose Canada without hesitation. Enthusiastic letters from friends who had gone before spoke of splendid farming opportunities in a view which, they said, was confirmed by their own experience.

At first they worked together at Grand Bend, on the farm of C. Stokkermans, a Dutchman who emigrated six years ago. Then Frans moved to the 150-acre poultry farm of Verne McArthur at Thamesford.

On arrival in Canada by air March 27, the four couples will separate. Frans Bertens will take his 23-year-old bride Riek de Kort to Thamesford, where McArthur—"a fine boss," Frans said—is giving them four rooms in his house for their start in housekeeping.

GO TO THETFORD, ZURICH

Jan van Haaren and his 24-year-old bride Lucia (Lous) de Kort will go to Thetford, where Jan has found a job on Fred Donald's horticultural farm. Adriana (Ad) de Kort, 30, husband of Johanna (An) Bertens, 25, is going to Zurich, where Philip Durand, who has a 200-acre dairy farm, has promised him a house at reasonable rent.

Gerardus (Grazd) Bertens, 23, husband of Annie de Kort, 27, will work on the 100-acre turkey ranch of Charlie Douglas at Embro, where part of a house has already been set aside for them.

"We will be separated by distances of up to 40 miles," the four men said. But they will try to keep family ties as close as possible.

"Who knows, each of us may have a car some day," they said. "We are looking for happiness and prosperity and we are here to find them in Canada."

BRIDE HAPPY-MAN BLUSHES

The four brides shared this optimism and thought it "marvelous" to be going to Canada. All were confident that they would make a success of their new lives.

"I do not mind where I am, so long as I am with him," said Jan Bertens, pointing to her husband, who blushed.

Mother de Kort, mother of 11, is reluctant to see three daughters and a son disappear abroad but said: "I shall not shed a tear."

"After all," added Father de Kort, "we shall still have five children at home, four boys and a girl, and two of our daughters are married and have their own farms nearby, so we shall not be quite deserted."

Burgomaster A. G. M. Pazis is proud of the world-wide publicity which the multiple wedding last Feb. 23 gave his community. Eleven of the 12 newlyweds came from the two families, and the one "outsider", Jan van Haaren, is related to one of the families.

CANADA GETTING THE BEST

The burgomaster said many young farmers in the district have no prospect of ever acquiring a farm of their own here.

"The emigration of the Bertens and the de Korts may stimulate [illegible]

Presbyterial Executive Spring Meeting

The spring executive meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial Woman's Association (Hastings and Prince Edward) of the United Church of Canada, was held in Bridge Street Church parlor on Tuesday.

The morning session was given to reports from the secretary and the treasurer and discussions arising from the reports.

Mrs. M. R. Davidson, president of the association, read communications from the conference president, Mrs. Crowle, of Oshawa. Her suggestions were discussed and a committee was set up on leadership training, composed of Mrs. A. Fyear, (incoming president of the Association), Mrs. J. Wood, Mrs. G. Dobbs, Mrs. N. Crawford and Mrs. Stephens with power to add to their numbers. It was also decided to have a finance committee. Mrs. Storey, chairman on co-operation of Christian Education, spoke on youth work.

The afternoon session opened with devotional service in charge of Mrs. Dobbs.

Mrs. N. Crawford, literature secretary, reported a greater demand for literature and increased sales during the year, showing that W.A. women are much interested in the literature which is available.

A motion was carried that each president be made a life member of the W.A. at the close of term of office.

The program for the coming convention was prepared. This convention will be held in King Street United Church, Trenton, on Thursday, May 27, when the speakers will be Mrs. H. L. Leitch, a member of the Dominion Council, and Mrs. (Rev.) M. C. Fisher, of Brooklin.

An interesting program has been prepared and the ladies of King Street Church will be prepared to entertain as many as can attend.

TV NEWS

by Gene Hitchon
A lot of us here fell our mouths water when those big American give-away programs are on TV. There's a lot of fun they often come up with. Morning stories, and they're gone to get bigger every day.
A man from Texas named Carl Poper was on one of them recently and won $1250.00. It was a lot of cash, much, but for Mr. Poper it really was a give-away.
Out in Austin, Texas, Sheriff T. O. Long was watching the program from New York. When the program was over he sent out a hurried telegram.
Carl Poper, the man who won the $1250, he wired, was wanted in Texas on an embezzlement charge. Police promptly arrested him.
Long before Carl Poper gave himself up to the authorities he had learned of the attentiveness of TV in catching fugitives. Police in Toronto used TV during the Boyd gang escapes, and TV has been used often in England and the U.S.
The prizes on TV are getting more fabulous all the time. Next week will be the biggest, a station that will be broken up because the prizes on one fabulous show were not fabulous enough.
Speaking of fabulous, that's a good word to describe some things though we try to stay away from it when we are talking about ourselves. Too many of our friends have come to know that when they want the best in TV SERVICE PERFECT SERVICE keeps a customer happy, and we try to live up to that. # ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HUSBAND WORKS, BUT WON'T PAY BILLS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married four years, and my husband has been in service all that time until eight months ago.

Now, while he is working, he does not pay any of our bills, and I have to pay them all myself. He never gives me his pay check, and he constantly argues with me about everything.

Could you please help me?

—M.P.

Dear M.P.:

The only way you can force a man to meet his financial obligations is to take him to court. Would you really want to do that right now?

When you might do, is to take your problem to some organization in your town whose business it is to help tangled married couples. If you will do this, you will have someone who can help you investigate your difficulty thoroughly and make suggestions to you as to what you should do about it.

I will be glad to give you the name and address of such an organization in your city if you will send me a stamped self-addressed envelope as I can get in touch with you personally.

THIS GIRL IS KIDDING HERSELF

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A young man with whom I have been keeping company, and who has long insisted that he was very much in love with me, recently told me that because of the failure of a former romance he was afraid to take a chance of getting hurt again and so thought he should stop going with me. Since then, he has never asked me for a date, but he is always a true friend when we happen to meet, that I feel he is sorry that we broke up and would like to see if things are to go round, or too shy, to make the first move.

How can we get back together?

—Mary L.

Dear Mary H.:

I am sorry, but I am afraid I have little consolation to offer. The fact that a man is either too proud or too shy to try again after a broken romance is a really warm it that way. Men who are sincerely in love won't leave any room for doubt as to make up with the girl they are anxious to marry. If things have gone wrong between them, and in my opinion any girl who breaks up an idea is only kidding herself.

Moreover, any man who is afraid of love because it once soured on him is a sissy. And that goes for woman, too. Naturally, anyone who has been hurt is going to be extra careful for a long time not to get hurt in the same way again, but the person who tries to protect himself from life indefinitely is neurotic as well as a sissy. If you take my advice, you will let any move to pick up where you left off with this man come from him.

Newspaper Woman Simply Refuses to be Sorry For Self

By EDDY GILMORE

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Rebecca Gross, the lady editor who lost both legs in an automobile accident, said she's sending for her passport.

"But Becky," I gasped, "surely you can't be thinking of traveling yet."

"Oh, no," she laughed, "not quite yet. I just wanted to find out how tall I was. Your passport is about the only document I know of that knows it."

The remark, that attitude, is characteristic of the Lock Haven, Pa., newspaper woman who simply refuses to be sorry for herself.

"You see," she explained in her bright, quick way, "I've got to begin thinking about how tall I want to be."

Becky didn't understand.

"I'm ordering my artificial legs soon," she continued. "And I've simply got to decide how tall I want to be."

Becky laughed.

CLOTHES POSE PROBLEM

"At first," she said, "I thought I might like to up myself five inches so I could see over the heads of the crowds at parades. But then I decided that would offer a problem. I'd have to get an entirely new wardrobe, or to fit a few of my old clothes to about five feet five I suppose, but I've had in read my passport to find out for sure."

Rebecca lost her legs New Year's Eve. She was driving her car through Williamsport, Pa., on her way to the airport to meet her sister, when two cars collided at an intersection and pinned Becky against a telephone pole.

"The left leg was amputated below the knee, the right leg just above the knee.

But save your sympathy for someone who needs it. Becky has no use for it. She has finished her first week at the Easter Institute for Rehabilitation.

DOES WEIGHT ON LEG

"Right now," she explained, "I'm doing this."

She sat on a table, a 18-pound weight tied from her left leg which was suspended across an overhead bar.

"I'm getting a little more strength in that leg," she smiled.

People were all around us. People with one leg. People with two legs. People with one arm. And people with no arms. People who were rehabilitating themselves with the help of Dr. Henry Kessler. No one appeared sorry.

"You don't know what you're thinking," said Becky. "No, none of us is sorry. Thank God, part of the battle, you see."

We told a joke, Becky laughed again.

WANTS NORMAL LIFE

"What are you going to do when you get through here?"

"Go back home," she said, "and try to lead as normal a life as possible."

"How long is it going to take?"

"I thought about three months, but I hear it'll probably take longer," she explained. "I'll learn to walk on one artificial leg first. Then artificial legs. Then I'll learn to walk on both legs."

"Look," she said, changing the subject, "did you know people with no legs can have toe pains?"

She explained. With a laugh, as usual.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN

"Eddy," she said, "I'm getting real strong. I did 10 push ups with my hands today."

Becky was conducting a safety campaign for her paper when she had that accident. Commenting on it she said:

"The place where your accident is going to happen looks like any other but you've passed by safely a thousand times.

"I suppose I shall never drive up to an intersection again, or approach a sharp curve in the same way, thinking, 'This is the place where I may have an accident'."

I rose to go.

"Come to see us in London."

"Yes, I will. And I'll climb your stairs too."

Mrs. St. Laurent Awaits Return Of Her Husband

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. St. Laurent whose husbands ne off on a trip, the lady is waiting anxiously for the return of her husband, Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Mr. St. Laurent, who left on a world tour last month, is expected in Ottawa March 17. Wednesday he arrived at Tokyo where a letter from Mrs. St. Laurent awaited him.

Mrs. St. Laurent said laughed in an interview that she had received a telephone call from the external affairs department informing her of the prime minister's arrival in the Japanese capital and asking for her big greetings.

Mrs. St. Laurent is a diligent letter-writer.

Writing in French from Madras, India, she said: "They received us like princes and true friends."

Flowers, she said, "I am accustomed to see so and to this packing and unpacking."

DOES OWN PACKING

Mrs. St. Laurent said her husband has always preferred to do his own packing to make sure nothing is left out.

"On a trip like this where there are many stops, it is evident the task is tiring," she said.

"My husband only finished packing the morning he left. He started to pack Saturday night, but then ruptured it to reply to three letters. It was the first time I saw him write letters on the evening of a big trip."

One of Mr. St. Laurent's trunks contains personal gifts from Pope Pius XII which he will distribute as his wife.

The ailing pontiff could not personally receive Mr. St. Laurent in person, but the prime minister was given the rosaries at the papal apartments.

If we say that day, Feb. 15, that the telephone in the brick St. Laurent home on Grande Allee street, were brought at the first lady a call from the Eternal City. The prime minister called to let his wife know he was well.

Mrs. St. Laurent has written brief letters from each of his ports of call. In the "Madras letter," she mentioned that the "talks with (India's prime minister) Nehru were very interesting and many numerous than foreseen. . . ."

Besides the letters Mrs. St. Laurent receives a diary with a day-to-day account of the trip from her son, Jean-Paul, also making the trip.

It was while going through the diary that Mrs. St. Laurent said with a touch of regret: "I did wish I had been able to go, but I could perhaps have gone along. But I am too afraid of airplanes to be in one. In any case I place my husband's voyage in the hands of God."

By HELEN JAMIESON

STRIVE FOR BODY BALANCE

Find a woman who carries herself with pride and regal elegance and you will find one who not only has a good figure but who is "up and at 'em." Her demeanor is one of courage and she feels courageous. The woman who walks around with shoulders thrust forward bears an expression of depression and failure if she would has her beaten. Actually the base of fate may be the raised against her. She may just be so lazy and lacking in self-respect that she doesn't put her back bone tuck in her tummy and look like a Woman Alive. She feels about a thickened waistline flat chest and sagging breasts but they are all self-inflicted defects.

Without perfect posture the silhouette cannot be attractive. Good posture is not only necessary for a stylish appearance but for well-being. With muscles strong and resilient the internal organs will be likely to function more normally than if they are relaxed.

The spinal column is the main support of the body. Kept extended as it should be when walking standing or sitting the muscular system will be strong. Circulation will not be slowed up as it may be when the shoulders are thrown forward and chest flattened. With the chest lifted breathing is deeper and that speeds up the blood streams.

Good posture also depends upon having the feet properly shod. Most women accept foot ills as something that cannot be avoided or corrected. If your feet are not in perfect form seek the services of a chiropodist. Then check the shoes that have brought this state of affairs upon you and go shopping for a pair that will provide comfort and ease. You can have comfort and grace if you but seek for this combination. With grace and without carriage graceful movement is as natural as breathing. Strive for well-balance, maintain it at all times, and youthful appearance will remain with you.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can keep fifty with many interesting and active years before you. Many of the men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more enjoyment out of life. Try Doan's Pills. Used by millions for over 50 years, Doan's Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's.

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Approves Debenture By-Law Of $30,000 For Memorial Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD — Mayor R. J. Locke at Monday's council meeting of the Campbellford town council, brought a request from the Campbellford Memorial Hospital Board that the corporation issue debentures to the amount of $30,000 to complete the payment of the building and equipment. The total indebtedness on capital account is approximately $43,000.

The Board asked Seymour for $10,000 and feel confident of raising the $3,000 balance, themselves. Council passed a resolution instructing the solicitor to prepare the debenture by-law for the balance outstanding.

The solicitor, Mr. N. A. Mac-Coll, Q.C., attended council in the matter of the Garden Block subdivision owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Pallister. The by-law limiting the use of lands in this subdivision plan was presented and passed, and an agreement with Mr. and Mrs. Pallister prepared. This agreement was relative to the owners satisfying the council relative to taxes, rates and local improvement levies.

GRANT.

Mayor Locke reported that the PUC grant to the town was set at $10,000 with a probable additional $2,000 at a later time.

A delegation of owners of pool rooms and bowling alleys requested that the licence on pool tables and alleys be reduced. They stated that business tax is paid just as is the case of any other business, and the licence should not be required at all. Council left the matter with the finance committee to report.

A delegation from the Arena Board asked a grant of $500 to cover their deficit. They said that ice conditions had not been favorable this winter and they cannot meet the payment of $1,000 to Mr. Davidson. Much argument ensued with councillors Vice and Rutherford maintaining that the corporation should not make the grant. Nevertheless the grant of $500 was considered by council justified in view of the short season and the excellent record of the Arena Board in providing hockey and skating for the children.

RESURFACE WALKS.

Reeve Mayhew presented the proposed plan for the building and resurfacing of sidewalks during 1954. This was a minimum plan and was approved by council.

The Public School Board estimates for 1954 were submitted. They totalled $25,000, up $3,800 from last year. Council requested that the board send representatives to a meeting on March 22 to explain the increase, at the same time recognizing the Board has full jurisdiction over the matter.

A letter from Dr. F. G. Robertson, M.P., re the improving of the canal property from the Black Bridge to below Victoria Street was referred to the park committee, in view of the disappointing offer of $1,000 for the maintenance for 20 years for the property.

GRANT APPROVED.

Mr. M. B. Sayers and Mr. Jesse Locke asked for the usual $200 grant to the Agricultural Society, which was approved.

Three Seymour residents asked for sewer and water service. The matter was left to the road and bridge committee to report.

Councillor Vice, reporting for the police committee, asked approval for the taxi licence renewals, which was given. He moved that Constable Baird's salary be $2,300 per year. This was carried.

Coun. Tatham was appointed to represent council on the emergency relief committee. Coun. Rutherford stated that he hoped soon to be able to improve conditions at the dump and stated that he is keeping an eye out for a new site when one is necessary.

There was much discussion over the report of the finance committee regarding the office.

NEW APPOINTMENT.

Mr. Ibey was appointed tax collector, relief officer and weed inspector, in addition to the treasurer's position at a salary of $50 per week. In view of Mr. McGregor's desire to retire before too long, council deemed it necessary to advertise for a stenographer, who eventually, with Mr. Ibey, will comprise the town office staff. It was pointed out by various members that this action was in no way taken to accelerate Mr. McGregor's retirement, but was taken in order that his expressed wish to retire may be facilitated without undue disruption to the office.

The action of the legal committee in seeking advice regarding the Garden Block was confirmed.

Several property by-laws were passed before council adjourned until March 22 at 7.30 p.m., when the estimates for 1954 will be reviewed.

Sunday School Lesson:

Sacrifices That Make Sense

By ROY L. SMITH

There are those timid souls who shrink from religion because of the contradictions upon which it insists.

In the book of Proverbs, in the Old Testament, we read, "There is that which scatters and yet increases, and there is that which saves and still goes on towards poverty" (Proverbs 11:24).

In this Scripture Jesus says that the grain of wheat dies and becomes great, and the Son of God must die to win the world. There is something very strange just here.

GREAT SOULS TAKE RISKS

Call the roll of the world's really great souls—those who have earned and won immortality —and without an exception they are those who have ignored personal safety, run enormous risks, oftentimes been subjected to gruelling punishment, and have lived quite indifferent to their own good fortune or even welfare. There seems to be something in the principle, otherwise it is impossible to explain great souls like Albert Schweitzer, Mahatma Ghandi, Toyohito Kagawa, Sir Wilfred Grenfell, Jane Addams, Father Damien, Cardinal Mercier and hundreds of others.

There is something sometimes almost pathetic in the way the greedy and the selfish try to imitate the gracious and the humble who live self-forgetfully. The avaricious have on so many occasions attempted to buy public favor by paying for great public works after having lived a predatory life through many decades. Even an arrogant dictator such as Adolph Hitler or Benito Mussolini was not above an attempt to represent himself as a sacrificial individual living self-forgetfully for his dupes.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 14: "Jesus Faces The Cross," John 11:55 —12:50.

The principle of sacrifice is deeply ingrained in all the life of the universe. We are ushered into life at the expense of excruciating pain on the part of our mothers. We are nursed and cared for at enormous cost by our parents. The entire community sacrifices that we may have the opportunity of an education. Even those without children are taxed that other men's children may be given their chance. The soldier on the battlefield bares his breast to the fire of his nation's enemy, dying for generations unborn who will never even know his name. Everywhere the honorable, the patriotic, and the righteous give themselves without thought of reward or honor.

SUCCESS OF JESUS' MISSION

There is something extremely significant in this week's Scripture story of the foreigners who came seeking Jesus out for the purpose of inquiring of Him the way of life. The Jews were the most exclusive race of all antiquity. Their religion forbade them mingling, except as spiritual and racial superiors, with other people. But Jesus, Himself a Jew, rejoiced that these foreigners had come, and looked upon their coming as the crowning evidence of the success of His mission. As they come to Him He came to His great hour.

The author or the Fourth Gospel, as the early Christian Church in the metropolis of Ephesus, had his heart set on the capture of the whole world—by the Christian Gospel: To him the appeal of Jesus was a universal approach in which every nation and race on earth was to be included. He saw in the Christian message, and in Christianity, something that transcends all barriers of race and clan. It might be said that the Christian is to be judged by the number of walls he has been able to climb.

Sen. McCarthy Seeks to Link Commentator Murrow With Soviet Revolutionary School

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator McCarthy has accused radio-TV commentator Edward R. Murrow of having been connected with a Moscow school described as revolutionary, and Democratic leader Adlai Stevenson of dealing in untruths.

Murrow said he actually was an adviser in an international education experiment the Russians cancelled in 1935 before any school sessions were held.

The accusations came in the first installment of the Wisconsin Republican senator's reply to recent criticism. He has said his real reply will be made a week from today, but Thursday night he fired some preliminary broadsides at Murrow who decoted his CBS television show Tuesday to a critical review of McCarthy, and Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in 1952, who snapped off against "McCarthyism" when he spoke to Democrats in Miami Beach Saturday.

And in a new aspect of the case, the United States Army published a report Thursday night that pictured McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, of the Senate investigations sub-committee as attempting to influence the army to give special treatment to a youthful committee consultant, G. David Schine, who was drafted some months ago.

EUROPEAN INVESTIGATION

Cohn and Schine were in the news last year when they aroused some controversy in Europe during a tour of investigation, ordered by McCarthy, of U.S. information and propaganda agencies abroad.

McCarthy has been quoted repeatedly as saying he told army officials to treat the wealthy Schine like any other private.

McCarthy, on a question-and-answer program with Fulton Lewis Jr. on the Mutual radio network, said Murrow, "wreck after wreck, feels that he must smear McCarthy."

Saying he was quoting from a copy of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for Feb. 18, 1935, the senator read a listing of Edward R. Murrow, assistant director, Institute of International Education, as a member of the national advisory council of the Moscow University summer session.

Murrow, in New York, termed the broadcast statements "McCarthy's latest reckless handling of the truth."

SCHOOL CALLED OFF

Murrow said he had been assistant director of the Institute of International Education, which he described as an organization arranging inter-country exchange of students and professors, and that capacity was a member of an advisory committee for a summer school in Moscow. But he said the session was called off by the Russians before it began.

As for Stevenson, McCarthy centered on the 1952 presidential candidate's statement that the new administration "turned up only one alleged active Communist among more than 2,000,000 federal employes."

That, McCarthy said, "of course is strictly untrue and either Adlai knew that or should know it."

And finally, the senator said, he would "prefer to agree with Lincoln, rather than Flanders."

This was a reply to Senator Ralph Flanders of Vermont, also a Republican, who criticized McCarthy in a senate speech.

McCarthy took issue with Flanders' statement that the real Communist peril comes from abroad, and quoted Lincoln as saying if the nation is ever destroyed, it will be from within.

GETS OVERSEAS TRIP

MONTREAL (CP)—Pilot Officer Helen J. Claxton, daughter of Defence Minister Claxton, is one of five members of McGill University's RCAF squadron chosen for summer posting overseas, it was announced here Thursday. Miss Claxton will be attached to No. 3 fighter wing, Zweibrucken, Germany. Some 25 university students will receive summer training at RCAF bases in Europe.

McCarthy Sought Special Job For Aide, Army Says

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—An army report issued late Thursday night accuses Senator McCarthy of applying pressure, and chief counsel Roy Cohn of McCarthy's Senate investigating sub-committee of using threats, in an effort to get special treatment for G. David Schine, a former committee consultant now an army private.

The 34-page report, made public by Senate Democrats, was shot through with references to Cohn calling top army officials with demands that the 26-year-old Schine, who was drafted last November, be given preferential treatment.

It quoted Cohn, who also is 26, as threatening that Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens would be "through," and the army wrecked if Schine were sent overseas after he completed his basic training. Schine was is at Camp Gordon, Va.

The report said that before Schine was inducted, both McCarthy and Cohn urged the army to give Schine a direct commission.

However, the report continued, Schine was reiicted as unqualified by the chief of transportation, the provost marshal-general and the commanding general of the 1st Army.

CHECK TEXT BOOKS

Although McCarthy was quoted as telling officials repeatedly to treat Schine as it would any other draftee, he was also pictured as trying to have the army assign Schine, a wealthy New Yorker, to the New York area. The Wisconsin Republican senator was quoted in telephone calls Schine be assigned to check West Point textbooks for subversive material.

The army report, a "bill of diary," covered the period from mid-July of last year to Feb. 16, 1954, thus coming up to the eve of fierce conflict between McCarthy and Stevens over another issue.

This was McCarthy's questioning of Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker at closed hearing Feb. 18. Stevens said Zwicker was humiliated and abused. In the ensuing uproar President Eisenhower announced "disregard for fair play" in congressional probes.

One-Eyed Man Is Made Blind By Youth's Blow

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Judge Charles Bruce went the limit with a youth who admitted striking a blow that put out the good eye of a one-eyed man.

Hugh L. Smalley, 22, pleaded guilty to assault and battery and Judge Bruce gave him all the law allows for this misdemeanor, 12 months imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

The judge called the offence against partly blind Frank Rice, 28, "dastardly."

Rice testified that he was sitting in a parked auto and observed Smalley trying to let the air out of the tires. He remonstrated, he said, and Smalley thrust his fist through the car window and struck him in the left eye.

His right eye, he explained, had been removed when he was 7. He now can distinguish only bright lights with his left, he said.

Mother Leaves One-Year Child Out in Cold

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A baby not quite one year old was left out in the cold for a short time in a dispute between the mother and the Children's Aid Society.

Police said they were called to the home Wednesday night when the mother refused to take in the child, which has been in the care of the Children's Aid. Fred Cristall, superintendent of the Children's Aid, said the mother had rejected the child. She said she could not care for it because she is a widow with three other children to look after.

The baby was turned over to foster parents Thursday.

The child has been cared for most of her life by the society but the mother refused to allow it to become a ward and be put up for adoption. A children's aid representative tried to return the child to its mother but she refused to accept it and set it outside the door.

Queen to Ride Home in Style From Royal Tour

By JAMES W. KING

LONDON (AP)—The Queen is going to ride home from her royal tour in style—aboard a $6,000,000 yacht.

Finishing touches are being put on the new royal yacht Britannia at Portsmouth navy yard.

The Britannia is the first royal yacht built in half a century—and it's a far cry from the 700-ton wooden paddle steamer that was the first royal yacht 113 years ago.

Some sea-loving Britons are admittedly disappointed in the Britannia. Lawrence Dunn, one of the architects, said he wasn't entirely pleased, explaining:

"The royal apartments between the second and third masts look as if they had been added as an afterthought."

Another leading naval architect wrote to the editor of a London newspaper:

"Ships should be a showpiece of British shipbuilding. She isn't. Her superstructure looks like a three-tier wedding cake that crumbles in the middle."

SPEED 21 KNOTS

The Britannia—413 feet long with a 55-foot beam—will be powered by four steam turbines and have a speed of 21 knots. It's ultra-modern with a special water distilling plant, an all-electric galley, air conditioning and a stabilizer to reduce the roll in rough weather. The shelter decks are strong enough to land a helicopter in an emergency.

The Britannia is a colorful ship, too—painted royal blue with a gold band below the level of the upper decks, a white single funnel and white hull. The crew wear special uniforms—a serge jumper worn inside the trousers instead of outside with all ratings flashing shoulder emblems bearing a crown and inscription "Royal Yacht Service."

Prince Charles, 5, and his sister, Princess Anne, 3, will sail on the Britannia in May to meet their parents and aid at Tobruk for the homeward voyage winding up the royal tour.

'Collective Measures to Repel Aggression' Recommended By St. Laurent in Tokyo Speech

TOKYO (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent has told Japan that the Democratic processes of the West offer more opportunities than the "empty promises of communism."

The visiting Canadian leader, in a speech Thursday night before the Canada-Japan society, recommended "collective measures to repel aggression."

"The United Nations reaction to aggression in Korea under the great leadership of the United States of America has provided an example of what can be achieved by peace-loving nations working together to resist aggression and to restore peace," he said.

Peace and trade were the main interests of Canada in world affairs, and "these aims apply not just to Japan but to every country with which Canada has dealings."

"In developing our views on Asian problems we have had the advantage of the close consultation which is a feature of Commonwealth relations. We have benefited further influenced by the extent to which our good friend and neighbor, the United States has become interested in the problems of Asia in recent years.

ASIAN NEIGHBOR

"What I have said is intended to show the increasing awareness on the part of Canadians of this part of the world: of Asia's needs, of Asia's aspirations and Asia's friendship, and of Japanese needs, Japanese aspirations and Japanese friendship, for Japan is Canada's closest Asian neighbor."

Canadians hoped that Asian peoples, through their own efforts and with the help of such programs as the Colombo plan and UN assistance, would be able to live fuller and more satisfying lives.

"And we hope too that under these plans they will prove for themselves that the democratic processes which characterize the non-Communist world offer more substantial opportunities for material and cultural advancement than the empty promises of communism."

Today the prime minister visited three Canadian destroyers serving in the Far East. He described the destroyers, the Haida, Crusader and Cayuga, as part of Canada's contribution to halting aggression.

GREETED BY COMMANDER

The squadron's senior officer, Capt. John A. Charles of Victoria, who is commander of Canadian destroyers in the Far East and commanding officer of the Haida, greeted the prime minister on his arrival.

A United States Army band played "O Canada," and then the prime minister inspected a guard of honor and the ships' companies.

In a short address in English and French he told the men their job had involved many days of duty at sea, but Canada felt it was necessary to do our part to prevent any more wars.

The men gave three cheers for the prime minister and he responded by leading them in three cheers for "Canada, this great nation of ours."

Too Much Fuss Over Defeat Says Pearson

BRAMPTON (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says there has been too much fuss over the Canadian hockey team's defeat by the Russians.

"Instead of criticizing," he told a political meeting Thursday night, "we should congratulate the team which won all but the last games and congratulate the team that won that one. And we should make sure that the next time we take part we send the best team we can get together. Then we'll have no regrets, whether we win or lose."

Mr. Pearson brought up the subject of hockey when he commented facetiously about the huge crowd flocking into the arena next door to the hall in which he spoke. About 800 persons attended the political meeting at which Mr. Pearson spoke in support of Al O'Marra, Liberal candidate in the forthcoming Peel by-election.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WILL BE MISSED!

Don Murray, high-scoring forward of the Kingston Goodyears, is out of hockey for the rest of the season, and that, of course, means he won't see action tonight. The finest point-getter, one of the better players in the Senior "A" group, will be missed by the Goodies in this evening's all-important tussle with the Oshawa Truckmen. He suffered a shoulder injury a couple of games back, and played for a period in Wednesday night's game with that part of his torso frozen.

Incidentally, Murray was presented with two trophies the other night. One was the Bill Henderson Trophy, awarded annually to the high-scoring member of the Kingston squad. The honors were done by Maxie Jackson. Mr. Al Plumb, father of the late Ron Plumb, starry Kingston player who passed away a couple of years ago, presented Murray with the Ron Plumb Memorial Trophy, given to the "most valuable player" on the team.

Murray was one of the most effective players in the group. He led the Goodyears' point getters with 38 goals and 22 assists for 66 points, finishing in third spot in the sweep race behind the Memos' Duncan twins. He sparked the Goodies to more than one victory with his fine play-making as well as on the ice as well as off it. He drew only two minutes in durance vile over the forty-game schedule. He was respected and feared by, stay mates in the group and the Goodyears will feel keenly his absence in tonight's line-up. This department extends its congratulations to a fine hockey player and a gentleman on his being honored with the awards. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

All indications point to a bumper house tonight for the Goodyears-Truckmen clash, with a large contingent of Kingston fans making the trip in the hopes of seeing their favorites come up with a much-needed victory. The advance sale of tickets is said to be exceptionally good.

SMELTS RUNNIN' SOON!

It won't be long before Old Mother Moira readies herself for the annual intake of smelt. The spring spawning will take place before many days have flitted past, and even now lovers of the delectable little fish are getting out nets, buckets, pails, scoops, and any other receptacle with which to haul the silvery slivers from the water. Some enterprising gentry use tennis racquets.

City "smelters" fancy the Moira river brand, which in smaller dimensions begins caught in the cold waters of Lake Ontario. Last spring this department safari'd to Len Phillips' fishery over Consecon way and came back with some beauties whilst some of them were twelve to fourteen inches in length. Golden-brown them in a skillet, and brother, you have a meal fit for a king. And if brother Phillips reads this, We are coming back this smelting time, chum—So put a few dozen by, please.

A number of non-resident smeltmen come to the city in quest of their favorite fish and some confusion reigned last year with regard to licences. However this has been cleared up with a revision of the rules and regulations governing licences. Formerly the non-resident required an angling licence costing $6.50 and a smelt-fishing licence costing a dollar. This year non-residents may fish for smelt for $6.50.

Says the minister of Lands and Forests: "A non-resident may take smelt under the authority of a 'Non-Resident Licence to take Smelt for personal use' available at the licence issuers at a fee of $5.00. This licence permits the taking of smelt and it is necessary for each non-resident who assists in the fishing to be in possession of the non-resident licence."

Residents will pay one dollar licence fee as usual. The licence "to take smelt for personal use" permits the possession and use of one net. Several helpers may accompany the resident licensee and assist in the operation of his net. "The helpers," the minister says, "if residents of Ontario, do not necessarily require licences since they are not in possession of the net."

A resident may take smelt in a dip net up to three feet by three feet without a licence, the minister points out.

Under these licences the nets may be operated by day or by night. There are not waters in which a license is not required but small seines and dip-nets may not be used in the waters of Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham counties, the Trent River, Lake Scugog, Crow Lake, Crow River or Beaver Creek in Haliburton, and the Mitchell River between Hog's Back Dam and the Ottawa River in Carleton county, or waters set apart under the Game and Fisheries Act.

"Smelt may be taken, however, in Lake Ontario fronting these counties."

Regarding the use of pails, dippers, etc., and other smelt-catching contraptions, in addition to the true dipnets and as such the resident operator does not require a licence if the size does not exceed three feet by three feet. Smelt seines should be made with a mesh not less than 1¼ inches extensive measure, but no mesh-size restrictions apply to dip nets.

Leaf Defenceman Gets 1st Goal In 200 Games With 75-Footer; Red Wings Wallop Hawks 6-2

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jim Thomson scored his first goal in 200-odd games. Harry Lumley got a shutout. Toronto Maple Leafs beat Montreal Canadiens. New York Rangers lost and kept just about out of the Stanley Cup running. And little Wally Hergesheimer broke a leg.

The spectacular and the disastrous ran like that in the National Hockey League Thursday night.

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings walloped the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 6-2. The Leafs strengthened their hold on second place with a 3-0 victory over Canadiens before 14,316 frantic fans at Montreal. Boston Bruins sent the Rangers into virtual oblivion for another year with a 5-0 win.

But, take a look at the sidelights: Thomson, a Leaf cog but seldom-scoring defenceman fooled Montreal goalkeeper Jacques Plante with a wrist shot, bounding it from 75 feet out. It was his first goal since the 1950-51 season and the 10th in regular competition since he joined the Leafs as a regular in 1946-47.

COACH'S DREAM

Lumley, a coach's dream ever since he joined the big leagues 10 years ago, racked up his 13th shutout of the season by robbing such Montreal stars as Maurice Richard, Ken Mosdell, Bert Olmstead and Tommy Johnson.

At Boston the Ranger loss was bad. But when Hergesheimer crumpled over Boston's Leo Labine in the third period and fractured his left leg it was tragic. Hergy has been a great rightwinger with the New Yorkers and was a key man in coach Muz Patrick's plans for the playoff run.

The third period duel that Bruins by three points for the fourth and last playoff berth. The Rangers have only four games to go. The Bruins, however, have two games in hand.

At Montreal the Leafs took a three-point lead over Canadiens on goals by centres Ted Kennedy and Tod Sloan and Thomson.

In the third period Richard came dashing into the Toronto end and was blocked off by Leaf defenceman Tim Horton. When Referee Red Storey failed to call a holding penalty, the fans yelled and threw rubber overshoes, newspapers and programs.

Lumley made 34 saves. Plante stopped 17 for Detroit.

SEVENTH SHUTOUT

At Boston, Dave Creighton's third period goal gave the Bruins their 28th victory of the season. His close-in shot on a pass from Labine trickled through goalie Johnny Bower's legs at 12:42. Goalkeeper Sugar Jim Henry of Boston thus marked up his seventh shutout of the season.

At Detroit, Gordie Howe and Glen Skov scored two goals apiece for the Red Wing victory, John Wilson and defenceman Red Wilson got the others. Lou Jankowski and Jack Price tallied for Chicago.

Judge Dissolves Player Injunction

SEATTLE (AP) — A Superior Court judge Thursday dissolved—at least temporarily — an order which prevented football tackle Arnie Weinmeister from playing or coaching for anyone other than New York Giants of the National Football League.

The question of Weinmeister's status with the Giants was not settled. The order was obtained last month by the Giants after Weinmeister signed with British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The New York club sought to make the order effective until after May, 1955, when, it contends, a contract it has with Weinmeister expires.

Judge John J. Langenbach ruled that it appeared to him the case could be tried on its merits at an early date.

Jerry Keselring Among Leaders In Baton Rouge Open

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Tiny Ted Kroll and towering Al Besselink, a pair of long-driving New Yorkers, twisted a strong wind into an ally Thursday to share a one-stroke lead in the $10,000 Baton Rouge PGA Open with sizzling six-under-par 65s.

Kroll and Besselink showed a thin lead over tournament favorite Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, veteran Ed Furgol of St. Louis, and still virtually unknown Mike Horna of Rye, N.Y., all a notch behind with 67s.

Following the top quartet were Jerry Keselring of Kitchener, Ont. and Wally Ulrich of Maplewood, N.J., at 68; Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., Jackie Burke, Dismeths Lake, N.Y., and Mike Souchak, Mamaroneck, N.Y., tied at 69. Bob Dean of Cornwall shot a 73.

St. Mike's Juniors Consider 'Quitting' If 'Vicious Attacks' Are Not Curbed

TORONTO (CP)—St. Michael's College will seriously consider quitting junior hockey if something is not done to curb "vicious attacks" by some players on St. Mike's mentor, Doc Faught, manager of the team, said Thursday.

Referring to a fight in the third period of last Sunday's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game with Toronto Marlboros, Father Faught said St. Michael's will decide whether to withdraw "in a sport that allows a player like Marcel Bonin of Marlies to get away with vicious attacks on opposing players."

In the fight James knocked Marc Reaume against the net, injuring his side and breaking his nose.

Father Faught said: "If someone [illegible] James, however, charged that Reaume boarded him behind the St. Mike's net. He also said St. Mike's was one of the "dirtiest" teams in hockey.

"Every injury that team gets it deserves it."

Father Faught's reply was that St. Mike's have been handed fewer penalties than Marlboros and most of these were minors.

"The only time our boys fight is when someone else starts it," he said.

Stratford, Chatham Throw Scares Into Owen Sound Mercs, Dutchies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Howie Meeker, who is known for doing things well in his first attempt, is adding another first-year accomplishment to his record.

The Kitchener Canadian native of Kitchener is making a success of his first year as a coach—and at the expense of his home town. Forced to retire as a member of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs because of a back injury this year, Meeker took the job as coach of Stratford Indians in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Not only did he steer the Indians to the playoffs but his little right-winger has driven them to within one game of eliminating Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen from the OHA semi-finals.

Considering that the Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, finished 18 games ahead of Indians in second place—three spots ahead of the Indians—Meeker is doing quite a job.

COME FROM BEHIND

The Indians opened from behind with four goals in the last period in Kitchener Thursday night to defeat the Dutchmen 5-4. The victory gave Stratford a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. One more victory will send the Indians into the OHA senior against either the Owen Sound Mercurys or Chatham Maroons.

The Mercurys, who finished first in the standings, are having the same trouble as the Dutchmen but not quite as bad. After taking a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven set with the Maroons they have in turn muffed a chance to wrap up the series.

Chatham walloped them 6-0 in Owen Sound Tuesday night to narrow the lead to 3-2.

The Stratford - Kitchener tussle survived a first period in which 22 penalties, accounting for 78 minutes, were handed out. The game quietened down after that and only eight more penalties were assessed.

The Indians also got the best of the penalties, taking 16 of the 30, including 12 minors, two five-minute majors and two 10-minute misconducts. Included in Kitchener's total of 14 were 10 minors, three majors and one misconduct.

BOTH GETS PAIR

Centre Mickey Roth led the Stratford marksmen with two goals. Bob Mader, Lou Bendo, Steve Delordy and Bill Fitch tallied singles. Jerry Theberge got two for the Dutchmen while Harry Pavlika and George Scholes notching the others.

Owen Sound's poor showing is attributed to the loss of a number of key players. The Mercurys operated with only two forward lines Thursday night. Jerry Kidd, Jim Sheddon and Don Burlington are all out with injuries. Buck Fortbind, a victim of influenza, also sat the game out.

Ed Dickens led Chatham with two goals. Ernie Dick, Joe Carveth, Jim Connelly and Don Savage rounded out the total.

Sixth game of the Owen Sound-Chatham series is back in Chatham Saturday, the same night that Stratford meets the Dutchmen at Kitchener.

Nino Valdes 3-1 Favorite Over Parker

NEW YORK (AP)—Cuba's Nino Valdes and Saskatchewan's - born James J. Parker, a couple of long-sized heavyweights with long winning streaks, have it out in Madison Square Garden tonight. The Cuban champion is a 3-to-1 favorite to win the 10-rounder.

Both the 28-year-old Valdes and Parker, 25, stand six feet, three inches and weigh 210. Nino has better than fair punchers and the chances are that the fight won't go the limit.

It starts at 10 p.m. EST and will be broadcast and telecast.

Valdes, the world's No. 2 contender behind Ezzard Charles, has a winning streak of six that started in July 18 when he knocked out Omello Agramont to grab the Cuban crown. His other victims included Charles Ivy Beckian and European champion Hein Neuhaus and Lee Savold. His record is 38-8-1 with 20 knockouts.

Parker, former resident of Toronto and Barrie, who now lives in Paterson, N.J., has won nine in a row since April 24, seven of them by knockouts. His over-all record is 28-4-2 with 22 KOs. He has been stopped twice, by Dan Bucceroni and Bernie Reynolds.

Parker, known as the oil driller and cowboy, Parker has a big kick in his right hand but there are indications he has a china chin.

BIDS FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport wants the 1960 Olympics for Toronto.

He said Thursday he would be willing to go to Greece in May to make a personal plea on behalf of the city before the International Olympic Committee.

"The only way we would be able to get the Olympics here is to dedicate we mean business," said the mayor. "I've been interested for some years in having the Olympics in Canada, and I think now is the time to go after it."

The mayor said the CNE stadium could be enlarged to the 40,000 capacity required for the Olympics.

One of the planned city swimming pools could be built to Olympic dimensions.

Junior Titles to Be Decided Today In Figure Skating Championships

By PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — Junior-class skaters complete their program today as the Canadian figure skating championships advance into the second day with four titles in the offing.

Junior women's and men's singles champions will be crowned as well as champions in the junior pairs and junior dances. There are no previous Canadian titleholders competing because winners automatically advance into senior events.

The schedule of 19 events was cut by one Thursday when officials scratched the fours competition because the Vancouver Connaught Club quartet of Pat Sprot, Audrey Downie, Norman Walker and Brian Power was the only entry.

Joan Shippam of Calgary and Johannsen, Que., 15-year-old newcomer to championship competition, took a lead over 17 entries heading the junior women's event won last year in Ottawa by Sonja Currie of Calgary.

DOMINATED FIGURES

She dominated the compulsory school figures by skating to first place in all five figures.

Members of Calgary's Glencoe Club and the Toronto Skating Club hold down most of the other top positions.

Dianne Williams, clubmate of Miss Shippam, finished second while Pamela Willman of Toronto caught hold third place, a fraction of a point better than fourth-place Karen Dixon of Calgary.

Toronto's Barbara Jacques and Maurice Rioux held fifth and sixth positions.

The compulsory figures account for 40 per cent of total points, the balance being scored on the free skating in the final on Friday.

The eight trying for the junior men's singles title will skate their compulsory figures in the morning and finish at night with free skating. Defending champion is making a bid for the title, won in 1952 at Ottawa. Others in contention with Walker, Douglas Scott Eaton and Fogyer. The other competitors are David Lowery, Lennart Loevemark, Oshawa; Robert Paul and John Rodway, Toronto; and Richard Rimmer of the Minto Skating Club, Ottawa.

PRELIMINARY ROUND

Three pairs skated a preliminary round in the junior dances class Thursday night. The change from eliminations was made necessary because of the small entry list. Connaught's Doreen Leech and Walker, Saskatoon's Leone Miller and Dennis McFarlane and Claudette Lacelle and Jeffrey Johnston, of Montreal and London, Ont., respectively, were marked but the points were not announced. The title will be decided tonight.

Competed for the junior pairs honors will be Beverly McIntyre and Michael Healy, Arlene McFarlane and Eaton of Connaught, Suzanne Nelson and Bruce Merritt of Hamilton; Gale Rennie and Dennis McFarlane of Saskatoon, and Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul of Toronto.

Minor Hockey

Five games were played in the city playoffs at the arena last night with the winning of the juvenile-junior title by the Aluminum Stars topping the night's play.

The Stars dropped their game to Quinte Battery 6-4 but won the series and title by a 16-12 count on the first two with last week's in the pee wee semi-finals the Stars defeated the Canadiens 5-1 to take the series 8-3 and will now meet the Black Hawks for the championship. In midget action the games were won by Big "A" 5-2 over Bob Mooso. Moose Lodge hung a 4-3 setback on Stewart Warner and Bob Rout scored a 3-1 win against Reid's Regents. All the losers were eliminated from further play.

JUVENILE-JUNIOR.

Quinte Battery made a strong bid to overcome the Stars six goal lead and led by Sherman Brant with two goals and one assist, they were five goals but could not win by enough goals to take the title. The other goal scorers were Terry Geyer, Fox, Jordon, and White. Day and Bustard had assists.

Gerry Geyer was top man for the Stars with a hat trick. His five goals while McKenna claimed the odd one. Ron Brooks had two assists while Atkins drew one.

PEE WEE.

The Bruins carried a 3-2 lead into this game and after the two teams split the first goal each the Bruins slapped home four more to claim the win. Larry Westfall and Jack Boulter each scored twice for the winners with Wally Hardwick had the other goal with Terry Doty assisting on one. Jim Lloyd scored the Canadiens lone marker.

MIDGET.

Bob Wannamaker played the best game of his midget year last night as Big "A" took a 5-2 win. He scored no less than four goals while setting up team mate Bill Foster for one other. Gord Irwin claimed the final goal with assists for Gilly Elliott. Canadiens were Burleigh.

Frank Orlz and Bob Cruji notched the losers markers.

Hagerman scored two and Robb Wright while also getting an assist on the third one scored by George Fyfe.

The Moose Regent goal went to Bill Keegan.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When Bucky Harris, who manages the Washington ball club, says that "there could easily be some surprises" in the upcoming American League race, it might pay to listen to him. Bucky knows from personal experience that surprises in baseball fortunes can come quickly and with startling results.

As the famous "boy manager" back in the Roaring Twenties, Washington club that had finished fourth the previous season and drove it to two pennants in 1924 and 1925 before it took New York Yankees, who had stumbled into third place the year before, and pushed them to the top. Next year he finished third and was fired.

This time Bucky is not picking against the Yankees to win their sixth straight, but you gather that he is looking at them and doing a lot of thinking. We offer this simple as the best available comfort to those fans who are not now getting mental saddle sores from the continued Yankee successes.

"A lot of funny things can happen in a 154 game," he says reflectively. "It's made up of a lot of breaks. Take Joe Page's relief pitching for me last year. I've never did claim to have foreseen that. But I knew we had a bunch I would win it somehow."

NO RASH PREDICTIONS

Bucky obviously is not even hopeful that his own team, which finished fifth last time, can vault clear to the top. He hasn't the batting needed, and readily says so. But he thinks he has a club that will make a lot of trouble for the leaders and possibly upset the balance of the race.

"We should win or lose a great many close, low-score games," he said. "I figure to have fine pitching, a tight defence and a park to go with my club. I might have one of the fastest outfields anybody ever saw if his body from Cuba, Cookie Scull, can hit enough for me to keep him in the line-up."

If Scull makes it, Harris says, he'll play him in right field, Jim Busby in centre and Tom Umphlett in left. He figures few catchable balls will escape this trio."

It should be well to keep in mind that Harris' club has possibly the best four starting pitchers ever to grace a single division outfit. Bob Porterfield's record last year was 25-10. Frank Shea was 12-7 and Charlie Stobbs 11-8.

SET EXHIBITION GAME

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You'd never guess what Alan Ladd did on his first morning home after being out of the country for more than a year. He was up at dawn to ride horses.

"I can't stand shrubs that aren't neat," said the two-fisted actor, as he awoke early and spent four hours snipping away at the greenery.

Forty friends met the Ladds at the train and repaired to their mansion for breakfast. Scores more dropped in, including Bing Crosby.

Home after making three pictures outside the United States, Ladd says, "It's hard on somebody who has lived in California most of his life. But I don't regret having gone over there. It was a great experience, and the Europeans treated us wonderfully."

Ladd came back to Hollywood a broken man. Before leaving he had broken his back in a movie scene. While in Canada, when he was shooting his latest film, he was bounced off a hotel bed and broke his foot. Later, in England, he was playing football with some kids on a cold day. He caught the ball on his chest, crunching a compound fracture.

He finished "The Black Knight" with his finger in a cast. The finger was poorly set and he is still having trouble with it.

Bing Crosby, by the way, is getting around more these days. First-nighters were startled to see him in an aisle seat with an unidentified date at the Los Angeles opening of "An Evening With Bea Lillie."

of the Reds in the fifth inning.

He was carried off the field and taken to hospital where xrays disclosed no serious injuries, it was reported.

SARASOTA, Fla. (CP) — Right-hander Don Johnson, making a bid for a major-league comeback with Chicago White Sox after a successful year with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, hurled four scoreless innings against Boston Red Sox in an exhibition game Thursday before retiring for a pinch-hitter.

The former New York Yankee, Washington and St. Louis Brown pitcher gave up three hits, struck out three and set down the side in his stint. The Red Sox later won the game 3-1 in 10 innings.

"How To Marry a Millionaire"
Establishing Attendance Records

Continuing two more glorious days, tonight, and Saturday, where it is establishing attendance records at the Belle Theatre, is "How To Marry a Millionaire", the Technicolor comedy romance in the new CinemaScope process starring Marilyn Monroe, Betty Grable and Lauren Bacall, as glittering a trio of gold-digging fun-seekers as ever flashed across any screen.

On the home-front side, the wife-saver stars are matched with a quartet of male stars including William Powell, David Wayne, Rory Calhoun and Cameron Mitchell.

Following the historic triumph of the first CinemaScope production, "The Robe", comes "Robe" the second of "Millionaire" seems to prove both the tremendous acceptance of Cinemascope as the new motion picture standard as well as the appeal of the process to any kind of film.

Coronation Parade, in CinemaScope a special added attraction on the same program is Coronation Parade, in Cinemascope Technicolor. You are actually there — surrounded by the pageantry and spectacle, of this great event.

"Tall Tale Teller," a Technicolor comedy cartoon, and the popular Warner Bros. Newsreel are also exhibited.

"How To Marry a Millionaire"
Establishing Attendance Records

Continuing two more glorious days, tonight, and Saturday, where it is establishing attendance records at the Belle Theatre, is "How To Marry a Millionaire", the Technicolor comedy romance in the new CinemaScope process starring Marilyn Monroe, Betty Grable and Lauren Bacall, as glittering a trio of gold-digging fun-seekers as ever flashed across any screen.

On the home-front side, the wife-saver stars are matched with a quartet of male stars including William Powell, David Wayne, Rory Calhoun and Cameron Mitchell.

Following the historic triumph of the first CinemaScope production, "The Robe", comes "Robe" the second of "Millionaire" seems to prove both the tremendous acceptance of Cinemascope as the new motion picture standard as well as the appeal of the process to any kind of film.

Coronation Parade, in CinemaScope a special added attraction on the same program is Coronation Parade, in Cinemascope Technicolor. You are actually there — surrounded by the pageantry and spectacle, of this great event.

"Tall Tale Teller," a Technicolor comedy cartoon, and the popular Warner Bros. Newsreel are also exhibited.

Continuous showings are presented daily from 1.00 p.m. Doors open 12.30 p.m. Come anytime and see a complete show.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You may experience a pleasant surprise today either in personal or business matters. However, the stars warn against litigation language; over-spending could also spell a good outlook.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Beneficial changes may be your lot today. Take to them smartly and seriously and they will unfold favorably. Follow prospects through. Be gracious when gains are attained; it shows appreciation.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be keyed to expect offers that could lead to better position, activities—those coming from ardent work, experimenting. A somewhat indifferent period, but do not relax.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Do not allow foolish emotional feelings, suspicions to spoil what could be benefic and happy hours. Domestic relations, pleasant romance could brighten the p.m. period.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your own outlook will largely determine what progress, if any, you will attain. Don't rush things, or take a superficial attitude. Hold to sound, honest principles.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Maintain a sane, calm attitude now. Guard against deception, hidden under the cover of friendliness, in business, investment, in all things.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—"Stormy clouds," general uncertainties will lift suddenly, bring a better outlook for your worthwhile efforts. This specially applies to you who try, are sincere, honest in all dealings.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—A stimulating and unusual period with all worthy smart endeavors favored. Take this opportunity to display your talent for business, professional and personal affairs. Aim high.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Obstacles, changes may interrupt smooth sailing. Not advisable to force or take foolish chances with money, contracts or valuable properties. Watch health.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your planet advises against risks to savings or family happiness so give care to these matters. After 3 p.m. there is a much more hopeful outlook. Attention.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Similar to Capricorn now, but the outlook is better for personal affairs, romance, family matters. Most progressive efforts, new and attractive ideas could be gainfully exploited with good results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You who are keen, quick on the trigger in grasping ideas and putting them into action can expect much or less progress. Mind financial matters. Don't ignore details.

YOU BORN TODAY could now face a negative, 'non-productive period if you "follow the bell cow" and don't show initiative, ability or...be originally you could. But you who will take the bull by the horns can make much bay as the others twiddle thumbs. You have a studious disposition; are bright, but at times too inactive. You are reliable, honest and sincere. When you really cultivate your gifts, you are capable of great, good and sound decisions. Make up your mind to be a go-getter and you will see a real change in results.

STINGRAY NOW TAME

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The biggest stingray in captivity—10 feet long and weighing 200 pounds—has become so tame that it now eats out of keepers' hands at Taronga Park zoo here. When first placed in the zoo several months ago, it was so vicious it frightened a 10-foot shark sharing the same pool.

HOW TO USE YOUR LIGHTS AT NIGHT

With good headlights, you can see only 200 feet ahead. You can't stop within this distance at speeds over 50 m.p.h.

- Dim your headlights as soon as those of approaching car begin to cause you discomfort. If he dims first, lower yours at once. Even if he doesn't dim his lights, keep yours low . . . don't glare back!
- Don't ever look directly at oncoming headlights. They can blind you for 3 seconds before you pass—and for 7 seconds afterward.
- Keep your eyes on the shoulder of the road, and use it as your guide when passing.

Two U. S. Planes Attacked by MiG; Probe is Ordered

Incident Occurs Near Czech-German Border

U.S.-Born Mayor Braves Floods To Greet Queen

TOWNSVILLE, Australia (AP)—Australia's only American - born mayor was presented Friday to Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Paul T. Wherry was travelling around the world from Chicago when he hit Australia in 1935. He settled down in Charters Town, 80 miles west of here in Queensland, and married a local girl.

Today he has three children, a furniture business, is a naturalized Australian and the local mayor.

He and his family were in the dusty truck for two days through flooded country, then caught a train to see the Queen.

In his midwestern accent, he told the Queen:

"Well, I guess it was like this, your Majesty. I just liked the town. I liked the people. I married one incidentally—so I settled there. And I wouldn't change it all the bucks in the United States."

Expanded Mental Health Program Is Introduced

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Phillips Friday introduced two bills in the legislature which would in part throw responsibility for mental health program for the province.

Under the Mental Health Act the province would establish the means whereby local mental health agencies and hospitals would receive the "best advice and assistance" on mental health. It would also establish machinery necessary to supervise and assist public hospitals in the field.

Already preparations have been approved, or put into operation, in 10 hospitals in six cities, providing 311 beds.

Several public hospitals would be authorized to extend psychiatric treatment services under the new mental hospitals amendment bill.

Dr. Phillips said it is proposed to relieve municipalities of the charge of 75 cents a day for treatment of indigent patients in the Ontario Hospital at Woodstock. The institution takes care of epileptic and mentally-disturbed children patients.

The 50-cent charge was first applied in 1916 when it was believed that epilepsy could be cured.

"However, we don't know now, however yet," Dr. Phillips said, "it was discovered that this treatment started in 1935 were found not to be curative, but only palliative."

The act would also remove the fee of certification for mentally-ill patients from the $10. It was imposed said the $5 fee was first set in 1882 and it was felt that the sum should be brought into line with present-day costs.

Brig.-Gen. Dies

FREDERICTON (CP) — Brig.-Gen. Frederick W. Hill, CB, CMG, DSO, died in hospital Friday. He was 81.

Gen. Hill led the first battalion of the first contingent of the Canadian Army overseas in the First World War. He was born in Wolfand and was admitted to the Ontario bar in 1881.

He practised law in Niagara Falls, Ont., and was elected mayor of that community in 1896.

Gen. Hill married the former Henrietta Johnson of Dunville in 1894. His wife died in 1937. A daughter, Isabel, is the only survivor.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Fast about every type of weather occurred over southern Ontario during the night from snow, sleet and freezing rain to thunderstorms and gale winds. This weather precedes the large storm now moving downward from Alberta towards the lower Great Lakes and will be east of the province by Sunday morning.

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two United States navy carrier-based planes were attacked by a Czech-built MIG near the Czech-German border Friday, and Czechoslovakia charged immediately that they had flown over its uranium-producing centre at Jachymov, 35 miles inside the Iron Curtain, and fired the first shot.

The U.S. navy said one of the two American propeller - driven planes were attacked by a Czech pilots brought their aircraft safely down at Neuberg air bases in the American zone of Germany near here.

A U.S. navy spokesman in London said an investigation into the shooting was being ordered by the U.S. sixth fleet. He said first reports showed empty aviation ammunition cartridges were found on German soil after the attack. One report from Czechoslovakia in Munich said the planes had "inadvertently" crossed into Czech territory. Clouds covered much of the frontier area over which they were flying.

CONFIRMATION SLOW

Bavarian police were the first to report the incident, but it was hours before U.S. officials came out with official confirmation.

Czechoslovakia's foreign ministry said the country's jets intercepted the American aircraft and demanded that they follow the MIG to a landing inside Czechoslovakia.

"However, the American planes refused to follow this demand and attacked the Czech plane," the Czechoslovak ministry said. The Czech plane then used its weapons in self-defence."

The navy said the two planes were on a training flight off the Czech border when the navy dip not say where the Randolph is.

PILOTS NOT IDENTIFIED

The two navy pilots still were at the Neuberg airbase this morning. They were unavailable for flicer there said he was ordered to answer no questions concerning the incident. He also refused to identify the pilots or permit reporters to see them.

The clash occurred over the same lense area where Russian fighter pilots attacked two American F-84 Thunderjets March 1, killing one. One week to the days later, Soviet fighters destroyed a U.S. RAF Wellington bomber over the same frontier area, killing seven British airmen.

RED INQUISITOR JAILED

LONDON (Reuters) — The Hungarian secret police chief who interrogated Cardinal Mindszenty during the famous treason trial has been sentenced to jail for crimes against the state, the Hungarian News Agency reported Friday. ## Scientists Confuse at Show For Queen Throwing Hundreds to The Ground

CAIRNS, Australia (Reuters)—Hundreds of men, women and children were thrown screaming to the ground when two stands collapsed as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh watched a display of dancing here today.

As ambulance men treated the injured they found that the stands had collapsed on the other side of the ground. They rushed across to drag their victims from the tangled heaps under the debris. About 20 persons were treated on the spot for cuts, bruises and sprains. Two others were taken to hospital.

The Queen and Duke were obviously concerned as they watched ambulance men treating the injured, though the show went on.

Before leaving, the queen told civic authorities she was "very concerned" about the collapse of the stands. The royal couple were

GALES LASH WIDE AREA IN KANSAS AND COLORADO

Storm Dumps 13 ins. Of Snow in Wake

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A snowstorm covered northeast today part of Colorado and Kansas, wetting down clouds of dust that had reduced visibility to zero in parts of five states. The storm dumped up to 13 inches of snow in its wake.

Winds that had buffetted the plains states with gusts up to 100 miles an hour diminished slowly this morning, but hail borne by a howling wind and accompanied by lightning lashed as far east as Grand Rapids, Mich.

Nebraska bore the brunt in the early stages as the storm substituted snow for dust in its drive across the country.

Snow to depths of 10 inches was reported at Chadron in western Nebraska.

The weather bureau here said the storm will move northeast today through Iowa and Minnesota into the area of Lake Michigan.

WIND FANS FIRES

High winds buffetted Missouri last night, fanning dozens of forest fires, some burning more than 500 acres each.

There was no chick on a basketball court at Stillwater, Okla., that it had to cancel a game after a quarter in a regional tournament of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

And to the south, in Texas, the wind caused only minor traffic trouble. A heavy pall covered the upper two-thirds of Texas last night.

Pushed along ahead of the dust was a dense blanket of fog that cut visibility to less than a mile at stations in Houston, Galveston and Brownsville.

MOTORISTS STRANDED

In Colorado and Wyoming the snow storm was diminishing after leaving up to six inches at Casper and Lander, Wyo. An estimated 300 motorists were stranded at various points in the two states, and 40 persons were forced to spend the night in a Denver hotel.

In Nebraska the moving snowstorm also was disrupting transportation. At Lincoln, the site of a state basketball tournament early in the week, one party meeting, hotels and motels had to turn away stranded travellers.

Jury Dismisses Damage Action Against Officer

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — An all-male county jury Friday dismissed damage action for $5,000 brought by William Hughes, 45, against provincial police constable Terrance Griffin.

Hughes, wounded by a bullet at a Sparrow lake farm near Griffin was seeking the $5,000 in damages from Griffin. The jury decided there was no fault or negligence on Griffin's part.

Griffin said he went to the farm with two other officers to search for a car reported to a visit by Stunden and three companions. He said he was abused and drew his gun as a safety measure when three of the men started to close in on him. The revolver discharged, he said, when he tried to avoid Stunden's vice chief, the agency said.

French Union Troops Rout Red Forces Blocking Railway

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo - China (AP)—French union troops, backed by tanks and a mighty artillery barrage, today routed Vietminh troops blocking France's vital north Indo-China supply list.

Sweeping into the heart of the Red river delta last night, the Communist-led rebels blasted five gaps in the main-line railway linking Hanoi with the coast. They also blew up a railway bridge and burned and destroyed many watchtowers and small forts along the route.

Fighting spread almost to the outskirts of Hanoi.

The Vietminh for a time threatened to cut a highway over which about 6,000 French supply trucks move each day.

The firepower of the French armored units finally forced the Vietminh to break off the battle and flee into the.rice fields and bamboo thickets.

Today, French tanks and artillery moved over the battle area by all the way to the coast to keep it open to vital war traffic. Without this road and railway, all supplies would have to be flown to the north French forces in the north.

This was the first time in three years or more that Vietminh forces had pushed through openly to the railway between Hanoi and the port of Haiphong.

In the mountainous northwest, the Vietminh struck at the French supply line to Dien Bien Phu, shelling fire on the isolated position's airstrip.

The French said some of the force of 36,000 to 48,000 enemy troops surrounding Dien Bien Phu also moved within two miles of the fortified plain.

They did not known whether the moves foreshadow a big attack on the position—France's last strong hold in Indo-China's northern hills.

Iran's 'Most Wanted' Man, Fatemi, Arrested by Police

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Hossein Fatemi, Iran's "most wanted" man since last August, was picked up by police in a Tehran suburb today and jailed. Fatemi, a fiery nationalist, was foreign minister under Mohammed Mossadegh until the former Iran shah deposed Mossadegh last fall.

Soon after Fatemi was brought to police headquarters an exhaust pseudo backer tried to wrest him away and hill him.

Shahan Jafari, a black-bearded newspaper, stalked through the building's main lobby toward the corridor where Fatemi was being held.

Three soldiers with bayonets levelled at Jafari's huge belly stopped him at the door leading to the corridor. Pounding his chest, Jafari bawled:

"In the name of Allah, hand this man to me so that I can break him into little pieces. Long live the shah! Down with Mossadegh and his followers."

The soldiers were adamant and Jafari stamped out.

CAUGHT IN PYJAMAS

Fatemi was caught in bed in his pyjamas when he was arrested.

Police said Fatemi had been living in two rooms in the house in which he was arrested.

Other sources said he had until recently been moving from place to place in the Tehran area hiding woman's garb, which hid all of his body but his eyes.

A few hours after Fatemi's arrest his nephew Sayid Fatemi, walked into Bakhtiari headquarters and gave himself up. According to police official both the Fatemi had been together since the revolt.

ONCE REPORTED KILLED

Fatemi, 36, fled into hiding during the August revolt which overthrew the Mossadegh regime Aug. 19. He first was reported killed in the revolt and then was reported later was said to have escaped to Iraq or Syria.

But Premier Gen. Fazolah Zahedi, cousin of the anti-Mossadegh coup, said all along he believed (Fatemi was hiding somewhere in Tehran.

Fatemi was No. 1 aide to Mossadegh in Iran's drive for oil nationalization bill which seized the country's rich petroleum industry properties from foreign owners. The former chief already is serving a three - year military confinement sentence on charges of treason.

5 Die in Fire, 'Sub' Sailors Save Several Sailors

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — A village apartment in a blighted area went up in flames here early today, killing five persons.

Nineteen escaped, some through the heroism of off-duty sailors from the nearby submarine base.

Dead are: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sawicki, each about 40; Mrs. Gregory Critz, 27, and her daughter, Olgita, 4, and Mrs. Amelia Pina, 54.

Before she died, Mrs. Pina managed to get three children and her brother-in-law, Haginlo Pitaro, 40. All jumped into the welting arms of rescuers.

Japan's Wartime Officers Seek New Army Posts

TOKYO (Reuters) —Behind the scenes in Japan's rapidly growing military forces, a silent battle is going on between the old professional soldiers and new "civilian" Defence ministers forced into civilian jobs by order of Gen. Douglas MacArthur are seeking posts in the services of the Japanese Army, Navy and Air Force.

Though a majority of the Jap ames voters have overwhelmingly approved rearmament, many strongly oppose a return to the old militarist system. But already, former officers hold some of the 15,000 officer posts in the new army, above the rank of major, they held about half the jobs.

Only at the very top are civilians in control.

During the occupation, former general staff officers were given clerical jobs—"demobilized civilians"—but they are closely allied to the old system. The old title of "general," "colonel," "general," etc., already are in wide use informally.

Road Patrolman Given Remand On Theft Charges

ROCKLAND (CP) — Donat Dubois, 39, a provincial highways department patrolman and equipment operator, appeared in court here Friday charged with theft of construction materials and falsifying pay sheets. He was remanded one week to April 21st.

Ontario Provincial Police laid the charges following an extensive investigation. They allege that Dubois, while working on highway bypass department time sheets, and stole items, concrete, railway spikes and other materials valued at "more than $300," from the highways department.

Dubeau is under suspension by the highways department. He was in charge of maintenance and repairs on the trans-Canada highway between Hawkesbury and Ottawa.

The crown alleges that he fraudulently obtained the name of highway laborers on his pay sheets, under the guise that they were work for him, and that he took the materials for his own use in building a cottage. He is alleged to have occurred between last September and January.

WARTIME OFFICIAL DIES

FRAMINGTON, Mass. (AP) — Arthur B. Newhall, 69, co-ordinator of rubber for the United States war production board in the Second World War, died Friday night. A prominent industrialist who began his career as a high school teacher, he once was called "one of the unsung heroes of World War II" by Donald M. Nelson, wartime chief. Rector. Newhall was instrumental in the development and production of synthetic rubber.

CROWN MAY PAY PART OF SUM ON SUB-CONTRACTS

Harvey Lunam's Case Is Revived in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan sub-contractors may yet recover some of their losses suffered when Harvey Lunam, a Regina contractor holding government contracts, went out of business more than a year ago.

Works Minister Winters gave the Commons that information Friday night after an opposition member revived the controversial Lunam case that indirectly involved the resignation of a member of Parliament last year.

He said the government has been trying to settle Lunam sub-contract claims with what money it has available. Payment would depend on whether these claims could get together and decide the amount and validity of their claims.

That is being done by the present moment, and I hope that before too long we will be able to pay to the valid sub-contractors the money owing to the bank because of the crown for that purpose."

MONEY AVAILABLE

Mr. Winters did not state how much money is available. Later, outside the House, he said money from the sale of surplus war and federal contracts on which the Lunam sub-contractors claims are faulted. Payments would be made only to sub-contractors who had signed Lunam contracts.

The issue was raised by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) during an all-day discussion of work department estimates for the 1954-55 fiscal year.

Mr. Diefenbaker said when the Lunam firm went out of business it owed $256,552 to sub-contractors who had supplied material on federal projects defaulted by Lunam.

The Lunam case indirectly resulted in the resignation last April of Austin E. Bewar, Liberal member for Kamloops-Cariboo, who admitted that he exchanged cheques with Lunam in March 1948 and April 1949 but denied any intentional wrongdoing.

Mr. Bewar now holds a $3,500-a-year job as a federal agricultural supervisor in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Winters also faced a series of questions from opposition members dealing with operation of his department and various projects undertaken since 1948 and 1949.

INCREASE RATE

He said the department plans to put a 20% increase in the government's builder, reducing the amount of construction work done by other departments, as soon as it is in shape to do so. Decentralization of certain operations to district officials was being considered.

He denied charges by Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) that "friends of the government" are favored in the purchase and leasing of property. Rental policy estimates were padded "for electioneering purposes."

Mr. Green said that only $61,000 was spent out of $500,000 voted for public buildings in Newfoundland, in Alberta, $400,000 was voted but only $200,000 was spent, half the vote for buildings in Nova Scotia, Quebec and British Columbia was spent.

"To say the least, that looks like a bad record."

Mr. Winters said his department was doing the best possible term in the rental and purchase of buildings. "People there do not like to get rich by selling property to the crown."

As for padding of last year's estimates, many projects formerly had to ask approval for only enough expenditure to cover projects likely to be undertaken in the coming year.

32 Persons Die As Airliner Burns At Singapore

Canadian Is Among Victims Of Crash of Constellation

SINGAPORE (CP) — A London-bound Qantas-BOAC Constellation crashed and burned on landing at Singapore today. An airlines official said 32 of the 40 persons aboard, including all the passengers and one of the crew, were killed.

Eight crew members survived the flaming wreckage and are in a Singapore hospital. The survivors included the pilot, Capt. Trevor Hoyle.

A Canadian was reported among the passengers but there was no immediate word on his or her identification.

BOAC said eight passengers were British, six were New Zealanders, four were Australians, two American, one Canadian, one South African, one Fijian, three Indonesian, two Indians, two Dutch and one Chinese.

The Singapore Standard said W. M. Jute of Cable and Wireless, M.C.T.M. Jones, Johnathan Butler, managing director of Indian Overseas Bank, and Sen Gupta, district commissioner of the Indian Special Bank, were believed among the passengers.

Funerals of the dead are scheduled to be held here Monday. Twenty-one are Australian firm. The letters stand for "Queensland and Northern Territories Air Service Limited." The London-Australia route is operated jointly by Qantas and British Overseas Airway Corporation.

The four-engined plane was coming in from Jakarta, Indonesia, where it had stopped over on its scheduled flight from Sydney, Australia, to London.

The smell of burning flesh stuck in the air around the wreck for three hours.

One eyewitness said:

"I saw the plane coming down with only one of the wheels lowered. The plane tipped sideways and spun round. There was a loud explosion and a sheet of flame as it made a complete somersault and then broke in two."

Some of the friends of those aboard crowded round the counter of the airline office demanding "are they alive."

$225,000 Fire Loss in Kingston, Cars Destroyed

KINGSTON (CP) — A fire which raged uncontrolled for two hours on the two top floors of Kingston's largest garage caused an estimated $225,000 damage on Friday night.

The blaze, which started at the rear of the second floor of St. Mary Motors, destroyed new cars and others which were left in the garage for repairs. New cars on the first floor of the three-storey brick building were driven out of the building by employees.

The fire started with an explosion in the paint shop and quickly spread to the third floor where new cars and used autos were being stored. Police and army troops were called out to keep the large crowd of spectators away from the building which occupies half a block. It was feared that explosions from gasoline tanks and paint would injure persons in the crowd.

Fire chief Jack Hall said two firemen were briefly overcome by smoke fighting the flames. The building is owned by James Mary Motors Ltd.

Cause of the fire was undetermined following a recent blackout.

Four Bridge Players Held Perfect Hands But Seven Hearts Won Bid

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — Four bridge players spread their cards across the table and suppressed gasps of surprise—each had a perfect hand of 13 cards in the same suit.

Perhaps almost as surprising was the fact that a bid of seven hearts won the contract.

As Mrs. Irene Motts, the successful bidder, explained charitably, the holder of 13 spades, Jatis Gilda Argentieri, is a beginner and had didn't know what to do with her perfect hand.

Another beginner, Mrs. Evelyn Oakley, with 13 clubs opened the bidding with two clubs. Miss Argentieri bid three spades, and Mrs. Motts bid seven hearts, shutting out Mrs. Lydia Parisi who was sitting with seven diamonds. Miss Argentieri let her take the bid.

Mathematician have figured that the odds of four perfect hands being dealt at once are one in two octillion, 200 septillion. Or, if you prefer, one in 2,300,000,000,-000,000,000,000,000.

Belleville Boy Falls 4 Storeys, Breaks His Back

Frederick L. Clarke, Jr., 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Clarke, 40 Hillcrest Ave., Belleville, is in Onandaga General Hospital with a broken back and skull injuries as the result of a fall from the fourth floor of a downtown apartment hotel early Saturday morning. Doctors in the Syracuse hospital describe his condition as critical.

Young Clarke was in Syracuse with a party of newspaper carrier boys and girls as guests of The Ontario Intelligencer. The carriers had been taken on the trip as a reward for having gained the most customers in a circulation contest.

The accident took place about 8.15 a.m. Saturday. A policeman's key police report from Syracuse states that young Clarke and six other boys were "rough-housing in the bedroom" when the accident occurred. A bed had been pulled up against the hotel room window and Clarke, standing on the bed on a level with the window, lost his balance and fell backwards crashing through the window to the pavement 80 feet below.

Early hospital reports stated that Clarke suffered a broken right elbow as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left by car for Syracuse early this morning.

This is the first serious accident to any carrier boy in the years the paper has been conducting excursions.

Dulles Was Also School Trustee

NEW YORK (AP) — A CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow says John Foster Dulles, now United States secretary of state, was a member of the board of trustees of the Institute of International Education in 1933.

On his program last Saturday night, Murrow replied to criticism made Thursday night by Senator McCarthy, who had connected Murrow's institute activities 19 years ago with what he termed "a Moscow university summer session."

Murrow said:

"Now here are the facts about that Moscow summer school . . . I was the assistant director of the institute . . . This organization dealt primarily with the exchange of students and professors between this and foreign countries . . .

"It was largely financed at that time by the Carnegie Corporation and the Rockefeller Foundation.

"Among its board of trustees were such as John Foster Dulles . . . and others equally distinguished.

"The Russian authorities abruptly cancelled the proposed summer school before it began and most of the prospective members spent the summer travelling in the Soviet Union."

Biologist Says Two-Thirds Of Anglers Novices

NORTH BAY. (CP) — Russ Whitfield, biologist for the department of lands and forests, says two-thirds of Ontario's fishermen are no more than novices at the job. He added, however, that these persons have a lot of fun and are probably the happiest of all fishermen.

Anglers are divided into three groups, Mr. Whitfield said at a meeting in nearby Sturgeon Falls. There are the skilled anglers who gets a lot of fish but does not enjoy the sport half as much as he thinks he does; the intermediate group, who are wary of the ways of fish; and the novices.

Members of the last group, Mr. Whitfield said, are the blessed. He added:

"It is wasn't for them, there just wouldn't be any fishing. These patient work dunkers are not too often to be said. "They will fish off any bridge or any dock. There may be only two feet of water where they are and they can see every rock and weed on the bottom but they sit placidly and bake in the sun.

"They just catch any fish, but they don't worry too much about it. They are enjoying nature at its best."

POLICE BLOTTER

A car believed to have been stolen in some other part of the province was found abandoned this morning on South John street by a public works employee as he went to work. The car was left parked in the centre of the street with the key in the ignition. Police are checking with Queen's Park to determine the owner.

A rear-end collision on Front street caused approximately $300 worth to three vehicles. Robt. J. Hutchison, Boswell street, slid into the rear end of a car operated by Clifford Belch, Craig street. Belch's car in turn was driven into a third auto driven by Bernard Blakely, R.R. 2, Belleville.

Another two-car collision caused $300 damage. W. Sherry, Bridge street, driving on Front street, swerved out to avoid a double parked car when his auto was in collision with another auto proceeding in the opposite direction driven by J. de Genova, 27 Brassey, street.

Several drunks were picked up by police during the night.

Miss Mamie Waters Retires After Long Service With CNR

A long-awaited trip to Florida when she will holiday for several weeks will be a reward for the commencement of her annual vacation she was honored by fellow employees and railway officials.

On behalf of employees and the company Miss Watery was presented with travelling bags and a purse of money in recognition of her many years' service with the railway.

Exercising the woman's prerogative, Miss Waters was a bit reluctant about the number of years which she had worked for the railway other than to say it was a "great many".

WORKED FOR GRAND TRUNK

She did admit, however, that it was still in the era of the Grand Trunk Railway and before the railway was taken over by the C.N.R. The first superintendent she worked under was H. F. Coyle.

She started as a steno right out of the Ontario Business College here and since that time has held various positions in the local superintendent's office. She was the chief clerk's secretary for 17 years.

SEEN MANY CHANGES

She has seen big changes in railroading since she commenced as a stenographer. Rail traffic through Belleville has seen great increases and freights rattle past her window in vastly greater numbers.

Of her work in the transportation department Miss Waters said this was strictly routine. All the records of C.N.R. employees in the local division are kept in her department.

It is the associations with my fellow employees that I will hate to give up," she said. "I will miss the work and the people I am working with."

A member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Miss Waters has taken an active interest in the work of the church. She is a member of the Women's Guild and also has been a Sunday School teacher for "a great many years."

Grant Will Apply To 136 Beds At Hospital

The Ontario government's provision of a grant for each public ward bed announced in Premier Frost's budget address this week, will apply to the 136 beds at Belleville General Hospital, according to hospital administrator Ken Box.

"All we know about the grant is what we have seen published in the papers," he said. "As yet the Ontario government has received from the department as to what amount the hospital will receive."

The Ontario government has designated that the funds provided by the grant be used for maintenance and renovation of existing facilities and for the retirement of capital debt.

Mr. Box pointed out that the grant is applicable to the building of new facilities or payment of operating costs. "Any monies forthcoming through this grant, therefore, cannot be incorporated into the hospital's building fund," he said.

Aussie Equals World Record For 100 Yards

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Hector Hogan, Australia's sensational young amateur, today equalled the world 100-yard record of 9.3 seconds.

The world mark was set by Mel Patton of the United States May 15, 1948, at Los Angeles.

Earlier in the day, Hogan, 22, also equalled the world 100-metre record of 10.2 seconds, but this feat was attained in an unofficial competition and will not be claimed as a world mark.

The record of 9.3 was jointly held by Jesse Owens, Harold Davis and Barney Ewell of the U.S., Lloyd La Beach of Panama and Emanuel McDonald Bailey of Great Britain.

Tank Trucks May Be Used To Pick Up Milk

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Purity dairy in Windsor said today that introduction of tank trucks to pick up milk from the farmers is "something for the future" in southwestern Ontario.

The idea is under consideration at Purity's Windsor office, a spokesman for the company said, but details would have to be worked out before tank truck pickups would be practical.

In Toronto, the dairy legislature's committee on agriculture heard a prediction yesterday that the pickup of producers' milk will be done almost exclusively by tank trucks in three years.

William Murdoch, Essex South Progressive Conservative, said he had heard that Purity Dairies of Windsor were changing over completely to tank trucks.

The company said the tank truck plan has been considered but as yet nothing has been done about it.

An official said such pickups are "a long way away."

As Canadian As Maple Syrup

PART II

By NANCY CLEAVER

Have you ever seen a copy of a pioneer Canadian artist's picture if the "The Maple Sugar Camp"? Cornelius Krieghoff painted this canvas in 1845 showing a family all busy around a sugar house. One sap is boiling above the blazing fire and on one side a child is pouring maple sugar into the moulds in the clean snow.

As parents we do well occasionally to remind our children of pioneer days. Before the end of the seventeenth century, French-men writing to friends in Paris mentioned buying maple sugar from the Indians. Charlevoix, in his Journal made this entry in 1744: "The people here treat one with maple sap. It is delicious, admirably refreshing and very pure, soothing to the stomach, it causes no burning pains." (Sounds like a twentieth century "ad" doesn't it?)

When provision ships such as the "La Seine" were captured on the high seas by the English, during the American War of Independence, the French colonists were forced to search for ways to add to their food supply. This gave a great impetus to maple sugar making. The habitants were grateful for this sweet product of the forests. In some parts of Quebec "The Blessing of the Maple" was an annual ceremony.

SWEET SUBSTITUTE

The Memoirs of Colonel John Clark gives this glimpse into early life in Upper Canada: "In a community where it was next to impossible to obtain sugar, being a very bulky luxury and very difficult of access, nature had provided a substitute in the rich sap of the maple tree generally found on each farm." With the passing of the years the selection and evaporation of maple sap has become more efficient and is carried out on a larger scale, but unfortunately many of the fine hardwood lots have been completely cut for lumber and have not been replaced.

In pioneer days, as now, maple syrup was the first "crop of the season". The settlers marked this occasion with gay sugaring-off parties, in the moonlight in the woods. Young and old gathered around the blazing fire in the sugar house and sampled cakes of sugar, which they cooled in the clean snow. Susanna Moodie, in "Roughing It In The Bush", paid a tribute to the tall green maple tree which "yields a treasure which never shall fail."

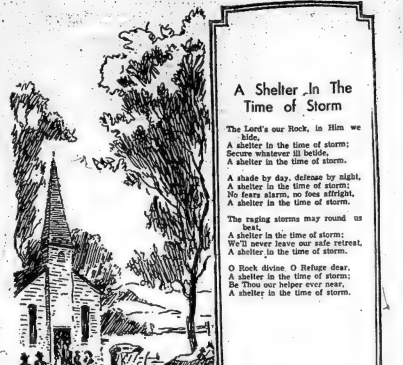
How does the quantity of today's maple "treasure" compare with that of the early days? A French chatelaine, Mme de Repentigny, early in the eighteenth century wrote that thirty thousand pounds were produced annually in the Montreal area. A little over a century ago, the total yearly output was around thirteen million pounds.

CHANGE WITH WEATHER

The yield does fluctuate with the weather, (good sugar conditions demand frosty nights and sunny days.) But the average total in recent years has been twenty-six million pounds. In a "peak" year like 1952 this commercial crop was valued at over twelve million dollars, half of it for export trade, mainly to the candy and tobacco.

If you live in Eastern Canada, perhaps you can visit a bush, large or small, where maple syrup is being made. Possibly there is a big maple or two growing in your yard. Why not collect the sap and boil it down? You may be amazed to learn that gallons of sap must be evaporated to produce approximately one quarter of a gallon of syrup or two pounds of sugar.

But whenever you live, you can fit maple syrup into your spring menus on many other occasions besides the traditional pancakes and maple syrup treat on Shrove Tuesday! Experiment with some new recipes using maple syrup as a flavoring extract. It blends nicely with a white cake mix! Apples cored, stuffed with raisins and baked in maple syrup, with a dusting on top of cinnamon and bread crumbs are hard to beat! Let maple syrup have its rightful place on our Canadian tables! Treat for Canadians—no sweeter product can be found anywhere else!



ADVICE TO INDIAN WOMEN

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian women government workers were officially asked Fri., to wear sober dress in the office, in colors and designs that "help to maintain dignity and decorum." For formal occasions the women were advised to garb themselves in sober-colored saris of plain material. Office dress should be "plain cotton or silk sari without a border." The sari is the traditional long-skirted flowing garment of Indian women.

A Shelter In The Time of Storm

The Lord's our Rock, in Him we hide,
A shelter in the time of storm;
Secure whatever ill betide,
A shelter in the time of storm.

A shade by day, defense by night,
A shelter in the time of storm;
No fears alarm, no foes affright,
A shelter in the time of storm.

The raging storms may round us beat,
A shelter in the time of storm;
We'll never leave our safe retreat,
A shelter in the time of storm.

O Rock divine O Refuge dear,
A shelter in the time of storm;
Be Thou our helper ever near,
A shelter in the time of storm.

Many of the gospel songs which filled their way into the Moody-Sankey revival meetings of 5 years ago were turned up in obscure hiding places by Ira Sankey, the singing half of the famous evangelistic partnership.

It was Sankey's task to find hymns for the soul-winning meetings as well as to sing them. Sometimes he wrote his own songs—words and music. Now and then, he lifted appealing religious poems from hidden corners of newspapers and gave them tunes so that he could use them in his musical programs.

He had to have plenty of hymns at his beck and call, for Dwight L. Moody, who preached the revival sermons, called frequently for gospel choruses to lend emphasis to his messages. Usually, Mr. Moody wanted a song bearing on the theme of the hour, whatever it happened to be. And Sankey nearly always found just the right number.

It was on such an occasion that the famous gospel singer introduced the hymn, "The Ninety and Nine," one night, at a gospel meeting in Scotland. Mr. Moody had finished a sermon on "The Good Shepherd" and asked Sankey for an appropriate dismissal hymn. Taken by surprise, singing evangelist remembered a poem he had clipped from a newspaper a few days before. He set it to music on the spot. The hymn, "I Have A Saviour, He's Pleading In Glory", introduced at such-er service, had a similar origin.

Sankey found the verses of "A Shelter In The Time Of Storm" in "The Postman", an English newspaper. Its author was listed as V. J. Charlesworth but was never discovered. Like most of the hymn-poems which he set to music, it was taken up by other evangelists and gospel singers and soon was singing its way into universal favor.

A Lift for Living

Succeeding

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Last week we discussed good motives for winning success. There is a second criterion of success, that of good methods.

The Bible doesn't give warrant to the oft-heard saying that the end justifies the means. The means we use we are bound to affect the ends we seek. Mahatma Gandhi called that by means are the ends in preliminary stages. And Alfonso Hurley said that as long as we go on trying to realize our ideals by bad means, our good intentions will come to bad ends.

For instance, a nation may profess to be fighting for the noble ideals of freedom and justice, but if she uses poison gas or germ warfare she poisons the springs of life within her own borders.

And the principle runs through all life. We cannot win genuine success by cheap methods. In every line of work there are what we call "tricks of the trade"—methods which may fool the public but which are not quite honest.

NO ORNAMENT

A lawyer may be so shrewd and clever that he wins his cases in court and comes to be in great demand, especially by clients with weak cases; but his fellow lawyers do not rate him as one of the ornaments of the bar. A doctor may build up a big practice by methods which do not give him standing in his profession.

Some years ago Henry Van Dyke was unveiling a bust in New York at the Hall of Fame for Great Americans. He gave a memorable definition of fame. He said, "Fame is durable, good renown, won by service, approved by the wise and applauded by the common voice." One's work and life must meet the approval of the wise, of those who know.

In "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Thornton Wilder tells how a kindly and understanding musician tried to develop a gifted but temperamental singer. She had been a popular entertainer and was content to remain on that musical level. When she gave her programs, she would cater to the crowd's taste and was quite satisfied with rounds of applause, even when her work was mediocre. But when she turned to leave the stage, her mentor and teacher was always standing in the wings and she had to face his criticism. He demanded her best.

TOLERATES NO TRICKS

So Christ stands in the wings of life's stage. He tolerates no tricks of the trade, no cheapness of methods.

Another mark of success is the ability to survive defeat. A few years ago two men, Primo Carnera and Max Baer, were fighting for the heavyweight title of the world. I am not an attendant at prizefights and this incident was told to me by a bishop.

In the midst of the bout, each fighter swung at the other and missed, both fell to the canvas, and the crowd witnessed the rather ridiculous spectacle of two prize fighters lying in the ring facing each other. Before they could rise, Max Baer was given to bright remarks, grinned at Carnera and said, "The last one up is a sissy." The setting of that remark should not blind us to the truth of it.

KEEP ON KEEP UP

How to pick oneself up from a defeat when "one is too old to cry and when it hurts too much to laugh", is the very real test of success. But to survive victories is even harder.

We have a common saying that nothing succeeds like success. It seems true in the short view. Business begets business, crowds draw crowds, prosperity inevitably brings more friends. But when we take the long perspective of history and look at the things of this world, we see that nothing fails like success. Worldly men and wordly things cannot stand success. Only godly men and godly things can survive victories.

An Alpine climber reached the summit of a mountain. He stretched himself and started to relax. The wind caught him and almost toppled him from the peak. His guide called, "On your knees!"

When you reach the top, the only safe posture is on your knees. The truly great are always humble.

ROADS NEED ATTENTION

What you win on the coconut shy, you lose on the round-about.

That is an old English saying which, in recent years, has come to be particularly applicable to the problems which face any bodies responsible for the maintenance of roads, highways and streets.

Perhaps the saying needs explanation. English villages are, or were, visited by shows, or midways. Most popular of the entertainments offered were the round-about, or merry-go-round, and the coconut shy. The latter, particularly popular with the young, offered them the chance of winning a coconut with a cricket ball, required the contestant to knock a coconut off a peg. If he did, he kept the coconut.

The English villagers, like many of their Canadian counterparts, discovered that no matter how skilful they were at the coconut shy they never seemed to be any richer after the show departed.

This winter we, as taxpayers, have been piling up impressive winnings in our dealings with the coconut shy of snowplowing. We are going to have to pay out heavily for the round-about trips of hole-fixing.

Whenever there is a winter with a light snowfall, potholes blossom in the pavement as thick as dandelions on a lawn.

Here in Belleville we have a bumper crop of pot-holes and our city council is going to face a heavy repair bill.

Whether the amount appropriated for this purpose will be adequate appears doubtful. But, in the final analysis, the work will have to be done, regardless of whether or not there is sufficient money in the budget to finance it. The council will just have to find the money someplace. No city can afford to let the streets remain in the condition in which they are here at present.

At the same time citizens ought not to be too impatient. To patch holes before the frost is out of the ground is just throwing money away. The patched work is not likely to last long.

Many of the holes are so deep, and there is so little of the original surface left, that it is doubtful whether a patching job can be done any better or in any event. Although the initial cost is smaller, patching often proves the most expensive way to maintain a street. Where the situation is extensive, it is generally more economical in the long run, to carry out a complete resurfacing job.

It is fairly obvious, though, that the city cannot possibly afford to resurface all the streets which need such work. Some of them will have to be patched.

A compromise reached in some municipalities is to combine patching and resurfacing, setting aside a definite sum each year for resurfacing work and fixing the remainder of the streets in the best manner possible, so that they are at least passable until in the course of years, their turn for a resurfacing job arrives.

This method has the disadvantage of requiring fairly heavy expenditures on city streets every year.

But, if a program of this nature is followed faithfully, taxpayers are likely to discover that they have to pay a very heavy penalty, a few years later, for what at the time appeared a pleasingly economical road maintenance program.

There is nothing quite as expensive as false economy.

In no field is that statement truer than with respect to the maintenance of roads and streets.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

John Collins, cartoonist for the Montreal Gazette, has condensed columns of comment on the present unemployment situation in Canada into one picture.

He shows two figures surveying a huge doughnut. The doughnut's ring is labelled "Industrial Figures." The hole is tagged "Unemployment Figures." One man, "The Opposition," is shouting in alarm "Look at the size of the hole!" The other, "The Government," is grinning with a smile "Ah—but look at the size of the doughnut!"

There are two views on the situation—both right or at least both half right.

Which is more important, the hole or the doughnut, we shall know shortly. Spring will soon be here. If unemployment drops sharply, we can assume that the period of economic trouble. If there is little change in the number of jobless men and women, then we shall know we have a problem.

In Canada, unemployment during the winter season is regrettable but not necessarily alarming. The figures that matter are those which will tell how many men and women are still unable to find jobs once the spring sun loosens up our economic machinery.

BRITISH JUSTICE

A British army captain has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment for cruelty to African prisoners in Kenya.

The verdict of the court is heartening proof, if any proof were needed, that British justice is the same wherever Britons rule.

The victims of the army captain's cruelty were suspected of being members of the Mau Mau, a cult which certainly would not have hesitated to maim or torture the captain had he been its prisoner.

But there is a difference between the British army and the Mau Mau. That is what is forgotten by those people who would advance the terrorism of the Mau Mau members as an excuse for the actions of the army captain. The point was not forgotten, though, by the court before which the captain was tried.

WORDS

Words are vehicles of thought;
Sentences of them are made.
Use them carefully we ought.
Feeling is by speech displayed.

Feeling is by speech displayed.
Words should not be thrown away;
Meaning out of them is made
Both by how and what we say.

Sentences our thoughts reveal.
Dead are words if they are slurred.
Save that what we say we feel
Wasted is the spoken word.

Words are dangerous, as we know.
Oft by them are friends misled
Even that small word: "Hello"
Should with joyfulness be said.

Door-to-Door Salesmen

(New York Times)

The door-to-door salesman, like the expectant father, is for some unknown reason, a comic character in the popular mind. He is a bore, confidential with any of these funny men and they will tell you outright, door-to-door selling is no joke. Probably the main reason for this is that anyone with gumthumb, a tongue, two strong feet, reasonably high I.Q. and a flat bag or arm full of goods can be in business. It takes a good deal more to start in business, of course. But the busy housewife who has just rushed to draw every available out of chaos at 11 A.M. or the weary husband who has just settled down with newspaper or television at 8 p.m. can't tell the success from the failure straight off. He or she knows when the door is opened on the smiling, fast-talking arranger it has or she doesn't want any, can't afford any, can't use any, already has one and simply isn't interested.

Investigating this dramatic impasse from the salesman's viewpoint we find the same story approaches, the dissembling and the jollying and the "The Brooklyn Bridge" knocker immediately announces that he is selling something and the unbeliever knows what it is. In fact, he is usually found holding out a hand ready to buy it. It may be it a miracle brush, furniture polish or a placebo for the lonely, remedies, on the other hand, will never, ever, under any conditions, be sold at the door. Nonetheless, at least not until a certain definite rapport has been established by the representing a consumer research organization and is taking a survey. Or that he is selling rugs, for which privilege he is ready to pay good dollar cash. He has come to enter your children's picture in a contest. Or, if he is not, absolutely not selling anything and wishes to make that perfectly clear from the very start. There is no saying which method, the confidential or the forthright, is more successful. Both persist, and practitioners of neither ever appear particularly hungry.

The disembler, as we said, may not be the better salesman. But he is surely the more imaginative. There is the chap who will come to the door with steaming more on his palms than possibly a layer of perspiration: "Mrs. Jones? Yes? I'll be right back. Right back." Whereupon he trundles off and holding on cold doorknob while he goes down to his parked car and hauls back some 100-pound gadget. The thinking behind this laborious performance is simply that Mrs. Jones couldn't deny him entrance and a hearing after he has gone to such trouble just for her. And the thinking is usually correct. Then there is the fellow who rounds up all sorts of information about the prospective customer, after the fashion of a fake fortune-teller. It goes like this: "Mrs. Jones lives here? And she is your 9-year-old daughter, Judith, who attends Public School? Well, I'm from the Young People's Society and I'd like to see you and Mary and Mr. Jones together this evening if possible. Would 8 o'clock be convenient?" Mrs. Jones is all there at 8," he says and disappears. Then there are those who simply offer extra sprucing - up, kids Mr. Jones back from a bowling date, Mrs. Jones from a bridge party, the Young People's Society representative is selling juvenile encyclopedias.

The economic mortality among door-to-door men is immense. The good ones, who possess what they can't make a living at it. Others, who could make it, don't know where they are bound to catch at some doors and in some living rooms. Many simply don't have the sense better living with less work in a more rewarding line of selling. But there is a hard core in the profession which presumably can not be killed off. They are the rarely sellers of one line. This year it's books, next year encyclopedias, the next jewelry. It's an odd game, and fully as tough as, say, sandhogging.

Sacred Ganges And Holy Cities

(National Geographic).

Rising in the Himalayan snowfields, the Ganges flows 1,500 miles across northern India to empty into the Eastern Bay of Bengal.

Along its course it fertile fields of wheat and rice. But for India's 350,000,000 people it provides another vital service. To faithful Hindus, the Ganges flows from heaven and cleanses the human spirit.

"As long as the bones of a man lie touch Ganga water, so long is that man regarded by the gods as worthy of a heavenly existence" is a belief than Ganga.

According to the Hindu creed, pilgrims cleanse their souls of sin by bathing in the holy waters of the Ganges.

To its shores flock Hindus of all castes—rajahs and princes, warriors, merchants, farmers, and untouchables. Many who visit the Ganges is carried to all India, to the funeral pyres of the dead. There the married, and the dying. Wherever possible, the dead are cremated on the banks of the Ganges, their ashes are gathered and sent to one of the many holy cities scattered shore to be cast upon the water.

Among the most sacred of these are Benares, Hardwar, Allahabad and Banaras (Benares).

Thousands of pilgrims annually make the long journey to Gangotri, high in the Himalayas, where the origin of the Ganges. The town is a place of pilgrimage for Hindus who have committed particularly grievous sins. They must make the journey on foot to and return by the right bank.

Many perish from disease or starvation en route. Those who reach their goal sprinkle themselves with the holy water and take away a Brahman priest from Gangotri.

At Allahabad the Ganges joins another sacred river, the Jumna. Religious ceremonies at this point the holiest place on earth. There Brahman Hindu creator, presumed himself for the task of constructing the universe. Vishnu, the preserver, and Shiva, the destroyer — the other members of the Hindu trinity — are also believed to have gained their powers by penance in the sacred stream.

From January 14 to March 4, at three intervals, Allahabad witnesses a great festival, the Kumbh Mela. Hindu religious officials announcements, pilgrims bathe ten different times, and present ten kinds of gifts, as prescribed by Hindu custom.

Some 5,000,000 Hindus are now gathered at Allahabad for the current festival. Many Hindu astrologers have proclaimed the most auspicious bathing hour to be noon. The thousands reported killed and injured there in the recent crush of bathers are not considered by the Hindus to be victims of unplanned tragedy. Death during the Bumbh Mela is thought to be a direct passage to heaven.

Benares is the holiest of holy cities to the Muslim, as to Banaras to the Hindu. It is a place of more than 1,500 jumbled, gold-roofed temples. Daily at dawn, most of the city's 400,000 residents and thousands of visitors walk to the ghats, a two-mile-long series of steps and platforms descending from the bluff on which the city is built to the river's edge.

Throughout the day processions wind up and down the ghats leading to the river, and the shores are thronged with pilgrims. Standing waist-deep in the holy Ganges they worship the 2,000,000 deities in the Hindu pantheon.

Queen is Great Trouper

(Vancouver Province)

Those of us who have felt misgivings at the rigorous itineraries planned for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip wherever they go on their trip through the Antipodes, can be reassured at least by pictures of the past few days.

They show the Queen, radiant and smiling, driving through dense crowds of cheering people. Others show her inspecting a row in hospital after fainting in the torrid heat. Others show her at a variety of similar public appearances looks fresh and happy.

For him there is little for more than pictorial evidence, there is the fact that the Queen has not obviously happy mood and she has not been ill. Many of the assailes made during the receptions and luncheons. Furthermore, the Queen has kept to the course meal at Wollongong, New South Wales, where the menu was she completely confounded rumors her health has been affected by the long trip from England.

The Queen, in fact, has become a heroine. Anyone who has road show we can imagine could be as exacting, or exhausting as the Royal itinerary, can be sure around the globe. Presenting herself, day after day, to thousands of people; listening to welcoming addresses; replying to welcoming addresses, being always gracious, smiling and charming. She is, in short, a trouper in spite and most durable.

The British head beats upon thrones is as bright and unwavering as ever. It is a spotlight of a multiple kind. The spotlight on wisom it is focused can never have many years to go. Its principle, a few hours to relax and act like normal human beings.

The role of the British commonwealth are fortunate that our Queen, like the Jumna flow blinds us together in common allegiance, is proving her queenly gifts and more than one. One of the most exhausting tours a monarch has ever undertaken.

There is growing evidence that before her reign is over she may be even brighter than that of her great predecessor. The First Elizabeth.

A devastating argument of opponents of the practice of fluorinating municipal water supplies is that the fact that sodium fluoride is a rat poison. They have us there. No physician — it is rat poison. Cockroach exterminator, too. Powdered sodium fluoride may be sprinkled on sprinkled on floors or cracks where the roaches run and left for weeks. The roaches walk to it, lick their feet and die. Of course the stuff cannot be safely used where infants or young children may reach it. It is too poisonous.

Sodium bicarbonate (carbonic acid gas) that makes soda water, soft drinks, beer, champagne, Seidlitz, Seltzer water and other drinks fizz, sparkle, bubble or foam, would kill the hydrogen (location) if you entered a silo, a well, a cave or other place where the or the ordinarily harmless gas has accumulated. If a match, a candle or a lighted cigarette is carried out in such a place, it is not safe to enter without oxygen or special air supply.

Breathing chlorine as it was used by the Germans in World War I, cauterizes not only the air passages but also the lungs, mucous and stomach. But this is no argument against the universal practice of chlorinating municipal water supplies to make the water safe for drinking. One part of chlorine per million destroys typhoid, para-typhoid or dysentery, cholera germs.

Of late the second class mail coming by our chuckles has taxed the capacity of the incinerator, and the bulk of it is "rat poison" propaganda.

Anti-aluminum propaganda stiff bulks nearly as large as anti-fluorination propaganda. Reading the list of diseases the anti-aluminum people prescribe to the use of aluminum kitchen utensils must keep some credulous customers miserable. But why throw away your old cooking ware and install whatever kind the man wants to sell you? We have used aluminum cooking ware since Topsy was a colt—away back in Grover Cleveland's time—and Prize Buckwheat Flour.

We prepare the batter in an aluminum pot and let it cuddle with the yeast smug and warm over night, and for breakfast . . . ow wow, ow wow, why do I get on such a subject when it's a long, long three hours till dinner time? I would have ignored the "rat poison" propaganda but for the many letters from readers who seem to take it seriously. My reply to any and all queries concerning the fluorination of municipal water supplies is this:

I believe fluoride (sodium fluoride) should be added to the drinking water in every community where the natural water contains little or none. I believe this would greatly decrease the teeth of children 6 to 16 years of age now likely to decay.

INEXHAUSTIBLE

On the island of Trinidad, there is a lake of pitch reasoning an area of nearly a hundred filled with asphalt. Day by day this asphalt is dug up, loaded on cars, and shipped away. Yet, in the course of hours the asphalt that has been taken away is replaced. It appears to be an inexhaustible supply coming from beneath. For sixty-three years the mining has been going on. The supply to all human calculations is inexhaustible.

This reminds us of the spiritual powers upon which our souls depend every day. We know that there are certain physical powers which appear to be inexhaustible or at least to be inexhaustible—or at least immeasurable—but very often we do not realize that we are primarily spiritual beings and that our lives are constantly being supported by inexhaustible spiritual powers. We used up these powers in the struggle of life and hold, as the struggle continues and we do not realize that the power is there just as before—sometimes greater than before.

The greatest of such spiritual powers is what is known as the grace of God. Just as the people who mine asphalt in Trinidad find that what they have used is replaced, so we find that God's grace—or graciousness—flows continually in powerfully into our lives to sustain and strengthen us.

ONE BOOK IMMORTALITY

It is interesting to note the large number of authors who wrote but one book who have won their immortality in literature. If a book is great enough it ought to be sufficient to perpetuate the name of author. There are scores and scores of such writers, but I will name only a few examples.

Among the poets there is Whitman, who devoted his whole life to perfecting of his "Leaves of Grass." Boswell's "Johnson" is a monumental biography. The Origin of Species," by Darwin, among scientific books. "War and Peace" is a panorama of human life. Essays Mondaigne became the father of essayists. Thoreau's "Walden" is his outstanding book. Among novels, Pepys is the immortal one. Victor Hugo "Les Miserables" but his "Les Miserables" will live forever. George Gissing wrote but his "Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft" is among the treasures of literature. And Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" is name Emerson's "Essays;" first and second series.

Perhaps one book would be sufficient to stimulate any mind immortality life. Most writers write many books in their lifetime, but usually there is one that overshadows them all. If I should start all over collecting the first edition of books I would like to collect the author's first and greatest book and then go on from being the best but it would give signs of greatness, and the author would encourage one's taste and judgment.

I like Charles A Lindbergh (now recently made a General in the U.S. Air Force) and several years to write a book, "The Spirit of St. Louis," and it was the first work of immortality among adventure books. Such books as these mentioned have become the essence of the soul of those who wrote them.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The most important lesson Canada can learn from the United States is in the field of managing the renewable natural resources of the country. The natural resources is meant the forests, the wild land, wild life, fisheries and mineral watersheds. In the United States to-day the control of these resources is in many, if not most of the individual states, is in the hands of separate departments of government or commissions. The natural pressure of politics on all government results, therefore, in a good deal of conflict between departments and commissions.

In Canada, the trend towards a single departmental control of all the renewable resources is pretty complete. Its success in those provinces where it has been established will doubtless affect the entire country's attitude. It stands to reason that the forests and wild crown lands are the foundation of several other increasingly valuable resources, the watersheds and water - power supply; the wild life with its attraction for the rich tourist industry; and the summer cottage and industry in its self, distinct from the tourist industry.

A summer cottage is no longer a privilege. It is a necessity. Many Canadians feel they have a right to a summer cottage on their own holiday land. With this demand for cottage sites is growing an appreciation of the unspoiled and public character of the fire's and lakes of most—a summer cottage is particularly evident in the Canadian public forty years ago, when the conception of a summer home was a cottage in what might be called a semi-isolation community of cottages, around a lake, with all the conveniences and comforts of home.

The provincial governments now find that an increasing proportion of applicants for cottage sites want conveniences and luxuries. They want roads, true. But their sympathies are moving in the direction the conservation of forests and wild life cannot help but approve. If they want wilderness or a reasonable facsimile thereof, the controllers of our forests and wild land, wherever wild life feed if they are winning allies in what, even a few years ago, looked like a losing fight.

Spirit With Flesh

"Peace be with you. It is I. Fear not."

CHAPTER 16.

Cleophas answered their questions, rehearsed in detail the meeting with the Master, and still no one believed him. Profound depression gripped the grieving group. Never had their faith fallen so low, never had they been so bereft of hope.

And in that ignoble hour a light suddenly began to shine in the room, and they all, except the one apostle who was elsewhere, saw Him for themselves. They saw Jesus standing visibly among them, in this room made sacred by the Last Supper, Jesus come back to them, and to so many others who had not sat at the final feast—Jesus, the Son of God and the Son of Man, victor over death, risen from the grave, standing in a clear light.

And they heard His voice:

"Peace be to you. It is I. Fear not."

He was speaking in His wonted idiom, in phrases He had cherished and used over and over again when they were frightened — "It is I" in the very midst of the storm. "Be not afraid."

Yet they were terrified. What men would not be!

Jesus read their hearts; "Why are you troubled? And why do thoughts arise in your hearts?"

He held out His hands.

"See My hands!"

Everyone could see the wounds where the nails had been driven through His palms. He drew back the hem of the robe that was without a seam to reveal the marks of the nails in His feet.

"See My hands and feet, that it is I, Myself. Handle and see: for a spirit has not flesh and bones, as you see Me to have."

From every mouth a gasp of awe and at every throat a feeling of insupportable relief. It was true—all that had been promised. Here indeed was the Master, not in the spirit alone, but with a body resurrected from death. And then, as if to prove Himself to them finally and forever, He looked around Him with the friendliest of smiles and inquired:

"Have you here anything to eat?"

One disciple scrambled a little noisily to his feet. From a bundle he had laid by him on a windowsill he brought out a broiled fish and a slice of honeycomb wrapped in an oak leaf.

Jesus ate of the fish, and honey Himself, offering some to the others with that ineffable smile of invitation which, ever since His birth in a stable, has been blessing the world.

And then—just before He left them in the opening and closing of an eye—he breathed upon the ten lovingly and whispered:

"Receive you—the Holy Ghost! Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained.

Then He was gone. In the space of a very few minutes. He had said and done great things, signs and pronouncements which have influenced Christians ever since that mysterious twilight in the Upper Room.

He had proved to this selected, opinion-making group that He was actually the revenant Jesus, risen from death, restored to life. He appeared before them, speaking words of reassurance, of peace, He showed them His hands, His feet, His side. He ate their food, proving beyond question that He was risen Body and Soul. And finally, He capped all His precious words of and deeds by promising them one gift of the Holy Spirit for the forgiveness of sins.

What more proof could anyone demand?

Yet one did demand more — the first of the scientific-minded men to receive a spiritual experience: Thomas Didymus, a hard-headed fellow, who even in the simplest matters of life took a lot of convincing. When he returned from his errand the other apostles and the disciples told him how Jesus had appeared to them as they sat at table in the Upper Room. They said to Thomas:

"You were not with us when Jesus came. But it is true—we have seen the Lord."

With their own eyes? Yes! Dismally, Thomas Didymus shook his head. It was too much to ask of human belief, no matter how lovingly disposed one might feel; no—

"Except I see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the place of the nails, and put my hands into His side, I will not believe."

The other ten apostles dared not blame their doubting comrade, remembering their own skepticism at first sight of the risen Christ and His tacit rebuke when He had shown them His wounds to convince them. No matter what they said to Thomas, they could not persuade him. A week and a day were to pass with his skepticism unshaken, before the irrefutable evidence was given him.

Once again the apostles and disciples were shut together in prayerful companionship in the blue-walled hall of the Last Supper. The doors were locked and bolted. Suddenly and softly the figure of Jesus appeared in their midst.

Once again the well-remembered voice:

"Peace be to you!"

Jesus turned and directly faced

Auto Dealers Have New Name For B.C. Budget

VANCOUVER (CP) — Automobile dealers have a name for British Columbia's new budget.

Along automobile row it has become known as "Social Credit's April Fool's joke."

The reason: Some relief was mapped for car owners, a reduction in registration fees, but the sales tax was boosted.

The present three-per-cent provincial sales tax will be increased to five per cent, effective April 1.

It will mean higher car prices. The tax on a $3,000 car will be increased from $90 to $150. On popular small-car models the jump will be from around $37 to $65.

"This new tax is going to have a slowing effect in the car business," said Charles E. Thompson, prominent dealer and director of the B.C. Automobile Association.

TAXES HEAVY

Federal taxes already take a big bite. There is a 15 per cent excise tax, 10 per cent sales tax, and $275 freight costs for a car delivered here.

Dealers advocate a reduction in the federal excise tax. Representations have been made to Ottawa.

Automobile drivers had hoped for an additional reduction in licence fees. The registration fee was cut from $10 to $1. All car purchasers pay the registration fee. The licence fee was reduced from $25 to $22.50 for average-size passenger cars at the beginning of the new licence year March 1.

New car sales dropped off here by 625 units for the first two months of the year from 2,453 to 1,828.

The increased revenue from higher sales tax, estimated at an annual $23,000,000, will be used to finance B.C.'s hospital costs.

Thomas Didymus, the most doubting of His apostles. And He said to Thomas, with a frank smile that held no slightest trace of reproach:

"Thomas, put in your finger hither and see My hands. And bring hither your hand and put it into My side. And be not without faith—but believing."

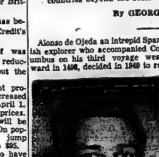
And what could Thomas say then? Only what millions of believers have repeated every day for more than two thousand years, as he fell to his knees and clasped his hands together, crying out in a husky voice:

"My Lord And my God!"

The words that Jesus then spoke to Thomas Didymus were addressed to the endless legions of men still to be born into the history of the world — words that are a key to the wonderful, interior life of the soul:

"Because you have seen Me, Thomas, you have believed. Blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed."

And then Jesus vanished from their sight as a rainbow can suddenly fade from the sky.



He was next to be seen by the Sea of Tiberias, that strange hometown lake, 600 feet below the level of the sea, and one of those to whom He showed Himself was again that doubter, Thomas.

By GEORGE H. CARVER

ALBERT WEGGEMAN

Alonso de Ojeda an intrepid Spanish explorer who accompanied Columbus on his third voyage westward in 1498, decided in 1499 to return on his own account. Columbus had discovered the South American continent by sighting land near the mouth of the Orinoco River.

Ojeda on his voyage sailed along the coast as far as the Guajira Peninsula on the western shore of the Gulf of Venezuela. Entering Lake Maracaibo, he saw native pile dwellings along the swampy shore and named the region Venezuela or "Little Venice."

But little did the proud Spaniard know, in his search for yellow metal that beneath his very feet lay millions in "black gold." Not oil for which Venezuela is now famous.

He did not know that the Maracaibo basin is which his ships lay, would produce, four and one-half centuries later, nearly 210 million barrels of oil annually.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH

Practically all of the Venezuelan production is controlled by British, American and Dutch companies. The preponental growth of the industry has reached the point where crude oil and its derivatives account for some 90 per cent of the value of all exports.

With the opening of the oilfields in the swampy shores of Lake Maracaibo, came the British, American and Dutch representatives and their families. "Oil Camps" as they are called, dot the area.

Mene Grande is one of these oil communities and is where there resides the Venezuelan representative to Albert College.

He is Albert Weggeman, a strapping six-foot three 15-year old youngster. He is the son of Holland-born Albert Weggeman, Sr. and Mrs. Weggeman who was born in Antwerp, Belgium. Mr. Weggeman is associated with the engineering department of the Shell Oil Company in Maracaibo.

Albert, Jr. is one of a family of three. A brother Peter is a student at the University of Western Ontario, in London, Ont., while another brother Phil, is at home with the family in Maracaibo.

The Weggeman family like those of other oil company representatives, has travelled extensively. Said Albert," Before I was ten years of age, I had lived in Jamaica, British West Indies, and various parts of the United States. We resided in Maryland for a long time during the war when my father who was a member of the Dutch East Indies Army was stationed at an army proving ground."

Albert is a tall easy-going chap who takes things in his stride. He has a nickname "Happy", Says he, "Where we live in Maracaibo, there are Dutch and English families. The Dutch appellation for Albert is "Appe" so the British just changed it to "Happy". But there could be another reason.

There are American and British Schools in Maracaibo which teach up to the eighth grade. High schools are operated by the Venezuelan government where Spanish is the predominating language. But "Happy" was content with learning English and 'American.' He could not speak Spanish sufficiently to warrant him attending these schools. That is another thing that "Happy" took in his stride.

LIKES RADIO

"Happy" has no ambition for the professions. He likes radio electronics. He is in his third year at Albert and he says, has two years to go.

He has no yen for basketball, (although he has the build) or baseball. A little swimming, and "Happy's gamut of sports.

But "Happy" has travelled. He recalls having Maryland and going to "Frisco" From there he went to Australia returning via the Red Sea and Suez. The family went from there to Holland for a brief vacation, then flew to Venezuela.

IN AND OUT

Venezuela, like other South American republics, has an atmosphere, or rather a background of revolutions.

We asked "Happy" about this. He smiled. "We know when a revolution is coming up, "he said "because a curfew is suddenly put into effect."

He recalled a night when he and some chums were at a boys' club, and the curfew rang. They disregarded it. A few minutes later they were taken into custody by the Maracaibo gendarmes, and gently but firmly escorted to the "Juzgado." That is "hoosegow" in Canadian. Jail in English.

Later their parents were notified and the boys returned home.

Live in Canada? Not on your life.

Down in Maracaibo life is great. It is slow and easy. Not the fast tempo of the northern countries. That is the way "Happy" would like it.

And confidentially, so would we.

Sex Appeal May Get Date With Boss But No Salary Hike

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sex appeal may get you a date with the boss, but it won't produce a salary increase.

This is the opinion of two women who have achieved top executive jobs in widely separated fields. One is Cecilia W. Kelly, recently appointed vice-president of one of the largest flooring concerns. The other is Ida Ralsbeck, vice-president of a big advertising agency.

Miss Kelly's recipe for success is to learn everything possible about you job, keep your eye on the next step forward and never watch the clock. She adds:

"Many girls have the mistaken notion that by adopting glamorous styles they will make a good impression on the executives. All certainly is to the contrary, this is just not so. An office is a place to work, not for flirtation."

TAKE IT EASY

Miss Raisbeck, known as Becky, has this advice for career girls:

1. Don't throw your sex around. In business, sex is hex.

2. Don't compete with men as though you were a man. Compete with them, but as a woman. That doesn't mean to make eyes at the boss, but to think as a woman. Since the woman's viewpoint is important in every business.

3. Don't claim special privileges because you are a woman. Nothing makes a man madder (during business hours, that is).

ACCEPT SALARY DIFFERENCE

4. Don't expect as much money or as fast advancement as a man would get for doing the same job.

5. Don't discriminate against other women after you've made your mark. This is a common fault of women executives. They can't bear competition from their own sex.

Both Miss Kelly and Miss Raisbeck claim they achieved their present eminence in spite of—not because of — being women. It's tougher to fight you way to the top if you're hampered by petticoats, but it can be done.

Something new has been added to the world of powdered foods. It is a new kind of powdered cream for use in tea and coffee. All you do, is sprinkle half a teaspoonful of this cream substitute into a hot cup of coffee and stir it. There is no cream pitcher to wash and no sloppy pouring. It is now possible to make a good cup of coffee by using three powders, coffee, cream and sugar. All it takes is a little hot water. Next thing, they'll be powdering the water. Various kinds of this new cream powder are now in our grocery stores. They are well worth trying, if you want to save on washing dishes and food costs.

MOVIES

By all means, do not miss seeing the new motion picture Martin Luther. It is a stirring, dramatic play with excellent characterization and much historical information which is cleverly woven into the story.

ARMY CHIEF

Why, oh why can't newsreel commentators sharpen up on their pronunciation? Last night, we got a glimpse of Canada's Lt. General Guy Simonds visiting military establishments in the U.S.

The commentator referred to him as "General Simmons" with a hard "i" instead of the correct pronounciation as in "Simmons."

It is shameful that many Canadians don't even know the name of the man who heads their Army. Few can pronounce his name. Yet this one man carries the direct responsibility for the lives of young Canadians and for the security of us all.

SMOKING

There is a brisk sale of cigarette containing nicotine filterd. These filters consist of chemical crystals. A new filter is inserted after about 2 cigarettes have been smoked. Since all the discussion about smoking possibly helping to prolong cancer, men and women are hurrying to buy filters which will grab most of the nicotine before it enters the mouth.

There was a time when a man wouldn't dream of using a cigarette holder. People would think he was putting on airs. People would regard him as effeminate. How times change.

Uncle Fodderwing says you may think there isn't much reading in the newspaper, but just let three or four pile up when you are away and you'll spend a whole night catching up.

WEDDING THAT RAIN CAN'T SPOIL

Preparing to "take the plunge", Mary Beth Sanger and Bob Smith, both of Houston, Texas, are shown rehearsing for their coming underwater wedding at San Marcos, Texas. Rev. Curtis Ellison reads the marriage vows to them from a cage at a depth of eight feet. Margaret Russell is matron of honor; Bob Cox, best man. The nuptials will climax a submarine romance that started three years ago when both were performers in an aquatic show. Hoses held by the principals provide air. Wedding, like the rehearsal, will take place at San Marcos Aquarena. (Central Press Canadian).

BRITISH WOMEN ON THE MARCH

Having won the vote many, many years ago, largely through the efforts of the suffragette movement, British women are now making a determined effort to win equal pay for women—that is, the same pay as paid to a man for doing the same job. They have the backing of local government employees, school teachers and members of the civil service. This group paraded near the statue of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who was a pillar of the suffragette movement, in Victoria Tower Gardens, London. (Central Press Canadian.)

Diocesan Pres. Addresses WA On Missions

Creeggan conducted a service of enrollment and presented Mrs. Stewart with a life membership, the gift of the members of the Afternoon Branch.

Mrs. G. G. Wright introduced Mrs. Boyd, who in opening her remarks, complimented the Belleville branches of the W.A. on their outstanding work in the past. She spoke of the necessity of fulfilling all pledges to the missionary work at-its present level and the need for more aid for advance in the same work.

She had personally visited some of the Indian schools and told of the pleasure it was to see them so well stocked with clothing and bedding, for the use of the children. The work in foreign fields was going forward and it is expected that two young men will offer themselves for Africa in the near future. She asked for the continued support of the members of the W.A. by prayer, work and offerings.

Mrs. H. Wright thanked the speaker. The president thanked Mrs. Withers for accompanying the hymns and expressed her pleasure that three members of the diocesan board had attended the meeting.

The recitor pronounced the benediction and the ladies adjourned for refreshments.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

YOU "CAN'T FORGET"? SO WHAT!

A sentence that appears in a vast number of the letters I receive, and of which I grow increasingly tired, is: "I can't forget him."

Right before me at the moment, are three letters from widely separated parts of the country but all harping on the same old theme.

One from a town on Long Island says:

"I have been going out with a fellow who used to like me very much, but since he met my girl friend he no longer seems to have any interest in me. Although I have tried to forget him, I find it quite impossible."

From a city in Pennsylvania comes another letter that says: "I am 18 years old, and have been in love with a boy of 19. We were ready for a year and a half, and then all of a sudden he stopped coming to see me. What shall I do? Please don't tell me to forget him, because I can't."

"I am so much in love with a young man that I can't eat." This from a reader who lives in the Middlewest. "We were going steady until about a month ago, when he broke up. Since then we only speak to each other, and that is all. I have tried to forget him, but it is impossible, and I really don't know what to do."

Of course the biggest reason why girls like these can't forget or "can't forget" is because they don't really want to. Instead of being willing to go about their daily life just as usual until then, as it always does, they make a career out of whatever the disappointment may be, they dramatize their broken romances, getting a morbid satisfaction out of picturing themselves as being about broken-hearted for the rest of their lives with every thought dedicated to the person they loved and lost.

And the sad reason why they are convinced they "can't forget" is because they don't go about it the right way. Their idea of "trying to forget" usually means that they brood over their troubles constantly, while at the same time muttering to themselves that they "must forget."

The cold fact is, that you can never forget anything by constantly telling yourself that you must do so. That's the best way to prevent forgetting. Because when you're continually mumbling mentally: "I must forget him, I must forget him," what you're really emphasizing to yourself is "him", rather than "forget."

The proper way to make even a beginning of forgetting is essentially to ignore it. In other words, even though unhappy thoughts persist in coming to mind over and over again, pay just a little attention to them as possible, and above all, don't give yourself the morbid luxury of indulging them. Instead, make a determined effort of will, and go out and do something that will divert your mind, at least partly, if not wholly. A program of this sort, faithfully carried out, will definitely bring results, and the unhappiness will soon be more or less.

Above all, when you think you want to forget something but also think you can't remember that it isn't really important whether you forget it or not. Most of us have to live with unhappy memories of one sort or another. Disappointments, frustrations and disillusionment happen to everybody. What is important, is to accept the fact that these are a part of normal life, to be met bravely, to learn something from, and then to let go of, so not to hang on to for brooding purposes.

All you'll succeed in doing by concentrating on something that's past, is to cheat yourself out of new and happy experiences in the present and future.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARE OF THE HANDS

Juliet had hands like little white butterflies. Well, why not? She didn't have to wash dishes, shampoo the kitchen range, wipe up the bathroom floors. Women of leisure rarely have to worry about the beauty of their hands. It is the hardworking wife and mother who has to be constantly on guard if she is to be happy when she sits in a bridge game.

All year 'round feminine hands should have faithful attention. Dipping them in water many times a day a day robs them of the natural oil that was provided for the purpose of keeping the skin surface from drying out. To make up for that loss there must be a frequent lubricating treatment with a rich massage to force the oil into the flesh.

A bottle of hand lotion, the milky, semi-fluid kind that dries quickly, should be in the kitchen and in the bathroom, in plain sight so as not to be overlooked.

Dirt and grime take a toll of hands that should be smooth, white and pretty. Yet it is the boss of the domestic works should wear rubber gloves during any heavy work with water that is not clean. Cleansing agents must be carefully selected as harsh ones will fray the skin, get it in such a sorry condition that it cannot easily be restored to a pretty texture.

Cotton work gloves will protect the hands when one is polishing furniture or silver. When spring bursts and all over, and the demon gardener indulges in her favorite diversion, work gloves should be worn.

At least once a week there should be a ten-minute treatment with a heavy cream. Press it into the backs of the hands. Starting at the base of each finger work upward with the thumb, do rotary movements over the finger nails to soften the surrounding cuticle. Anoint the both hands, wring them together, forcing the emollient well into the knuckles.

QUESTION:

Would you be kind enough to look and see if you have a recipe for a Simnel Cake. It is a cake used in England on "Mothering" Sunday—three weeks before Easter.—Y. M. J.

ANSWER:

You did lead me a merry chase, but I tracked down the recipe.

SIMNEL CAKE

Evidently it is baked in tube pans, with an almond paste marzipan paste filling between layers of the batter. After first baking it is coated with apricot jam or puree and baked again, then covered with final fancy almond paste decoration.

Cake Batter: (This is a large amount and will fill four 8 1-2-inch tube pans.) Twelve ounces butter or margarine, 1 oz. shortening, 14 oz. Barbados sugar, 17 oz. flour, 1 oz. cocoa, 1 oz. cake flour, 4 oz. ground almonds, 1 oz. mixed spices, 18 oz. each sultana raisins and currants, 12 oz. mixed peel, essence or almond, rum, and vanilla to taste, orange coloring. There are no mixing instructions and I have not made the cake but think it may be nice as you would mix a rich fruit cake.) In each tube pan put one inch depth of the batter, make it smooth, place circle of almond paste on it (see below) and cover with another eighth of the batter—thus using up all batter in two additions to each tube pan. Bake at 660 deg. Fahr. for 110 minutes. Cool thoroughly. Spread top with apricot jam and bake long enough to harden. Brush with Cool thoroughly. Decorate with almond paste.

Almond Paste (for Simnel Cake): 12 oz. ground almonds, 12 oz. castor sugar, 2 oz. ground rice, 2 oz. eggs (or egg yolks), yellow coloring and almond essence. Mix dry ingredients, make a bay in centre. In bay put coloring, essence and eggs and when blended well draw in the dry ingredients and mix to a firm paste. Use 7 oz. for each cake and roll out to 7-inch circle—enough for one cake.

I sincerely hope I have been of help.

QUESTION:

Will you please tell me how to make Rye Krispz.—Lou.

ANSWER:

I'd love to know myself Lou, but this is a commercial product and process is not for public consumption. A poor imitation of them is as follows:

HOMEMADE RYE-WHEAT WAFERS

One cup rye flour, 1-2 cup each whole wheat flour and white flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup sour milk. Sift flour and salt together, stir in sugar—some of mixture. Add just enough milk to make a stiff dough but one that may be rolled out. Roll out on lightly floured board, prick very closely with fork, blistering with fork, and cut into squares or oblongs. Bake in hot oven 8 to 10 minutes. Or these may be baked in slow oven, but they tend to curl. It's quite delicious. Any sour cream mix may be able to improve on this. If so I'm sure they will be fine and if so I will print their recipes here.

LETTER:

Since pastries and rich foods are not for me I don't read your columns so closely as some —however I can't refrain from "window-shopping." I'm delighted with your recipe for simple Cornish pasty—just one better. I used candied pineapple—red, green and yellow—in place of fruit. It's delicious.

I used lemon juice in the sauce. About three tablespoons. We had neighbors who raised geese for the fat which they used in their baking—especially pies. I wasn't really convinced until in trepidation I tried it, and found that my finicky family didn't notice the difference. It was very easy to work with. I always used buttermilk in pie pastry when I could get it because it browned so nicely. I agree with you about "Five Oaks"—L. H. S.

ANSWER:

I do hope those girls with duck and goose fat surplus see this and want to thank you for it. I want to point out that the fat should be light in color, not burned from roasting duck or geese in too hot oven and should be strained and very cold.

GOOD COOK

NEWWALK, England (CP) — A teen-ager cooking competition in this Leicestershire community was won by 18-year-old Patrick Green. There were more than 2,000 entrants—mostly girls.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHAT TO CALL HIS FIANCEE'S PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently become engaged. I'll be a public announcement yet. My fiancee's parents are rather on the conservative side. I have met them only a few times (Patricia and I became engaged while they were traveling in Europe, we told them at once when they returned, and thank Heaven, we have their approval). My problem is how to address them. Of course they call me by my first name, but I still call them "Mr. and "Mrs.—" Right?—Bob S.

Right . . . yes, sir! should call them "Mr." and "Mrs." until they suggest you do otherwise. Then there should be some consultation about what name they wish you to use. They just may be so conservative that they would prefer not to change to a more familiar name until after the wedding. Ask your fiancee about this. . . she is the one to guide you.)

SEATING GUESTS AT THE TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

LAST OF FLEET — These are the last two of 39 ships once operated by I. M. Mathers and Son of Halifax, which have been laid up for nearly two years. President Harry Mathers says high costs have all but obliterated the country's deep-sea merchant fleet, and war might find the armed forces handicapped in moving men and materiel beyond our shores.

Harry Mathers, president of I.M. Mathers and Son, says the Canadian ocean-going merchant trade is "finished."

He said there could be no revival until shipowners either receive some form of federal assistance or the world returns to freer convertibility of currencies. The latter would enable Canadian ships to compete within the sterling area.

COUNT 18 NOW

Only about 18 cargo carriers remain under the Canadian flag, the lowest number since before the Second World War. Between 90 and 100 have been transferred to British registry where British crews and provisioning reduce operating costs by one-half, although Canadian federal taxes stay the same.

A lesser number of vessels have been sold outright to Italian, Liberian, Honduran and Panamanian interests.

Mr. Mathers said "A nucleus of ships is extremely necessary if the government intends to be safeguarded."

Under the heading of the "national interest" he put defence preparedness, the economy of overboard cities which leans heavily on the health of the world's shipping, and the preservation of a core of trained merchant seamen from which the navy could draw reserves.

"The only people who are still making money in this business are the shipowners and the governments," Mr. Mathers said. "Even if the ship is under British registry, the owner still gets his profits.

"But don't misunderstand; it's not all a case of money or profits. We admit we probably more sincere than you imagine when we say we really want to see a free Canadian merchant service again."

Labor and allied costs produced one demand which shipowners found it difficult to meet. Mr. Mathers and ordinary deckhands got $204 a month exclusive of overtime and other benefits. He said that when accommodations are included a Canadian seaman costs three times as much as a British one.

He said federal taxes still take as much as 55 per cent of earnings.

I. M. Mathers and Sons is a composite firm representing 12 Canadian shipping companies which once boasted a fleet of 39 ships under the Canadian flag. There now are two. Both have been gathering rust at a Halifax pier-side for nearly two years.

Kinsmen Plan Ottawa Trip For Students

CAMPBELLFORD —The regular supper meeting of the local Kinsmen Club was held at the Trent House with a good attendance. Invocation was held with Peter Edwards at the piano and Keith Bull acting as song leader. Ray Spicer was sergeant-at-arms.

Dante Pace presented the accounts and on motion these were declared paid.

Bill Hough reported that the Ladies' Night is to be held in the Legion Hall on Wednesday, April 28, with a banquet and dance.

Forrest Dennis introduced Mr. Bill Hogle, the guest speaker. Mr. Hogle chose his subject "Plant Canada." The speaker explained that this is an outgrowth of the slogan "Plant America," and in many centres various organizations combine to beautify their municipalities. This improvement generates civic pride and progress.

Mr. Hogle stated that the approaches to a town are important and went on to show that Campbellford has all of the finest natural beauty spots and could be made the envy of the entire district if the river was thanked by Irv. Blair.

After the tournament, several gathered around the piano for a short impromptu concert.

Legion Wins Cribbage Trophy

CAMPBELLFORD. — Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion of Campbellford won the cribbage trophy donated by Molson's for competition in the Trent Valley League. The finals were played in Warkworth last week with teams from Campbellford, Warkworth and Hastings competing.

At the monthly meeting it was decided to give every assistance to the Salvation Army's campaign for funds to be held in April or early in May. Johnny Mantle was appointed to represent the branch at the organization meeting.

The Coca-Cola Co. are presenting their film on March 12, and Spramotor Co., on March 19. Both of these films have been well recommended and a large number of the comrades should be on hand to show appreciation to the companies concerned and also to entertain the members of other service clubs of Campbellford who have been invited to attend on these evenings.

Plans are being made for a bridge, euchre and cribbage party to be conducted by the branch jointly with the ladies' auxiliary on March 31.

Aluminum Firm Assails Quebec Tax Structure

MONTREAL (CP)—The Aluminum Company of Canada and one of its subsidiaries Fri., said "discriminatory taxation" prob ably will have serious effects on development of the province unless something is done to revise the tax structure immediately.

The view was contained in a joint brief prepared by the Aluminum Company and the Quebec Power Company Ltd., for the Quebec royal commission on municipal problems. The brief dealt particularly with taxes on the companies' properties in the Saguenay district.

The brief objected particularly to multiple taxation for education. The aluminum company must pay regular municipal property tax and a special tax for the benefit of neighboring municipalities. The electricity it uses for its plant is taxed under a provincial clause.

The aluminum company also objected to having to pay dual taxes on its property in Arvida.

42 PATIENTS RESCUED

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)— Forty-two patients were carried to safety Thursday when fire caused an estimated $25,000 damage to the top floor of the Knorr Sanitarium and Convalescent Home near the downtown business section. Six firemen was overcome by smoke, but all the patients were removed safely from the building. They were in beds and wheel chairs.

MiGs Turn Tail As Sabres Rise To Meet Them

SEOUL. (AP)—Four southbound Communist jets turned tail at the Korean demarcation line Fri., and only an orbit when American Sabre jets streaked up to meet them.

No shots were fired, said a spokesman for the United States 5th Air Force.

The Communist planes apparently were headed toward Inchon, port city for Seoul in South Korea, the spokesman said, but there was no way of knowing if the Communist pilots actually intended to cross into South Korea or were just testing Allied radar and air alert practices.

It is possible the Communist planes were off course, although the air force said they apparently flew overland and the Han estuary terrain near Inchon would be hard to mistake in daylight.

SPOTTED BY RADAR

The air force said the southbound jets were picked up on Allied radar screens and four Sabre jets—which shot down MiGs in allied MiG Alley during the Korean war—scrambled to meet them.

The Red pilots made no attempt to cross the demarcation line in the face of the four Sabres, the air force added.

It was the first jet incident reported since Sabres shot down one of several MiGs that tried to intercept an Allied reconnaissance plane off Korea's west coast three weeks ago.

Talk 22 Hours Before Passing Army's Budget

LONDON (Reuters) — Members stumbled out of the House of Commons Friday rubbing red-rimmed eyes after a non-stop session that fell just short of 24 hours.

As the chimes of nearby Big Ben boomed out hour after hour, the weary voices had droned on and on in a discussion of life in the British army. About 50 parliamentarians at one time or another sat through from its start at 2:30 p. m. Thursday to its end at 12:54 p. m. today.

The Conservative party pressed the session to its conclusion, despite several Labor attempts to find a lack of a quorum, in order to wind up debate on its £628,500,000 army budget for the coming year.

The Commons finally approved the budget without a recorded vote.

Coal Subvention Policy Changed To Aid Maritimes

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government Friday disclosed changes in coal subvention policy aimed at propping shipping sales of Maritime coal to the railways.

The changes apply to subventions—treasury aid towards freight costs—on coal bought by the railways. The objective is to hold for Maritime mines, without increasing treasury costs, their proportion of the railway coal market.

The announcement was made to a Maritimes coal-mine delegation.

For the Maritimers, Ottawa officials said, the policy means that this year the railways should buy about the same amount of Canadian coal as they have done in the past in proportion to less-expensive United States purchases.

In recent years, Canadian purchases by the largest single group buying Canadian coal have been going down. A temporary subvention arrangement for the Maritimes was made with the Canadian National Railways last year to hold the line, but now this has been changed and the new policy made definite.

The subvention shifts announced Friday are not expected to have any large effect on the sale of western coal.

All Russian Surgery Done Under Local Anaesthetic

In this story, second In a series of two, Bill Boss describes operation at Russia's Academy of Medicine. The foreign editor arranged his visit and also along an official as interpreter. All news reports from Russia are subject to censorship.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—Strapped on the operating table in the glare of the dome light, the patient lay with a long incision in his chest.

But he was talking—lucidly.

Grouped about him in one of the many operating theatres in the Surgical Institute of the Academy of Medicine of the U.S.S.R. were the director, two women surgeons, a team of two at the patient's head and another group at his feet.

Behind the surgeon was a nurse whose job was to keep plenty of hypodermic syringes charged with novocaine. Key to the patient's freedom from pain, at times she was a busy girl.

TALKS WITH PATIENT

The 40-year-old patient's chest was open from below the arm pit to just above the sternum. Prof. Alexander A. Vyshnyevsky, head of the institute, was preparing to open the pleural sac and tissue growth that had displaced the lung.

The man to whom all this was happening was conscious. He had just undergone an exam, and received a glass of water.

Before operating the theatre Vyshnyevsky told me:

"There is nothing special about our operating techniques in chest surgery. You do such operations as the one you will see every well-in North America. What will be unusual for you will be our anaesthesia.

All surgery in this institute is under local anaesthetic. That goes for abdominal, chest and neurological surgery.

AID TO RECOVERY

Russian doctors maintain that certain methods of anaesthesia practised abroad are unnecessarily harmful to the system and prolong post-operative discomfort and recovery.

By applying total anaesthesia, they say, Western doctors merely knock out the nervous area of the brain. They leave the rest of the system open to pain stimulation from the area of operation—so that while the patient isn't conscious of it at the time, pain nonetheless is taking its toll of his system. The operation leaves him weakened, ragged, dizzy and nauseous.

Their technique, they say, isolates the field of operation from the rest of the system.

The brain and the rest of the body are left largely unaffected by the proceedings. The patient emerges from the operation fitter to take up the process of recovery.

SIMPLE TECHNIQUE

The technique involves massive doses of novocaine, an inexpensive and common drug, in a "creeping" technique. It is applied by the surgeon himself as the operation proceeds. It is so simple, they say, that it may be practised in the smallest clinics and enables major surgery without unusual facilities.

A couple of hours before entering the theatre the patient gets a sedative. On the table he gets a nerve-block on each side of the neck about 20 minutes before the operation begins.

The "local" is then applied. Along the whole length of the projected incision 25-per-cent novocaine and sodium chloride is injected just under the skin. Every half-inch or so a new needleful goes in.

When the whole course has been covered—by probably 35 or 40 injections—the first incision is made. Before the operation was over the injections were administered twice more.

CHAT WHILE WORKING

All the while Vyshnyevsky talked to his patient. "How are you feeling? No pain? Now, I want tell you about my own operation. . ."

The pleural sac was opened and immediately Vyshnyevsky saw what he was after. The x-ray plates had shown only an enlarged whitish area displacing the lung. "I've found it already. Call in the others—this is a one in a million. It's a lipoma."

Medical dictionaries define a lipoma as a simple tumor, only rarely to be found on the lung. It is not malignant.

It must have weighed at least five or six ounces and was as large as a man's fist.

"Show it to the patient," said the doctor. "Show him what we've taken away from him."

A nurse took it around on a kidney tray.

"Comrade, it!"

"Yes."

"Well, that's it. We're almost finished now. All we have to do is close you up."

"Thank you very much. I'm very grateful for your trouble."

"Not at all. We'll have a cognac together in a day or so if you invite me."

The two women assistant surgeons did the suturing up.

By coincidence the Russian acquaintance named Ludmilla, to whom I mentioned the operation, had had an appendix removed by Vyshnyevsky.

"No, I didn't suffer any pain," she said. "During the operation I felt a little pressure, but I didn't wanted to sing. Afterward I didn't suffer at all. But I still didn't want to move or eat much because I knew there was a hole down there."

Strasser Wins Citizenship Case

PARADISE, N. S. (CP) Dr. Otto Strasser, exiled former Nazi who broke with Hitler 20 years ago, said Friday a German appeal court has upheld his claim for return of his citizenship.

Strasser said the court of appeal in Muenster has rejected an appeal by the West German government against an earlier decision in his favor.

The earlier decision in a lower court at Cologne ruled that the government was bound by law and constitution to restore Strasser's German citizenship and re-admit him to his homeland.

Strasser quoted the Muenster court as rejecting Bonn's claim that Strasser quarrelled with Hitler only on personal, not political grounds.

The 56-year-old former Nazi called the court decision his "final victory."

Can Produce Cheap Electricity From New Source

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — After four years of New Zealand geology has found it has ample resources to produce a large volume of cheap electricity from a new source. It is going ahead rapidly with plans for the first power station using natural underground steam.

In the four years engineers have drilled 28 bores in the heart of the north island's thermal region—the strange area of boiling mud pools, steam blowholes, geysers and hot lakes.

The bores have gone down to varying depths, some as deep as 2,000 feet. Tests have shown that the pressure of steam emitted does not diminish with time. Some, in fact, have become hotter and fiercer after prolonged operation.

It has also been shown that several bores can be put down in the same area without reducing the pressure.

THUNDEROUS ROAR

When first blown, the bores hurl steam hundreds of feet into the air with an ear-splitting roar. Later the steam is controlled and diverted through buried steel pipes fitted with valves and gauges to measure the pressure.

For the present it is not proposed to put down any more bores. Experts are satisfied that there is plenty of steam available to run at least one big power station. The 10 largest bores—four with a diameter of eight inches and six of six inches—are believed to be sufficient to produce 90,00 kilowatts of electricity, the same output as some of the larger hydro-electric projects developed in New Zealand.

The first power station will not be large. The size has not been determined, but the aim is to use it as a trial of practical operational problems with a view to learning the requirements for later and larger schemes. Work on foundations for the first station is already in progress.

Indications are that the first station will lead to the building of a great chain of others. The thermal belt stretches 15 miles wide across much of the north island. So far drilling has been done in only a few areas.

Chief of Italy's Police Resigns Over Scandal

By WEBB McKINLEY

ROME (AP) — Premier Mario Scelba's shaky coalition government rocked today at the resignation of Interior Minister Chief Tommaso Pavone following court testimony linking him with Italy's biggest post-war scandal, the mysterious death of a high-society party girl, Wilma Montesi.

Resigning Thursday night, Pavone, in a statement denied "bygdignantly and in the most categorical manner" allegations implicating him. Premier Scelba, who received gifts from, one of the men prominent in the case. He said he will take legal action to clear his name.

It was a major headache for Scelba, who won final parliamentary confirmation only Thursday for his month-old coalition government by only a 17-vote majority in the Chamber of Deputies. During the parliamentary debate the Communists accused the Premier and Pavone in particular, of trying to hush up the Montesi scandal.

Scelba appointed a minister without portfolio, Raffaele de Caro, to head an investigation into the case, in which many prominent persons have been involved including Piero Piccioni, son of Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni.

NUDE MURDERED

The nude body of the Montesi girl was found on the beach at Ostia, last April. The police report said there was no reason to believe that she died from anything other than accidental drowning.

The police have stuck to that in the face of sensational disclosures in the one-man magazine Attualita (Actuality) that the girl named Wilma was drugged at an "orgy" at an exclusive hunt club near Ostia, last April. The police disbelieve the tales.

The magazine's editor, Silvano Muto, now is on trial on charges of spreading false and slanmist reports.

AIDS EMPLOYMENT

NEW DELHI (CP)—More than 300 projects have been approved by the India planning commission for increasing employment opportunities. Power projects, road development, irrigation and health projects are included in the program costing $155,000,000.

St. Laurent Hopes Canada and Japan Can Expand Trade

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a luncheon address to members of the Canada-Japan society Fri., said there is increasing awareness on the part of Canadians of the needs, aspirations and friendship of Asia and Japan, Canada's closest Asian neighbor.

The visiting prime minister said: "I am happy to say that a survey of relations between Japan and Canada shows very few outstanding problems. Canadian interests may be summarized briefly in two words 'peace' and 'trade.'"

During the early years of Canada's history the thoughts of the majority of Canadians had turned eastward to Europe.

But "during the past 10 years there has been tremendous economic development in British Columbia and I have no doubt that as this growth proceeds trade between western Canada and countries of the Far East will increase substantially."

HOPES FOR WIDER TRADE

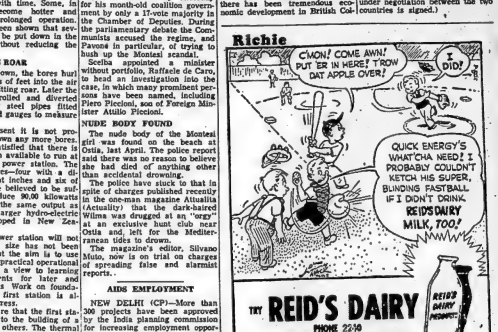
Canada and Japan had a common interest in expanding trade, and there were opportunities for growth of trade on a complementary basis with many other countries as well as with one another, he said. He concluded by reporting that in an "important departure" which his prepared text the prime minister said "fortunately or unfortunately we are relying to a large extent on the United States as an intermediary."



"It is time to be on an expansion it must be a joint effort to expand trade between both countries."

(The AP said the prime minister also departed from his text by words 'peace' and 'trade.'"

Vice-President Nixon Will Answer Stevenson's Charges Against Republican Record

ATTACKS McCARTHY

In Washington, Senator Ralph E. Flanders (Rep., Vt.) says Senator Joseph McCarthy, Wisconsin, is a "one-man party" who is "doing his best to shatter" the Republican party while diverting the nation's attention from important issues. Flanders (above) said, in senate speech, that McCarthy represents a party of his own "whose name is McCarthyism, a title which he has proudly accepted." (Central Press Canadian.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon presents the case for the Republican administration tonight in a radio-television address while a family fight rages in the party over Senator Joseph McCarthy and some of his investigative aides.

McCarthy protested Friday that defence department officials had attempted to "blackmail" his investigations sub - committee into dropping a probe of the army. The Wisconsin Republican made public a document that represented Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens as trying to divert the group's attention to a search for wrong-doing in the navy and air force, and the defence department itself.

Stevens and John G. Adams, the army's general counsel, termed the accusations untrue. McCarthy had said Adams told him several months ago that a report embarrassing to the sub-committee would be made public unless an investigation of the army were called off.

WHO'S LYING?

Before the day was over, some Republicans as well as Democrats in the Senate were demanding investigations to determine who is telling the truth in the welter of accusations.

Nixon had been designated last Monday to deliver the party's reply to last week's criticism by Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee. One of Stevenson's themes was a description of the Republican party as "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

President Eisenhower had backed Stevens and Adams in an earlier row with McCarthy, the secretary on the ground that army witnesses against any "abuse" at the hands of investigating committees.

The explosion that again shattered the peace between Stevens and McCarthy came when Senate sources made public an army report in staff efforts were made to get special treatment for G. David Schine, an unpaid consultant to McCarthy's sub-committee, after Schine was drafted last November as a private.

McCarthy's retort of "blackmail" was prompted by mention of charges he said came from the sub-committee files, depicting officials trying to sidetrack probes of army matters.

WON'T DODGE ISSUE

Nixon said he will "not dodge the issues" in tonight's speech, which will be carried at 10:30 p.m. EST over CBS television and radio networks. The Columbia broadcasting system will carry a week ago.

There was no advance text of his speech. He discussed the plans in this Nashville district, most rural dwellers still prefer the ancient well.

Pray All Night For Success Of Revival

By JOHN DUDMAN.

LONDON (Reuters) — About 1,200 churchgoers emerged from three London churches into a cold, grey dawn today after praying all night for the success of American evangelist Billy Graham's rellgious crusade.

Members of Graham's "team" helped the vicars of the widely scattered churches in services from 10.30 p.m. last night to 6 a.m.

Biggest get-together was at St. Paul's church, Portman square, in central London where 800 packed the pews. Another 200 turned up at a tabernacle in the tough south-central Elephant and Castle district and 200 more at St. Mary Magdalene church in Holloway, a north London industrial area.

There was only one short break in the prayer sessions—at 2 a.m. when everyone stopped to have tea and cakes.

GRAHAM DELIGHTED.

A member of the American team said Graham was "delighted" with the support the churches had given him. He thinks all-night prayer meetings probably will be held soon.

Today Graham rested up for another nightly "marathon" tonight session. He will hold three revival meetings in London's vast Harringay arena.

Last night about 2,500 persons were turned away from the arena after 12,000 had been admitted. Another 8,000 heard the service over loudspeakers in an outdoor refreshment tent.

Attendance figures have reached 145,000 since Graham opened in London nearly two weeks ago. Last night a record number of 335 persons made their "Decision for Christ."

Tomorrow Graham will make his first appearance on British television in a 20-minute BBC-TV program.

Interest Rate On New Housing Fixed at 5½ P.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — The interest rate under the government's new housing legislation will be fixed initially at 5½ per cent, it was learned Friday.

There has been pressure by lending institutions to have the rate boosted to 5¾ per cent from the current 5, but a shift in the rate on long-term government bonds prevents a jump to 5¾.

The new rate will be incorporated in regulations to be issued by the government when the legislation, now before the Senate, gets final approval, possibly within the next two weeks.

The government also plans to boost the ceiling on National Housing Act mortgage loans to $12,800 from the current $10,000. This also will be included in the regulations.

Meanwhile, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has set up an expanded organization, ready to place the new legislation into operation the moment it gets royal assent.

CMHC officials said they have expanded loans offices across the country to 81 from 30.

Star Says Six Firms Received $29,207,490

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Star said in a newspage story Friday that six construction firms whose bonds are guaranteed solely by provincial police received contracts totalling $29,207,490 from the provincial highways department in the five-year period ended last March 31.

The story says the information came from Ontario public accounts, issued annually by the government. The public accounts report in detail payments by all government departments. Total road contracts in the period were reported at $154,378,800.

Seizure of the books was announced Monday by Attorney-General Porter who said they would be turned over to a private firm investigating the highways department.

The Star listed amounts of contracts for each of the firms in the five-year period as follows: H. J. McFarland Construction Co., Toronto, $9,288,257; Hamilton Bros., Ltd., Toronto, $8,468,582; Berg Construction Co., Toronto, $3,693,993 Hewitson Construction Co., Port Arthur, $3,281,801; Wolfe Construction Co., Timmins, $2,926,562; Hacquoil Construction Co., Fort William, $1,139,205.

SUN YAT-SEN HONORED

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China Friday observed the 88th anniversary of the death of Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic. The anniversary, commemorated as Mothers' Day, was marked by numerous tree-planting ceremonies.

URANIUM BUSH IN SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Axe, packsack and geiger counter are the tools of the dozens of prospectors swarming to the Sparrow Lake area, north of Orillia, Ont., where reports of a uranium discovery have been made. Ken Hunt is one of the prospectors from Peterborough.

A new toy for children of Fort Stanton is the geiger counter used to detect presence of uranium. Fort Stanton is the last town in the path of uranium prospectors converging on the Sparrow Lake bush area to stake uranium claims. Teddy Martin listens while Len Cunningham, prospector from Cobalt, Ont., tests his "counter."

Education, Health and Social Services Will Benefit Most

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Education, health and social security programs will benefit most from the $128,000,000 Canadian provinces expect to collect in sales taxes in the 1954-55 fiscal year.

Most of the increase is to be reinvested at about $102,000,000 and $25,000,000 of the anticipated increase will be paid in British Columbia family allowances announced this week from three to five per cent.

New Brunswick, where the tax was lowered to three from four per cent Wednesday, expects a drop of $1,750,000 in revenue from that source, while Alberta, Newfoundland, Saskatchewan, the other provinces with provincial sales taxes, anticipate modest increases.

QUEBEC TAXES

Quebec has a two per cent provincial tax but this is increased in many cities and towns by a municipal tax of one or two per cent, and an education tax of one per cent. Municipalities in Montreal and Quebec, for example, is five per cent.

The tax rate in Saskatchewan and Newfoundland is three per cent.

Ontario has a four per cent retail provincial tax, anticipates the greatest revenue in 1954-55. This is expected to amount to $60,000,000, compared with $35,000,000 under the old levy, known as the social services and municipal aid tax.

Part of this money will be paid as grants to municipalities. The share is one-third where the levy was three per cent and newspapers will be exempted. It will be one-fifth of the new levy.

The remaining money is used for social services such as hospital grants, mothers' allowances for the aged and blind, and welfare cases. British Columbia have paid provincial sales taxes since 1948.

Quebec, where the provincial tax rate is the current rate in the country, is reinvested at about $102,000,000 and $25,000,000 of the anticipated increase will be paid in British Columbia family allowances announced this week from three to five per cent.

Think Cigaret Butt Caused Empress of Canada Blaze

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters) — A cigaret butt probably caused the fire which gutted the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada in dock here in January, 1953, a government-appointed court of inquiry said today.

The liner heeled over and sank after fire had raged in her for hours. Last Saturday she was hauled back to an almost even keel in one of the greatest feats in maritime salvage history.

The government-appointed court listed several discrepancies between the evidence it took at the port and the principles recommended were:

1. No liaison existed between the owners and the fire brigade in relation to the ship.
2. Fire-patrol frequency was below the recommended standard.
3. A direct telephone line from ship to fire brigade was not available.
4. The fire main was uncharged and no alternatives had been provided.
5. Fire doors and water - tight doors were not closed.
6. Gas cylinders would not appear to have been so wisely disposed as possible.

PATROLLING SYSTEM SCORED

The ship captured after the blaze because of a lightening of weight on the starboard side, caused by the fire and the seepage ofmost water from the starboard to the port side, the report said.

It added that it was difficult to explain why the fire remained undetected long enough for the buildup of considerable heat and gases inside the ship.

"It may well be, however, that the patrolling system was something less than effective; and the ventilating system, plus false deckheads and other fixtures, aided concealment until it was too late."

Of smoking by men working on ships in port, the court said:

Two Surveyors Find Body Of New-Born Baby

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two surveyors found the body of a newborn baby girl in a creek at Dr. Thames river north of London.

The body was wrapped in old newspapers and wrapping paper and stuffed into a coal sack.

Coroner Dr. A. R. Routledge said it was apparent no doctor was present at the birth and the child had been dead for three or four days at the most. He ordered a post mortem to decide if the child was born alive.

The newspapers wrapping the body were dated March 4.

"It was clear from evidence that smoking was carried on to a considerable extent on the Empress of Canada."

NO INCENDIARISM CLUES

The report said incendiarism was a possibility, but in the absence of any clues there was no reason to believe that the ship would be the subject of such an attempt.

"In this connection it is most unfortunate that when access was obtained to the starboard side of the ship after the fire no attempt was made to investigate the debris which was all swept away and disposed of, thus removing all the evidence of possible incendiarism. Why this was done was left unexplained."

Dealing with the question of fighting the blaze, the report stated: "The treatment of this important matter by the chief officer and the assistant-chief engineer appears to have been casual in the extreme."

Use of Boracic Acid in Hospital Is Discontinued

TORONTO (CP)—As official of the Hospital for Sick Children here said Friday its "internal directive" has been issued that the use of boric acid, also known as boracic acid, be discontinued in the hospital.

He said the action was taken by doctors trying to counteract a certain type of poisoning which might conceivably be caused by boric acid.

He was commenting on a report written by two Montreal doctors—R. B. Goldbloom and A. Goldbloom —in the Journal of Pediatrics. They said of boric acid:

"Its use in any form of medical treatment, particularly as applied to infants and children, should be discontinued."

The powder, used by some mothers to combat baby ailments such as diaper rash, is absorbed through sensitive membranes as well as in cuts and scrapes.

The Journal report said if a baby under one year of age is poisoned by boric acid, death occurs in more than 70 per cent of the cases. In older persons poisoned with boric acid, the death rate was higher, 55 per cent.

The Montreal doctors said the medical value of boric acid in combating germs is slight.

Unemployment In United States Still on Upgrade

WASHINGTON, — (AP) — Unemployment in the United States, continuing its rise, reached 3,671,000 in February by the latest government estimate.

It's anybody's guess whether the key March figure to be published next month will show a decline hoped for by President Eisenhower.

The president said some weeks ago that if the March jobless total fell under 3,000,000 he considered the economy on the upgrade.

The census bureau reported Friday that U.S. unemployment rose 584,000 in February.

The jump left nearly one out of new controversy. The C.I.O. walking with a statement when the census figures were announced, called the new total, "a disgrace and a shame."

Government spokesmen say there are signs that unemployment's trend is slowing. However, the clues to what may happen to March unemployment are not so far conclusive.

SALVAGE JOB

OSLO (CP) — Salvage workers have taken 25,000 tons of steel from the German battleship Tirpitz, sunk by British bombers near Tromso during the Second World War. Another 10,000 tons is expected to be salvaged from the 45,000-ton wreck.

TWO-WAY CAT

NEWARK, England (CP)—Tug, a black-and-white cat, left his owner's home in Newark-on-Trent six miles to his old home at Mansfield. After getting a meal there from a neighbor, the cat walked back to its master.

Fellow Prisoner Quotes Two Youths as Saying They Shot Brokerage Firm's Messenger

BARRIE (CP)—A man who met two Toronto youths in Barrie jail last fall said Friday they both talked freely about the fatal shooting of Fred Cameron, 37-year-old Toronto brokerage house messenger. He quoted both youths as saying they killed Cameron, whose body was found in a ditch near here Oct. 30.

Morley Sallows of Newcastle testified at the murder trial of William Kingsley, 19, and Francis Robertson, 21, that on the last night of a term he served for stripping bull, he shared a cell with Robertson.

"I don't know how the conversation came about but we were talking about the murder," Sallows said. "He talked quite freely about it. He said he and Kingsley murdered Cameron.

"He said if he had to do it over again, he wouldn't do it. He said he was pretty mad at the time but did not say what about. He said they had used his father's car. The gun had been used, he told me, was a .32 automatic."

NOT BRAGGING

Robertson's counsel, G. D. Finlayson, said in a cross-examining Sallows:

"I suggest Robertson was talking big, bragging, talking of gangs, guns and things children read about in comic books."

"No," said Sallows. "He said he had more guns or could get more."

Sallows said he also talked with Kingsley in jail. When he met Kingsley, he asked the youth why he was in jail.

"He told me he had been charged with murder. He told me he and Robertson both used the same gun. He said they had fired seven shots, I believe. It was a .32 automatic."

It is the crown's theory that the youths killed the former Scottish professional soccer player to rob him, then drove him from Toronto to the area where his body was found.

Much of Friday's hearing was given over to legal argument about admissibility of testimony.

Administrator Says Charges Not Factual

KITCHENER (CP) — Walter Hatch, administrator of Kitchener-Waterloo General Hospital, denied charges against the hospital by an official of the Registered Nurses Association here are not factual.

Florence H. Walker, general secretary-treasurer of the association, said at Toronto three nurses were dismissed or dismissed Feb. 15 without notice and given 24 hours to leave the residence.

Mr. Hatch said Friday:

"The number of this release would have been well advised to have come to Kitchener and got the true story.

"We felt that the progra mot nurses in question were given a month's pay and holiday allowances.

St. Laurent Rests As Plane Wings Way High Over Pacific

TOKYO (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, his round-the-world flight on the homeward lap, relaxed today several thousand feet above the blue Pacific on the home leg to Ottawa and a parliamentary report on his travels.

He took off from Tokyo International airport this morning in the RCAF's C-5 transport which had carried him to London, Paris, Bonn, Rome, Karachi, New Delhi, Jakarta, Manila, Seoul and Honolulu with a few intermediate stops, since he left Ottawa March 1.

In a farewell statement at the airport, the Canadian leader said he is "going back to report to the Canadian Parliament" on his tour, "to tell of the friendly, cordial, cordial and confidence-inspiring reception we received."

MANY GOOD FRIENDS

"I think I can say we have lots of good friends all over the world, and nowhere have we better friends than here in Japan."

Despite holding on to his hat in a stiff breeze, the prime minister lingered to shake hands and chat with the leader of a police band that greeted him on the tarmac and to say good-bye to him here as well. The Japanese musicians played "Auld Lang Syne."

Then he went down the line of diplomats and Japanese officials, who included the chief court chamberlain, the foreign affairs chief, representing Emperor Hirohito, and deputy premier Takeo Ogata. Finally he shook hands with each member of his police guard.

The plane will fly to Ottawa by way of Midway Island, Honolulu and San Francisco.

HAWAIIAN VISIT QUIET

The Midway stop will be for refuelling and only unofficial functions are scheduled for the Hawaii visit. Mr. St. Laurent will fly to Honolulu today at 4:30 p.m. Hawaiian time (11:30 p.m. EST) and will leave for San Francisco and Ottawa Monday morning.

In Honolulu the prime minister will place a wreath on the rusting hulk of the battleship Arizona, sunk by Japanese planes in the Pearl Harbor attack that brought the United States into the Second World War Dec. 7, 1941.

He also will pay an unofficial call on acting governor Farrant L. Turner Monday morning, and will make an informal tour of Pearl Harbor with Admiral Felix B. Stump, American commander-in-chief in the Pacific. Tomorrow has been set aside for "rest and work."

Pollce Officer "Planted" in Cell

Testifying at the murder trial of William Kingsley and Francis Robertson at Barrie, Ont., Police Sergeant Allan Ayres said he had been "planted" in prison to listen to the conversation between the two accused. Kingsley and Robertson are alleged to have shot Fred Cameron, Toronto brokerage messenger, and to have left his body in a ditch near Barrie. Ayres, above, testified that the accused talked of their forthcoming trial. (Central Press Canadian).

Malenkov Says Russia Wants To End Cold War

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Malenkov says Russia wants peaceful economic competition" with the west and an end to the cold war.

That was the focal point of his review of Soviet foreign policy received last night with loud cheering by 2,000 of his constituents at an election rally in preparation for tomorrow's polling in the supreme Soviet elections.

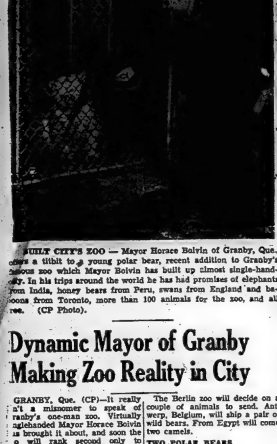
Malenkov said it is not true that mankind is faced with only two possibilities—"a new world slaughter" or the continuation of the cold war. Any international problem, however difficult, can be resolved peacefully, he said.

He pronounces agreements with foreign countries was Russia's aim.

"We can express satisfaction that London may be beginning to appreciate the importance of developing economic ties with the Soviet Union."

The "main obstacle"- to easing world tension and the western approach to international problems was a closed military group."

There was no security for Europe with the European Defence Community and with West German militarists will play the leading part."



"There is no doubt that given a genuine desire to ensure the security of Europe it would be possible to overcome all difficulties preventing the conclusion of a collective security pact in Europe."

Diplomatic observers here regard certain references in the foreign-policy part of the speech as a hint that Soviet Russia will try at the forthcoming Geneva conference of powers to have a fresh discussion of her European security proposals which was rejected at the Berlin Big Four conference last month.

Operator Tips Off Police On Station Robbery

AJAX (CP)—Marylyn Johnston, a telephone operator, heard the sounds of a scuffle over an open line Friday night and tipped off police that a robbery was in progress at the Ajax railway station about 15 miles east of Toronto, moments after the thugs had fled in a car with an undetermined amount of cash. Milton, 42, told police they then followed him into the station after buying gasoline. He said he thought the men were joking when they first told him it was a hold-up. He picked up the telephone, he said, but one of the men knocked it out of his hands.

He said he then was pushed into the grease room and was beaten. He was taken to hospital with severe head cuts and bruises.

BUILT CITY'S ZOO — Mayor Horace Bolvin of Granby, Que., offers a titbit to a young polar bear, recent addition to Granby's famous zoo which Mayor Bolvin has built up almost single-handedly. In his trips around the world he has had promises of elephants from India, honey bears from Peru, swans from England and baboons from Toronto, more than 100 animals for the zoo, and all free. (CP Photo).

Dynamic Mayor of Granby Making Zoo Reality in City

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—It really isn't a misnomer to speak of Granby's one-man zoo. Virtually single-handed Mayor Horace Bolvin has brought it about, and soon the zoo will rank second only to the provincial parliament at Quebec City.

The dynamic mayor, who thinks and acts in terms of his 19,000-population should reach 100 one day, has done just that. The nice thing about it is that the acquisition of the animals and birds hasn't cost the city a cent. Also, the mayor's zeal was contagious and business firms have pledged themselves to donate food for the lifetime of their specially sponsored zoo residents. The land itself, about 80 acres, was donated by Notre Dame parish.

TRIP TO THE FORE

It was his travels about the world as a business man-mayor has made Granby and zoo almost synonymous in his enthusiastic conversation with almost everyone he meets. Most of the animals are in barns for the winter but new buildings are being erected—the plans decided by local architects—and during the year arrivals are expected from two elephants. They are gifts from India.

Mrs. Lina, Peru, pledged a pair of honey bears and penguins; Santiago, Chile, one pair of animals, species yet undecided.

Montreal's famous Regent Park Zoo will send along a pair of black bears, a porcupine. Two light brown bears, offspring of Himalayan animals, will be donated by Zurich, Switzerland.

The Berlin zoo will decide on a couple of animals to send. Antwerp, Belgium, will ship a pair of wild bears. From Egypt will come two camels.

TWO POLAR BEARS

The zoo's polar bear will be joined by another from Churchill, Man., through courtesy of Capt. Pat Campbell, whose father, Dr. James Campbell, is curator of the Toronto zoo. Dr. Campbell, honorary president of the Granby Zoological Society, is contributing a pair of barbary sheep. The Charlesbourg zoo has pledged a llama.

Calgary has made contributions a pair of coyotes and a hawk. The KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, in co-operation with the city of Amsterdam, will send either tigers or leopards. Lars Christiansen of the Christiansen South African-Canadian Steamship Lines has given two zebras.

Toronto became one of the largest single contributors when Mayor Alan Lamport gave Granby a pair of baboons. The Winnipeg Lions Club contributed a lion cub.

The zoo came into existence almost unnoticed in 1943 when the municipal parks of Canada gave Granby two North American bison. But the real growth began in 1946 and since then the mayor and his fellow-townsmen have become constantly more ambitious.

HUNGARY ENDS MARTIAL LAW

VIENNA (Reuters)—The Communist regime in Hungary has abolished martial law, introduced in 1949 when it seized power. The legal position now has been "consolidated," Budapest radio said in a broadcast heard in Austria.

HUMOR IN KOREA — When the members of Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea put up a sign at the entrance to the Canadian sector, identifying it as Canadian, Australian and New Zealanders promptly added a map of Australia and a kiwi bird to point out they also were in the area. Commanders of the Commonwealth Division say it's just part of the good-natured kidding among Commonwealth troops. Jack Brayley, Canadian Press staff writer, now in Korea, stands beside the sign. (CP from National Defence).

Men of 1st Commonwealth Division Have Good Time

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The well-seasoned 1st Commonwealth Division, with Canada's 25th Brigade as its striking head, is also made up of Britons, Australians and New Zealanders. And the words of its commander, everything is "going like a train."

The commander is Maj.-Gen. Horatio Murray, former CO of a battalion of the Gordon Highlanders, who thinks the main reason his troops get on so well is because they have the same sense of humor and the same broad objects in life.

There's a lot of good-natured kidding, especially about the "wealthy" Canadians, but the general says no one ever gets sore.

Jack Brayley

An example of the kidding was the recent job done on a Canadian sign. The Canadians, under Brig. Jean Allard, occupy a section called Northland. They erected a sign which carries the red and gold maple leaf brigade patch and says: "You are now entering Northland."

The Aussies and New Zealanders added in equally large letters "... not entire," and pointed out that units of their groups were in the same area.

"This is the sort of stuff that keeps us all happy," said the general.

He said the other three parts of the Commonwealth perhaps have more games in common like cricket and football while the Canucks are exclusive patrons of hockey and baseball. They all get together, however, in basketball and volleyball tournaments.

Visits were exchanged by the messes and "we've had no serious case of disagreement," Gen. Murray continued with a smile.

Everything is smooth, too, he said, in the conduct of divisional operations.

"When I want something done I just ask Brig. Allard to do it but I don't tell him how and that's our secret of getting along so well," the Briton said. "We all do things a little differently but we achieve the same results and in results we're interested in out here."

Symbolic of the growth of our country is the record of expansion at General Motors' eight great plants in Canada. Every division has new buildings or large additions either recently completed or now under way—and soon the total of our plant area in Canada will exceed 190 acres under roof.

The More People we Employ...

The More Wages we Pay...

The More we Buy from All Canada...

The More VALUE we Give You!

To a motorist, our name means motor cars, first and foremost. But to a businessman it may mean trucks; to a railwayman it may mean powerful diesel locomotives; to many a housewife it stands for gleaming electric appliances.

And none of these people is wrong—for General Motors makes, in its eight Canadian factories, all of these things and dozens more besides. They are as diverse as washing machines and jet fighter plane components, but all have the common bond of General Motors' better value.

In part this better value which characterizes GM products springs from our vast technical resources. These include laboratories, proving grounds and the highly skilled specialists who man them. These great resources can exist because our customers are so numerous. Their purchases keep 22,000 Canadians busy in our plants, earning more than $80,000,000 a year in wages. Those same purchases require that we spend more than a million dollars every working day for supplies and services. And, of course, people buy confidently from us because of the better value they find in General Motors products. And so the circle is complete.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Exit the Champions!

The Kingston Goodyears passed out of the Senior "B" hockey picture here last night, falling 9-5 before a smooth-working Oshawa machine that had command of the situation throughout the 60 minutes of fierid hockey. The Goodyears, gallant in defeat, congratulated their conquerors at game end in the first gesture of sportsmanship, and Coach Johnny Carr-Harris and Manager Art Casterton smiled through their disappointment.

There was no question as to which was the better team. Playing coach Ernie Dickens generalled his forces in a brilliant manner and was one of the stars himself. Veteran Joey Caflin came up with an outstanding exhibition for the Goodies and while his legs may be a little weak, the old Caflin fighting spirit was apparent all night.

Referees "Moe" Walsh and Jim Crombie nearly developed "thumb paralysis" in the first period when they handed out 14 penalties, ten of them coming in the first ten minutes. They kept the game under control and twice penalized the teams for delaying the game and having too many men on the ice. The squads settled down to hockey in the latter two periods and the Kingston sons had a flicker of hope when the Goodyears tied up the pastime with quick goals in the second session.

But the Truckmen superiority re-asserted itself and the Oshawans again forged to the front to romp home with the victory.

Manager Wren Blair stated that he did not know where the Truckmen will play their home games until after the club officials hold a meeting on Sunday. It would be either Orillia, Belleville or Belleville. The final series opens on Wednesday night with either Peterborough or Orillia. These teams play the sixth game of their series in Orillia tonight and a win for the Foles will see them "in."

WELLINGTON – FLYERS

With temperatures down to normal and no serious injuries or suspensions reported, the good burghers of the village of Wellington are set and poised ready for another series in the Trent Valley League. This time the Dukes, who ousted the hard-fighting Trenton Carr Admirals out of the picture the other night, meet further stern opposition when they tangle with the Trenton ECAF Flyers on Monday night in the first game of the best-of-three southern section semi-finals.

This clash should be equally as good as the Wellington-Trenton joust for the flyboys have a hard-checking, fast-skating squad that gave a good account of itself in schedule play. They eliminated the Belle team in a strenuous best-of-three series and the Dukes, flushed with their victory over Trenton, should not sell the Flyers short. The winners of this series take on the Point Anne squad, which in turn, will meet the winners of the Marmora-Havelock tussle for the league championship.

Wholesale ever said that spring was associated with baseball, softball, golf balls, new suits, fishing, warm balmy evenings, and if you are the right age, a new trend in housecleaning? Looks like this year sportswriters will jump from a hockey playoff square onto King Billy's white-horse in the Glorious Twelfth parade, or if they extend the series, to a civic holiday golf tournament.

LOTS OF LUCK!

Jim MacKenzie, eastern Ontario bowling champion for 1954, left for Toronto yesterday and by the time this hits the streets Jim will be in the throes of competition in the Molson Bowling Classic men's singles championship tourney at the Sportsmen's Show.

The twelve contestants representing the dozen provincial zones have names matched at eight in relays of six. They repeat the performances tonight and the low four will be eliminated.

On Monday and Tuesday eight bowlers participate in the same manner with the low pair dropping out. On Wednesday six bowlers roll 'em with the lower two being eliminated. On Thursday the remainder face keglers four games in the afternoon and four in the evening in match play. On Saturday the remaining finalists play five games at 4 p.m. and five at 9.30. The winner will pick up a $500 cheque.

SOFTBALL ANNUAL!

The Belleville and District Softball Association will hold its annual meeting at Radio Station CJBQ on Tuesday night next, officials said yesterday. With the pronounced success of 1953 taking the form of a challenge, it is hoped the necessary co-operation and sportsmanship will be on hand to make 1954 bigger and better.

President Cy Barrigar has announced his retirement from the official ranks, so this year will see a new prexy in the chair. Election of officers is on the agenda for the Tuesday night confab and it is hoped a large attendance will be on hand.

The association can hold its head high over its achievements last year, when the largest number of teams to represent the city in years went down the OASA playdown trails. It was a distinct feather in the city's softball cap, and softball enthusiasts feel that with everybody putting his shoulder to the wheel an even better record can be established in the coming season.

However, it is none too soon to get organized as in all probability there will be a few "wrinkles to be ironed out" before the loop gets under way.

The OASA annual convention is slated for North Bay over the Easter holiday, and as in former years, the BDSS will likely have representation. OASA district convener Don Low and this department will attend the get-together along with the league delegates.

FIND VOTE STEALING

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate sub-committee, split on party lines, Thursday recommended unseating Senator Dennis Chavez, New Mexico Democrat, on the ground that there was "flagrant" vote-stealing and other irregularities in New Mexico's 1952 senatorial election.

Will Replace Injured Kennedy Against Tough Boston Bruins; Rangers Play Two With Wings

By Ed Simon
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Opportunity knocks again tonight for Danny Lewicki, just three years after he burst into the big time.

The 23-year-old Port William flash was tagged as "hockey's greatest prospect" by Managing Director Conn Smythe when he first hit the Toronto Maple Leaf line-up as a left-winger. A smooth stickhandler, he had looked wonderful with Toronto Marlboro junior and senior teams in the Leaf farm system.

He scored 16 goals in his rookie year. But the following season he produced only four in 51 games and finished the season with Pittsburgh Hornets in the American League.

Three times since then Lewicki has taken the train ride from Pittsburgh to Toronto and back, gaining one goal and three assists and 14 minutes in penalties.

RETURNS TONIGHT

He returns tonight with little fanfare, a converted centre with 36 goals and 45 assists in AHL play this season, filling the slot vacated by Ted Kennedy, Leaf sharpshooter and captain, who suffered a groin injury in Montreal Thursday night.

Lewicki can make lots of friends with a good showing against Boston Bruins in the Leaf home-and-home series.

Either club can come close to clinching its final playoff position with a double victory. The Leafs lead Boston Bruins by three points in their contest for second place with the Bruins have a similar margin over New York Rangers for fourth.

The Canadiens have a chance to pick up points in a double bill with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks starting at Montreal tonight. The Rangers, on the other hand, face tough sledding against the league-leading Red Wings in Detroit tonight and New York Sunday.

2 CANADIENS OUT

Toronto and Montreal left each other badly bruised as the Leafs took a 4-2 decision Thursday. Knee injuries to Canadien defenceman Bud MacPherren and forward Calum MacKay and centre Ken Mosdell's sore ribs may keep all three out of action against Chicago.

The Rangers will have trouble finding an adequate replacement for Wilbert Hergesheimer, their 27-goal right-winger, who suffered a fractured leg in Boston Thursday.

Training Camp Notes

TAMPA, Fla. (CP)—Bob Boyd, bidding for the first-base job with Chicago White Sox after moving up from Toronto Maple Leafs late last season, smoked a home run but was out trying to stretch his hit into a triple Friday as the rookie-studded Sox dropped an 11-7 decision to Cincinnati Reds.

Jocko Thompson, former Toronto and Baltimore southpaw, pitched the first three innings for the losers and left with a 4-2 margin but rookie Bill Fisher, a returning serviceman, was hit hard in the late innings for the loss.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—Paul Petera, pitcher with no professional experience, throttled New York Giants on five hits for four runs and gained credit for Philadelphia Phillies' 2-1 victory over the world champions.

A two-run homer by Del Ennis produced the winning tallies in the first inning.

BRADENTON, Fla. (CP)—Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished last in the National League last season and are generally favored to repeat, belted six home runs Friday to rout Milwaukee Braves 25-11 in their exhibition game.

Jerry Lynch, a rookie outfielder, slammed a homer, two triples and a double to highlight the Pirates' 19-hit attack, which produced a nine-run seventh inning.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (CP) — Willie Mays sparked New York Giants to a 13-5 victory over Cleveland Indians Friday by slamming two successive home runs off Cleveland Ace Mike Garcia.

The victory snapped a four-game Giant losing streak.

Kesselring Stays Near Top In Baton Rouge Open

BATON ROUGE, La. (CP)—Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, remained within two strokes of the leaders Friday at the half-way mark of the $10,000 Baton Rouge Professional Golfers Association open.

Kesselring shot even par 72 Friday for a 36-hole total of 140. Pre-tournament favorite Carry Middlecoff and opening day leader Ted Kroll led with 138's and Ed Furgol had 139. Seven other golfers were tied with Kesselring in fourth place.

Bob Dean of Cornwall had a half-way total of 149.

Valdes Verdicts J. J. Parker In Lacklustre Bout

By Murray Rose

NEW YORK (AP)His prestige dimmed by a lacklustre victory over Canada's James J. Parker, Nino Valdes of Cuba today planned a European invasion to bolster his chances for a September title shot at heavyweight champion "Rocky" Marciano.

In fact, his prestige was dimmed so much that chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State athletic commission said Valdes' title-fight application cheque is being returned. The Cuban had posted $500 as a challenge for Marciano's title.

"Of last night's fight we can't consider him a worthy challenger," said Christenberry, but he added: "Things can change. I can time Marciano meets Ezzard Charles in June."

TO FIGHT SYS

The 29-year-old Cuban champion, No. 2 heavyweight contender, will first fight Belgian Karel Sys in Antwerp in April, manager Bobby Gen said.

Valdes scored his seventh straight victory by outpointing the tiny-fisted Parker, who comes from Barrett, Ont., but now fights out of Paterson, N.J. The decision was unanimous, but Nino failed to impress the Madison Square Garden fans, ringside and television-wise across the country. The gross gate was $12,619.

Parker, a six-foot-three heavyweights were expected to put on a thrilling show, but the customers booed and stamped their feet and there wasn't anything resembling a knockdown even though Parker came into the ring with 22 knockout scalps and Nino with 20 to his credit.

HURTS HAND

"I hurt my right hand in the fourth round," said Valdes, "otherwise I knock him out in the sixth or seventh round."

Valdes, 215 pounds, and Parker, 210, mauled away mostly at close quarters.

The loss snapped Parker's win streak at nine and was his fifth defeat against 26 victories. Valdes racked up his 30th win against eight defeats.

Sawchuk, Lumley May End In Tie For Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) —If Harry Lumley of Toronto Maple Leafs and Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings finish in a deadlock for goal-tending honors the National Hockey League may be out an extra $1,000.

It has never happened before—two clubs finishing the regular schedule with an equal number of goals scored against them.

In the rousing battle between the leading goalies Sawchuk has a three-goal edge but the Red Wings have six games left while the Leafs have five. They have fought it out all season, Lumley scoring his 12th shutout Thursday night at the expense of Montreal Canadiens.

"I don't see what we could do if there is a tie except set up a duplicate award," said NHL president Clarence Campbell Friday. "After all, each goalie would be a winner, wouldn't he?"

Lumley and Sawchuk then would be joint owners of the Vezina Trophy and would collect the $1,000 money award, $1,000. The trophy and cash go to the goalie who has played the most games for his team with the least number of goals scored against it.

Fifteen Year-Olds Win Junior Titles In Canadian Skating Championships

By Phil Adler
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) Two young skaters, one of them making her debut in major competition, won the junior titles Friday night in the Canadian figure skating championships.

Joan Sinclair, 15-year-old blonde from Calgary and Schumacher, Ont., won the junior women's singles crown with a 34-point margin. Donald Knudsen, 15, of Ottawa, also 15, took the men's championship by 35 points. Ii was Miss Sinclair's first appearance in the championships.

Two other champions also were crowned to wind—up the junior bracket of the competition. Senior women's and men's singles, pairs and dances will be held tonight.

TORONTO PAIR WIN

The Canadian junior pairs title went to Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul of Toronto who skated to an easy win over four other sets.

Top laurels for junior dancers were taken by Vancouver's Doreen Leech and Norman Walker. They swept the event with little difficulty. There were two other entries.

Calgary's Glencoe club, hosts for the three-day competition, made a clean sweep of the junior women's singles. Runner-up to Miss Sinclair was clubmate Dianne Williams with Karen Dixon in show position.

The new women's champion took first place in all five school places Thursday which gave her a wide lead going into the free skating.

The heavy competition of the ice took little away from Miss Shipman's performance of precision manoeuvres skated to the rhythm of the Warsaw Concerto.

She took over the figure skating when she was nine years old and for the last three years has been averaging five hours of practice a day. The work paid off Friday night when the five judges each awarded her first place.

Daughter of the manager of the Timmins Chamber of Commerce, her ambition is to become the world's senior and Olympic champion.

Rimmer, third in last year's title race won in Ottawa by Douglas Court of Toronto, started figure skating five years ago. He earned the championship by placing first in four school figures and fourth in the other while four of the judges scored him tops in the free skating.

Walker was second in total points while David Lowery of Oshawa improved his standing to third in the free skating after being edged into fourth place in the school figures by a single point. His clubmate Lennart Loevmarck who was awarded third place after the figures, slipped to fourth in the final.

There were 15 entries in the women's singles and eight in the men's.

Oshawa Truckmen Oust Kingston Goodyears From Sr. B Group Playoffs

Defeat Former Champions 9-5 In Rugged Boisterous Battle; Take Semi-Finals Series 4-1

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Kingston's 1953 Senior "B" champions passed into hockey oblivion here last night, when the smooth-working Oshawa Truckmen defeated them 9-5 to win their fourth victory of the best-of-seven Senior "B" semi-finals. The Truckmen, who meet the Peterborough-Orillia series winner for the group title, defeated the Goodyears four games to one.

It was sweet revenge for the Oshawans, who led the Goodyears 3-1 in the 1953-53 series only to blow the next three games. Kingston went on to win the Ontario title.

It was a boisterous, hard-hitting battle with 20 penalties being handed out by Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie, 10 of them coming within the first ten minutes of the first period. The game at this point pointed towards a general Donnybrook as both teams bashed one another with everything but the rafters.

Both Kingston and Oshawa were penalized for delaying the game and both teams suffered through having too many men on the ice. Oshawa's McBeth drew the only extra sentence, a misconduct in the first period for vocalizing to Referee Walsh.

Nearly 1,800 fans, a lot of them from Kingston saw the Truckmen take a 3-1 lead in the first period when the squads managed to score four goals between penalties. Kingston roared back early in the second session to tie the count at four. Ernie Dickens and his crew fired home a trio of markers in the latter part of the period to win the game on ice.

The Goodyears whittled the score to 6-4 midway through the third heat but the Truckmen were not to be denied and their passing attack and hard-hitting heavy checking defence accounted for three tallies before the final gun sounded. Kingsbanged home the final marker with less than three minutes to go.

The Thaler-Samolenko-Wilson line was the best offensively for the Truckmen with Thaler scoring three goals and an assist; Samolenko, one, and Wilson, a three-goal. Ernie Dickens, Harry Sinden, Samanski, and Fred Etcher were the other scorers.

Veteran Joey Catlin played a whale of a game for the Goodyears, scoring two goals and batting all the way through. Geo. McGregor, Nick Nicholson and Johnny Sagan accounted for the rest.

However when the gong rang the bind of hostilities, the teams fraternized in mid-ice with the Goodyears shaking hands with their conquerors and wishing them success in the forthcoming finals and playdowns.

NO PLACE TO PLAY

Manager Wren Blair said it had not been decided as yet where the Oshawa Truckmen - Orillia series would play their home games in the three-way final series starting next Wednesday with the Truckmen hosts to either Peterborough or Orillia.

There was little hockey—so to speak in the first period as minutes of the first period when the teams in a weird display of checking and bodying for one another penalties mounted to 38 minutes. One was McBeth's misconduct. Players of both teams argued and Referee Walsh penalized both teams for delaying the game. Players sentenced were Goo. McGregor opened the scoring at seven minutes when he banged home Kenny Parks' pass from Olinski. Just past the midway Ernie Truckmen forged their belligerency and Ernie Dickens sank Harry Sinden's pass from behind for the equalizer.

There were as many men in the clinch as there were on ice at one time and after 18 minutes of play Referee Walsh put the whistle in the air off Johnson's pads and Sinden swooped in to give the Truckmen a goal just 1:30 later. Then Thaler spearheaded an Oshawa three-some with Samanski and Dickens to put his team two goals up.

The Goodyears flashed a desperate offensive to start the second period after Oshawa's McBeth drew a penalty. Joey Catlin raced in to beat Colvin before McBeth returned Nicholson sidestepped his way around the Oshawa net and fired Colvin to hand the count.

Ernie Dickens got his passing plays clicking and the Truckmen, spurred by the attack whipped into sudden action scoring two goals in 38 seconds to take a commanding lead. Samolenko took Gerry Scott's pass for the first count and Thaler got his second goal of the night from a net-mouth scramble.

Penalties were kept to the game with five coming within seven minutes. Two Oshawa men short before Scott of Oshawa got the gate. They were still short a man when Fred Etcher got his hat trick on the prettiest three-way passing play of the night with Etcher and Sinden assisting.

BEST HOCKEY OF GAME

Both teams settled down to the best hockey of the night in a fast moving third period. Two Goodyears drove goalward in a last-minute desperate effort but were stifled when Johnny Myke sank

Sportsmens Show Colorful Affair

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's fastest and stream lore can be seen through a one-acre "open-book" Sportsmen's Show which opened an eight-day stand last night. At first sight there is eye-catching fish speedboats, the mighty Pacific special and Sharkey, the trained seal.

The show is staged by the Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association and the emphasis is on field and stream.

The peek into the country's outdoors goes like this:

Canoes, rowboats and near-luxury liners to fish from. A boat to fish from, with everyone of them. Rod and reel are on display with thousands to choose from. There are camp stoves, tents and a variety of clothes.

Experts are on hand to show anyone how to fish, to golf, to clean a fish, Badminton, archery and other sports are on the list.

CANADA ON SHOW

Provincial displays are promin ent. Alberta shows the lure of the Rockies. There are exhibitions of rodeos, skiing and golf. Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes proudly present their scenic attractions.

That leads to the stage show. Pierre Nova Scotia and Quebec log rollers battle to the last dunking in a 60,000 gallon water tank. Judy Johnson, trick-shot artist, juggling, diving and other athletics to keep the crowds amused.

The animal acts are great. Trained greyhounds and monkeys go through their paces. Then there's key goes into action.

Lee William Scott, North Amerit can representative of the British Isles 4-ct'r of wrestling and Traders, officially opened the seventh annual show last night. Attendance records are to be announced but officials said "it's the biggest opening night we've had."

With The Minors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

We saw some real good hockey in Thursday night's games with Bob Watson's Whitby five play up at the top. Bob was the leading scorer last year when he played for bantam and again this year he had another good season although he had trouble putting the puck into the net at the first of the season.

Bob picked up a goal and two assists last week and combined with Thursday night's performance it looks like the Big "A" team now have three of the top players in the midget league, Foster, St. Denis and Wannamaker.

Bob received a tripping penalty Thursday eve when he took a lunge at the puck but found his stick around a leg instead. He was rather disappointed when the ref sat down in the sin bin and when I asked him why he replied that it was the first penalty he had ever received since he started in the pee wee league about four years ago. That's a pretty impressive record for a high-scoring forward.

• • • •

The different leagues are slowly drawing to a close with the squirt and J-J outfits already handing out the prizes for the season. The pee wee started their finals last night meeting with the bantams in the semi-finals. The midgets are also on the next to last game of the year and the games left to be played in these three leagues.

• • • •

The pee wee's are going to get their chance against out of town competition in a couple of weeks when the city's all pee wee tournament being held in Lindsay.

There are some smart little hockey players in that league that can shoot, stickhandle and some even try their hand at body-checking.

Harry Robbins and Bill Brennan, two well-known men of the city who have worked with the pee wees during the past few months are racking their brains trying to pick fifteen youngsters whom they think will put up the best fight and when you figure there are about 110 to pick from, with everyone of them wanting a place on the team, you can see it's no easy task.

HERE AND THERE

The Oshawa bantam entry in the OMHA playoffs recently beat out Peterborough and are now battling it with the Kingston Six Aces, Smith's Falls and Belleville Maple Leafs of the bantam league held a practice this morning, while waiting for winners of the Black Hawks-Bruin series. The Bruins won again last night Thursday night but who ever wins this series will have the hardest battle ahead of them. If the Leafs win both their games they will have a better than even chance to win.

Guelph Biltmores Nail Sixth Place With 7-5 Decision Over St. Mikes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sixth place, the last playoff berth in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, was decided in the midst of two overtime games Friday night. Now only the two games left in the schedule only third and fourth place are undecided.

The Biltmores scored two overtime goals in Guelph to take a 7-5 decision over St. Michael's College and clinch sixth place. Barrie, the only survivor of the Lakeshore Gait Black Hawks in Barrie, will remain in seventh.

The Barrie club closed out the season for the Flyers. The other seven teams in the OHA will have at least one game remaining before the schedule finishes Sunday. Third and fourth places will be decided during those games Sunday when Toronto St. Michael's Choir Cubs. The Irish are currently in third, two points ahead of the Cubs.

The second-place Toronto Marlboros play in Guelph tonight and Guelph goes to Hamilton and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen travel to St. Catharines to play the Teepees, who are already assured of first place.

Hamilton plays Marlboros and the Teepees meet St. Michael's in the Toronto Sunday doubleheader.

The Flyers, last year's Memorial Cup champions, finished the season with 25 victories, 33 defeats and one tie—quite a difference others.

from last year when they ended the season in first place with 37 wins, 17 losses and two ties.

WIN IN OVERTIME

They led during the greater part of Friday night's game but Rick Collin's overtime goal, his second of the night, at 3:40 was the margin of the victory. Flyers were ahead 3-0 in the first period but the rest was cool. Other Galt scorers were John Siewer, Neil McDonald, Pete Kowbuck, Rick Collins, Jim Sperry and Hec Lalonde.

Dave Hanna had scored twice for the Flyers, singles going to Ross Graham, Cleland Morison, Jim Thompson, Don Hope and Ron Martan.

Guelph also came from behind to win the big victory against St. Michael's. The Biltmores poured in three first period goals against McNamara during their bid for the playoff spot but Bob Gibson, one of the 15 penalties handed out and Guelph capitalized on them, scoring twice in the second period. Colgrove were short-handed.

Bob Martinello, who was awarded the Ron Plumb Trophy as the most valuable Biltmore this year, scored the winner. Hillis and Bernie Menard also notched a pair. Bill Price, Bob Gibson and Jim Creary rounded out the total. Paul Gibson led the Irish with a pair. Counters, Brian Anderson, Noel Price and Jim Logan scored the

Browns, Riders Fail to Agree Over Kissell

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations to end the squabble between Cleveland Browns and Ottawa Rough Riders over football player John Kissell have broken down, the Riders' lawyer said Friday.

Sam Berger said he represented Riders at a meeting with Cleveland officials who want the big tackle released to the National Football League team. Kissell played last season with Hamilton Tiger-Cats' juniors, have signed 1954 contracts, Edmonton Eskimos announced Friday.

The 26-year-old Quondamatian is going to Cleveland to report to the Western Interprovincial Football Union club since coming here from Montreal Alouettes. Boyer is 21 and spreads 210 pounds over a six-foot, three-inch frame.

Galt Hawk Officials Invite Franchise Bids

GALT (CP)—Jack A. Moffat, president of Galt Black Hawks, Friday invited bids from any prospective operators of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A franchise in Galt for next season.

Moffat said he was surprised that Toronto Marlboros of the OHA Junior league and Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League were interested in operating the team here next year.

"It is the opinion of the executive and myself that if some other city is interested in operating the junior A franchise in Galt next season, we would be pleased to hear from them. We are quite prepared to step aside for any group whether it be Marlboros, Detroit (Montreal) Canadiens or anyone else."

The Hawks, who close their home season here this Saturday in game with Markham, had a disappointing season. There was no chance of getting out of last place.

Deny Coliseum Will Be Sold

QUEBEC (CP) — Persistent reports that Quebec's four-year-old Coliseum would soon be bought by Montreal interested in acquiring a National Hockey League franchise for that city were denied Friday in Quebec.

In a tabled statement at city hall, directors of the municipally-owned Coliseum said they had not heard anything of such a move, in effect denying that negotiations were going on for its sale.

The statement was in reply to a series of questions filed Feb. 12 by alderman Joseph Matte after unofficial reports said an undisclosed syndicate had offered the city $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 for the Coliseum.

According to these reports the syndicate planned to acquire the Chicago NHL franchise and players.

The Coliseum, with a seating capacity of 9,000 is said to be one of the most modern hockey rinks in North America. It has been headquarters of the Aces of the Quebec Hockey League and the Frontenacs of the Quebec Junior League.

The directors said $3,606,095 has been spent on the Coliseum to date.

'Sportsmen' Do Strange Things

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables)

How the farmers of the nation continue to put up with the indignities and damages they suffer each year at the hands of unscrupulous "sportsmen" is a question for which I cannot find the answer. They must be exceedingly good-natured and patient people.

Consider, for example, a farmer who lives in a pleasant valley not more than 15 miles from my house. It certainly is not difficult to understand why he has found it necessary to post his land for the past many years.

There is a good trout stream that flows almost through his back yard and each year it is stocked liberally by the state fish commission. He used to allow fishermen to park their cars beside the barn, but not any more.

Twice, purely by accident, he discovered grass fires that were set by fishermen lunching first. Only good luck saved his barn. Then he found one fishing party loading an enamel sink into their car and he asked them to set beside the barn door, pending installation—he called a halt on the parting of a considerable sum.

Before he posted his farm he actually lost count of how many times his house had been struck by shot, both shotgun pellets and rifle bullets.

DAMAGE EXTENSIVE

Over the years he has had 11 sheep shot by deer hunters, seven of which were carried off, and the number of chickens, ducks, and turkeys he has had stolen from him by hunters and fishermen totals well up toward the century mark. I know that I could not have stood for this sort of abuse of hospitality as long as he did. And, mind you, that is just one farmer of that valley. What the over-all damage has been in that one valley nobody knows, but it is extensive.

One day I was in South Dakota and drove some distance to shoot large and productive corn field of the owner. I reached the farm we found fresh trespass signs, obviously newly painted. Our guide, himself a local farmer, went to the door to ask permission.

"You're darn right, she's posted," replied the farmer. "Day before yesterday I caught two of you sportsmen in my barn."

The thought which occurs, of course, is that by giving first hand, a bit of advice to those who had badly needed but back into the Polish hunting season sooner than incurrently calculated.

As manager of Detroit Tigers Freddie Hutchinson is doing a lot of thinking about what he has had in the years he was doing his contracting. Not any more. There are figures he averages about 45 minutes' throwing to his batters before retiring.

His control is such that by actual count he pitches only 25 balls out of 23 consecutive strikes before a batter is set on go by. He was tossing mostly curves, too.

Jim Turner, the Yankee pitching coach, makes no secret of his desire that Johnny Sain could pitch his car agency for the coming season and get back into uniform.

"He's been a great pitcher for us," Jim said. "We really needed him to help our starters but he only came back asking for work. He's been working in the games' but in my book he's a 20-game winner."

STAMPS SIGN BACK

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Rupe Andrews, 27, a halfback on the Stanford football team when he graduated last June, has signed what has accepted an offer to play football with Calgary Stampeders.

Andrews, in the real estate business here, said the offer from the Western Interprovincial Football Union team was "too good to pass up."

He hasn't played football since graduation.

Andrews was drafted in 1949 by Chicago Bears but didn't sign a contract.

Wins Junior Curling Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Ray Grant, who comes from a family of curlers, skipped his Toronto Scott to a 16-3 victory over Doug Baptie of Toronto Saturday night to take the Ontario Curling Association junior tankard trophy.

Grant scored four in the quarter-finals of the Royal Canadian Bonspiel and added three more in the final to lead on his father's rink which entered the bonspiel unbeaten.

The secondary event went to Peter Mitchell of Hamilton Thistles who defeated Ken Hancock of Orillia 10-6.

Ray Grant eliminated J. Moseley of Lindsay 12-4 in the tankard semi-finals. Baptie made the finals by beating Ken Ross of Toronto 11-10.

Mitchell defeated G. Hancock of Peterbrough 9-4 in one of the semi-finals of the one-rink event. Charley Grant downed D. Tieman of Kilchener 8-7 in the other one.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Roy Sievers, whom Washington Senators obtained in a recent trade with Baltimore Orioles, is making a full recovery from a shoulder break similar to that which has sidelined Mickey Mantle and Billy Martin, observing how he makes out.

Sievers has been batting against throwing long overhand pegs from Pitcher Bob Kuzava and Manager Bucky Harris would like to play him, but he is toying with the idea of using him as a first baseman and seeing if Mickey Vernon can play left field regularly.

The thought which occurs, of course, is that by giving first base a try, Sievers will be able to get back into the game more quickly and despite the excess number of fields. They say they suffer less damage from the pheasants than they used to from the hunters.

KILL PETS

Not too far from where this is being written lives a farmer who is a widower. More to kill time than anything else, he had two pets, a red fox and a raccoon, that he had had since they were babies. Last fall they were fully grown, but he continued to feed them and play with them once in a while. They made their homes in two empty nail kegs, out beside the barn.

One night during the deer season he heard a car stop near his barn. The lights were out, so he dressed and went out to see what the trouble might be. As he opened the door, the men jumped into the car and sped away. The beam of his flashlight showed the bodies of his pet fox and 'coon, lying beside the road. The boys hadn't had time to open the trunk and throw in their booty.

At one of the hunting and fishing clubs near here, there used to be a little book where the men were quite apt. The caretaker had raised him from a fawn and he was as tame as a house-dog.

Last fall he grew an eight-point ruck, so when the deer season approached, he was caught and confined in the fawn pen which is quite large. Here he and his antlers were painted bright red.

SHOOT PENNED DEER

One day during the deer season a car drove up to the fawn pen. Out of the car jumped a man with a rifle who shot the buck, inside the fawn pen. He was trying to drag the buck under the fence when the caretaker came on the scene out to investigate, whereupon the man abandoned her with the gun, jumped in his car, and drove off before she could take down his license number.

Up near Coudersport, Pa., there used to be an albino doe. She was a pure albino, with pink eyes and snow-white coat. You guessed it—some fool shot her and left her lying there in the woods. There is a second side to this story, I hope they catch him.

Some years ago some elk were stocked in Elk County, Pennsylvania. The animals multiplied until there were 70 or more of them. During the deer season one of the natives found two of them, shot and lying in the woods about 50 feet apart. Now there are 11 left. Recent Reports from the game Commission tells me that a third elk had been shot.

GUNS GOONS

As I say, "sportsmen" do strange things. Actually it has reached the point where it dislike the word "sportsmen" intensely. No longer do I have any compunctions about writing some of these most hogs and gun goons to the authorities.

If you see a man committing a robbery or a holdup, you don't hesitate to give the police a hand. Why, then, should you hesitate to report a game-law violator? After all, his misdemeanors cost you more in that hunting and fishing territory than all the petty thieveries combined ever will cost you.

So when you see a man shoot a hen pheasant or a doe out of season, take his licence number or the number of his car. Your wardens will do the rest and remember he will respect your confidence.

The Kibitzer

You may be asked how to win at bridge. The quickest answer that would cover the subject is: "Have a good right arm." And if you are left-handed it would do just as well.

South had a good right arm when he drew in the cards dealt to him in the spread shown here:

NORTH
♠7 5 3
♦Q 10 9 8 7
♣7 5 3 2

WEST
♠Q J 9 8
♥K J 7 4 2
♦A
♣10 9 8 4

EAST
♠10 9
♥Q 10 9 8 5 3
♦5 3 2
♣None

SOUTH
♠A K 6 4 3
♥A
♦K J
♣A K Q J 6

The bidding went like this:

| South | North |
|---|---|
| 2 S | 3 NT |
| 3 C | 5 D |
| 4 C | 5 C |
| Pass | |

The opening bid of two in a suit shows at least nine tricks and is forcing to game. Two no-trump in immediate response is only a denial signal; denial of a sure trick in responding hand.

On the rounds following the denial of a sure trick, responder simply follows the usual procedure; showing suits, support, or what have you. The main thing is that the bidding must not die short of game.

When south bids two suits and rebids one of them, he demands a choice between them. With the same number in each, responder should take it in the first suit mentioned, or show the one in which he has most.

Thus, north finally gets around to showing he has more clubs than spades. In this way is club established as the best trump suit for the pair. But only after saying he has no sure trick.

Ordinarily, south would be content to leave it in a game-bid of five clubs. But with such powerful holding he must consider it likely to make a small slam even if north lacks a sure trick.

It matters not what opening lead comes from west. Careful play will make it so, as you can see if you look ahead.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's idea of the perfect wife says she isn't.

She is June Allyson, who has inherited Myrna Loy's apron as the ideal spouse of the movies. Miss Loy, who was wed four times in private life, was named the perfect mate after she starred in "The Thin Man" with William Powell. It was about the first time that marriage had appeared exciting on the screen.

Now it's Miss Allyson. She appears to have two husbands — her real mate, a former co-star named Dick Powell, and her screen hubby, James Stewart. She admits that she often sees more of Stewart than of Powell.

The Stewart-Allyson alliance began with "The Stratton Story." It was so successful that Stewart hunted for years to find another vehicle that could do together. He finally found two — "The Glenn Miller Story," which now is breaking records, and "Strategic Air Command," which is beginning production.

STRONG ON COFFEE, EGGS

When I talked to June she scoffed: "Me the perfect wife? Pooh! Far from it."

"I'm a lousy cook," she said. "The only thing I can really cook well is coffee and eggs. I learned to cook eggs in New York when I was looking for jobs. I had an old two-burner stove and the only thing I could cook was eggs.

"Oh, yes, I can also barbecue. We built a new one, and I went nuts about it. Cooked up some wonderful steaks. I would have been a whiz in pioneer times. It's too bad I can't cook indoors, too."

She added that she always forgets to order food and never has time to sew and do the little wifely chores around the house.

I asked her about her two husbands, and she said they are much alike.

"I've never seen either of them blow up," she observed. "Jimmy never gets excited. Not that he never gets angry. He does. But the only way you can tell is that he gets a little deadly.

TRINITY LADIES' CLUB

MADOC — The Trinity Ladies' Club held its March meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. P. Arble.

The president, Mrs. H. Brintnell, presided and opened the meeting with a hymn. Mrs. Barney McCoy took charge of the program. The program opened with a hymn and prayer by Mrs. Lane. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Drinkwater. Mrs. Allen sang a solo and Mrs. McCoy gave a splendid book review on "The Power of Positive Thinking" by Dr. Peale, a farmer and minister.

Dr. Peale said "we have to have confidence in ourselves and by the aid of prayer make what we want come true."

Mrs. Empey led in prayer. Mrs. Arble gave an interesting reading on St. Patrick's Day, followed by an Irish song by Mrs. Adams. Mrs. Empey thanked the hostess and Mrs. McCoy for the program and a social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Caughey, of Bloomfield, and Mrs. Ida Miller, of Kingston, visited their aunt, Mrs. John McCaffrey in the Alexander Nursing Home during the week.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 14, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Much thought should still be given to plans, action, necessities for the future. This won't be a generously easy year but it can be profitable.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A tendency toward deception prevails so be careful, discerning and on guard. Attend your church first and you will get the right start and slant for the day's doings. Good thoughts and deeds pay.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — "Do unto others as you would that they do unto you." Serve and love God as you would that He protect and bless you. If these tenets were observed by all less sorrow and greater happiness would exist.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Important to look on the bright side of things now. And don't be too sensitive. You have wonderful abilities and talents and should put them to good purpose.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Read advice to Taurus and Aries now. Day can be fruitful and pleasant depending greatly on how you behave and manage. Your spiritual duties should be first, then family, daily tasks.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Similar to Cancer's indications. Day is interesting, beneficial for right kind of endeavor and sound planning. Remember that it is the Sabbath and pay God His due. Relax sensibly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—As with all today, start the day by going to church. If you must work, do so, but in leisure time, enjoy diversion, family, healthy hobby; get some rest.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Emerge in no activity that would offend God or reflect unfavorably on your upbringing. Religious services aid one's soul, mind, health generally; they give confidence, hope.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Be careful in handling finances, expenditures generally. Pray for guidance. Enjoy worthy friends, good reading, music, healthy exercise.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—You folks often overwork, keep too long hours. Take advantage of this encouraging Sunday to get better acquainted with God and your family, and to rebuild energy. Enjoy socials, entertainment.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Prepare for happy but not over-exciting activities that should be enjoyed during leisure hours. Don't forget your spiritual needs and obligations. Indulge in some study.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Note advice to Capricorn and Sagittarius. You can have a satisfying, constructive day if you wish. Prayer, kindliness to others will be pleasing to God and bring added blessings.

YOU BORN TODAY have many admirable qualities, a magnetic personality, are gentle, thoughtful and very capable if living true to your inherent characteristics. You gather knowledge, perhaps know more than you are given credit for. You must learn to step forward, too, and voice your sound opinions, good ideas. You have them and others will be glad to hear them. Indecision, fear or ridicule may be failings but you can overcome them. Continue to improve your education all you can. Birthdate: Prof. Albert Einstein, famed physicist; Strauss, Austrian music composer.

March is a temperamental month, but something mysterious is working to make seeds and roots come alive again. "We may call it resurrection, that stirring beneath the sod but in springtime of the world it is simply our Father's plan," said the speaker.

St. Patrick's Day is a memorable celebration and the speaker quoted poems on this theme written by famous authors. She also gave many incidents relating to Irish songs, history and lore, including that old favorite "There's Nothing Too Good for the Irish."

FREE HOSPITAL — This is the $375,000 13-bed hospital now nearing completion at St. Lawrence on the Burin Peninsula in Newfoundland, a gift to the people of the community from the United States government. The hospital, expected to be completed this spring, is being erected as a tribute to the men of the community who saved 148 men from the United States destroyer Truxton and supply ship Pollux, which ran aground near St. Lawrence in 1942. It will also serve as a memorial to the 186 men who died in the crash. (CP Photo.)

Memorial to Naval Tragedy Being Built by U.S. Aid

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A small white outport hospital, memorial to a naval tragedy of the Second World War and a tribute to the heroism of Newfoundland coastal folk, is nearing completion at St. Lawrence on the Burin peninsula.

Money for the $375,000 hospital is coming from the United States, but them isn't American within 100 miles.

Steaming along the south shore of Newfoundland in a stinging blizzard Feb. 18, 1942, two United States warships, the destroyer Truxton and supply ship Pollux crashed into the rocky shore near St. Lawrence. The disaster took 186 lives but 148 men were saved mainly through heroic work by residents of the area.

MANY GRATEFUL

Later that year Admiral A. L. Bristol, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet support forces, proposed that a permanent building be erected as a tribute to the rescuers and a memorial to the men who died.

The suggestion met with President Roosevelt's approval and he proposed it to Congress before he died. The hospital was finally approved in 1949.

When completed, the modern 12-bed institution will be turned over to the provincial health department which will take over its operation.

In that early morning storm 12 years ago visibility was zero as the Truxton and the Pollux hugged the rugged coastline. Snow hid the 500-foot cliffs at Chamber's cove. The Truxton, leading the way, crashed into the wall of rock after scraping bottom for an instant. The time was 4:30 a.m.

LOSS OF POLLUX

A few miles away the Pollux smashed into Lawn Point where the cliffs were just as high.

Many men were washed off the ships and others were down. Three men of the Truxton reached shore. They pulled themselves up the side of the cliff and began walking through the storm.

Before daylight they met a group of miners on their way to work in the floorpar mine at St. Lawrence. The mines suspended operations and all 90 miners headed for the Truxton with ropes and axes.

DROVE TO WRECK

At Lawn, a few miles away, word of the Pollux's grounding reached a group of eight men who hitched up a horse and sleigh, gathered rescue equipment and headed for the wreck.

The two groups worked for about 12 hours in freezing temperature and high winds.

First aid stations were set up at the top of the cliffs and nurses cared for the injured. All the men were later taken to homes in St. Lawrence.

A United States Navy communique described the rescuers as "tireless, efficient and in many cases heroic."

LETHAL LIQUID STOLEN

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—An Indianapolis thief may get a practical illustration that crime does not pay. Louis Berkoff, a chemical laboratory employee, reported some articles stolen from his car Thursday. Among them were several vials of methyl bromide, an odorless and colorless liquid. Inhaling its fumes could be fatal.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT FATAL

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Howard Thomas Lovekes, 42, accidentally shot himself to death Thursday while hunting near his home in nearby Innerdale. His 14-year-old son, Robert, found him with a bullet wound in the head when he went to look for him.

DIES AFTER GASSING

WATFORD (CP)—Mrs. Katherine Mary Lamb, 65, of Alvinston, one of two women found unconscious in a gas-filled home in Glencoe five weeks ago, died Thursday. The other woman, Mrs. Jean McVicar, 62, of Glencoe died several days ago.

Little Benny's Note Book

It was dark and damp outside and doing everything but raining, and I was looking out the window in ma's room wishing I didn't have to stay in the house, and I said to ma, ma, heck, ma, why do I have to say in just to please the weather?

You're staying in for the good of your own helth for land sakes, ma said. Do you think it would be sensible to go out and catch a cold? she said, and I said, Well that's just what I wouldn't catch.

No? What would prevent you? ma said, and I said, My circulation. You can't catch a cold as long as your blood is circulating fast, and I'd move around so quick my blood could hardly keep up with me. So now, ma, I'd come back with a better circulation than I went with, I said.

That's all very wonderful, but cold germs are no respecters of good intentions, ma said, and I said, Well then if I catch a cold just the same, it will be a good lesson to me, because it will teech me I dont know as much as I think I do. So the next time the weather looks like this, I'll have more sense, and you'll have the pleasure of seeing me stay in without having to argew with me. So you better let me go out, ma, for the good of your own future, I said.

Oh, it would take the patience of a monument, ma said. If you bundle up well, I suppose you can go out a little while, she said, and I said, Never mind, ma, I think I'd rather stay in and paint pictures in my Junior Art instruction book.

Which I did, proving you dont need your way if you have the satisfaction of knowing you can have it.

CONGRESS GIVEN SOME DETAILS MILITARY PLANS

Rapid Buildup of Air Strength Is Promised

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Wilson gave Congress today some details of the military "new look" — continued "rapid buildup of air strength" and an army slimmed down by three of its present 20 divisions.

Wilson outlined these plans for the year starting next July 1 in testimony before the armed services sub-committee of the Senate appropriations committee, considering the defence budget.

He said the new military plans, evolving from "the crash (emergency) program adopted following the beginning of hostilities in Korea" are "geared to improving our state of preparedness over an extended period of time." He also said:

"The military program evolving from the 'new look' provide for the rapid integration of new weapons as they are proven and become available."

NEW WEAPONS

And at another point he said:

"Various new weapons have become available in increasing quantity and still newer ones are in the offing."

His comment could have referred to new applications of atomic weapons and to various types of guided missiles, in use or still in test.

On Saturday, a high government source in Washington had quoted by name indicated that U. S. nuclear specialists set off a few days ago at the Eniwetok test area the biggest hydrogen blast they have yet attempted.

Wilson projected the air buildup ahead to July 1, 1955, when he said the air force will have 137 wings, plus air national guard and reserve units; the navy 18 carrier air groups and 15 carrier anti-submarine warfare groups; the marine corps three-air wings, with support and enough air reserves in a "high state of readiness." Turning to the ground forces, Wilson said:

"Army forces at the end of June will be organized into 11 divisions, 18 regiments and regimental combat teams and 102 anti-aircraft battalions, together with appropriate supporting elements. This is a reduction of three divisions from the high level achieved during the Korean war. It is a slight increase over the regiments and regimental combat teams and a reduction of five in the anti-aircraft battalions."

FURTHER INCREASE

He also said the National Guard authorized strength will be increased from 191 to 112.

A year from now, June, Wilson said, the navy's active fleet will consist of 407 ships, with the reductions coming from obsolescent types such as carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines. There will be reductions of 48 ships from present average strength.

The Marine corps will continue at the present three-division level. The secretary gave this account of the manpower strength:

June 1953, actual strength next June 3,350,000, with the total a year later 2,957,000, with the navy's year later 870,000 will be in the army (strength last December 1,481,2001; 769,000 in the navy (December 765,000); 215,000 in the Marine corps (December 203,800); air force 970,000 (December 912,500).

Not Legal To Bury Dog in Cemetery But Spaniel May Not Be Moved

By DONOVAN BESS

COLCHESTER, England (Reuters)—The body of an elderly black spaniel, clad in a hand-knit sweater lies in his grave in a village cemetery near here.

Beside him is a well-chewed slipper.

His fresh grave was discovered early this month, among the headstones of villagers who have been buried in the cemetery for 14 years, so suspicious police dug open the mound and found the animal's body in a beautifully-made coffin.

It was clear that some boy or girl had loved the spaniel. But it is against the Church of England law for an animal to be interred in sacred ground.

Rumors of policemen and the village vicar held a meeting.

The vicar asked: "Is it right to hurt the feelings of the young master or mistress who lovingly buried their pet in the manner and buried him as though he were a human child, with a hand-knit sweater, has gone to heaven."

He, the rector said, it is not right. So they nailed the coffin lid on again and reburied the spaniel. And they decided to erect a notice at the village a secret from higher authority.

Sunday night the Bishop of Colchester said, "I am very fond of animals. But consecrated ground for human beings is not at all the appropriate place for a dog's burial.

"If the matter is brought officially to my notice I shall have to look into it."

The matter will not be brought to the bishop's attention.

Today, the spaniel rests in peace and perhaps believe, that black is white.

4. Use no drugs, except to keep him from temporary escape into unconsciousness. Use no physical torture. That way you can say "we never laid a hand on him."

5. When he has broken, "fatten him up" with all the things he had been denied. As your propaganda drums beat, exhibit him so all the world can see he confessed "voluntarily."

Then, 34, showed no marks of the fighting for which he won the Medal of Honor in Korea, or of Communist mistreatment by the North Koreans.

PREPARED AGENTS

Meerloo, 51, testified that he practices psychiatry in New York and was born in Columbia University.

"My job as a psychiatrist in the Dutch underground," he said, "was to prepare secret agents for possible capture."

His advice to them: Tell the Nazis everything that means more, to confuse them; school yourself into auto-hypnosis, to make yourself insensitive as possible to pain.

But this, he said, merely delayed capitulation to the Nazis when

"You never know when a person will break down," Meerloo said. "It may be six hours or six days. But in the end all people break down."

Some of Mystery Has Been Stripped from 'Brain-Washing'

By WARREN ROGERS, Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the mystery has been stripped from "brain-washing" the process by which Communists make men confess in detail and with an appearance of willingness to things they never did.

Three men in a position to know have published given the details that fit into a mansel of brain-washing. They are marine Col. Frank H. Schwable, Maj.-Gen. William Dean and Dr. Albert D. Biderman of New York. All testified last week before the court of inquiry which is trying to determine whether Schwable should be put on military trial for signing a false germ warfare confession after seven months in Chinese Communist prisons.

Dean also was taken prisoner in Korea. Meerloo is a psychiatrist who underwent Nazi and then Communist "treatment."

Here, from their testimony, is the technique of "mind murder"—the methods, or brain-washing:

1. Take away all the needs of the individual and body. Make your victim feel, "I am nothing."

2. Build in a "dependency" relationship. Become "geared to improving our state of preparedness over an extended period of time." He also said:

"The military program evolving from the 'new look' provide for the rapid integration of new weapons as they are proven and become available."

NEW WEAPONS

And at another point he said:

"Various new weapons have become available in increasing quantity and still newer ones are in the offing."

His comment could have referred to new applications of atomic weapons and to various types of guided missiles, in use or still in test.

On Saturday, a high government source in Washington had quoted by name indicated that U. S. nuclear specialists set off a few days ago at the Eniwetok test area the biggest hydrogen blast they have yet attempted.

Wilson projected the air buildup ahead to July 1, 1955, when he said the air force will have 137 wings, plus air national guard and reserve units; the navy 18 carrier air groups and 15 carrier anti-submarine warfare groups; the marine corps three-air wings, with support and enough air reserves in a "high state of readiness." Turning to the ground forces, Wilson said:

"Army forces at the end of June will be organized into 11 divisions, 18 regiments and regimental combat teams and 102 anti-aircraft battalions, together with appropriate supporting elements. This is a reduction of three divisions from the high level achieved during the Korean war. It is a slight increase over the regiments and regimental combat teams and a reduction of five in the anti-aircraft battalions."

FURTHER INCREASE

He also said the National Guard authorized strength will be increased from 191 to 112.

A year from now, June, Wilson said, the navy's active fleet will consist of 407 ships, with the reductions coming from obsolescent types such as carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines. There will be reductions of 48 ships from present average strength.

The Marine corps will continue at the present three-division level. The secretary gave this account of the manpower strength:

June 1953, actual strength next June 3,350,000, with the total a year later 2,957,000, with the navy's year later 870,000 will be in the army (strength last December 1,481,2001; 769,000 in the navy (December 765,000); 215,000 in the Marine corps (December 203,800); air force 970,000 (December 912,500).

Temperance Forces Oppose B. C. Cocktail Lounges Plan

VICTORIA (CP) — Temperance forces have opened a drive to prevent introduction of cocktail lounges in this staid British Columbia capital.

While residents of B.C.'s largest city, Vancouver, voted overwhelmingly for sale of liquor by the glass to start, a petition was handed to the government asking for a local option vote for beer-parlor-free Victoria.

Legislation providing for sale of liquor by the glass in cocktail lounges, restaurants and clubs was approved by the legislature last fall and the government-run commissioner this week began screening scores of applications for licenses. Only one Vancouver, New Westminster and Nanaimo. There are 18 applications for Victoria.

Also before the government are applications from the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways for licences to sell liquor on passenger trains and steamships.

DRINK MORE BEER

Despite the broadening of hard liquor outlets, previously confined to liquor stores, the government has indicated it does not expect its liquor revenues to increase. Premier Bennett said the difference of five in the anti-aircraft battalions."

FURTHER INCREASE

Bachelor Peer, 2 Others Plead Not Guilty

WINCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, 31-year-old bachelor peer, and two others men pleaded not guilty here today at the opening of their trial on homosexual charges.

Accused with Montagu were his second cousin, Michael Pitt-Rivers, 27, and Peter Wildeblood, 30, a London newspaper man.

The three men face a total of 18 charges.

Some of the charges concern two young airmen, Cpl. Edward McNally, 25, and AC. John Reynolds, 20, who have given preliminary hearings that they have been homosexual with the group.

It was the second time in three months that Montagu had stood in the great hall at Winchester Assizes. Last Dec. 16 he was acquitted of one charge of committing an offence against Miss Jean Roberts.

But the jury disagreed on a second charge. Montagu still faces trial on that charge later this month.

He and his two fellow-accused sat in comfortable chairs at a green table top reputed to have been used once by King Arthur and his knights of the Round Table as they read out the charges.

ACQUITTED EARLIER

Last Dec. 15 he was acquitted of one charge of committing an offence against Miss Jean Roberts.

ACQUITTED EARLIER

Last Dec. 15 he was acquitted of one charge of committing an offence against Miss Jean Roberts. It was clear that the prosecution did not claim that Montagu and Miss Roberts were parties to the corruption of McNally and Reynolds and therefore were not the only possible moral character . . . long before meeting the defendants.

He said that the two airmen were "willing parties of these unnatural offences."

Homosexual acts are against the law in Britain, regardless of consent.

Fatemi Suffers Relapse in Cell

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Ex-foreign minister Hussein Fatemi, attended by an unidentified assailant, suffered a relapse and vomited blood during questioning in his prison cell Sunday night, an authoritative source said today.

The 41-year-old nationalist firebrand, who was sentenced Dec. 21 by his work as chief aide to ex-dictator Mohammed Mossadegh, was stabbed Wednesday by ambulance man Ghasr prisoner to the army's Yusefabad hospital in Tehran.

Informants said preliminary examinations failed to show whether the blood came from wounds Fatemi received after he was captured Saturday in a Tehran hideout or from an old bullet wound in the abdomen suffered by a youthful fanatic about two years ago.

Police said a bystander knifed Fatemi after the arrest.

500 to 600 Deer Spotted In New Brunswick

FREDERICTON (CP)—A herd of from 500 to 600 deer has been spotted on the Hickerty Barrens of the Camp Utopia area in southern New Brunswick.

Game officials say it was the largest congregation of "white tails" ever seen in the province and possibly anywhere else.

One group of 65 huddled together in a space not larger than a half-acre block. All appeared fat and in good condition.

Wildlife officials here said deer have been moving into the area for several spring comes and forage in the open plains for food.

LOOK FOR OWNER OF SILVER TIE PIN IN SLAYING

Bruised, Battered Body Of Girl Found in Ditch

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A silver lapin with three hearts across it, apparently pinched in a dying girl as she fought for her life, was one of the few clues police had today as they pressed their investigation into the bludgeon-slaying Friday of a redhead from Woodstock.

The scantily-clad body of 21-year-old Fern Hendall, a tall, plain-featured girl with a striking figure, was found Saturday in a ditch in a lonely concession road 15 miles southeast of Windsor.

Insp. John C. Needham of the provincial police criminal branch of the Ontario Provincial Police today called the slaying a "brutal and sadistic murder."

When the body was discovered by a Detroit nature-lover who said he made a habit of taking weekend hikes through the area, the back of the head was battered as if by a blunt instrument. Repeated blows with a light object that did not fracture the skull but was heavy enough to inflict injuries that resulted in brain haemorrhage and shock.

Police expressed belief the girl matched the lapin as she struggled with her assailant. It dropped from her coat sleeve when police removed the body.

TERRIFIC STRUGGLE

Investigators said evidence at the scene indicated a terrific struggle took place. The girl, in her fleeing away several times, only to be chased and caught.

When found, she was lying in a three-foot, water-filled ditch, her head submerged and her clothing above the water.

A post mortem indicated she was in the water Friday night, perhaps longer. Large welts appeared at each leg and bruises showed below and behind each ear.

She wore only a girdle, an open sweater and stockings. Her shoes hung by their straps from her left wrist. A heavy rebel boot with the right wrist caught in the laces. One wrist was broken.

BATTLED ATTACKER

Under clothing was scattered along the road for about 50 feet. Police also said the girl's wounds was sexually attacked. They said she battled her attacker and apparently tried to escape.

Stewart Ingram, 30, of Detroit, found the body on a secondary dirt urday afternoon walk in the country.

Ingram was held for questioning but released after police checked his story. He called police immediately from a nearby farm house and waited until they arrived.

Police found the tiny tie pin when they searched the area around the coat lining. Water in her lungs indicated she was not dead when thrown into the ditch. Direct cause of death was a cerebral haemorrhage from the blows on the head.

FIND RAFFLE TICKET

Police searching the scene found a 50¢ raffle ticket on a car. A Woodstock man said he had bought the ticket from the girl's name from a counterfoil. Samuel Henkeit of Woodstock, the last person identified the body Sunday.

DISEASES INFECTIOUS

TORONTO (CP)—At least 80 infectious diseases are animals are a threat to human beings, Dr. T. L. Jones, principal of the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph, said Saturday night. He told the Royal Canadian Institute that protection of human beings from animal-borne diseases was one of advances closed in for hand-to-hand fighting.

Public to Get Guarded Look at Two U.S. Planes That Take Off Vertically

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States navy is giving the public a guarded look at two new airplanes that take off vertically from a "reared back" position—and then level, like conventional landings.

Navy sources said photographs, but little information as to capability and construction, will be released Wednesday.

The planes, known as "VTO Fighters" for their vertical take off characteristics, have been built by Consolidated Vultee Aircraft company (Convair), San Diego, and Lockheed Aircraft Co., Burbank, Calif.

Persons who have had an advance look at the Convair model, the XFY-1, reported that it stands perfectly vertical for take off and landing.

The pilot sits with his back to the ground, feet upward, at the moment of take-off or landing, and apparently has a periscope or a rear-view mirror arrangement to watch the field.

The Lockheed model is reported to be able to take off horizontally. The pilot is enclosed in a cockpit said to rotate somewhat like a seat in a ferris wheel.

French Holding Against 'Violent' Rebel Attacks

Reinforcements Rushed To Dien Bien Phu Fortress

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Communist-led Vietminh troops drove toward the heart of the big French union fortress of Dien Bien Phu tonight after seizing a strong point to the north. They lost 1,500 killed in furious fighting.

The savage rebel onslaught gained ground despite French reinforcements dropped by parachute to help the hard-hit defenders of the last French outpost on the northwest Indo-China. Dien Bien Phu is 175 miles from Hanoi.

The Vietminh attack on the besieged fortress began Saturday night but the defenders held them off throughout Sunday. But today the rebels threw in thousands more troops.

The rebels bombarded the dust fortress with artillery shells before they launched their new series of attacks.

As the violent battle rounded out its second day, a battalion of French and Viet Namese paratroopers jumped onto the Dien Bien Phu airstrip to reinforce the French union garrison.

Other reinforcements were airlifted from Hanoi.

The French high command in Saigon said the rebel onslaught against the fortress was "the situation well in hand" and were hopeful solidly against the violent" rebel attack.

A French spokesman predicted the fighting would last several days.

A three-hour cease-fire interrupted the fighting Sunday morning while both sides picked up and carried their dead and wounded from the battlefield. The French claimed at least 1,000 rebels killed in the initial assault Saturday night and early Sunday, and admitted their own losses were "appreciable."

The fighting resumed at noon Sunday with a heavy rebel bombardment of the strongly fortified, French-held plain in the heart of Dien Bien Phu itself.

Then, as they had on Saturday, waves on waves of screaming, bugle-blowing rebel troops surged forward against the bristling barbed wire barricades ringing the French positions.

Supported mobile artillery, tanks, mortars and heavy machine-gun and anti-aircraft fire, they fought on through the scores. Fighters and bombers roared overhead, mowing a wide swath in the charging ranks.

ALL-OUT EFFORT

The legions of Communist leader Ho Minh appeared to be making an all-out effort to give the French a major setback before the Big Four Communist China meet in Geneva, Switzerland, April 26 to seek a truce in Indo-China.

The French for their part hoped to decimate the ranks of the best rebel divisions and perhaps deal a crushing blow to the Vietminh forces.

The fighting was described as the most savage yet in the seven-year-old Indo-China war.

The Vietminh encircled the fortress, entrenching from 50,000 to 60,000 troops in the surrounding hills. More than 100,000 coolies carried the rebel supplies from Communist China—over mountain trails.

Late Saturday afternoon the rebels lunged out of the hills by thousands in cascading waves of the acres of barbed-wire barricades ringing Dien Bien Phu.

The screaming infantry fired rifles, pistols, sub-machine-guns and hurled hand grenades as they closed in for hand-to-hand fighting.

Students' Prank Tricks Police, Detours Traffic

TORONTO (CP)—Even the cops fell for it.

The two barricades, with lamps and red flags, were across Queen's Park crescent a four-lane road which swings south around the provincial Buildings. Signs told motorists: "Closed to traffic."

Two police happened on the scene and detoured scores of Sunday drivers.

A newspaper photographer snapped a shot and asked questions.

Nobody knew why the barricades were there. But they found out. Engineering students from Toronto, Queen's and Western universities, the cops said.

Try to Identify Charred Bodies In Plane's Wreck

SINGAPORE (AP) — Efforts were being made today to identify some of the charred bodies recovered from the wreckage of the British Constellation airliner, which crashed Saturday at Singapore airport, killing 33 persons.

The victims included Alexander J. Wood, 54, Montreal, a retired milling company executive who was on a round-the-world pleasure trip.

Police said Sunday friends or relatives in Singapore had claimed 13 bodies. The police had identified six others. Fourteen bodies, which were badly burned, had not yet been identified.

New Name For I. O. O. F. Hall

The pride of the West Hill household rushed home Saturday night in a breathless state.

"Dad," he yelled, racing into the kitchen, where Pop was taking his ease, "there's a big fire down town."

"Son, son", said the old man lifting his eyes from the sport page, "where is it?"

The hopeful thought for a moment. Then his eyes lighted up and he said:

"In the hundred foot temple."

That was a new one on the old boy. He could not figure out where such a building was located, nor what it was.

So he went down town to find out for himself.

It didn't take long. Arriving at the scene of the fire he smiled broadly when he saw what building was ablaze and how junior got his information.

On a second-storey window was the sign "I.O.O.F. Temple."

$30,000 Loss in Water Damage To Three Front Street Stores As I.O.O.F. Hall Catches Fire

Loss estimated at approximately $30,000, most of it water damage to ground floor stores, resulted here Saturday night when fire swept through the I.O.O.F. hall on Front street.

Firemen confined the blaze to the third floor dance hall after a stubborn two-hour fight, but water caused heavy damage in three stores below.

Heaviest water damage was suffered at the Woodley Furriers where hats and accessories as well as store fixtures and equipment, were drenched. Water damage was also heavy in McKeown's drug store and in the Albert Style Shop. Tarpaulins placed over store merchandise and fixtures saved stores from heavier damage. A new roof will be required for the building.

STARTED ON THIRD FLOOR.

The blaze started in the rear of the third floor dance hall, apparently in a small room used for storing lodge regalia. It mounted into the ceiling and firemen had a stubborn fight in the labanda to control the blaze. It was the third serious fire in downtown Belleville in the past week.

Other business establishments suffering water damage as result of the blaze were the Public Utilities store and office, and the second floor Millard Dental laboratory.

The Saturday night fire attracted hundreds of spectators who were kept at a safe distance by city police. Vehicular traffic was blocked off from Front street at Victoria Ave. and Campbell street.

NO FLAMES VISIBLE.

Although no flames were visible from the street at any time, smoke was seen curling from beneath the eaves and from third floor windows shortly after 9 o'clock. The smoke gradually increased in volume until after nine when firemen began to get the upper hand.

Firemen lugged hose up the stairway to fight the blaze at close quarters but were forced to bring the aerial ladder into the play and to pour water into the building from ladders on the street.

In places at the rear of the building the flames broke through the roof but firemen atop the building doused the flames as they appeared.

At the height of the fire water poured off the roof at the back in a miniature Niagara and was also running inches deep through the front doors at Woodley's and at McKeown's.

ORIGIN OF BLAZE UNKNOWN.

Origin of the blaze which at one time threatened to get out of hand is unknown. The dance hall had not been in use Saturday and no second floor room at the back had been used by a dancing class earlier in the evening. The dancing class had been over for an hour before the blaze was discovered.

City firemen under the direction of Chief Ernie Payne came in for praise in bringing the fire under control after combating the fire loss to the one building. Every man on the force turned out for the general alarm.

Just a week ago a $10,000 fire loss occurred in the West Roberson block. Friday there was a $12,000 loss at Rodlin's Rainy when fire destroyed a barn and garage destroying three cars.

COATS REMOVED.

Store employees and volunteers were said to have appreciative fur coats at Woodley's from water damage by removing them from the store during the early stages of Saturday night's blaze and before the fire reached the barn and garage destroying three cars.

Firemen were promptly on the job and covered merchandise and counters in each store with tarpaulins.

Safe Robbers Get $1,200 Cash At Tire Store

Prying the door off a small safe with a wrecking bar, safe robbers made off with approximately $1,200 cash from The Canadian Tire Corporation Associate store at the corner of Coleman and Moira Streets.

Police discovered the break-in during a routine check Sunday morning and later found the safe to be robbed. Entry to the building was gained through a side door, which was found insecure.

Inspector J. C. Hayes quoted the store owner as saying store receipts for Friday and Saturday were in the safe when it was robbed. Besides cash amounting to between $1,100 and $1,200, non-negotiable cheques were in the safe.

POLICE BLOTTER

Three borders who left the home of Mrs. Arbuckle, at 152 Dundas Street East, without paying their board bill are being sought by city police. The trio left a note saying they were forced to leave suddenly and they did not wish to disturb the household by the interruption. A note that the men would be back did not carry much weight with police.

Stan R. Beggs Evans Street, suffered a cut eye when his car and a car when his car was in collision with another vehicle driven by Ed. Schlievert, Strachan Street. The accident occurred at the intersection of Grove and Cameron street.

Did Not Criticize Way Fire Fought

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters) A cigaret butt probably caused the fire which gutted the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada here in January, 1953, says a court of inquiry report issued Saturday.

Discussing fire-fighting arrangements which had been in effect aboard the ship before the blaze, the report said:

"The treatment of this important matter by the chief officer and the assistant chief engineer appears to have been outside the scope."

(A Reuters news agency story Saturday erroneously reported the report had criticized the actual work of fighting the fire.)

'Blitz' Night For Red Cross Nets $800

BANCROFT — The Red Cross campaign "Blitz" night, held in the village on Thursday, netted a total of over $800. This amount was collected by a group of twenty seven canvassers in less than three hours.

Queen to Live At Windsor Paper States

LONDON (AP) — Buckingham Palace officials denied all knowledge today of a published report that Queen Elizabeth dislikes the 890-room palace and plans to make her permanent home at Windsor Castle, 30 miles west of London.

The Sunday paper, The People, said the Queen seeks greater privacy and wishes to rear her two children in a country atmosphere.

"Obviously only the Queen could make such decisions, and nothing of the kind has been announced," a palace spokesman said.

Freak Accident In Orillia

ORILLIA (CP) — In a freak accident today, a bus pursued an impossible course in a side street and collided with it.

Police said bus driver Hugh McLenachan of Mimico applied his brakes as a car driven by Joseph Mallory of Toronto made a left turn. The bus skidded on the icy pavement, crashed into a snowbank, then swung up the same side street Mallor had turned.

Catching up with the car, the bus crashed into its rear about 10 yards from the intersection. Damage was estimated at $150. No one was hurt.

JUST PLAIN FISH

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP) — Fishery experts said today the odd-looking fish caught in the Clutha river belonged to no particular species. It had some of the characteristics of a salmon and some of a trout.

Two Armed Thugs Lock Store Owner In Meat Cooler

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two armed bandits made a $900 haul early today at the Walkerville market when they held up the owner of the store and locked him in an ice box before making their getaway.

Charles Herman, 41, who lives above the store, said he had just opened up about 7 o'clock when the holdup men pounced on him as he was bringing meat from a large cooler at the rear of the store.

Herman was hustled inside the ice box which was then secured from the outside with a heavy steel flipover catch.

He was released after 10 minutes by a youngster who entered the store.

U.S. on Defence In Conference At Caracas

CARACAS (AP) — Economic issues ruled top billing at the 10th Inter-American Conference today, with the United States on the defensive after carrying the ball against communism last week.

Sixteen of the 19 Latin-American countries at the conference supported the United States in warning international communism of stay clear the western hemisphere. Now they want to talk about their own economic problems—and they want the United States to listen carefully.

U.S. State Secretary Dulles and the rest of his delegation assured Latin America last week that the United States wants to co-operate on mutually advantageous economic plans. However, the Latin Americans are not likely to be satisfied with anything less than definite commitments that will eventually lead to a solution of their economic problems.

Latin America's principal grievance is that it is not getting enough for its raw materials, in relation to what it has to pay for finished goods imported from the United States.

The southern republics also want more stability in the price situation. They complain also that they lack sufficient credit for financing economic development of their countries.

Injured Boy Slightly Better

Frederick L. Clarke, Jr., 12-year-old Belleville boy, who fell four storeys from a downtown hotel window at Syracuse, N.Y., on Saturday morning, has improved slightly but his condition remains critical. He suffered a broken back in the 80-foot fall. Doctors attending him are optimistic but he is not yet out of danger. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Clarke, 40 Hillcrest Ave., and his parents are now with him. The injured boy was in Syracuse with a group of 44 newspaper carriers as guests of The Ontario Intelligencer, and six other boys were "roughhousing" in a bedroom at the hotel when the accident occurred.

Hydro Employee Does Not Believe Russian Report

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Patrick Henderson, 35-year-old hydro employee, said today he does not believe there is a word of truth in a report his Russian wife has divorced him in Russia.

The former British embassy clerk in Moscow said in a telephone interview he has evidence that his wife, the former Ros Ivanova Kogochova, has been in a concentration camp in Siberia since 1951.

The British foreign office announced during the week-end that information has been received from Russia that the Russian wives of four Britons have divorced them.

Henderson, who works on a hydro project 350 miles northwest of here in the Red Lake district, said he will continue to press for his wife's release.

"I am sure that some day somehow, we will be reunited," he said.

The Hendersons were married in Russia in 1947.

NO WORD SINCE 1951

"I don't believe a word of what they say about divorce," said the 6-foot-tall Henderson, who came to Canada in 1946. He said he has no direct word from his wife since 1951.

"I had a letter from her in January of that year. I've learned since that she was picked up in the secret police and sent to a Siberian concentration camp."

Henderson said he is acquainted with the Britons' children now in the United Kingdom, whose wives are said to have divorced them.

"I am sure they all feel the same way," he said.

Naked Russian Tries to Evade Austrian Police

VIENNA (AP)—A naked Russian soldier took a cold bath Sunday in the Danube canal and gave Austrian and international police a chilly half-hour.

The soldier was one of three who created a brawl in an Austrian tavern. When the four-power international patrol arrived two of the Russians gave up.

The third raced away flinging off his clothes as he ran. Finally, completely naked, he jumped into the canal.

Fishing Nets Damaged By High Winds

KINGSVILLE (CP) — The commercial fishing fleet working out of Kingsville and Wheatley suffered major loss over the week end as gale-force winds ripped fishing nets from their moorings and smashed what few nets remained in place.

Damage, which may run as high as $5,000 to the most seriously affected concerns, is still being assessed, and it may be three days before the full story is pieced together.

The heavy winds followed similar conditions 10 days ago, when many fishing captains sank their nets in hopes of clearing them from ice. Many of these nets have been lost; others are so jammed with debris that it will take days to clear them.

The storm struck during a period when fishing was good.

The Essex county fishing fleet consists of about 25 tugs out of Kingsville and another 10 out of Wheatley.

All along Lake Erie over the week-end, fishermen were buffeted by strong winds, but catches as high as 4,000 pounds of fish were reported.

High School Senior Girls Win COSSA Basketball Title

TRENTON —The Trenton High School girls' senior basketball team won the Central Ontario Secondary School Association Senior "B" girls' basketball championship at Toronto on Saturday. The local girls first eliminated Midland High School by a 25-17 score. Then they met Dundas in the final, played at Danforth Technical School, and doubled the count on their rivals 34-17.

Practically the same team last year won the COSSA junior championship for Trenton.

On Saturday the guards on the Trenton team performed particularly well. The guards were Mary Lou Ferriman, Anna Green Peggy Haker, Lorraine Bird and Margaret Patterson. The forwards were: Lorraine Whitley, captain; Sandra Bellyou, a junior who played with the senior and turned in a fine game; Enid Bennett, Betty McCauley and Marcia Langdon. Coach of the team is Miss Ruth Roberts.

The Trenton High School junior boys' team went to the semi-finals, losing to Notre Dame, 54-44.

Provincial Police At Brighton Had Busy Week-End

TRENTON (Special) — Brighton Provincial Police were having a busy time over the week-end while Trenton constabulary dealt with nothing more exciting than routine business.

Arrested for assaulting his wife, Norman Cloutier of the R.C.A.F., will appear for trial in Magistrate's Court at Brighton on Wednesday.

A. Russell Wannamaker, formerly of Amelisburg township and now living in the latter part of the province was the driver of a car that crashed into the Murray canal bridge on Highway No. 33 three miles south of Trenton early Sunday morning. The automatic gate and electrical installations were wrecked.

Last night John Budden and Stamas Caristian were involved in a motor vehicle accident opposite Taft's service station on the Carrying Place Road.

Sale of Ford Vehicles in '53 A New Record

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A substantial increase in the sale of vehicles by Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, raised total dollar sales in 1953 to a record, Hyde M. Sale, president told shareholders today in a preliminary report on last year's operations. Mr. Sale's letter to shareholders said the company's annual report would be mailed about a month from now.

The total value of sales at $309,443,029 was the highest on record, an increase of $41,750,090 over 1952. Sales in Canada totalled $287,460,995, an increase of $59,812,543, or 26 per cent.

Unit sales of Ford of Canada cars, trucks and tractors in domestic and export markets increased 20 per cent to a total of 186,802.

Particularly significant in the 1953 operations was Ford of Canada's increased share of the Canadian market for new passenger cars of the North American type, which rose from 28.4 per cent in 1952 to 32.3 per cent in 1953. Truck sales represented 28.8 per cent of total truck sales in Canada, as compared with 28.9 per cent in the preceding year.

Additional revenue from overseas resulted in an increase of 20 per cent in Ford of Canada's net profit after taxes which amounted to $20,029,513, equal to $12.07 per share, as compared with $15,842,220 in 1953, equal to $9.55 a share.

Haphazard . . .

The other day we heard of a professor who had a peculiar system for marking examination papers. The papers he set were always of the essay type : : : that is, each question was to be answered by a short essay. On his retirement, he made a confession:

"The questions I asked were always ones for which there were no hard and fast answers. Therefore, it was difficult to decide which were right and which were wrong. There were three steps leading down from my office and at examination time I would stand at the top and drop all the papers. The ones that landed on the top step got A's : : : those that landed on the second step got B's : : : those that landed on the bottom got C's."

It might be considered an understatement to say that the professor's methods were slightly haphazard: Unfortunately, many investors use methods equally as haphazard when buying securities. They may neglect to investigate before they invest : : : they may buy on tips or rumours and let enthusiasm run away with good judgment : : : they may invest without purpose : : : or even make an indiscriminate selection of securities, sound in themselves, but unsuited to their particular requirements.

If your investment buying or investment planning has been inclined to be a bit haphazard, we think we can help you. We can help you appraise the securities you now own : : : we can help investigate the securities you may be thinking about : : : we can help you plan a future programme.

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROLS

It is understood that the advisability of establishing a school safety patrol here is being considered.

Such safety patrols have an excellent record in many other centres. But one point cannot be emphasized too strongly. They are a supplement to, and not a substitute for, school guards such as those now employed at the busiest crossings in Belleville.

The school safety patrol system was first tried in Canada at Windsor, Ont. It was such an outstanding success there that several other cities have since instituted a similar system.

Senior pupils in the public and separate schools are designated as safety patrol officers. They are provided with some means of easy identification, such as armbands, rain-capes or helmets. It is their task to supervise their fellow-students at street crossings. They are supposed to report to teachers infractions of safety rules by students. If motorists flagrantly disregard the safety of children crossing the streets the patrol officers report that fact to the police. Incidentally police officers play a particularly important role in safeguarding kindergarten children on their way to and from school.

Their task is not an easy one. They have to stand out in all kinds of weather. But experience has proven that the vast majority of these patrol officers discharge their duties faithfully and with skill. One of the biggest dividends is the accumulation of a safety-conscious attitude not only among the patrol officers but among the other pupils, many of whom are eagerly awaiting the day when they will be old enough to qualify for service in the patrol.

The safety patrol system is generally administered by a committee which includes the chief of police or his representative, representatives of teachers and of the school board and public-spirited citizens.

A safety patrol system here would almost certainly prove as successful and as satisfactory as it has in other centres.

But—and this point should be stressed repeatedly—it is no substitute for the employment of school guards at the busiest and most dangerous crossings.

The school safety patrol system achieves one result which cannot be attained by the employment of school guards alone. It promotes initiative and self-assurance in the pupils and this safety-conscious attitude is carried over into adolescence and adult life.

But the school patrol system is abused when it is employed primarily as an economy measure. A twelve-year-old is not capable of coping with traffic conditions on our busiest streets and highways. If, to save a few dollars, we substitute children for experienced guards we shall eventually be faced with the necessity of balancing the dollars saved against a life-or-limb loss. Few of us would care to defend the proposition that the saving was adequate compensation for the price paid.

A CONSTRUCTIVE SUGGESTION

The House of Commons, which is revising the Criminal Code, may correct a long-standing injustice.

We have prided ourselves on the belief that, in our country, there is not one law for the rich and another for the poor. Unfortunately we have overlooked or ignored the fact that identical penalties are not necessarily equal penalties. A fine of $50 may represent a night's fun, a week's pay or a month's pension.

There appears to be no method by which we can satisfactorily adjust the amount of a fine to the status of the offender's pocketbook. But the Commons may take action to prevent a jail term being the penalty for lack of a relatively small amount of money. It has a simple remedy ready cash. Considerable use is being made of amendments to provide for instalment payment of fines.

It is significant that this proposal has received support from members of all parties in the House. Even Diefenbaker, Progressive-Conservative M.P. for Prince Albert, termed the present system unfair to the poor and spokesmen for the CCF and Social Credit parties agreed. Then another Progressive-Conservative, Wallace Nesbitt of Oxford, proposed an amendment, Hon. S. S. Garson, Minister of Justice, said he was prepared to accept it.

It is to be hoped that, even with the co-operation of members of all parties, the House will be able to devise a method whereby fines will, in fact, be equitable, as between the poor and the wealthy. But we have sound reason to hope that the result of these deliberations will bring a system which more closely approximates the ideal than does the existing situation.

CAUTION REQUIRED HERE

At New Orleans on Thursday Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh announced that critics who have suggested delaying field tests of Dr. Salk's polio vaccine.

To a layman, Dr. Salk's answers appeared to justify staging the trials, scheduled to begin within a few weeks. On the data submitted, there appears no sound reason to fear that inoculations with this vaccine are dangerous.

It would seem that those scientists who advocate delaying the tests are being too cautious. But, at the same time, there is another field in which caution is imperative. We will be well advised to restrain ourselves from becoming too optimistic. Dr. Salk believes that children who get his vaccine may become permanently immune to polio. But possibility is very different from probability and until extensive tests are conducted we should not be justified in concluding that science has at last found a method of combatting one of the most feared of diseases.

SOMETHING TO BOAST

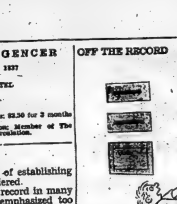
At dinner time I chanced to say:
"I met Clyde Beatty yesterday."
At which the children shouted:
"Wow!"
And promptly asked me where and how.

At me the questions fairly flew:
"Did you meet all 'n's tigers, too?
Did he invite you in the cage?
At you did all his lions rage?"

There's little children have to boast.



About their grandpas at the most
They're old and tired and like to rest;
They're merely common folk at best.

Today their eyes much brighter grow
Since I have grown in their esteem,

And excitedly to all they tell:
"Our grandpa knows Clyde Beatty well."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is about this time of year that my family sends our radio set off to the repair shop for its annual overhaul and tune-up. Unusually it is a few days ahead of this. We like them to keep the radio about a week. We want the week of the Seventeenth of March to get well by before the fun comes back.

Unlike St. Andrew's Day or St. George's Day or St. David's Day, St. Patrick is not celebrated with a mere one-day stand. His partisans start whooping it up around the 12th of March. And if there is one thing we can't bear in our house, it is Irish tenors. The legend in the family is that the reason we quit Ireland in 1846 wasn't on account of the collapse at the end of the Napoleonic Wars, nor the famine, nor the shooting from behind hedges nor the shillelaghs nor the potteen. No, it was simply that we couldn't stand Irish tenors any longer. We just gave a hell of a yell, as the saying is, and sailed to Canada. And until the radio was invented, we lived happily ever after. We married Scotch people over here; and that was all right, because we only had to put up with the bagpipes one day a year, or at most two, on Hogmanay and Burns. We married English people, and maybe we had one day of Thomas and Dramatic grove. We got roses were nice. We married Welsh and had to wear them for a day; but we are fond of onions in any form.

But we carefully avoided any further marriage with the Irish because you never can tell when a tenor will turn up and start singing that he met her in the gravein where the praties grow. We got praties, of course, but prefer them Peruvian fried.

Privately, and provided no Irish tenors are within hearing, we are immensely proud of the Irish nation and go back to dream in Ireland whenever the opportunity for peace allow. Some of us were back for the Sixteen, and it wasn't with the Black and Tans. Not only do we wear the shamrock, but we grow it in our window sills; and Cousin Russell and Yeats and Synge have the place of honor on our shelves.

But by the holy, when the 13th of March comes, the heck out of here goes the radio.

Germs Exonerated

(Edmonton Journal).

The germ theory of disease has been one of the most powerful mental tools of medicine for the greater part of a century. Its application has been far-reaching, enhanced in the public mind by the comparatively recent discovery and development of antibiotics, or germ-killing drugs. Sometimes, however, there is a bold man indeed, and one or independent and original mind, who would challenge it; but that is more or less what a noted biochemist in the United States, Doctor Rene J. Dubos, has one, in a recent address before the National Institute of Health.

Dr. Dubos' criticism of the theory which originated with Pasteur in the 1850s, appears open to attack on logic and speculation among both laymen and medical scientists. Some of what he says is scarcely surprising, since it rests on knowledge which has been widely disseminated for many years; but when he denies that the germ, whether bacteria or virus, is the primary cause of a given disease, he is certainly advancing onto new ground as far as the great majority of laymen and medical men are concerned.

It has been known for quite some time that the human body is inhabited with germs that normally by many different disease germs, and that, while they may be potentially dangerous, they are somehow kept under control, or at any rate do not necessarily go on the rampage and ravage the body with their particular evil work. It has also been appreciated that the body, as through the white corpuscles in the blood, possesses a machinery for keeping under control germs which, as it is held, invade the system from an outside source or have a genesis within the body. Finally, it is generally believed that every attack of disease, whether or good condition, confers on its possessor a certain amount of resistance to disease.

Dr. Dubos, however, appears to go a good deal further than that. He says, if we read his remarks right, that the cause of disease is primarily basic cause of the disease; rather that the cause is the upsetting of the body's internal condition or environment of life body; he is referring mainly to the complex state of affairs in the body cells, where there is apparently a balance, under healthy conditions, of chemical and electrical factors. These matters are not too well understood as yet, but biochemists are attempting them diligently, and Dr. Dubos doubtless likes his new conception of disease causes on some of this recent work.

As evidence of his view, he cites certain failures to infect human beings with germs which diseases as the common cold, even when they are deliberately dosed with the germs in large quantities. Many of us could wish for this kind of immunity; but, seriously, the results are rather startling in view of the general conception of the common cold as an ultra-contagious disease caused by a virus.

To be layman, it would seem that this eminent biochemist is on dangerous ground in saying that the best insurance against disease is keeping in good condition; that the germs were to put this up to him, he might well raise the question of what is good condition in terms of internal resistance to disease. Such questions presumably is what Dr. Dubos and others working in the same field or allied fields seek to answer. Until the terminating scientifically just how the body cell works, it is rather premature to say that the germ theory of disease probably is in its twilight years. Despite magnificent successes during the last century, and despite the fact that in its terms germ and germ killers doubtless will be discovered.

Whether this view will stand the test of further research and the test of time remains to be seen; but there can be little doubt that it is important. Its implications in our conception of the nature of disease. Such a conception may well be startling to many persons; and it may be a heavy burden turning out of the wheel if it should place the responsibility for combatting disease back on the shoulders of the individual; that is, if it places a new emphasis, on a scientific foundation, to the value of eating properly and keeping oneself fit.

Many M. P.'s Cannot Speak

(B. K. SANDWELL
In Saturday Financial Post).

The followers of Hansard would feel more reconciled to the $40,000 a year which the M.P.s and their taxpayers are now required to pay to their Federal representatives in the two Houses, if the gentlemen who draw that stipend were all capable of delivering a five minute speech without having to read it from a manuscript. I was careful to say gentlemen, because I am sure that the House would not tolerate in those whose oratorical powers are thus circumscribed.

There was a time when members Parliament were expected to speak considerably less than half what they cost it today, and exhibited far more knowledge of it than is much ability to express themselves in the English language. Now—

What distresses me even more than the apparent decline in the quality of the debates is the obvious increase in the foolishness of the subject matter. Far be it from me to disparage the reading speeches, except in the special cases provided for by the rules of the House, is nothing short of silly. Everyone is entitled to, and can do nothing but read him Hansard, knows that human knowledge does not as much ability to express themselves reading his speech. And for a man who has been elected primarily of being elected as a member to admit that he is incapable of addressing Mr. Speaker for five minutes without a full verbatim manuscript—this, in the absence of confession of incapacity, the supreme declaration of "I have no business here."

Jalopy Owner Gets A Thrill

(Windsor Star).

Life is full of interesting and amusing incidents if one keeps eyes and ears open for them.

The writer was driving his way a traffic jam at an important Windsor intersection. An ancient jalopy, driven by a young man and filled with four other motorists were blaming him, wondering why such an obsolete vehicle was permitted on the road.

But it wasn't that way, at all. When traffic began to move it was noted the old jalopy's engine was dead. It was a new pushing a late-model deluxe job to get it started. That happened at the next intersection, and it began to look as though it would be a matter of a lifetime for the lad, finding his vehicle called upon to push one worth ten times as much.

The reverse side of the picture was different. Nothing is more appreciated by a boy named Jip that can be get stalled at an intersection, at a railway crossing or anywhere, and enjoying the caresses and the sympathy of the crowd—then now and then.

We love our friends enough we won't have to worry about them ever turning against us. Love has a cementing power that nothing else has. No matter what the object or determination may be, love can always be victorious, especially in the family. It is a positive power of 20-year-old vehicle to get him going. It was downright humiliating.

SOUR MILK IS WHOLESOME FOOD

According to Metchnikoff (Prolongation of Life) a man lives more than an inch and a woman more than 1½ inches in stature between forty and eighty-five. In some instances the loss is nearly 3 inches. There is also loss of weight after fifty in women. Between the ages of fifty and eighty there is a loss of 13 pounds.

Atrophy, wasting, withering away, drying up, not just of the soft tissues but of the bones as well. Decalcification of the bones—loss of calcium—explains the loss of stature and the gradually increasing porosity of the bones explains both the lightness and greater fragility of the bones of elderly persons.

This decalcification of the bones is characteristic of advancing age but these authors seem a bit off base in their thirties or forties are decalcifying long before they attain what should be their peak. Thanks to our namby-pamby diet of high carbohydrates.

Prof. Elie Metchnikoff, sub-director of the Pasteur Institute, Paris, was born in Russia in 1845. He attained scientific fame during his career in France, for his discovery of phagocytosis—the eating, digesting, devouring, scavenging of dead or damaged cells and germs by a specialized type of white blood corpuscles (leucocytes).

But Metchnikoff attained popular fame through the American Sunday supplement for his theory that prolong human life, particularly with Bulgarian milk—skimmed milk thoroughly boiled, rapidly cooled to body temperature and sown with lactic bacilli of the Bulgarian strain. Of this Metchnikoff recommended that each individual consume 300 to 500 cc. daily—about a pint. His theory was that the vigorous Bulgarian lactic bacillus grown and fostered in milk would discourage the growth and activity of putrefactive germs in the intestine. To intestinal putrefaction (decomposition of nitrogenous material) Metchnikoff ascribed premature senility, rapid aging and early breakdown.

This was all very plausible, both to the laity and to a substantial part of the medical profession of the days when Topsy was a colt.

But, darn it, Bulgarian sour milk was just beginning to sell like hot cakes—

Not cakes, sh'Lister — an hour ago I managed to get up from the breakfast table without assistance, having stowed away one dozen genuine great Canadian buckwheat pancakes swimming in pure New York State maple syrup—not cakes made of Bulgarian buckwheat flour from the buckwheat capital, Yan, Yan, N.Y., of course. While I was ingesting the pancakes I wondered why the Hill—er, mountains along the road between Canandaigua, Penn Yan and Watkins Glen in the Finger Lakes country some culinary artist—believe, there must be not many such artists around these days—doesn't set up a stand or a chain of stands to tantalize motoring traffic with an invitation to a stack of 'em.

Then when Elie, poor fellow, turned up his toes at the comparatively early age of 71 in 1916 that Bulgarian milk steadily declined in popularity because there was not much easy to Acidophilus milk—milk fermented by another strain of bacteria.

Speaking as an obscure, poorly educated country boy I advocate my own opinion, whether you ask for it or not, that Bulgarian sour milk, Acidophilus milk, artificial "buttermilk," natural buttermilk or plain sour milk (whole milk or skim milk or separator milk) is a wholesome food beverage if you like it but you're a simpleminder if you pay a premium price for any one of these kinds of sour milk except, of course, for the butter fat in whole milk.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IF YOU LOVE ENOUGH

This would be a changed world if each of us loved more—and differently. Henry Drummond, who wrote a book called "The Greatest Thing in the World," said that love is the greatest. And so it is, no matter where that love is placed. Love of country and its flag, love of people, of birds and animals, of the hills, the streams, its lakes and forests, and indeed of everything in this wonderful world of ours.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, a famous French-the noted Negro scientist, once said: "Anything will give up its secrets if you love it enough." This noted man proved himself to be loved for the immense good that he created for his country.

Abraham Lincoln loved people, and so people loved him. During all the trying times of Civil War he always took time to investigate the circumstances of boys condemned for some breach of military law, so that a boy on top of the earth was always forgiven when he understood. He wrote and talked in the language of the humblest folk, so he told how the President had "a little boy named Jip that sat in the Presidents' lap at mealtime, enjoying the caresses and the sympathy of the President now and then."

There is no known remedy so efficient and assuring as the simple rule of love—unselfish love. It always originates in the heart. If we love enough, as we journey through life, we need have no fear as to our genuine success or to that happiness for which we all hope and pray.

Knitting Firm In Arms Trade

(By Napier Moore in The Financial Post.)

It was in a local newspaper that I saw an advertisement for Colt revolvers—"Worried about Holdups? Burglars? Last Call—C.O.D. Garage Operators, Protect Life and Property!"—and the name was followed by the name of the advertiser. It was "Arms Division, Dominion Textile, Montreal-Toronto, Ont." We got to wondering how a knitting concern came to have an arms division. So we phoned its president, Cecil Wolfe, who most courteously satisfied our curiosity. The knitting company, it seems, has other goods, got into the arms business many years ago because of a deep interest in ballistics on the part of the president's son, John T. Wolfe. They started by repairing the odd gun and finally acquired the Colt agency. Their arms manufacturing quota; just represent the manufacturer. Today, they supply and keep in repair the revolvers used by quite a lot of police departments.

'Feed My Sheep'

"Dripping wet, he charged up on the shore, where the tall figure . . . awaited."

CHAPTER 11.

The Faithful had been directed to go to Galilee and they had obeyed. Peter had gone back to his home, his old place on the pebbly beach, and his boat, which he reclaimed from the friend to whom he had lent it. There it lay now, tugging at the hawsers on the Sea of Tiberias lying blue and peaceful under the still starry sky.

With Simon Peter in that dark and early hour were Thomas, the doubter, and Nathanael; James the Greater and John, the sons of Zebedee, and two other of Jesus' apostles, all standing on the shore.

Suddenly the silence was broken by Peter's rumbling voice, saying: "I go a-fishing."

The others looked at each other and shrugged. Why not!

"We also will come with you," they said to Peter. The smell of the boats and the sight of the little waves rolling in had a comfortable familiarity that soothed the pain of spirit which had possessed them constantly in the weeks since Jesus was put to death. That dread event had been on April 7; now it was already May and after those first early visits, Jesus had come to them no more.

So they went forth in the boat. Through the darkness they sailed with a wind racing before the dawn, carrying them far out into the middle of the lake.

But the morning light came as they returned with empty nets to the shore, and presently their tired eyes saw a figure standing at the edge of the water.

They heard a voice calling to them.

"Children, have you any meat?"

"No!"

"Cast the net on the right side of the ship and you shall find."

They looked at each other doubtfully but obediently they cast out their empty nets, and now "they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes."

Then John—girls to Peter in a strangled voice and great agitation: "It is the Lord."

Peter looked back at the shore. He was a towering figure as he stood there, naked, in the prow of the ship, shouting orders to the crew. But now—the Lord! The Lord! Peter threw his fisher's coat around him and leaped into the water, swimming as fast as he could for the beach, to reach Jesus. Dripping wet, he charged up on the shore, where the tall figure, wrapped with light, awaited them. Beside Jesus Peter saw a little fire of hot coals on the ground, and beside the fire some loaves of bread.

Yet Jesus called out to the others again, saying:

"Bring hither of the fishes which you now have caught."

Peter ran to tug with John and James and Andrew, to pull the overladen net to shore.

And as they turned toward the Lord and made a little ring around Him, Jesus said:

"Come and dine."

They all sat with Him, and He went from one to another, distributing generous pieces of roasted fish and new baked bread to each.

When they had all dined, Jesus came directly to the point.

To Peter He said:

"Simon, son of Jonas, do you love Me more than these?"

And His smile embraced all the others.

"Yes, Lord," came the booming reply of Peter. "You know that I love You."

There was a moment of deep, expectant silence, and then Jesus said:

"Feed My lambs!"

No one dared to speak. Jesus repeated His question to Peter:

"Simon, son of Jonas, do you love Me?"

"Yes, Lord! You know that I love You."

"Feed My sheep!"

And now, after another pause, and for a third time, Jesus asked:

"Simon, son of Jonas, do you love Me?"

In a deepening tone Peter answered:

"You know all things; you know that I love You."

And Jesus said:

"Feed My sheep."

And why the three questions? Why was one not enough? Three times Peter had denied his beloved Master, in the hour of supreme danger. Now, in the presence of the apostles whose captain he was to be, he had three times reiterated his overwhelming love of Jesus. Those protestations canceled out the memory of those three ignoble denials.

The slate was clean.

On this most special morning in Galilee Peter's heart was filled with humility and glory. He could never doubt again. He had supped with the risen Lord, who had repeated His assignment to Peter to lead the Christian flock; to feed the lambs and the sheep.

In just a little while, the work of the Church would begin.

PC's Will Meet To Choose New President

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives will meet here for the next three days to choose a new president for their national organization and chart policies for the years ahead.

Chief interest centres on the choice of a president to succeed George Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., Member of Parliament for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, who is retiring after four years in office.

A contest seems assured. Although only one definite contender, George Hees, 42-year-old member for Toronto Broadview, has emerged, there are indications that one or more other likely nominees will stand.

Recent speculation has mentioned four possible contenders: Hon. Earl Rowe, member for Dufferin-Simcoe in Ontario and former cabinet member under the late prime minister R. B. Bennett; John Hackett, former MP for Stanstead in Quebec; M. A. Macpherson, Regina lawyer, and Gordon Churchill, MP for Winnipeg South Centre.

However, in a statement on the eve of the convention Mr. Rowe said he will not be a candidate for the presidency.

If a choice if necessary, it will be made Tuesday by some 140 voting delegates at the start of the formal two-day meeting.

Today will be devoted to meetings of the party's women's organization and the Young Progressive Conservative Association.

The three-day meeting marks the 100th anniversary of the party founded in 1854 by Sir John A. Macdonald. Between 600 and 800 party members are expected to attend.

Discussions on future policy and organization will be aimed at a return to government power last held 19 years ago.

As one change, the party may return to its former name of "conservative" which was changed in 1942 at the request of John Bracken at the Winnipeg convention which chose him party leader. A number of resolutions favoring a return to the former name have been sent in by constituency organizations.

Party officials say they do not expect the present leadership of Hon. George Drew to become an issue. As at past annual meetings, there will be a motion of confidence in the leadership.

Weddings

MANTLE—DAVIDSON

St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church, Bannockburn, was the scene of a pretty wedding on February 27, when Anne Marilyn Davidson, daughter of Mrs. Eva Davidson, of Bannockburn, became the bride of George John Mantle, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mantle, of Marmora. Rev. T. H. Good was the officiating clergyman.

The wedding music was played by Miss Rosemary Webb, of Bonarlaw, and Miss Anne Hickle was soloist, rendering "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Clayton Davidson, of Coe Hill, the bride was daintily attired in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over nylon tulle, fashioned with a stand-up collar. A fingertip veil fell from her lace headdress and she carried pink gardenias and lily-of-the-valley on her prayer book.

As maid of honor, Miss Dorothy McCoy, of Peterborough, wore a ballerina length gown of blue nylon net with pleated bodice and net stole. Gwen Lloyd, of Bannockburn, was bridesmaid, wearing a ballerina length gown of pink nylon net with a pleated bodice. Both wore matching feather headdress and carried baskets of pink and blue hyacinths. Little Donna Adams of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was prettily attired in floor length organdy with matching poke bonnet and carried a basket of pink and blue hyacinths.

Mr. Allan Mumby of Trenton, was groomsman and Tom Brooks of Deloro and Ronald Johnston of Eldorado acted as ushers.

At a buffet lunch served to about 75 guests in the A.Y.P.A. rooms, Bannockburn, the bride's mother received, wearing wine silk with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a figured suit with black accessories and white gardenia.

For travelling to the United States, the bride chose a navy dress, fashioned in princess style with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. E.E. Follwell Describes Tour To School Group

The regular monthly meeting of Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association was held in Prince Charles School on Thursday evening. The short business was conducted by the president Mr. Willis Jackson, who welcomed the gathering and praised them on their fine attendance. An invitation from the Association in Madoc was extended to all members to attend their meeting April 7, at 8.15 in the High School, when Dr. R. Laycock will be the guest speaker.

There will be a meeting in Prince Charles auditorium on Wednesday, March 17, at 7.30 at which Mr. Harold Harlon will give directions for program planning and also folk and square dancing. This promises to be a most interesting and instructive evening and all those desirous of improving the programs of their various organizations are cordially invited.

Results of the attendance banner awards were as follows: Queen Mary seniors, Miss Wilson's class; juniors, Miss Houston's class, Prince Charles seniors, Mr. Frink's class; juniors, Miss Wright's class.

Mr. Jackson introduced the guest speaker for the meeting Mrs. E. E. Follwell, who, for the remainder of the evening, took her audience on a thrilling and most satisfying tour of Britain and the Continent. Before showing beautiful colored films of England and the Coronation, Mrs. Follwell gave a brief and lighthearted account of her plane trip from Dorval airport to Newfoundland, then to Scotland and finally to London. Her impressions of the countryside, the people of England and of the Coronation were so vivid that one felt almost as if one had been privileged to take the trip with the speaker. After the showing of the film of England, Mrs. Follwell continued with her tour to the Continent which included Holland, where she was much impressed by the Peace Palace which has been built by the generosity of Andrew Carnegie and of materials from practically every country in the world. From Holland to Belgium, and then to Switzerland, she took her listeners, with a film to show the beautiful mountainous country, lakes and quaint chalets. The return journey included a trip to Paris where the party visited the Eiffel Tower, the Arc de Triomphe and the Louvre. A ten-day bus trip through the Emerald country-side of Ireland, a week in Edinburgh, Scotland, then back to London where they boarded the plane for home followed. A brief stop at Prestwick, Scotland and a quick look at Iceland and Labrador before landing at Montreal brought a memorable holiday to a close.

Mr. C. A. S. Smith tendered the thanks of the Association to Mrs. Follwell for a most entertaining and rewarding evening. Refreshments were served by the social committee.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HIS WIFE LEFT HIM BECAUSE HE "SEEMED TO HAVE CHANGED."

Tragic as it is, the sort of experience described in the following letter from an ex-servicewoman is far from uncommon. No doubt practically everyone reading this column has observed at least one such case among their own acquaintances. And I might say that if anyone has seen one which has been successfully worked out, I would like to hear about it.

Here's the problem:

"When I came out of the service a year ago, somehow everything began to go wrong between my wife and myself. It didn't seem possible to put a finger on any special reason. My wife simply said I seemed to have changed, and I felt she had changed toward me.

"A few weeks ago my wife left me and went back home to her parents, and if I can't get her back I don't know what I'll do. When we married, just a few months before I went into service, we were the happiest two people in the world, and I don't care to go on living if we can't be like that again.

"Can you show me a way to make things right again?"

The hardest break to make between two people is the one where it seems impossible to put a finger on the cause. "Incompatability" is the name people give this type of thing for lack of better definition. If it is ever going to be possible for this man and his wife to get together again, I think the best way for him to begin the attempt is to start courting her as he did before they were married and see if undiscovered wedding bells not in fluence her. He shouldn't try to push her into bed, or hurry her to a decision, but send her flowers and gifts, write her loving little notes and invite her out on dates, not for the purpose of discussing their difficulties but just to see if they can't have some good times together as they used to.

If he can show her that the two of them can be really companionable and have fun together, it may be a big step toward winning her back.

She is probably quite right in thinking that his experiences in the service have changed him. It would be surprising if they hadn't. But that doesn't necessarily mean he has changed in any way that should affect their relationship permanently, provided both of them are mature, understanding and reasonable people who really want to make their marriage work. It may be, of course, that they rushed into marriage too soon, as so many young people have done when the boy in the case was going away. But, in any event, the best way to find out about this is to make the kind of attempt I have just been talking about.

If it doesn't work, and he is unable to persuade his wife to make a new start with him, then he should try to have the courage to accept the fact that life does not always give us just exactly what we want, and not let it turn him into a bitter and disillusioned young man. I realize it is easy enough to say this sort of thing but, after all, there comes times in the lives of us when we either have to surmount disappointment and heartbreak or be defeated by it. If one must choose between triumph and defeat, surely there is only one choice open to the man or woman of real character.

So to this young man I would say simply this:

Try hard, in a wise and thoughtful way, to show your wife that any changes in you have been in the direction of greater maturity, insight and understanding. Try to make her see that, with both of you working together on the readjustment, the future of your marriage could be even better than the past. But, if she cannot understand this, and cannot meet you half way, then try to realize that you have grown beyond her and she is no longer the right wife for you, and that eventually you will find some other woman who is.

Bow To Saint Patrick

By Mary Moore

We were trying to work out a game for a St. Patrick's Day party my sister-in-law was giving for my nephew Paul and his school chums, Paul is nine.

The game was conundrums which he dearly loves. Every answer was supposed to have the syllable "pat" as the beginning of the word. For instance: What "pat" is a girl's name? Or, what "pat" is noisy? Paul chimed in with "do you suppose we could get them to go for 'What "pat" do you mash?'" He was hoping to get a laugh from the grown-ups (which he did) and also that we would include his pat-a-cake (which he did). I won't know how his playmates swallowed this until after Wednesday, March 17.

I'd rather play Irish games on St. Patrick's Day than eat green food but this is a food column (it says somewhere), so it behooves us manager to dish up some green food ideas.

My idea of what an Irish family in Ireland eats is rashers of bacon and spuds, but Canadians won't go for that at a party. They want sich eye-catching stuff as green jellies and cake frosted with green icing.

I'll give you a few recipes for dishes that will fit into any Irish party you dream up and then I will have done my duty.

IRISH JELLY MOLD

Open and drain one can of pears—2½ size. Also, yesterday's Bartletts. Into the seed pit of each put a marashino cherry. Now with the cut side of the pear facing out, place the pear halves upright around the sides of a mold—a ring mold is preferable. If the rounded bottoms of the pears tend to make them slip, cut a flat slice from them to the dry ingredients of two packages of lime-flavored jelly and 2 teaspoons gelatin and when it is mixed add 1 cup cold water. Let stand 5 minutes, then add 2 cups boiling water and stir until dissolved. If it does not all dissolve stir it over hot water. When it has cooled to room temperature carefully pour half of it around the pears in the mold and chill until set then add remaining jelly mixture and you must keep at a high enough temperature that it does not set. When ready to serve unmold on flat round large plate. Fill centre with mayonnaise containing chopped walnuts if you like, and garnish with dainty inner lettuce leaves.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR SECOND BABY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it considered proper to send birth announcements for the second baby? I've been wondering if birth announcements are to be sent out for first babies only, for surely people feel they are obligated to send a gift when they receive a birth announcement, and might not feel they could afford to send another present.

J.W.

No reason why birth announcements should not be sent out for the second baby or third or whatever number baby. No reason why the first baby should get all the announcement glory! It is definitely not an obligation that anyone receiving a birth announcement should send a present. . . the receiver of this important announcement naturally would (or should) send a note of felicitations and good wishes. But there should be no agitation about having to send a gift; or about expecting that a gift should be sent.

DOUBLE CHARM. . . TWO LITTLE FLOWER GIRLS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My younger sister is to be married soon in a simple, Catholic church ceremony. I will be her only attendant. We would like to include the two young daughters (5 and 7) of our older sister. They are the only grandchildren in the family. However, we are not sure that it is proper to have two flower girls when there is only one attendant. (1) If it isn't, would there be some other way they could take part in the wedding.

At their ages it would be impossible, of course, to include one and not the other. Therefore we would like to know if it would be appropriate for both to be flower girls. (2) If you tell us this is proper, please tell us if they should be dressed identically. (3) What would be their position in the Processional and Recessional? — M.

(1) It is a perfect plan. . . enough decorative and entirely correct. . . They are both of the flower-girl age. . .generally flower girls are between the ages of four and eight. The fact that the bride is to have only one grown-up attendant need have no bearing on this plan. Of course these little sisters will be enchanted to be part of the wedding, and of course they should each be flower girls . . . double charm!

(2) Yes, they should be dressed entirely alike. . . I'd like to urge you to consider dressing them in the popular and always-effective Kate Greenaway dresses, ankle-length, of white or pastel shade, perhaps delicate garlands of small flowers on their heads, and carrying a small basket of flowers; or more often, a small, pert, old-fashioned bouquet of small flowers.

(3) Precession: ushers first, two by two; then you, the honor attendant, alone then the two flower girls, walking together; last the bride and her father. In the Recessional, the two flower girls, walking together, follow the bride and groom down the aisle. (Quite often such young attendants do not take part in the Recessional.)

A TEA FOR THE BRIDE-TO-Be

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Might it ought to be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding goon of a very dear friend of hers. The attendants combined to give a shower for the bride-to-be, but they would like to give a Tea in honor of the bride-to-be. Should she invite the girl's mother and her fiance's mother (both of which are good friends of our family)? And, if she should she ask them to "receive" with my daughter, the bride, and with the guest of honor? Or should they be asked to preside over the tea-table, one to pour tea, one to pour coffee? — Mother

The fiance's mother and the fiance's mother should be invited to this important Tea. But they need not be invited to "receive" with your daughter and the guest of honor, and they definitely should not be asked to pour, for this event they would be asked be "stationed" at the tea-table, and would be able to mingle with guests, as they should have the opportunity of doing.

CANDY BY ST. PATRICK
(Using potato fondant.)

Note—This is easy and the children can help, for it is uncooked.

Freshly boil and mash enough potatoes to make one cup well packed. Force through sieve to remove all lumps. Stir in 2 lbs. sifted icing sugar, when the fondant will be firm enough to roll out or mold. Divide into four equal parts. Part 1—Flavor with almond essence and work in about 8 drops of green vegetable coloring to give a delicate tint. Make these into balls size of hickory nuts and press into top of each a blanched almond, and dust with granulated or powdered sugar. Part 2— Flavor with strawberry essence or rose essence. Tint a delicate shade of pink with a few drops of red vegetable coloring working it in well. Break off small pieces and roll into each a blanched almond or filbert. Dip in unbeaten egg white and roll in fine cocoanut. Part 3—Flavor with vanilla, but do not color. Break off and roll into ovals roughly the shape of potatoes. Dust with cocoa to make them look like potatoes, and press tiny pieces of chopped peanut on the surface to dint potatoes and resemble "eyes" Part 4—Roll to 1-8 inch thickness on board dusted with icing sugar. Spread with melted chocolate or fresh soft peanut butter, then roll up and cut into slices when chilled.

EMERALD JELLIES

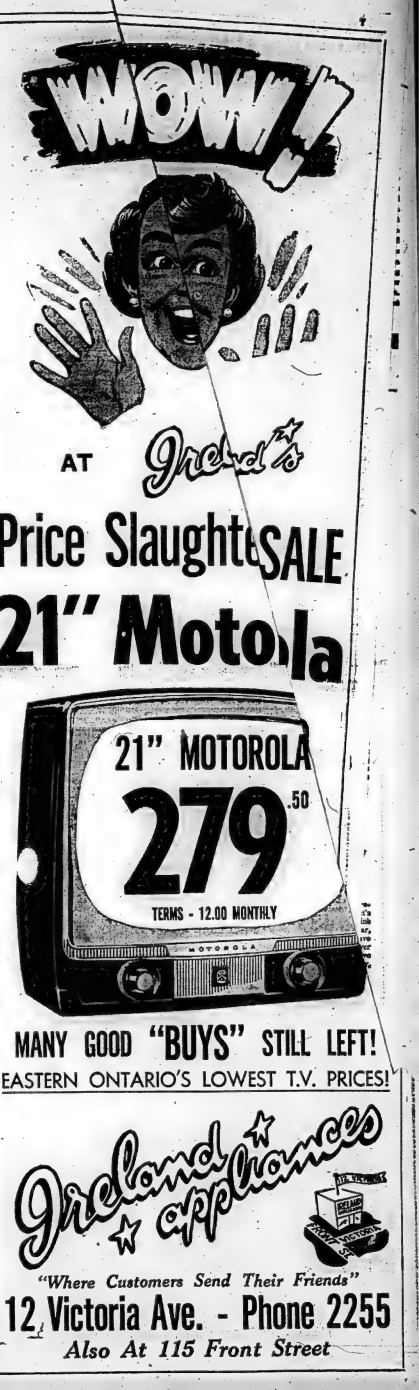
These are very easy and effective and will call for four simple ingredients. The young people will enjoy making them. Soak 2 tablespoons plain gelatin in 1-2 cup cold watey five minutes. Stir in 1-2 cup boiling water, then stir this over hot water until gelatin is dissolved. Add 1 cup granulated sugar and stir off heat until dissolved. Cool to room temperature and add enough green coloring to make it an emerald green and enough peppermint flavoring (about 1-2 to 3-4 teaspoon) to give a pronounced peppermint flavor. Pour mixture into shallow pan which has been rinsed in cold water, to 1-inch depth. Chill until very firm. Cut into oblongs, squares or diamonds of about 1 inch, roll each in granulated sugar. Dry in cool place. Roll a second and third time in sugar just before serving.

the wardrobe are selected. With true appreciation of color, with a knowledge of which ones are flattering, we seldom would ever make a mistake. No cold greys, dismal browns, ghastly, characterless greens for her!

The woman who loves gay colors and who isn't afraid to wear them is usually a gay jolly companion. There is a reason; colors have a psychological effect upon the spirits. There are women who never wear blue because it is depressing.



Sometimes color taste starts in childhood. The blonde curle whose mother favors blue for baby's pretty frocks will love blue all her life long. Little Brown Eyes with red ribbons in her hair will have a yen for red shoes and hats when she is grown up.

There are women who, when shopping, just naturally gravitate toward drab-colored clothes. Maybe they fancy that ugly colors denote respectability, or perhaps that is an inheritance from our Puritan ancestors. Nearly always these women are of the cold, austere type. In fact their drab appearance that makes them look that way?

Black, a doubtful selection for brunettes, is wonderful for blondes: it brings out the delicate coloring of complexion, the golden lights of the hair. It is also a safe choice for the redhead.

Women with drab hair and sallow skins must avoid beige and browns. Usually they look well in navy, dove grey and soft shades of green.

When make-up is worn, the color of the frock should be considered. Hence the need of a flock of lipsticks and several different shades of rouge.

(2) Yes, they should be dressed entirely alike. . .I'd like to urge you to consider dressing them in the popular and always-effective Kate Greenaway dresses, ankle-length, of white or pastel shade, perhaps delicate garlands of small flowers on their heads, and carrying a small basket of flowers, or more often, a small, pert, old-fashioned bouquet of small flowers.

(3) Processional: ushers first, two by two; then you, the honor attendant, alone then the two flower girls, walking together; last the bride and her father. In the Recessional, the two flower girls walking together, follow the bride and groom down the aisle. Quite often such young attendants do not take part in the Recessional.

A TEA FOR THE BRIDE-To-Be

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding soon of a very dear friend of hers. A tea is being combined to give a shower for the bride-to-be, but my daughter would like to give a Tea in honor of the bride-to-be. Should she invite the girl's mother and her fiance's mother (both of whom are good friends of our family)? And, if so, should she ask them to "receive" with the bride-to-be, the hostess, and with the guest of honor? Or should they be asked to preside over the tea-table, and pour tea, one to pour coffee? — Mother

The fiance's mother and the fiance's mother should be invited to this important Tea. But they need not be invited to "receive" with your daughter and the guest of honor. And they definitely should not be asked to pour, for this will mean that they would be "stationed" at the tea-table, and would not be able to mingle with guests as they should have the opportunity of doing.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

COLORS IN DRESS AND MAKE-UP

What makes the smartly dressed woman? Good taste and an understanding of line and color is the answer. When we see a young woman with great beauty potentials wearing a drab colored frock we wonder at her lack of color sense.

The complexion, the eyes, the hair and the figure must be taken into consideration when items of the wardrobe are selected. With true appreciation of color, with knowledge of which ones are flattering, the wise woman will never make a mistake. No cold green behind brows, ghastly, character-less greens for her!

The woman who loves gay colors and who isn't afraid to wear them is usually a gay jolly personality. There is a reason; colors have a psychological effect upon the spirits. There are women who never wear black because it is depressing.

Sometimes color taste starts in childhood. The blonde cutie whose mother favors blue for baby's pretty frocks will love blue all her life long. Little Brown Eyes with red ribbons in her hair will have a yen for red shoes and hats when she is grown up.

There are women who, when shopping, just naturally gravitate toward drab-colored clothes. Maybe they fancy that ugly colors denote respectability. Or perhaps that is an inheritance from our Puritan ancestors. Nearly always these women are of the cold, austere type. Or is it their drab appearance that makes them look that way?

Black, a doubtful selection for brunettes, is wonderful for blondes; it brings out the delicate coloring of complexion, the golden lights of the hair. It is also a safe choice for the redhead.

Women with drab hair and sallow skins must avoid beige and browns. Usually they look well in navy, dove gray and soft shades of green.

When make-up is worn, the color of this frock should be considered. Hence the need of a flock of lipsticks and several different shades of rouge.

No Isolation Pay Biggest Beef of Men of 25th Brigade

By JACK BRAILEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—One of the biggest beefs among men of Canada's 25th Brigade is the absence of some sort of isolation pay.

Jack Brayley

Members of the brigade say the government was a little unthoughtful in the way it cut off foreign service gratuities and re-establishment credits after they had been used to advantage in signing up many soldiers for an additional stint abroad. The gratuities were cut off when the Korean war ended last July.

The men claim they are even more isolated than troops serving in Canada's northerly outposts who often can get flips to Winnipeg, Edmonton or Montreal for a week-end. They added they shouldn't be put in the same category as troops of the 27th Brigade in Germany who can have their families with them and who can live quiet civilian lives in civilized surroundings in off-duty hours.

RUGGED COUNTRY

The 25th, of course, is dug in in the rugged terrain north of the Imjin river and quite a distance from Seoul, which offers little but ruins and no entertainment. A potential enemy against whom they were fighting until six months ago is facing them and is the object of a 24-hour watchdog operation.

Isolation pay would not take the place of the other credits but it would help, say the men.

Another beef the men have had has been about the mail service. All three flights with mail from Canada arrived at the end of the week.

This meant that it took as long as 15 days for a letter from Canada to reach Korea.

Now the authorities have attempted to fix things by scheduling planes from Vancouver on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday. It's hoped now that a letter mailed anywhere in Canada will be in the soldier's hands within six or seven days.

The troops like the new arrangement better although they still think it's not perfect. The airmail is met at Seoul by the vans and rushed to the Canadian brigade for distribution among the units, with the sorting done on the run to save time.

The men have heard stories of apathy at home about the Canadian role in Korea.

One officer at brigade headquarters, for instance, was emphatic. He told one of Canada's biggest insurance companies that the isolation has a brigade in a key spot in the Korean defence line.

When he sent his cheque to pay his premium he included the usual return address which, for the brigade, is care of the postmaster at Vancouver, accumulation point for mail to Korea. The insurance company wrote him noting his change of address to Vancouver, being he'd be happy in that city and advising him that his policy had been transferred to the Vancouver office for his convenience.

Another but less discussed beef that has been heard in the brigade is about the lack of some suitable recognition for outstanding Korean service. A feature of this question that should be considered, in the opinion of one officer, is that such a decoration would also be available for reciprocal exchange for the decorations from foreign countries which go to Canadian soldiers.

Ma was thinking to herself serious, saying to pop, William, I'm afraid my conscience herts me.

Have you tried rubbing it briskly with oil of forget me nota? pop said. What's worrying you? he said, and ma said, I witnessed an accident. I saw a berly truck driver crash rite into the back of a lovely woman's car without the shadow of an excuse she said.

Did you cause him to do it for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, Certainly not, the woman was so nice, and she asked me with tears in her eyes if I would be a witness for her, but I told her I was afraid I couldn't.

Why couldn't you? pop siad, and ma said, Because I had a gassly mental picture of being hailed into the witness stand for some brutal opposing lawyer to beep insults and ridicule on my head. And yet I cant help remembering that I saw that unspeekable truck driver delibrity heri his truck into the back of that sweet woman's car without giving her time to tern the corner, ma said.

Oh, she was about to make a tern, pop said. Did she make a hand signal? he said, and ma said, Well no, she was too bizzy trying to tern. After all, the poor woman only had 2 hands.

Then she was in the wrong, and the truck driver has a perfect case, pop said, and ma said, Oh how wonderful, then I was quite rite not to give my name, I'm sure that awful truck driver is generally wrong, no matter how rite he was, and I would not lift a finger to help him unless perhaps he was drowning and sinking for the 3rd time. Well, I must say my conscience feels mutch better, she said.

Yee gods, it's a woman's world, pop said.

Outdoor Phone Booths Spring Up Everywhere

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The telephone booth has flowered indoors since Alexander Graham Bell invented it, now is sprouting in the wide open spaces.

Outdoor telephone booths are springing up along superhighways, in parks, on public squares and other places where a lot of people pass by or congregate.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. reports its Bell system companies now have about 50,000 in operation in the United States compared with 6,000 in 1945, with the number increasing fast.

Because of the growing popularity of the outdoor telephone, AT and T's Bell laboratories recently designed a standard booth that now is being mass produced. The booth has removable side panels which come in transparent safety glass or red, blue or green aluminum.

RED ATTRACTS CALLERS

Color can make a difference, as the New York Telephone Co. found when a painter who was supposed to put a conservative maroon finish on a booth in a subway station decided to do it in brilliant Chinese red. The painter wasn't in the dog house long. That particular booth trebled its take of coins.

The outdoor booth, including the highway booth, isn't particularly new but only since the end of the war has it caught on in a big way.

Companies have found that in spotting outdoor booths for both motorists and pedestrians the most congested spots are not always the best. The most important consideration seems to be that they are in spots where it is convenient to stop.

Republican Leaders Facing Critical Decisions on Strategy In McCarthy-Army Feud

MESSENGER LANDS IN HANDS OF POLICE.

Roy Budgell, 17-year-old messenger, was asked by a man on a Toronto street to deliver an envelope to the telley of a bank. Roy did so, saw the girl in the teller's cage turn pale, then the next thing he knew he was surrounded by policemen with drawn revolvers. The note which the man had given him contained a message: "I am over all your dens and twenties." When the teller read the note she sounded the alarm and Roy, wondering what it was all about, had to tell his story to the police who admitted it was a new wrinkle in attempted holdups. — Central Press Canadian.

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders faced critical decisions today on strategy for ending the war between Senator Joseph McCarthy and the army and avoiding an outright break between the Wisconsin Republican and the Eisenhower administration.

McCarthy and Republican leaders seemed agreed that a showdown, at which he and top army officials would testify under oath, is needed to get at the truth in the welter of charges and counter-charges.

But where and when to stage it —and whether publicly or behind closed doors—remained undecided.

One major question was: Should the investigation be entrusted to McCarthy's own sub-committee?

After Vice – President Nixon's speech Saturday night, with its passages obviously directed at McCarthy, the feeling mirrored that a showdown must come soon.

Nixon said "reckless talk and questionable methods" in fighting communism played into the hands of administration opponents and that the administration insists procedures used both in the executive and legislative branches must be fair and proper.

McCarthy said Sunday night he will leave Wednesday on a speaking trip which will keep him out of Washington until next week.

He said that if the sub-committee then wants to continue it can do so with the army "we will certainly do so."

The feud flared anew last week with publication of an army report alleging that McCarthy and an aide on his Senate investigations sub-committee had put pressure on the army to get special favors for Pte. G. David Schine, a former member of the sub-committee's staff. The report specifically accused the sub-committee's chief counsel, Roy Cohn, a pal of Schine, of backing such demands with threats.

"Blackmail" McCarthy retorted. He accused Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and John G. Adams, army general counsel, of trying to use the drafting of Schine as "a club" against further probing by the sub-committee into McCarthy's charges of Reds in the army.

The Senate Republican policy committee met behind closed doors Tuesday, and its leaders said the conference was considering possible methods of investigating it will be considered.

Franco Brings Gibraltar Issue Again to Fore

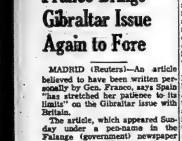
MADRID (Reuters)—An article believed to have been written personally by Gen. Franco, says Spain "has stretched her patience to its limits" on the Gibraltar issue with Britain.

The article, which appeared Sunday under a pen-name in the Falange (government) newspaper Arriba, says: "Fainthearted persons and friends of compromise at agreements need not bother to seek a solution to relations between Britain and Spain.

"The case of Gibraltar (the strategic British naval base has long been sought by Spain) is so grave that it goes beyond such frontiers.

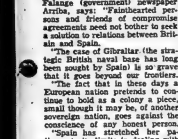
"The fact that in these days a European nation pretends to continue to hold as a colony a piece, small though it may be, of another sovereign nation, goes against the conscience of any honest person.

"Spain has stretched her patience to its limits in dealing with Britain. . . .



"Gibraltar is for us the barrier which marks Britain's hostile policy—and it is marked clearly enough for anyone to see."

The article is regarded as important in view of the close Franco government here, mainly because of its anti-British overtones.



The impression here is that unless Britain accepts Franco's proposal of 1950, Spain will take the later close permanently the land frontier with Gibraltar at La Linea.

STRATEGIC COLONY

The British crown colony of Hong Kong is only a little larger in area than New York City.

NOPE, CRIME DID NOT PAY.

Rudolph Tanwoti, 45, sits at police headquarters in New York and sadly surveys $35,000 worth of valuables which he is charged with stealing from tenants of the Park Avenue apartment house where he is employed as building engineer. Tanwoti, who served three years on a previous burglary conviction, told police that he made only $2,000 on $65,000 worth of loot sold through a "fence."

Ship-to-Plane Signal Service Now Developed

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Navy Sunday disclosed a new ship-to-plane signalling device designed to allow pilots to land supersonic jets safely on the pitching flight deck on a carrier at sea.

The device consists basically of a large mirror which the pilot watches as he comes in for a landing. The pilot keeps his eye on a spot of light reflected from it. Movements of the light, worked out by an automatic device on the ship, tell him when he is coming in at the correct angle.

The admiralty announcement explained that modern jet planes approach the flight deck too rapidly to allow time for customary hand signalling.

The new aid means that carriers now will be able to operate the fastest planes in service.

Crown Princess Martha Suffers Jaundice Attack

OSLO, Norway—(CP)—The state hospital announced that Crown Princess Martha, 33, was admitted Saturday for treatment of an internal haemorrhage caused by jaundice. The statement said the bleeding has been stopped and described her condition as "satisfactory."

Nevertheless, celebrations of her silver wedding which was planned for 21 with Crown Prince Olaf have been cancelled.

In London, the Press Association reported that Mother Elizabeth may cancel her proposed visit to Norway at the end of this week because of Princess Martha's illness. The Queen Mother was to have attended the celebrations.

Pope Suffering From Ailment Of Stomach

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope is suffering from a stomach complaint called stegnosis of the pylorus, it was learned Monday night.

This is the description of the Pope's malady given in the last few days to cardinals and other high prelates who have asked for news of his condition.

It is an obstruction of the end of the stomach which leads into the small intestine.

It was understood that this contraction is still preventing the Pope from retaining extract of grapes and a paste made of bananas.

Pearson Makes Appeal to U.S. To Reject Defence Based On Entrenched Continentalism

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson appealed to the United States today to reject "entrenched continentalism" as a concept of defence against world communism.

He warned that Canadian-American relations will be threatened if the U.S. reverts to a policy of defence narrower than that of the North Atlantic Pact.

"The stakes now are higher than ever, and the necessity for cooperation and consultation greater than ever," he said in a speech prepared for the National Press Club.

"It is essential that we work together in any new defence policy —as we have already been working together—if the great coalition which we have formed for peace is not to be replaced by an entrenched continentalism. . . .

"This narrower defence concept, under which presumably the U.S. would choose its own time, place and means of retaliating against a Red attack, "makes no great appeal to your northern neighbor as the best way to prevent war or defeat aggression," Pearson said.

BULWARK AGAINST REDS

He made his appeal for continued support bl a strong, unified North Atlantic community as the basic bulwark against communism, referring to the Jan. 12 defence speech of U.S. Sfate Secretary Dulles.

Dulles' address described by Pearson as "one which may turn out to be one of the most important of our times"—outlined a new U.S. defence policy based on a Washington decision to depend principally upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our own choosing."

"The key words in this sentence are 'instantly,' 'means' and 'our,'" Pearson said.

"From our point of view, it is important that the first in the sentence I have quoted, means those who have agreed together, particularly in NATO, to work together and by collective action to prevent war or, if that should fail, to win it."

EXPLOSIVE EFFECT

The new American defence policy, Pearson said, makes diplomacy not less but even more important, especially when nations contemplate the "means, including atomic" that may have to be used on the occasions when they should be used. "Their use," he said, "would possibly in more respects than one, be the end of civilization as we know it.

"As the Canadian minister sees it, diplomacy consists of two things—persistent and patient effort to settle differences "with those whom we rightly fear;" and even more important, the creation of agreement between friends on policies, tactics and timing, "so that we shall be able to act on an agreed collective decision, without prejudicing speedy and effective action in an emergency."

Governor Uses Powers to Outlaw Youth Society

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters)—The governor of British Guiana, Sir Alfred Savage, Sunday used his emergency powers to outlaw a little-known organization called the Union of Progressive Youth on the ground that it threatened public safety and order.

The union was formed recently by some former executives of another outlawed organization, the Pioneer Youth League, which was affiliated to the Communist-controlled World Federation of Democratic Youth.

This brings to four the number of organizations which have been outlawed in British Guiana.

Others are the British Guiana Peace Committee and the Democratic Youth Rally.

Govt. May Use Coupons to Move Surplus Butter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government may use coupons in an effort to move surplus butter and cheese onto American dinner tables.

Under one plan being considered by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, housewives would get a coupon with each pound of freshly purchased butter and cheese bought at the grocery store.

This coupon would be good for the purchase, at the same store, of one pound of government owned surplus butter or cheese, at a much lower price.

Benson had said earlier this week that he expects to announce soon a plan to move 300,000,000 pounds of butter and 312,000,000 of cheese into domestic and foreign markets before they deteriorate. The butter and chees we bought by the government under the dairy price support program.

The secretary may disclose details of the plan at a press conference today. It was emphasized that the special plan was only one of several under consideration.

President Decides on Program Of Tariff Cuts, Proposals To Be Placed Before Congress

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Despite opposition in some Republican quarters, President Eisenhower has decided on a program of tariff cuts and his proposals will be placed before Congress within the next two weeks, diplomatic officials disclosed today.

At the same time he will ask Congress to extend the U. S. Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, which expires next June, for another three years, thus paving the way for a possible fourth post-war round of tariff bargaining early next year.

Parts of the still-secret program will be unveiled for a confidential preview at Tuesday's meeting of senior Canadian and American cabinet ministers.

The eight ministers, including U.S. State Secretary Dulles and Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson and Trade Minister Howe, will meet at the first formal conference of the Canada-U.S. economic and trade committee.

Other members will be Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Finance Minister Abbott of Canada and U.S. Treasury Secretary Humphrey, Commerce Secretary Weeks and Agriculture Secretary Benson.

ASK COMMENT

The big issues at the moment are American tariffs and U.S. programs to dispose of a portion of its huge surplus of food which is threaten to clog world markets and reduce established prices.

Interested sources in Canadian ministers will be asked at the meeting to comment on Eisenhower's proposed tariff-cutting program and to offer suggestions for possible changes that the Americans agree, the changes may be incorporated in the legislation which is presented to Congress for approval.

Meanwhile Canadian ministers are preparing to ask the U.S. for "understanding" that American food disposal programs are not applied in such a way that they wreck world markets and prices for Canadian products.

The Canadians have in mind particularly Eisenhower's Jan. 20 recommendation to Congress that $1,000,000,000 worth of commodities held by the government be used over a period of three years to "strengthen the economies of friendly countries."

GIVE-AWAY PROGRAM

Canadians fear that the U. S. government may be preparing to launch a major give-away or give away program which might drastically reduce the world market for the bathers on the beaches. He attended mass at St. Augustine Catholic church and then returned to his suite in the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

He spent part of the day on the terrace watching swimmers on Waikiki beach.

Labor Members Oppose Cost Of Britannia

LONDON (AP) — Two Labor members of Parliament called Saturday night for an official inquiry into why the Queen's new royal yacht Britannia has cost more than £2,000,000.

Emrys Hughes and Cyril Bence, both Scottish members, wrote to First Lord of the Admiralty J.P.L. Thomas saying:

"In these days when it is so necessary to secure economies, we have been surprised to hear that the cost of the Britannia has exceeded £2,000,000 and is much greater than the sum that was originally intended.

"We suggest therefore that the whole question of the cost should be referred for examination to the public accounts committee with full powers to examine witnesses."

The Britannia sails from Portsmouth April 16 with Prince Charles and Princess Anne to meet the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at Tobruk on their way home from their Commonwealth tour.

During a debate on the navy budget in the House of Commons, questions were raised about the cost of the vessel. Thomas said then he felt there had been no undue expense.

Britain Blocks Trade Talks Planned With Chinese Reds

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

BERLIN (AP)—The British promoter of trade talks between British business men and Chinese Communists said today the collapse of negotiations has "deprived us of a great opportunity."

Roland Berger, chairman of the China Trade Committee, said the projected talks, called off the last minute by the Chinese yesterday, were only "postponed."

Berger described as an "unsupported allegation" a British foreign office statement linking his China Trade committee with Communist-front organization.

Negotiations between nearly 40 British business men and an official Chinese Communist trade delegation collapsed Sunday following a warning by the British government to business men to abandon the talks.

MANY CANCEL TRIPS

Nearly all of the British business men scheduled to fly from London to Berlin Sunday cancelled their plane trips at the last minute.

Three or four said they would see the Chinese here without the sponsorship of the China Trade Committee. At least two business men went to East Berlin today to contact the Chinese trade officials.

'First Man Shot For $14' Alleged Remark of Youth

BARRIE (CP) — The crown, which has already called 20 witnesses, was expected to complete its case today in the murder trial of two Toronto young hoodlums in the shooting of Fred (Scotty) Cameron Oct. 4.

Charged are William S. Kingsley, 19, and Ian Francis Robertson, 20. Cameron, a Toronto investment house messenger and former professional football player in Scotland, was shot five times and his body was dumped on a sideroad in Innisfil Oct. 29.

Residents on the sideroad testified they heard shots and a car speed away the night before.

The first witness heard by Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen and an Ontario Supreme Court jury, was recessed after less than five days of testimony.

KILLED FOR $14

"I'll bet that's the first time anyone shot a man for $14," Robertson is alleged to have told Kingsley in a statement to police admitted as evidence Saturday.

Detecting sergeant Bernard Simmons of the Toronto force and inspector Alex McLeod of the provincial police testified Saturday Kingsley made a lengthy statement to them. The statement, admitted as evidence, told of Kingsley's and Robertson's conversations with the victim.

The latter account quoted Kingsley as twice shooting Cameron. After the first shooting Robertson was put in the trunk of Robertson's father's car and the youths drove along the Tecumseth sideroad. They met Cameron, not yet dead, pounding on the trunk and shouting.

SHOUTS FROM TRUNK

The statement quoted Kingsley as saying:

"Cameron was yelling and yelling. I heard his heels and a car on a sideroad.

"Robertson stopped the car and opened the trunk. . . Cameron got out and walked towards Ian and I shot him twice in the chest.

"We then ran back to the car. . . I said 'Ian shoot him again.' I went over and he was lying on the grass still looking at me. So I went close and shot him.

"Later in the car Robertson pulled some money from his pocket. He had a $10 bill, three ones and a handful of change, Robertson said: "I'll bet that's the first time anyone shot a man for $14."

Japanese Wife Asks for Nothing But Kindness

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—In northern Japan the other day, I watched an American sergeant board a train, followed by a pretty Japanese girl.

As the train rumbled along, the sergeant fell asleep and presently she loosened his necktie and unbuttoned his collar. He smiled through the drowsiness.

I thought of the axiom, coined long ago by white man who live in the Orient: "The formula for happiness is to have an American-style house, a Chinese cook, and a Japanese wife."

There is some disagreement about the first two points, but you seldom hear a dissenting vote on the third. The sergeant, smiling in his sleep, looked like an example.

Marriages between American soldiers and Japanese women here, I am told, numbered somewhere around 10,000 since the occupation began. Moreover, any number of soldiers told me they would prefer to take a Japanese girl to the movies than date "the round eyes" as the Occidental American girls.

MARRIAGE 'FATOR'

By and large, the American male is the most privileged sex figure in the world. His women, by some alchemy or prestidigitation, have convinced him that he is lucky to get a date, and that they are doing him a great favor when they agree to marry him.

This woman, the Japanese woman is the most man-dominated figure in the world.

She considers herself fortunate indeed to have a home and husband. In the pattern of marriage, she asks very little, expects to give a great deal.

HUBBY WAITED ON

When the master comes home from work, she meets him with a low, floor-touching bow at the front door. She removes his shoes, puts on cool and hot, runs for his kimono, assures him that his bath is ready and dinner will be waiting whenever he wants.

If he should decide to go somewhere alone after dinner, she will ask for no explanations, no matter what time, or in what condition, he may return. There is no furtive scrambling for lipstick on his collar.

It is a high compliment, and a sign of great affection, if a Japanese simply says of her husband, "He is kind to me." She asks little else.

BIG APPETITES

MINEHEAD, Eng. (CP)—Nora Heals, secretary of the publicity association in the Somerset town, warned hotels and boarding houses that when rationing ends in Britain this summer visitors "will expect unatinted food and a wide choice in menus."

READY FOR WORK, NOT A MASQUERADE

Pte. Raymond Sorgenson of Kitchen, Sask., has reason for the puzzled look on his face as he tries to identify this man, his gear and his bike. The answer . . . he's a German prisoner-viewed. The occasion was the visit of the "sweep" to the brigade headquarters of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany, and with the amount of equipment he carries, no chimney should be left unswept. ## Move Along!

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A light plane crashed near here Saturday but nobody was hurt.

Pays His Share

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Police, bowing to an unusual request, tested a passenger in a car for drunkenness after giving the routine drunkometer test to the driver.

The passenger explained he and the driver had shared the cost of the booze and "I want to see if he's getting more of the whiskey than I am."

There was to be twice as drunk as the driver, he returned a dollar of the purchase price, consumed himself for "hogging up all the liquor."

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The civic defence organization in this area has recruited 1,200 volunteers since it was formed two years ago. The unit includes nearby Merriton, Thorold, Port Dalhousie, and Grantham township. Director is Brig. R. G. Whitelaw of Niagara-on-the-Lake; a retired Canadian Army officer.

MORE RESTRAINED

LUND, Sweden (CP)—The only carnival at historic Lund University May may will be a little more conservative than last year. Police authorities received a promise that co-eds in the parades will not stop to kiss police officers, a practice that caused serious traffic jams last time.

Ties Canadian Track Record

HAMILTON (CP)—Charley Jenkins of Villanova (Penn.) University tied the Canadian indoor track record of 6.2 seconds for the 60-yard men's open dash at the 81st annual athletic games of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry Saturday.

The record, set by Percy Williams of Vancouver in 1925 was tied in a 1923 Canadian meet by Jack O'Connell of Manitoban University, and again last year by Andy Stanfield of Maritimes.

Horace Ashenfelter, United States Olympic champion, slipped 15 seconds off the Canadian indoor record for the 1½ mile when he covered it in six minutes, 40 seconds.

Ashenfelter, a New York policeman, bettered the mark set by Paavo Nurmi 28 years ago although he was not pressed.

Sport in Brief

PARIS (CP)—A team of Canadians from the British hockey league Sunday won the Jean Potin Cup by dfeating Toronto East York, Canada's official representatives, 5-2 before a crowd of 6,000.

The expatriate Canadians won the three-day Paris tournament in which Sweden was also represented. The East York club, which finished second to Russia in the world championships at Stockholm a week ago, also finished second here, having defeated Stockholm Three Crowns 8-7 Saturday night.

Moe Galand, leading scorer of the world tourney, scored four goals in Saturday night's game. His fourth was the deciding tally.

Two Canadian-born defencemen from the Harringay club of the British league also helped the East York club for the game. One of the newcomers, Milt Swindlehurst, scored a goal. Earl Clement scored twice for the winners and Johnny Petro accounted for the other marker.

Galand scored another two goals in Sunday's losing effort. Other East York scorers were Reg Spragge, John Scott and Don Couch.

Scorers for the expatriate Canadians were Milt Swindlehurst and Lenz Anning, two each, and Ken Westman and Bill Glennie, one each.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Bobby Thomson, the former New York Giants' outfielder whom Milwaukee Braves were counting on so heavily, fractured his right ankle sliding in an exhibition game Saturday and may be lost to the Braves for as long as three months.

Dr. Robert C. Lonergan announced after x-rays and surgery on Thomson that the Milwaukee left fielder suffered a triple fracture of the right ankle. He explained that this meant bones were broken on the back and both sides of the ankle.

The accident occurred in the eighth inning of Milwaukee's game with New York Yankees. The Yanks won 3-2.

Thomson was on first base when Andy Pafko, Milwaukee right-fielder, hit a ball sharply to the box.

Pitcher Bob Wiesler, on the mound for the Yankees, threw to rookie shortstop Woody Held, forcing Thomson at second. Bobby slid hard into the base trying to break up the double play and apparently caught his spikes in the loose turf.

BATON ROUGE, La. (CP)—Bob Toski shot four birdies on the back nine Sunday to win the $10,000 Baton Rouge Open with a four-under-par 68 and a 72-hole score of 279.

The Ilitle Livingston, N.J., professional came back strongly after going two over par on the fourth hole to win a one-stroke edge over Ted Kroll, Chandler Harper and Jim Ferrier for the $2,000 first money.

Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener was two strokes out of the prize-winning list as he fired a closing 76 for 289, one stroke over par. He had scored 68, 72 and 73-so his first three rounds.

Bob Dean of Cornwall, Ont., failed to qualify for the final day's play.

MILWAUKEE (CP)—Rich Ferguson of Toronto, running in the colors of the University of Iowa, broke a meet record set by another Canadian as he won the two-mile race at the Milwaukee Journal Indoor track games Saturday night.

The 21-year-old member of Canada's last Olympic and British Empire Games teams covered the distance in nine minutes, 14.5 seconds erasing the mark of 9:15.7 set by Don McEwen of Ottawa for the University of Michigan two years ago.

Husband, Wife Preparing For Tough Ski Trip

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Peter Austin and her husband have been making earnest preparations for a tough ski expedition in the Rocky mountains.

They have been tramping around this district near Hamilton in ski togs, loaded with packs containing 50 pounds of sand.

It's part of the training for a ski safari in the Rockies which they and five other skiers will start March 28. Mrs. Austin, who won the Canadian ski championship in 1937 when she was Peggy Johansen, is the only woman on the trip.

MOTHER OF TWO

Mrs. Austin, 35-year-old mother of two children, is making preparations for Peter, 11, and Karen, eight, to be well cared for while the parents are away for three weeks.

She is eager for the journey, however. "It's the first time such a trip has been attempted, so I'm counting the cruises," she said.

The party, officially titled "1954 Canadian footfields ski expedition," will follow an arduous 200-mile route through rugged mountain passes and over eight glaciers. The members will prepare a report on food and skiing for defence research authorities.

RUGGED VENTURE

Despite the rugged nature of the expedition, Mrs. Austin is making bets that she will gain weight. Members will carry 40-pound packs including food, bedrolls, small gasoline stoves, lightweight tents and other necessities.

Their food—and they will need at least 4,100 calories daily to keep up their energy—will all be in small, handy packages.

Temperatures will be frigid and Mrs. Austin has special gear which is practical. She's wearing a string vest next to her skin, then a woollen, long woollen underwear, a ski shirt, two sweaters and a nylon parka. Also included are snow goggles and three pairs of mitts.

The trek will include Peter Bennet of Oakville, organizer; Murry Shively, insurance agent; Dr. Alan-Bruce Robertson, doing graduate work at the Banting Institute and Pat Boswell, staff member of the CBC, all of Toronto. John Dupre of Banff will be guide.

Bisons Defeated By Hornets

Week-end games did nothing to change the American Hockey League championship picture with Buffalo Bisons remaining 11 points ahead of the field despite a 5-3 win over Pittsburgh.

Providence Reds climbed out of the cellar Sunday at the expense of Syracuse Warriors whom the Reds downed 8-3 at Providence. Cleveland Barons moved into sole possession of third place with a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh.

Paul Larivee was the star for Providence, netting three times. Ted Campeau added two and Chuck Scherza, Ken Davies and Pete Kapusta got the others. Eric Pogue and Ted Power were the Syracuse marksmen.

Fred Glover and Fred Shero scored late in the third period to help Cleveland edge the Hornets. Glover scored another goal earlier and Eddie Reigle got the fourth Cleveland marker.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was hunting around the living room, saying, William, have you seen my tweezers?

Tweezers? pop said, and ma said, Yes, my good imported Swedish tweezers. I've looked high and low and far and wide, she said.

Have you tried looking on the brite side of your predickament? pop said, and ma said, I'm serious for land sakes, how can losing my Swedish tweezers have a brite side?

Well, maybe it was time for a new pair anyway, pop said. Tweezers are like people, after a certain length of time they are bound to get creeky in the joints, he said, and ma said, If you want to know the truth, I never had a better pair of tweezers and never expect to.

You probably have a sentimental attachment for them, so it's natural for you to speak tenderly of them even after they've outlived their usefulness, pop said. I remember an old calabash pipe I had once, he said, and ma said, So do I, dont remind me of it.

That pipe got so strong I couldn't even smoke it, but still I couldn't bear to part with sutch an old friend, til finally you had to come to my rescue and throw it away for me, pop said, and ma said, I came to my own rescue, for land sakes, and it has nothing to do with my tweezers.

Of course it has, pop said. You know those tweezers were handy for picking up a matchstick, mutch less a splinter or an eyelash, he said, and ma said, I dont know any sutch thing.

Then you're not paying attention, my dear, because I'm telling you this now, pop said. A razor blade got stuck in my blade dirpenser, and I figured a pair of tweezers would be the ideal implement to get it out, and as a matter of fact, I was quite rite, he said.

Not being quite the end of the subject.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

ALL TIED UP!

You can "bet yer money and takes yer choice" insofar as the Orillia Pontiacs-Peterborough Petes Senior "B" semi-finals series is concerned, but if we were in consultation with the "boss of the back room" we would ask a mile odds on the Petes. The teams are all tied up in their series at three games each after the Pontiacs edged the Petes 2-3 in Orillia Saturday night and the game-to-end-all-games in the semi-final finals takes place tonight in Peterborough.

Petes have a slight advantage in that they are playing on their home ice, but it is slight because the Pontiacs have already taken their measure on the hard-box ice surface. However, it should be a dilly of a thriller with everything at stake and elimination for one or t'other.

*** * ***

The Pontiacs were on the short end of a 3-1 score with eight minutes to go in Saturday night's tussle when McCrone tied up the pastime. And Playing Coach Vic Grieg earned the freedom of Pontietown when he blasted home the winner with exactly 28 seconds left in the game.

According to information received from Wren Blair, Oshawa Truckmen manager, the first game of the group finals series will be played in Kingston on Wednesday night. The Truckmen could not come to satisfactory arrangements with Belleville arena authorities. Blair said, and so the first game, at least, will be played in Roddenville. If the Petes defeat Oshawa, there is a possibility of the rest of the finals games being played in Orillia. A story out of Orillia states that the Pontiacs, if they win the semi-finals series, will object strenuously to playing against Oshawa on Kingston ice. After a layout of 183 miles every other night it is not exactly what one might call a "treat" for Orillia. Oshawa will have far less distance to travel.

*** * ***

NICE TO WIN!

You can't blame "Red" Townsend if he developed a slight touch of chest inflation over the week-end. For the sorrel-topped BCI physical director saw a Belleville Collegiate Institute basketball squad win the Ontario COSSA Junior "A" championship after eleven weary years of knocking at the door.

*** * ***

The BCI youngsters defeated the starry Linwell Collegiate Institute team from Thorold in a Frank Merriwell finish that had crowd spirits in a spine-rocking finish that saw coaches and players of both teams tense, breathless and probably praying as a championship hinged on a free throw.

*** * ***

The BCI youngsters had tied the score after a sensational rally which saw three centres in Big Linwell lead in the last half. They tied the score in the last minute and the game went into overtime. With scores tied at two apiece, a basket that gave them a point lead, after Linwell had scored a foul shot. Then came the dramatics. The Townsend youngsters had a foul called on them and up stepped the Linwell tossing ace who had flipped in 16 shots in a row. In his hands lay the championship. The gymnasium was as quiet as a church. The first throw hit the rim and rolled out. The best Linwell could do was tie if the next shot scored.

*** * ***

Two coaches lived ten years in a half-second. Players stood tense, so did the crowd. The ball flipped into the air. It hit a rim, bounced out and the game was over and BCI the new champions.

*** * ***

The BCI seniors did not fare so well bowing to the St. Andrew's College team.

*** * ***

Albert College seniors came up with a fine exhibition to defeat Pickering College 82-65 in the Senior "B" series but went down fighting before the starry Welland CI squad 85-47 in the final game.

*** * ***

TAKING NO CHANCES!

Russ Fryer pushed his Stirling Juveniles through a stiff practice over the week-end in preparation for their forthcoming Ontario "C" Hockey series with the Fryer Dover or Kincardine. The Fort Dover kids took the first of the goals-to-count series last Friday night by a 4-3 score and the teams settle the issue tonight in Kincardine.

*** * ***

Stirling officials scouted the game played in Port Dover but when asked for comment were non-committal. "It should be a fine series and a hard-fought battle to the end," was all this information this department could glean. They kept their impressions strictly subjective but that is neither here nor there. It will not be a "pushover" series for any team for in these days of highly competitive hockey a team, regardless of what classification it carries, must be good to get in the finals series.

*** * ***

No word had been received today regarding the dates of games, that naturally hinges on the outcome of tonight's clash between Fort Dover and Kincardine. Nor has any word come out of either headquarters or the OMHA as to whether the final series will be a goals-to-count affair or a straight games series.

A REAL GUY!

Minor sport, especially hockey, suffered a distinct loss the other day with the passing of Otto Hardwick, of Bolton. Ost, who suffered a heart attack while driving his car and died on was killed in a subsequent crash. Otto was the reeve of Bolton for years and the warden of his county. He was an ex-president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association and also was active in the sport. He coached many a Bolton team to a title. We knew Otto personally from our association with the OMHA, and found him to be a "great guy." He was friendly, a sportsman and a real gentleman and was a friend of kids and their sports. Bill Gault, of this city, knew Otto well from curling associations and with this department extends to the family heartfelt sympathy.

DUKES - FLYERS

Wellington Dukes and Trenton JCAF Flyers clash in Memorial Arena tonight in the first of heir best-of-three Central Valley junior division semi-finals. It should be a thrilling series as both squads appear evenly matched. The winners meet Point Anne for the sectional title.

Get Assist From Maple Leafs Who Failed to Notch A Win; Rangers All But Out of Race

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings picked up a few thousand dollars and another big-league hockey record during the week-end.

It happened in one of those wacky National Hockey League week-ends, with the Detroiters backing into their sixth straight championship because Toronto Maple Leafs couldn't win a game.

The Leafs dropped a 2-1 decision Saturday to the fourth-place Boston Bruins. The fact that the Wings were whipped 3-2 by New York Rangers Saturday and 3-0 by the Rangers in New York Sunday didn't mean a thing. Each Detroit player pocketed an extra $1,000 for winning the title.

The Leafs also suffered a double loss. They were beaten 4-0 by the Bruins in Boston Sunday. That dropped them into third place, one point behind Montreal Canadiens. The Canadiens, meanwhile, whitewashed Chicago Black Hawks twice, 4-0 at Montreal Saturday night and 6-0 at Chicago Sunday night.

ALL BUT OUT

Goals by Max Bentley and Clen Somnor gave the Rangers their Sunday victory.

The Ranger victory wins left them three points behind the Bruins and all but out of the Stanley Cup race. The Bruins have two games in hand and one more victory will give them 2nd North Division playoff berth.

The Rangers were on the bit Saturday as little Camille Henry scored four goals to give them the 3-2 victory.

Gordie Howe and rookie Bill Dineen accounted for the Wings' goals. Nick Mickoski accounted for the fifth Ranger goal.

Howe notched goal by centre Cal Gardner gave the Bruins victory Saturday night at Boston. Fleury MacKell scored the other Boston goal. Sid Smith gave the Leafs a 1-0 lead at 17:33 of the first period but it didn't stand up.

In Boston Saturday the Bruins went on a three-goal splurge in the second period. MacKell, a former Leaf, got two of them. Johnny Peirson got the other.

HOW THEY STAND

The Hawks were no match for the Canadiens. With fine support by rookie goalie Jacques Plante who turned in his fourth shutout in 14 games, the Montrealers were never in trouble. Maurice Richard banged his 36th goal of the season and the others went to Lorne Davis, Jean Beliveau and Bert Olmstead.

A crowd of 6,071 fans saw a dilly at Chicago Stadium between Bill Chadwick dealt out six major penalties, two 10-minute misconducts and a game misconduct.

Eddie Mazur of Canadiens got three of the majors, one misconduct and the game misconduct—penalties calling for automatic league fines totalling $50. Gus Mortson of the Hawks had two majors and a misconduct for a $25 fine.

Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion each scored twice for Canadiens. Dick Moore and Paul Meger accounted for the others.

No games are scheduled tonight. In the only game Tuesday, the Bruins take on the Red Wings at Boston. This game was postponed Feb. 26.

Two games were played at the arena on Saturday morning with the bantam team edging the Black Hawks 3-2 in the first game of the semi-finals while in the pee wee finals the Bruins won 6-5 over the Black Hawks, this also a first game of two goals-to-count series.

In the bantam game Gord Fuller scored all three of the Bruin markers before the Hawks notched one, Mike Colligan from Quinn made the score 3-1 and just before the end of the game Gord Vaughan tipped in a shot by Rowbotham to complete the scoring. Hill and Fuller up for two of his goals and along with good defensive play by Schwartz plus several fine saves by Barclay the Bruins took a well earned victory.

In the pee wee fixture Terry Kelly and Larry Westfall each had two goals and one assist for the winners while Mick Boulton scored one and drew two helpers. Bruce Gelsthorpe notched the odd goal with assists for Larry Potter and Norm Boulter.

Gerald Ebbey was top man for the Hawks with two goals and three helpers while Garry Duggan, also with two, Hubert Pointer had one goal while Gary Bowman picked up an assist.

Hal Newhouser Hit Hard In Comeback Game

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Hal Newhouser, another king of the southpaws, came back to the baseball wars with contrasting reactions.

Newhouser, trying a comeback with Cleveland Indians, summed it up after pitching three innings Sunday against the hard-hitting New York Giants.

"I was not slated over those six runs," he said.

But what about the persistent back-shoulder ailment that sent the 14th voluntary retirement from Detroit Tigers last year.

"No trouble there. Felt fine. Feels all right now," said the 32-year-old hero of 200 or more victories.

Newhouser, who started his professional career in 1939, gave up 10 hits, walked two, struck out none and yielded doubles to Monte Irvin, Whitey Lockman and Willie Mays.

Five games during the week-end did not change the Quebec Hockey League standings at the top but the race for bottom positions tightened up as Sherbrooke Saints climbed over Valleyfield Braves to within one point of the fourth spot Quebec Aces.

Chicoutimi Sagueneens increased their lead over second-place Montreal Royals to six points as Royals dropped two straight games while Chics blanked Valleyfield 2-0 Sunday.

Springfield Indians and Sherbrooke respectively scored 8-5 and 5-3 wins over Royals. Springfield also downed Ottawa 6-3 Saturday. The third place Senators edged Aces 5-4 at Quebec Sunday.

St. Michaels Finish in 4th Position As Hamilton Cubs Take Over 3rd Spot

By The Canadian Press

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, who have held on to third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series during most of the season, were pushed out of their roost on the last day of the schedule.

As a result the Majors, instead of meeting the sixth-place Guelph Biltmores in the first round of the playoffs, will clash with the tough St. Catharines TeePees, who finished the schedule in first place and who were unlimited St. Michael's being displaced from fourth.

While Hamilton Cubs won two games during the week-end, the Majors were defeated 7-5 by the TeePees in Toronto Sunday to allow the Cubs to climb to third. Hamilton walloped Guelph 10-1 in Hamilton Saturday and defeated Toronto Marlboros 4-1 before the St. Catharines-St. Michael's game in Toronto Sunday.

In other Saturday games Marlboros edged the out-of-the-running Black Hawks 5-4 in Galt and St. Catharines took an 8-1 home-ice victory from Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts.

The St. Catharines-St. Michael's series, which starts in St. Catharines Tuesday, will be a best-of-seven semi-final. Two other series will be best-of-five quarter-finals. One involves the Marlboros and Kitchener, starting in Toronto Tuesday. The other one has Hamilton against Guelph with the first game scheduled for Hamilton Wednesday. The winners of each of the quarter-finals will meet to decide an opponent for the winner of the St. Catharines-St. Michael's set in the league finals.

NOTCHERS FOUR GOALS

Hamilton's two victories were the 16th and 17th for the Cubs in the last 18 games. Barry Cullen was led by Cummy Burton who fired four goals. Cummy Burton, Marlin McAlpine, Joey Cerino and Brian Kilrea shared the scoring for Hamilton Sunday. Gerry James was the marksman for the Dukes.

Marlboros victory over the Hawks Saturday was their first on Galt ice this season.

MAXWELL GETS TWO

High Barrow scored two for St. Catharines and Ches Warchol, Don McLean, Elmer Vasko, Rod Clesla and Pete Koval tallied singles. Gary Collins got Kitchener's goal.

Brian Cullen scored another two goals against St. Michael's Sunday to bolt his total to 62. He also assisted on two goals, giving him a total of 162 points for the season.

BCI Basketball Jrs. Defeat Thorold To Win 1st COSSA Title In 11 Years

By BOB GALWAY

Saturday evening at Hart House gym, in Toronto, BCI juniors won the COSSA junior "A" basketball crown. They defeated by a single point in an overtime period the highly-rated basketball squad from Linwell Collegiate, Thorold, Ontario.

In a sudden death semi-final game with Orillia Collegiate, the juniors earned the right to advance into the final round against Linwell, who had overthrown a highly weaker team from Peterborough.

ORILLIA

The juniors had no trouble at all in defeating the Orillia boopsters, considered by many the team to beat. At quarter time the juniors were leading by 11 points, and at the half way mark were up 13. In the second half, Ted Batchelor and Jim Alderdice scored 10 and 5 points respectively to lead the juniors to 59-42 victory. Stan Alderdice played at terrific game under the backboard. Batchelor was high scorer for BCI with 18 points, followed by Alderdie with 13. and Jackson with 12. Tomkins was high man for Orillia with 12, with Hill and Foster scoring 11 and 10. Doolittle their tall centre had to his credit.

Referees Harris and MacDougall called the fracas. BCI set 15 on the Orillia squad. Quarter time score 19-8 BCI. Half time 28-15 BCI, three quarter 45-28 BCI and final score 60-42 BCI.

LINWELL

Although scoring the first basket in the Linwell game, the juniors got off to a very shaky start, due main to over anxiety and never regained their composure; it is scened that it was too late. But the juniors did give up and in a nerve-racking last quarter tied the game up, after being down 12 points at the half.

Led by the fine scoring efforts of three of their teammates, the Linwell team took advantage of the BCI juniors nervousness and outscored them by 15 points in the first quarter. The second quarter followed the pattern of the first, except it was a little worse, the BCI juniors lost the services of their captain Jim Alderdie, who fouled out and were outscored by 14 points.

The score at half time was 39-24 for Linwell Collegiate. In a thrilling second half, the juniors started their goal-fired clinch, under the offensive and defensive work of centre Stan Jackson they held the Linwell team to 11 points in the third quarter, and scored 15 narrowing their opponents lead to 10 points.

At the start of the fourth quarter, excitement was running high, especially on the benches. The BCI juniors played as they had never played before, they checked the Linwell team literally into the floor, allowing them to score only three baskets in the last quarter. But more troubles befell the juniors, three of their first string players found out with more than five minutes to go, namely Stan Jackson, Jan Geneja and Bruce Varcoe. This left only two first string players on the floor. With a minute left in the game the juniors were five points down, they scored a field goal and were down three. A foul was called against Linwell and both were made leaving BCI one point down with 42 seconds left in the game. Another foul was called against Linwell and Bill Jones of BCI made both shots to give BCI a one point lead for the first time in the game, with only three seconds left to play. Then a foul was called against BCI, and Jim Long of Linwell was shooting, he had sunk 14 fouls in a row in the game so far, without a miss. The first shot went in, score was tied 50-50, but he missed the second and then the game ended 50-50.

Three minutes overtime was decided on. Linwell drew first blood one point, on a free throw, then tipped in the second three for two points. Alan Barber of BCI sank one from the corner and BCI were down one, then Don Smith scored a basket on a pass from Ted Batchelor and that was the ball game. Linwell scored two fast baskets and was up three, but Ted Batchelor of BCI scored a beautiful set shot and the juniors were one down with 11 seconds remaining, then a foul was called against Linwell and Don Smith sank both free throws and BCI went ahead 58-57. Linwell had one last chance to win the game when a foul was called against BCI but both shots were missed, and two seconds later the horn went to end the game. BCI were COSSA Junior "A" champions for the first time in 11 years.

BCI Jrs.: Batchelor 18, Jackson 16, Smith 8, Geneja 4, Barber 4, Jones 4, Alderde 2, Walmsley 2, Varcoe 1, Deacon, Burleigh, Bovay. (Fouls 31).

Referees: McDonald and Love.

B.C.I. also had an entry in the Senior grouping, but they met with a little bad luck in their game against St. Andrew's College from Aurora, Ontario. They were defeated by the score of 49-40. The B.C.I. team were only five points down at quarter time, but fell apart in the second quarter when St. Andrew's scored 19 points to B.C.I's 8. B.C.I. started a rally in the third quarter and brought the score up to 42-31, but St. Andrew's scored 28 points in the final quarter and won the game by a 209 margin.

Sam Gault was high man for B.C.I. with 22 points while George Parkhurst scored 8. Thompson was high man for St. Saints with 14 points followed by Cooper and Stringer with 11 and 12 respectively.

Russian Gets Scoring Trophy Over Canadian

PARIS (Reuters)—Don Preston, manager of Toronto East York, Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships at Stockholm which ended last Sunday, has misunderstandings have been one cause of ill feeling toward the Canadians.

The East York club, loser 7-3 to Moscow Dynamos who won the championship, arrived here Sunday by train after a 48-hour journey from northern Sweden. Its players will leave by boat from Le Havre for New York Tuesday.

"Although generally speaking the Swedes we came in direct contact with were among the nicest people we met on the continent, I cannot understand the spectators who gave the countries behind the Iron Curtain such encouragement and such support," Preston said in an interview.

He noted that Moe Galand, Canadian forward, was the leading goalgetter of the Stockholm tournament but "was forgotten and the prize for the best scorer awarded to the Russian, Kuzkin."

"The Swedes, when they heard of this, immediately went out to buy an exact replica to offer to Mr." he said.

Preston indicated he thought some of the misunderstanding resulted from language differences.

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA (AP)—Speaking as a man who is eminently qualified on the subject, Paul Richards says there isn't any question that shortstop is the toughest position to play properly in baseball.

"A good shortstop has to have everything," said the Chicago White Sox manager. "He has to be quick and smart and has to know how to make more plays right than any other man on the field.

"If you haven't got a fine shortstop you haven't got a ball club."

The reason Richards, a former big-league catcher, was chosen to settle the long-standing debate was simply the fact that, he has done everything there is to do on a ball field, including pitching. He played at least one full year of minor league ball at every infield position.

"I started out as a pitcher in high school," Paul recalls. "A pretty good one, too. The only thing that made me different from other pitchers was that I pitched either right or left-handed, depending upon the batter. From the time I was a kid I could throw as hard and curve a ball as well from one side as the other."

SUBJECT OF STORIES

As we chanced to live at that time in a town near Waxahachie, Texas, where Richards grew up, we heard the stories of the youth. The phenom's ambidexterity as can vouch for their truthfulness. The classic was Richards' battle of wits with the bright young high school hitter who kept switching on him, depending upon which hand Richards wore his glove. Richards finally solved that by losing his glove away.

"Good I would have made good as a pitcher," Paul said. "But I never found out. I got into a semi-pro football game one day for the grand sum of $10. A big tackle hit me and I felt my left shoulder crack like a firecracker."

Richards' account of his early career was interrupted by a courier bearing tidings that his last of a blue-blooded catcher, Carl Sawatski, had been benched in an exhibition game over at Sarasota. Richards had remained to "eat out" several of his lagging stars in a special drill.

THE BALL BOUNCED

"What did the ball do after it hit him?" Richards asked quickly, "Bounce away, of course," came the response.

"I mean how far did it go," the manager snapped. "It didn't just fall down in the batter's box!"

"No," he was assured, "it went off quite a piece."

"Well, that's good, anyway," Richards said. "When they bounce away the batter never is hurt really bad, but when they hit and just fall down you might as well order the flowers. Those who have seen it happen say it never fails."

As a result of the accident, Richards promptly ordered a full set of special skull-protecting caps and announced that no catcher who would again go to bat without one on his head "... the more manageres have left it up to the individual player.

Mercurys Oust Chatham Maroons Dutchies Win First Against Indians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The number of teams in the race for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship were reduced three during the week-end.

Chatham Maroons, defeated 5-2 by Owen Sound Mercurys in Chatham Saturday, finished off league action for this season. The victory gave Owen Sound the best-of-seven semi-final 4-2. The Mercurys now will await the winner of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen-Stratford Indians series.

The Dutchmen won their first game of the best-of-five set Saturday when they scored four goals in overtime to wallop the Indians 7-3 in Kitchener. Stratford still leads the series 2-1 with the next game scheduled for Stratford tonight.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Saturday the Greyhounds defeated Canadiens Wolves 3-0 to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group final. The Greyhounds finished first at the end of the schedule, the Wolves second. Next game is in Sault Ste. Marie tonight.

TOPPED LEAGUE

Owen Sound, who finished first in the OHA intermediate schedule, won the first three games against Chatham before the Maroons began to bounce back to take the next two. But there was no doubt after the first period Saturday. Held to a 1-1 tie in the first they went ahead 4-1 in the second.

Doug Gillespie scored two goals and collected three assists to lead the winners. Jerry Reid, Bill McComb and Bill Hagen notched the others. Joe Carveth and Jimmy Campbell scored for Chatham.

The game was delayed nearly 30 minutes when Carveth and Jimmy Campbell scored for Chatham.

The game was delayed nearly 30-07 — "etched Kitchener's first victory of the series. Indians took 6 of the 21 penalties, including a misconduct.

Don Oberholtzer and Gerry Theberge each tallied a pair of goals for Kitchener. Ken Laufman, Don Rope and Don Bauer rounded out the total. Bill Cupido, George Allen and Gerry Albrecht were the Stratford marksmen.

Training Camp Notes

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) Bob Trice, a 20-game winner for the last-place Ottawa Athletics in the International League last year, blanked Washington during his three-inning stint Sunday to gain credit for Philadelphia Athletics' 13-3 victory over the Senators.

Billy Shantz, Trice's batterymate at Ottawa and brother of ace Philadelphia southpaw Bobby Shantz, caught the entire game for the winners. It was the fifth straight exhibition victory for the unbeaten Athletics.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Injuries continued to strike at the major league baseball training camps Sunday when southpaw pitcher Bill Miller of New York Yankees was struck on the pitching hand.

He was hit by a drive off the bat of Chicago White Sox outfielder Bob Boyd in the fifth inning of an exhibition game.

X-ray examination showed only a bad bruise and Miller was expected to return to action in a week.

Before Miller was injured he had told the White Sox hitless for four innings.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—National League president Warren C. Giles Sunday officially designated Walter Alston of Brooklyn Dodgers as manager of the National League all-star team which will meet the American Leaguers at Cleveland July 13.

Alston, who replaced Charlie Dressen at the helm of the National League champions at the end of last season, will be the first "rookie" manager ever to pilot an all-star team.

TUCSON, Ariz. (CP)—New York Giants clobbered three of the most illustrious members of the hitting fraternity Sunday as they trounced Cleveland Indians 16-6 in an exhibition game.

Bob Feller, Hal Newhouser and Early Wynn each took a three-inning pounding as the Giants slapped them around for 20 hits. Feller and Newhouser yielded six runs apiece while Wynn gave up four.

Curve-baller Sal Maglie blanked the Tribe on two hits for the first four innings to gain credit for the victory.

Bob Feller Has To Fight For Start Berth

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost two decades ago—1936 to be exact—a powerful, fuzz-cheeked youngster strode into the spring training camp of Cleveland Indians. Manager Steve Sogrin watched him saw and thft started Bob Feller's career.

Today, 349 victories later, Feller, the oldest major leaguer in point of service, is fighting for a starting berth. He'll have a job, all right, but at the moment he doesn't figure as one of the big four.

The one-time fireballer, who never spent a day in the minors, is hopeful that at 35 he can help the Indians break New York Yankees' stranglehold on the American League pennant.

The cuffing he took during his three-inning tenure against the New York Giants in Tucson, Ariz., Sunday should not cause much concern. The Giants won 16-6 and slugged Feller for eight hits and six runs. But it was Bob's first outing and veterans sometimes are slow to warm up.

Toronto Ice Stars Take Major Honors In Canadian Skating Championships

CALGARY (CP)—Five Canadian figure skating titles went to Toronto, two to Vancouver and one each to Ottawa and Schumacher, Ont., at the two-day championships which ended Saturday night.

Toronto title winners were: Barbara Gratian, who successfully defended her senior women's singles crown won last year in Ottawa, Charles Snelling, senior men's singles; world's champion pairs, Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden, who repeated last year's senior pairs victory; Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul, junior dance; Geraldine Fenton and William McLachan, waltzing-10-step competitions.

Vancouver's Doreen Leech and Norman Walker scored the only double victory of the 43rd annual meet. They won the dance championship and scored top position in the junior pairs.

Fifteen-year-old Joan Shippam of Ottawa Schumacher, who does her winter training here, won the junior women's title while Richard Rimmer took the junior men's crown.

Sonja Currie of Calgary, last year's junior champion, came within a breath of snatching the senior women's title from Miss Gratian.

Although the Toronto champion took a perfect score in the free school figure, Miss Currie gained marks in the free skating event.

Football 'War' 'Peters' Down To Skermish

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League is conducting such an effective "stay-at-home" campaign this year that the threatened war with Canadian teams over American players has become a mere skirmish.

A new, aggressive policy undertaken by the NFL has paid dividends.

Its aim is to convince the cream of American college gridders of the advantages of playing on an NFL club.

A year ago the National League members, fighting a defensive action against Canadian football's ambitious import program, had signed only eight of their 1953 college draft choices. This year they already have 35 signatures from rookies.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A good right arm will help you win at bridge and careless play will help you lose. Too many tricks are given the heave-ho for no other reason than failure to notice the obvious.

Play the deal shown here:

♠7 5 2
♦Q 10 9 8 7
♣7 5 3 2

WEST
♠Q J 7 6

♦6 5 4 3 2
♣None

SOUTH
♠A K 6 4 3
♥A
♦K J
♣A K Q J 6

South became the declarer at a small slam contract of six clubs. This can be made with care. And it matters not what opening lead west decides to start out with.

With the cards as they stand, success depends on not looking ahead to dummy entry. It is a simple unblocking play. Overlooking it is pure carelessness and nothing else.

If west leads anything but the diamond ace, south wins and pulls opponents' trumps; that is clubs. Then he leads the diamond king which forces the singleton ace out of west.

South takes any return of west and leads the diamond jack. Dummy overtakes this with the queen and runs the last three diamonds. On them are stuffed the three small spades in south.

Declarer is fortunate here in finding the diamond ace alone in an opponent hand. Otherwise the dummy hand could be blocked out. With another diamond, west could refuse the first diamond.

However, if the opening lead from west is the diamond ace, there is nothing to stop the declarer from losing his 13 needed tricks. It permits south to throw his diamond king on the ace.

This clears the path for entering dummy with the diamond jack that is overtaken with the diamond queen. It is an unblock by an underplay of the king and an unblock by an overtake with the queen.

There is nothing difficult about such plays. When failure to see it in time occurs it simply means that declarer neglected to plan ahead. If you fail to unblock you are weak in the crock.

MARMORA

Havelock Bows To Marmora 11-4

MARMORA — The second game of the play-off series between Havelock and Marmora on the latter's rink on Friday evening went in favor of the hometers, the score being 11-4.

Marmora picked up a 5-1 lead in the first period, Lavender getting two on shots from Maynes the latter player also assisting K. Trumble to score. Mantie beat Nicholls on assists from Jones and Darrah and E. Trumble added the fifth on Loveless' assist Vitarelli beat Killian on Mason's assist after Marmora's second goal.

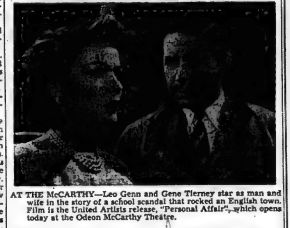
The game, which started at a fast pace, slackened slightly in the second. Slater registered for Havelock in the first minute on assists from Laing and Doris Lavender scored what was his third on assists from K. Trumble and Maynes. Jones broke through unassisted to add another for Mrmnora. The third period saw both teams striving for more tallies. For the homsters Mantie got a pair with Jones and Brooks assisting on each. Laing responded twice for the losers, being assisted by Hannah on the first and scoring his second unassisted. Darra's put his team further ahead in turning a pass from Maynes to good account.

The latter, who has five assists to his credit, scored the final goal with K. Trumble and Lavender assisting.

Marmora has a heavy program for the next few days, meeting Brantford here on Saturday evening in the third game of O.H.A. intermediate "C" play-offs, then back again on Monday evening at Marmora and Vanleet at Newmarket on Tuesday evening.



In Friday evening's game the referees were Vern Guyer and Red Carson of Belleville, who issued 14 penalties, equally shared for minor infringments 1,100 spectator saw the encounter.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 16, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Vitality of purpose will govern the gains you make under the influences prevalent now. An occasional change in the aspect may lead to upset, but don't let them since they are only temporary.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Mildly good aspects most of the day. Avoid being drawn into complications, new propositions unless thoroughly analyzed. Study others' actions; take advantage of any favorable circumstances.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Curb your desire to get-on-with-it. Haste often makes waste. Better to follow a more leisurely pace and be right than have be enticed into ill-timed methods.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some excellent opportunities are available to shrewd, alert Cancerites now. Maintain an upper level outlook and be ready to act when they are presented.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Benefic rays for you ambitious, determined folks. Maintain your highest good nature in all matters and they will end well. P.M. promises a much finer outlook.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Mixed aspects now, but you can make headway if you recognize the possibilities in this anything-can-happen period. An elastic mind and careful theorizing will reap the better harvest.

September 23 to October 23 (Libra) — Pause to consider the day's tasks, then handle in the order of their importance. Set new goals according to your capacity to master, and you should achieve.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Both work and leisure hours are under friendly aspects, so you should reap much gain and pleasure. Make time for those who love and think of you, and relax, too. It pays dividends.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Proceed hopefully with good confidence if you are working constructively and success will be yours. Be intelligently receptive to suggestions, progressive methods. Personal relationships favored.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Your natural intuition should be doubly sharp now, promising success if applied. Promote clever ideas, follow up with writings, plans, new methods.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Mental work equally favored with your daily routine affairs. Whole day receptive to sincere and good deeds. Avoid worry, gloomy thinking; brighten up and get into the spirit of things.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Prospects look encouraging for business and professional endeavors. However don't force issues now. Tomorrow is another day. Think ahead and benefit accordingly.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately of kindly and sympathetic nature but tend to be influenced by conditions consciously or unconsciously by acts and people around you. You natives of Pisces are often highly intuitive and usually do the right thing at the right time. You are imaginative and love order; are best suited to work that is inspirational. Build up your confidence and do not anticipate trouble.

Refuses to Be Presented to Queen When National Anthem Not Played

MACKAY, Australia (CP) — Town councillor J. A. McColl refused to be presented to Queen Elizabeth when she came ashore today, because there would be no band on the wharf to play the national anthem.

Civic author ties of this sugar-growing town decided to fire a royal salute when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived on board the destroyer Auzac after a week-end cruise along the Great Barrier reef.

The national anthem, they thought, should be reserved for a later ceremony.

Councillor McColl had different ideas.

He boycotted the wharf ceremony, and stationed his own band on file and drum corps—just down the road.

When told his band must not play "God Save the Queen," he said it play "Long Live Elizabeth."

McColl's was not the only protest in Mackay on the royal visit to Mackay.

Mayor J. Binnington selected his seven-year-old granddaughter, Daphne Newman, to present a bouquet of orchids to the Queen.

But Daphne comes from another town. The townsfolk of Mackay objected to the intrusion of a "foreigner."

Mayor Binnington received several abusive letters, among them an anonymous note which read:

"Witch's curse, I hope all your brood catch polio."

But the curse, instead, seemed to hit an open-air school concert organized for the royal visit. Youthful tulle-gowned fairies wilted and fainted in the heat. The microphone went dead. Dancers got out of step, or stood rooted to the stage, staring in amazement at the Queen.

Sunday the Queen and the duke went out in a small glass-bottomed motorboat to look down at the underwater sights of the Great Barrier reef.

The royal couple spent hours cruising among the islands and coral reefs watching the multi-colored fish and underwater vegetation. Then they went "reefing," exploring the exposed reefs at low tide.

Cabinet Ministers Of Canada, U.S. Open Trade Talks

Commence Conferences Upon Economic Problems

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian and American cabinet ministers met at 10:35 a. m. today to begin a series of talks aimed at solution of trade and economic problems affecting the two countries.

The eight ministers, meeting as members of the Canada-U. S. economic and trade committee, are the largest group of cabinet officials from the two countries ever to gather at a trade conference.

The ministers were scheduled to confer with President Eisenhower at a two-hour White House luncheon meeting.

The Canadian group, External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson, Trade Minister C. D. Howe, Finance Minister Douglas Abbott and Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner, went into a last-minute huddle Monday night to cement their positions on issues to be raised.

Biggest issue is the North American dollar shortage problem. The lack of Canadian-U.S. co-ordination on this issue was revealed Monday when U.S. agriculture secretary Ezra Taft Benson announced he will get rid of 500,000 tons of wheat to Spain for Spanish currency which will be used to defray local costs of U.S. military construction in Spain.

The Canadians had not been officially informed of this move.

MAY HURT CANADA

Fearing the U.S. is attempting by various means to grab wheat markets away from Canada, the Canadian delegation likely will make it clear that rush action by the U.S. in its food-disposal programs may injure Canadian economic strength.

Officials said the delegation probably will ask for an understanding that U.S. give-away programs will not operate in such a way as to destroy markets for Canadian products.

In particular the Canadian government wants to be consulted before the U.S. launches Eisenhower's proposed $1,000,000 program to provide food for friendly countries overseas.

Canada could have large surpluses of wheat and competition for overseas markets has been razor sharp.

The Eisenhower proposal has not yet been worked out in detail and it is unlikely that the Canadians will get much information at today's conference.

London Delays Action On Fluoridation

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—No action will be taken this year on a proposal to fluoridate city water to help prevent tooth decay, city council decided Monday night.

The public utilities commission said it would cost more than $55,000, including the cost of equipment and the building of a sterilization.

The board of health had recommended immediate action on the project "since this board is convinced fluoridation is definitely beneficial as a public health measure."

HEES. CHURCHILL ARE CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENCY

Both Members Are High In Ranks of PC Party

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives will choose between two members of Parliament for the presidency of their national association.

They are George Hees, 43-year-old member for Toronto Broadview, and Gordon Churchill, 53, Winnipeg South Centre.

No other candidates are expected to seek the post. The job will be decided today by some 150 official delegates to the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

The election is expected to be close. The records of both men are remarkably similar.

Both entered Parliament in by-elections, Mr. Hees in 1950 and Mr. Churchill in 1951. Both were army officers overseas in the Second World War. Mr. Churchill as commander of the 1st Canadian Armored Carrier Regiment, and Mr. Hees as brigade major of the 5th Infantry Brigade.

The election is the only major issue to arise so far at the two-day meeting, which began Wednesday.

Attendance is expected to reach about 700, a record for annual meetings of the party which this year marks the 25th anniversary of its founding by Sir John A. Macdonald.

Party organization is to be the chief topic today, the general membership already having had a discussion of the question. Committees of delegates meet this morning to discuss publicity, the association's constitution and local units and associations. All meetings are closed to the public.

The meetings of the two associate groups both were marked by close voting for top offices.

Mrs. E. W. Sansom of Fredericton was chosen president of the women's association over Lorraine Johnston, a Vancouver lawyer.

Harvey Cavanagh, 34, of Calgary was elected president of the young PCs in what was later described as a "very close" vote.

Russian Forces Get A-Weapons Says Alexander

LONDON (AP) — Defence Minister Lord Alexander indicated today that Russian forces are being supplied with atomic weapons and said the Western allies "cannot afford to be less."

Opening a two-day debate on defence in the House of Lords, Alexander said Britain is "pushing ahead" with plans for guided missiles, jet-powered bombers, aircraft carrier, ships at sea and from Britain's Christmas Island bases. any "half-baked conclusions" because "most of the weapons are in the process ahead."

He warned: "It is not only the weapons which are being supplied with new weapons. NATO countries must keep up to date. We must go on strengthening the shield behind which the full strength of the free world could operation.

The board of health had recommended immediate action on the project "since this board is convinced fluoridation is definitely beneficial as a public health measure."

McCarthy Fights Move to Shift Investigation of Army Row

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator McCarthy says he will fight any moves within his own Senate investigation sub-committee to step aside for some other group to investigate the row and his foes on sides have been having with army officials.

The Wisconsin Republican called the sub - committee, which is divided on the issue, into closed session today for a showdown discussion.

McCarthy accuses Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and his chief counsel, the United States Army's general counsel, of using "blackmail" tactics to block his investigations of alleged Reds in uniform.

Army officials have accused McCarthy and Roy Cohn, the subcommittee's chief counsel, of exerting improper pressures to win special favors for a drafted Pfc. Wealthy Pte. G. David Schine, a former member of their staff.

Worried Senate Republican leaders called a closed-door conference of their group to discuss the course in the blazing fight which pits Republican against Republican in this campaign year.

DEMANDS PART

McCarthy has agreed to step aside temporarily and let another senator preside as chairman of the sub-committee in the hearings, but declares firmly that he will fight for the right to be on the hearings and participate in the questioning of witnesses, the same as any other member.

In another controversial fact of the U.S. political picture, taxation, President Eisenhower's head-on opposition to a democratic plan for cutting taxes sent Republican and Democratic leaders scrambling today for the few votes that will decide the issue in Congress.

The president carried his opposition to the country Monday night in a radio and television address in which he denounced the Democratic proposal to boost income tax exemptions a step he said is unsound and politically inspired.

Democratic House representatives speaker, Joseph Martin (R-p-p, Mass.), said he is "quite sure the president's address will have the effect of rallying many Republicans and Democrats to his stand."

TO PRESS CAMPAIGN

But Representatives Sam Rayburn (Dem., Tex.), the Democratic House leader, indicated by his comment that the party will press the tax-cut campaign in Congress in the face of Eisenhower's opposition. He said the Eisenhower program would give "favored treatment to a few taxpayers but not to the many."

In the army dispute, McCarthy and Mundt heard broad hints today from Senate Republican leadership that within his own sub-committee that he call off a speaking tour and move for a public hearing on the issues involved.

Clearly counting on the Senate's Republican majority to forestall any move to investigate a senator in his own party, Mundt announced he would leave Wednesday on his four-day speaking tour.

U.S. Army Hires Workers To Load Ships at New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Army today began hiring dock workers under civil service rules to load transport ships. Army ships tied up at its strikebound piers in the port of New York, but the response of workers was slow.

An hour after the usual time for the start of the day shift, only 62 of the 400 men needed at the Brooklyn army base had been processed, screened and put to work.

An army spokesman said the men still were coming in, but slowly. None had been hired at Staten Island, where 1,000 dock workers are needed, or at Jersey City, N.J.

About 500 persons demonstrated at the entrance to the Brooklyn army base for half an hour today before they were broken up by police. No violence was reported. Several pickets took up posts at the entrance.

ASK FRENCH DELAYED

The civil service employment, approved in Washington, means that longshoremen will be working directly for the government and not for stevedoring firms under contract to the government.

Eleven ships are tied up at Army piers in the New York waterfront strike, now in its 12th day. Some of the equipment is for the pressed French forces in Indo-China.

The strike by ILA members, which has closed most of the port of New York, is in defiance of federal court anti-strike injunction. Contempt-of-court proceedings and back-to-work pleas by ILA President William V. Bradley and other union leaders.

Talking Horse Answers Queries Of Royal Couple

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were startled today — by a talking horse.

Into the grounds of Government House were brought a young kangaroo, a wombat, a platypus — a duck-billed platypus—an odd furry creature with a bill like a duck and a beaver's tail, which lays eggs and suckles its young.

Later, Digby, the talking horse, stepped successfully with the royal couple's questions.

PICKS QUEENS NAME

She picked the name Elizabeth from many others by tapping out the head; correctly counted the buttons on Lady Cynthia Mountbatten's dress; read auto license numbers by pawing the ground; and did a little arithmetic.

Meanwhile, amateur photographers here offered to replace $100 feet of official color film of the royal tour, lost in the crash of a Constellation airliner at Singapore last Saturday.

The Queen today accepted a colection of butterflies presented to Prince Philip and Miss Dorothea Bate, by a Queensland naturalist, Reginald Bartlett.

In Melbourne, Lord Mayor R. H. Solly denied a Baptist minister's charge of extravagance in the royal ball there. Rev. J. Arthur Lewis had said guests at the recent ball in Melbourne's city hall were "insensible" and behaved like "dressed-up apes."

SKIERS RETURN

MONTREAL (CP) — Among members of the Canadian ski team who reached here by air from Europe today was Patricia Ramage of Brantford, manager and chaperone. The skiers took part in the recent world championship competition in Sweden.

CRIMINAL CODE TO OUTLAW SALE OF SPRING KNIVES

Maximum Penalty $500 Fine or Six Months

OTTAWA (CP) — The Criminal Code will outlaw sale or possession of spring knives in Canada, a person can prove he has a right to sell or own such a weapon.

The Commons Monday wrote the provision into the revision of the Criminal Code now before Parliament. The idea is to prevent juvenile delinquents obtaining possession of them. Maximum penalty is a $500 fine, six months in jail or both.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) successfully proposed the change. He produced court reports that these spring knives or switch knives have been used by irresponsible youths to the ill effect of those who were attacked."

The knives have blades between three and five inches long. The blade is retracted within the knife handle and springs open like a jack knife or shoots forward when a button release on the piece is released.

Justice minsfulare is not banned by the new provision, but anyone caught selling or possessing one would have to justify his act before the courts.

Mr. Winch foresaw difficulties in enforcing the law, but believed it would be a deterrent if given proper publicity.

BAN LIFTED

During debate consideration of the proposed new code, the Commons also:

1. Agreed to lift a 62-year-old ban on campaign contributions to political parties by corporations and contributions to obtain or hold a contract.

2. Decided that magistrates should be allowed to establish terms for payment of fines by convicted persons without ready cash. Fines generally would be collected when imposed, but the magistrate could make exceptions.

3. Approved, by a vote of 52 to 9, a provision that persons giving contradictory evidence intending to mislead the court be liable to a maximum of 14 years in prison.

4. Dropped a proposal under which an unemployed person might have been liable to a vagrancy charge.

The sections concerning financial contributions to campaign funds were proposed by Elmore Philpott (L—Vancouver South) and Dave Fulton (PC — Kamloops). They were accepted by Justice Minister Garson who recalled that present laws on this subject hadn't been interpreted since Confederation in 1892.

Mr. Philpott said if present laws on the subject were enforced, one-tenth of the population could be jailed for five years.

To See Hockey Game

TORONTO (CP) — Russia's ambassador to Canada will see a National Hockey League game Wednesday night between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, the club that made an exhibition tour for a few days in Russia after the Soviet team won the world hockey championship.

D. S. Chubakin and his wife planned to attend the game with the Soviet friendship dinner tonight. They plan to stay over for the game.

Accused Says Companion Fired All Five Shots

BARRIE (CP)—A 20-year-old Toronto youth testified today that he didn't shoot Gregory Kingsley, 14, who fired the revolver shots that killed a Toronto brokerage messenger on a rural road last Oct. 30.

Robertson, jointly accused with Kingsley in the murder of 57-year-old Fred (Scotty) Cameron, is on trial in assizes court here.

Kingsley fired all five shots which killed Cameron.

Previously Kingsley had testified that they had agreed to rob the shooting of Cameron.

The body of Cameron was found in a ditch on Kingsway, in what fired the revolver shots that killed was then a rural area.

Robertson, who once broke into a store and stole a 10-cent glass of water, told the court he and Kingsley had gone to the latter's son's father's car on the night of Oct. 29 with Cameron. The car belonged to Cameron.

He testified that Kingsley came to Robertson and, referring to Cameron, said "The old ——— is getting pretty chummy, let's leave him."

FIGHT STARTED

He said that when they tried to leave, Cameron dragged Robertson from the driver's seat and they became involved.

"The next thing I knew there were several shots," he said.

Norman Borins of Toronto, counsel for Kingsley, subjected Robertson to a stiff cross-examination.

"You say that Steve (Kingsley) fired the shots," Borins asked.

"Yes sir," replied Robertson.

Mr. Borin: "Now you know that isn't the truth; are you insisting it is?"

Robertson: "Yes, most emphatically."

Robertson said he had not gone to the police about the shooting because "I was too scared to think of it; I did not go to them later because I did not think they would believe me."

Vietminh Troops Within Half-Mile Of Stronghold

Falter and Fall Back Under Fire From French

By LARRY ALDEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — Screaming Vietminh attack troops surged today to within a half-mile of the heart of the Dien Bien Phu fortress, then faltered and fell back under fire from the French garrison, taking their dead and wounded with them.

Masses of the Communist-led rebels staged the attack from the encircling hills in a driving rain, firing rifles, pistols and machine-guns and throwing grenades and spears. French guns tore wide gaps in their ranks. But a French army spokesman said thousands of the rebels were cut down.

Unofficial estimates of the Vietminh dead and wounded in the four days of battle for the barbed wire-ringed plain, in a strategic sector of northern Indo-China, rose to between 6,000 and 8,000. Most of the bodies were those of dead dangled like scarecrows on the barbed wire as they outnumbered French Union troops tried desperately to keep the plain out of rebel hands.

It was the most savage battle of the Indo-China war, now in its eighth year. Early today the outcome, certain to have a major effect on the war, was undecided next month, was still in doubt.

The fighting was being spearheaded by rebel infantry divisions backed by Chinese artillery, ranged deep in the hills of the sprawling U.S.-armed defenses of the fortress plain.

"To die or die" fanatic rebel charges over the mounting bodies of their own dead duplicated the Communist onslaughts on United Nations troops in the Korean war. For the first time in the long Indo-China war, the Vietminh abandoned guerrilla warfare for an all-out frontal assault.

CAPTURE APPROACHES

In the first 48 hours of fighting, the Vietminh wrested two northern and northeastern strongholds from the French Union defenders. But the French high command said the capture of the Vietminh-encircled plain was still intact and the battle for the vital Dien Bien Phu airbase was still holding.

They reported the defenders would hold until the rebels had worn themselves out. The French said they had killed 2,500 attacking Vietminh and wounded as many more. The rebels admitted heavy losses out of their own garrison of French, Moroccan and Viet Nam troops, Algerian, German foreign legionnaires and Thai tribesmen.

The French command predicted that the Vietminh could not maintain their intense attacks of the last 48 hours longer than two more days.

Rainy weather, Vietminh anti-aircraft and rebel bombardment of Dien Bien Phu's airstrip reduced the fort's airborne supply line to a minimum.

Princess Improved

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway's Crown Princess Martha was reported improved Monday morning. The 43-year-old princess, who suffered a cerebral hemorrhage caused by jaundice, had been reported in "very serious" condition after a relapse Monday.

Death Ashes' Burn 23 Jap Fishermen After Atomic Explosion In Pacific

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan today asked the United States government to find out why 23 Japanese fishermen were injured and scarred by radioactive "death ashes" which rained from the sky after a hydrogen atomic explosion March 1.

Government sources suggested the U.S. may be asked to pay compensation if an official Japanese investigation of the accident shows the claims are warranted.

Japan has protested to Washington the radioactive nature of the ashes, but said it will take at least a week to test their strength.

But doctors said it is clear that the effects of the blast were 10 times greater than from an ordinary atomic bomb.

The fishermen walked ashore with the ash still on their clothes. They said it would not wash out. All are scarred and blackened by the radiation. However, none of the injuries are expected to be fatal.

First diagnoses showed no unusual changes in the men's white blood corpuscles, usually affected by serious radiation. Their eyes showed symptoms of conjunctivitis, inflammation of the membranes.

However, the Japanese foreign ministry said the U.S. embassy whether the U.S. had warned ships to stay clear of the Bikini atoll test area where mid-Pacific hydrogen tests are held.

A spokesman said the Japanese government had received no advance notification that new tests would be held.

However, the Japanese government had warned vessels to keep away from the test area three times in the last three years, each time after the U.S. had designated it a "restricted area."

The last time was in October, 1953, the spokesman said.

Admission Fee To Provincial Parks Proposed

TORONTO (CP)—An admission fee to provincial parks was proposed Monday in the Ontario legislature.

C. E. Janes (PC—Lambton East) said such a fee would help make the parks self-supporting.

"A small admission fee wouldn't hurt anyone," he said.

The government member, speaking during the second reading of the Ontario Parks Act, suggested the original fee should be good for admission to any other provincial park during the year.

W. E. Brandon (PC—York West) suggested the government take over as a provincial park 500 acres of land on the south shore of Lake Simcoe, currently operated as a park by York county.

During second reading of an act to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, Labor Minister Daley said construction of a new rehabilitation centre for injured workmen to replace the temporary structure at Mallon Airport, northwest of Toronto, is necessary.

CONSIDERING SITE

Mr. Daley said the government is considering the purchase of land adjacent to the Sunnybrook Veterans' Hospital in northeastern Toronto, now occupied by the army, as a future site for the centre meeting an estimated cost of $4,000,000.

Funds from the industrial compensation assessment would be used in the project.

Ian Fleury Nixon (L — Brant) said he is "in accord" with a bill amending the Assessment Act, which was also given second reading, but suggested that the provision compelling farmers to have two means of attachment on tractors hauling farm equipment on the highways, would "be a hardship on the farmers."

Robert Macaulay (PC — Riverdale), in concluding debate on the report of the royal commission on the Cemeteries Act, suggested that the limitation on the number of salesmen at one cemetery as recommended be dropped.

Today, Mr. Nixon and W. J. Grummett, CCF house leader, will open the budget debate, followed by consideration of the supplementary estimates.

SMALL HERRING

The anchovy, a small fish of the herring family, is caught off the Pacific coast.

THE WEATHER

TOPONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: A broad current of cool air continues to sweep down from the north across the eastern half of North America with little change expected today or Wednesday. However, the cool air has lost some of its sting and temperatures will continue to moderate.

World's Greatest Atom Smasher Will Open New Fields in Science

By RENNIE TAYLOR

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The greatest thing yet in atom-smashing is a mammoth machine which will lead scientists onward into the exciting mysteries of the atomic nucleus, the heart of matter, at the University of California.

With this electronic giant scientists may turn up even more surprise discoveries such as those which led to the atom bomb. A vast new field for deriving energy from matter is among the possibilities.

Although scientists had to learn something about the nucleus to make the A-bomb, they still don't know much about it. To find out more they must smash the atom more thoroughly than ever before. The new machine, called the bevatron, is designed to do that.

The bevatron, a part of Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence's radiation laboratory, is a race-track-shaped affair of steel and copper 133 feet in diameter and 11 feet high, the largest apparatus research instrument in existence.

It weighs 10,000 tons, about the weight of an ordinary - sized freighter. It cost $9,500,000 and was built by the U.S. government Atomic Energy Commission.

Six years were required to design and build the machine. The actual construction required four years.

A month ago the machine was turned on briefly for a test run. Its first baptism of atomic projectiles in a feeble 20,000,000 volts. Gradually it was accelerated until on March 12 it produced atom bullets of 5,000,000,000 volts in energy.

This is by far the greatest energy ever produced in an atom-smasher. The previous record was made by the cosmotron in the AEC laboratory at Brookhaven, L. I., which hit 3,300,000,000 volts.

Central Mortgage Will Be Asked To Sell Homes

Central Mortgage and Housing will again be approached regarding the sale of veterans rental housing in the Churchill Heights and Bayview districts.

Alderman Duffy presented the recommendation to council asking that Belleville join Ontario Central Mortgage requesting the houses be sold. He said he was presenting the recommendations for two reasons, first, because the houses would be a good buy for veterans and the other because the city was anxious to begin collecting normal taxes from the houses. At present the city receives a set payment in lieu of taxes.

The alderman said the matter should be brought up each year until the houses were sold.

Council Gives Approval To Build New Public School At Cost to City of $215,000

Final reading of the by-law authorizing the borrowing of $215,000 for the construction of the Sir Winston Churchill Public School was given by city council, Monday evening.

The school by-law was held up for two weeks ago when Mayor John Bott questioned the advisability of providing a playroom in the school costing approximately $40,000 when no government grant on the room would be received by the city.

Members of the public school attended last night's council meeting with board chairman, William VanTassel, acting as spokesman. Mr. VanTassel described the proposed playroom as an all-purpose room which would serve as playroom, auditorium, health centre, cafeteria and also for other purposes.

He said members of the board were unanimous that the playroom be left in the plans for the school. Almost all other public schools in the city have similar rooms, he said.

To a question from Alderman Argue, Mr. VanTassel said the cost of the school would be about 24 per cent on the approved cost of the school. Approximate price of the school to be built by the H. J. McFarland Construction Co. is $1,832,000.

Alderman Safo said there was no question that the city council for economy than himself but declared the school board was more competent to deal with the matter than was council. "If they feel the room is necessary they council should go along," he said.

But Mayor Bott wanted to know why Belleville should pay for the added expense of a school playroom. He said Trenton and Bowmanville were calling for school tenders with no such room provided for in the plans.

CORRESPONDENCE READ

He pointed out that the school board had budgeted for building $15 000 for the grounds.

Correspondence from the Ontario Municipal Board regarding the new school was read to council, it being indicated by the board that no final approval for the building has been granted.

A letter from L. A. Kells, schools superintendent, revealed that final approval for the loan of $215,000 had been received the amount of the approved loan being increased from $140,000 to $156,500. This increased amount approved by the department was against later completion of the building. Six classrooms will be added to start with additional classrooms to be added later.

The letter also referred to landscraping costs which he claimed were included in the purchase contract and were being duplicated in cost estimates for completion of grounds.

IN TWO PHASES

W. A. Watson, architect, pointed out that general landscaping was being done in two phases. Only one part of the grounds would be landscaped until storm sewers were built.

Mayor Bott wanted to know if another classroom could be added to the school instead of the auditorium and get the benefit of the government grant. He was told that the government will pay grants only on "needed" classrooms and only six were needed at the present time.

The mayor noted that decision of the department of education not to pay grants on school auditoriums was an economy move. "Possibly false economy," returned Mr. VanTassel.

FOR COMPLETED SCHOOL

Board member Frank Grandiane referred to the figure of $2,000 for an inter-communication system for the school. He admitted it would mean a lot of money but pointed out this provided for the completed school not only for the six rooms now being built.

Alderman Moxam felt that $8,000 was a lot of money to landscape the school grounds. He was told this amount included $3,000 for fencing.

"If the school board is unanimous in its opinion that the auditorium is necessary then council will have to provide the money," said Ald. Moxam. Alderman was informed that the board was unanimous in its decision.

Alderman Tenney said council had two duties. One was to look after tax dollars and the other to see that good school services were provided and he could see the need for the playroom had been explained to his satisfaction. "We are building for the future," he said. "More than just dollars are involved."

To a question by Alderman Reid Mr. VanTassel replied that the playroom will be used and would be available for outside activities.

HAVE RIGHT TO ASK

Mayor Bott agreed that the city had to provide the money for school purposes but asserted the council had the right to ask questions and were entitled to know where tax money was being spent.

Former board chairman Fred Ferguson paid a tribute to the by-law receiving its third reading. "The school board spent hours and hours on these plans and we hope we have given you the right answer," he said. "If there is any further delay putting in the playroom it will have to be sent to schools on the west side."

He said that although school grants had been dropped for playrooms, such rooms were just as necessary as ever.

Unanimous approval of the by-law was given by city council Ald. Smith was absent.

The by-law will now go to the Municipal Board for approval.

Agriculture Still Alberta's Top Industry

The Liberal member of Parliament for Edmonton-Strathcona, F. L. Hanna, told members of the Rotary club yesterday that oil is not Alberta's most important industry. He said that agriculture is and has been a major source of provincial revenue for many years. Mr Hanna added however, that since the discovery of oil and natural gas, the province has become the only one in Canada to be classified as rich.

"In Alberta we have not reached the limit of agricultural production," Mr. Hanna declared. "There are at the present time 20 million acres of land being farmed, 20 million acres of unused arable lands and 30 millions of acres not being used for anything at all."

According to the speaker, Canada is only producing half the quantity of wheat it could. He explained this was due to the limited number of pipelines. Mr. Hanna was confident that the country would, within a very few years become self sufficient as far as oil was concerned. He also noted that the province of Alberta owns 90 per cent of all oil finds within the province.

Referring to Edmonton, Mr. Hanna described it as being primarily youthful city, presently involved in a race for the position of third largest city in Canada. He said that within the past 10 years the population of Edmonton has doubled itself, with a rate of growth of eight per cent annually.

Prior to the address, the 31 oil fields at Leduc, Mr. Hanna said the city had become the centre of servicing located in the heart of the Province's vast agriculture resources and had a trade area with a population of slightly under 100,000.

Two new members were introduced to the membership at the Monday meeting, Mrs. Ross Reid and Mrs. Ken Bell. Mrs. C. J. Clint Rose introduced J. Leonard Smith and Ald. Reid introduced Lionel Gilchrist.
